My Sweetheart

Chapter 251 In a Month, I'm Going to Make You Mine

While waiting for the announcement of the post graduate examination results, Kathy temporarily worked at the Joseph's Group.

The job was to be... Joseph's secretary.

The Joseph's Group didn't set up a secretary's office, and originally Joseph's assistant was only John.

Kathy didn't know that there were so many things to do, and it was that complicated until she started working. She wondered how efficient should John be in order to complete everything?

Her first day on the job was chaotic, and she even couldn't eat at lunchtime, and then she kept working until it was night.

That day, Joseph was having a video conference, so Kathy didn't go into his office except to serve coffee.

In the evening, Sue came over to NCHV for a meeting, and she dropped by to visit Kathy too.

Kathy didn't waste time and took her work downstairs to the resting room.

Sue looked at her busy figure and frowned, "How could Joseph be willing to enslave you like that?"

Kathy smiled, "It's true that there's quite a lot to do, but I do find it fulfilling."

Sue rolled her eyes, "Ah, the power of love..."

"Weren't you and Joseph had an argument before? Did you guys make up already?"

Kathy stood quietly, well... she didn't know what to say.

She confessed her thoughts, and she felt much more comfortable with Joseph now.

There were less suspicion and doubt between them now.

"Stop talking about me. How are you and Mr Fletcher now?"

Sue was reluctant to talk about it and looked unhappy, "What else can I do? Grandfather gave the order that I will marry Bertie next month."

Kathy had a little memory of Bertie, although he was indeed handsome and eye-catching, but after spending so much time with Joseph, she didn't think any other guy was better looking than Joseph.

"Now that N City have sent people to protect me, the Fletcher family can't capture me back, but next month, Patriarch Fletcher himself will come over, so I really don't know what to do."

Now she can only act accordingly.

"I thought Bertie would disagree as well, but he didn't even object to the marriage."

"He also made a request to me then. He wanted me to work with him." Kathy frowned.

At that time, Bertie must have also accepted the marriage.

In the study.

Joseph looked at the photos on Weibo with a gloomy expression.

After John found out he immediately took down this Weibo post, however it was not long after, that another account started to post them again, and this time many people had already forwarded the photographs on.

The woman being held by Bertie in the picture was Kathy.

Then at this moment Joseph received a phone call from Lincoln.

"Joseph, tonight I will be going to Europe to help you keep an eye on things. If there is no unforeseen mishap then I don't plan to return."

"Alright, go and take Sue with you." Joseph's tone of voice made him seem very resentful.

Lincoln naturally knew why Joseph was being like this.

Sue had been misleading Bertie into thinking that his fiancée was Kathy, and this was something that Joseph had consented to, however rather reluctantly.

This was to not only leave and keep away from the Fletcher family in the future but to also for at least a short period of time not attract the attention of the Marshall family.

Therefore Bertie currently thinks that Kathy is Sue, which will in turn make Sue's departure run a lot more smoothly.

“Relax, any woman that has feelings for you will definitely never develop any interest in someone like Bertie, I believe in my sister-in-law.” Lincoln assured him.

Joseph hung up the phone rather blankly and then went over to the bedroom only to discover that Kathy was not there.

He looked at his mobile phone and saw an unread message.

“Joseph, I’ve gone out for a little while, I promise to come back soon.”

The man’s face darkened and he immediately shouted to John, “I want my wife’s whereabouts!”

At the Hill club.

The moment that Sue arrived, Lincoln’s car had just stopped behind her at the same time.

He then quickly went over to her, grabbed her and said, “Sue, what do you want to do!”

“I want to explain clearly to Bertie that he is not to bother Kathy anymore!” Sue said rather stubbornly.

From the start she had chosen to believe what Lincoln said to her, which had now made the situation Kathy was in so awkward.

She regretted it.

She really wanted to be together with Lincoln, however when she fell in love with him she had to mentally prepare herself long before. However, this path was perhaps becoming too difficult to continue, and one day she may have no choice but to give up in the end.

She was able to accept any outcome.

“You are at your safest now because Bertie is willing to pursue Kathy.”

Lincoln only had eyes for Sue.

He absolutely must leave together safely with her.

Kathy was in married status. If Bertie kept disturbing her, he would have ruined his reputation.

“You’re so naive, still concerning for others at this moment.” Joseph discontented.

He hoped that Kathy would concern more for him.

Joseph would worry if Kathy always concerned for others.

Kathy smiled, “You always dote on me and make me naive.”

Joseph showed his doting sight, pinched her chin, lowered his head to kiss her.

Yup. She allowed.

...

Three days later, Kathy checked her results of the examination. She was the third in writing exam. She got second runner-up in her written exam and entered the interview section successfully.

Although she was confident with herself, her results made her surprised.

Joseph had contributed a lot in helping her to get good result.

All the important notes that he highlighted for her had come out in the exam. One month before she sat for the exam, she was angry with him. However, he still marked the key points for her.

He smiled slightly because she was thinking to share the good news with him first.

Just then, Kathy’s phone rang. It showed a stranger’s number.

“Hello?”

“Kathy, I am your grandpa.”

At the entrance of the Joseph’s Group, a luxurious Rolls-Royce parked by the roadside.

Kathy saw it instantly.

Grandpa...

She did not expect her kinsfolk to meet her except Jennifer Booth.

She did not ready for that.

The car was wide. Kathy entered the car nervously. Zack Booth was aged, his hair was white in colour but his strict face made people awe of him.

While Kathy was walking along the pathway to go out, Grandpa’s words just now kept flashing in her mind. All these were too shocking for her.
She could not believe it.
A Maybach slowly stopped beside her. Joseph got out of the car.
He clasped Kathy’s wrist and embraced her tightly.

"Mrs. Joseph."

Kathy's eyes sagged and her face looked as white as a sheet.

She regained her presence of mind only after being carried into the car.

"I only want to know who am I..." she murmured.

"You're Mrs. Joseph, Kathy, you belong to the Joseph family." Joseph held her hand with great strength.

Joseph was nervous.

However, Kathy shook her head and pushed Joseph away.

"I'm not..."

She was panicked and felt helpless at that moment. She looked at Joseph, "I want to go to the house of the Hilton family."

Joseph did not bring her there but brought her to Joseph Bay.

Kathy looked at him blankly.

"Have a rest first. When you calm down, I'll go to the house of the Hilton family with you," Joseph said in a deep voice.

Kathy nodded. She was extremely perplexed in mind so she would not know what to say when she met Jennifer.

After taking a bath, Kathy lay in bed and closed her eyes. What came to her mind was her childhood memories.

"Dad, I saw a very good-looking boy today, can we bring him home..."

"Dad only needs one mischief-maker like you being around..."

"But he's really good-looking. He's just a bit autistic so nobody wants to adopt him."

"Stay out of others' business. Let's go home..."

"..."

Kathy suddenly opened her eyes. She could not remember the boy's face anymore since long ago but many years later, she would still miss him.

Kathy shook her head and was a little more awake. She took her phone and realized there were several missed calls.

It was Grandpa.

Kathy dialed back.

"I know everything's too abrupt for you today," Zack's old voice sounded, "Kathy, Grandpa's only left with a short time to live, I hope you can spend more time with me."

Kathy sagged her eyes and her shoulders were slightly trembling.

Kathy's phone rang, it was Jennifer.

"Mrs. Hilton."

Kathy was used to calling her that.

"Kathy, did you meet your grandfather yesterday?"

“Yes.”

“Even I didn’t know that my father was back in town. Was it surprising for you yesterday?” asked Jennifer worriedly.

She was busy dealing with the matters of the Booth Group recently and she didn’t pay attention to her father’s whereabouts.

“It was fine, grandfather told me a lot of stuff.”

“Kathy, will you forgive me?” Jennifer’s voice was trembling.

She always wanted to make it up to Kathy.

She wanted Kathy to come back to the Booth family.

But she was afraid that Kathy wouldn’t give her the chance.

Kathy stayed silent. Her grandfather did mention that Jennifer abandoned her because the Hilton family was instigating her. Though the incident deeply scarred her, and it still bothered her until today.

“Kathy, I know that you’ll need some time. I will wait for you. I will wait until you can accept me and the Booth family again no matter how long it takes.”

Kathy walked out of the living room after hanging up the call. Joseph had prepared breakfast.

She walked into the kitchen and hugged him from behind.

“If you were me, would you forgive the family that once abandoned you?” she asked.

The expression in Joseph’s eyes turned sinister and ruthless after hearing what Kathy said, he gave off a frightful presence.

But Kathy didn’t notice as she was immersed in her own thoughts and emotions.

Joseph turned around and held her hand after a brief pause, he looked at her with a sharp gaze and said, “No.”

No...

He answered without any hesitation.

“Let me know immediately if anything happens, I will dispatch my underlings to protect you,” Joseph repeated himself to Kathy before he left.

He was willing to give her space under the premise that she stayed safe.

Kathy nodded, “They won’t hurt me, they are my family.”

Jennifer arrived at the Joseph Bay after half an hour and Kathy got into her car.

“Sister, why are you so cold to me,” said Billy discontentedly.

Kathy didn’t say much during their meal.

“Don’t call me that, it’s disgusting,” said Kathy sternly.

“But you are my mom’s daughter, do you intend to deny your identity?”

“We are only related by blood, no big deal. I don’t really want to be part of the Booth family, to be honest.”

She didn’t mind having contact with the Booth family, but she still needed some time to fully accept them again.

“Is it because mom once abandoned you? So, you are rejecting us and not willing to go back.” Billy stared at Kathy, uncovering her thoughts.

“Though mom didn’t have a choice at that time, she would be ostracized by the Hilton family if she didn’t do as told.”

“The Hilton family? What did you guys do to her back then?” Kathy looked a bit worried.

“Do me a favour and I’ll tell you about it. It’s reciprocity,” said Billy as he squinted his eyes.

Kathy really wanted to learn the truth about what happened between the Hilton and the Booth family.

"Are you really going to tell me what happened?"

"I never lie to you, no?" Billy inched closer.

Kathy pushed him away, "You lie to me a lot."

"That's Joseph, not me."

Kathy didn't say anything back.

"What do you need me to do?"

"There's a drinking event tonight. The signing of my contract will probably go much smoother with you there." Billy smiled cunningly.

"I don't drink and I'm not good with social interaction." Kathy felt troubled.

"You don't have to do anything but to sit there quietly."

Kathy was speechless.

The night crept in and the evening lights were lit.

Kathy got a call from Joseph when she was on Billy's car.

"Are you still at the Booth's house?"

Kathy didn't answer, she glanced at Billy.

"Yeah, I'll be back a bit late."

"Mr. Bertie, what do you mean?" Kathy asked.

Bertie sat on the sofa causally and said with tone of joking, "I met too many boring women before, now I prefer some different one."

He supposed Kathy just pretended to reject him, but still got fond of her.

To his surprised, she was already married.

Bertie kept Kathy in his mind these days...

Kathy avoided his eyes and said, "Even Sue herself will not accept you."

He smiled, "I will possess anything I like in the world."

Kathy said coldly, "Mr. Bertie, you are so confident."

"Why not? I've never lost."

He believed it for sure because he grew up just like the son of God who was granted anything in the world.

However, Bertie should meet some problem this time.

He watched Kathy, which bothered Kathy a lot. It was already ten minutes since Billy left the room.

Bertie also realized it and walked to the door that he found locked.

There was a balcony without being covered by the curtain.

He narrowed his eyes grimly and walked to look at the terrace on his opposite for a while. Then he said with a laugh, "We should have a trouble."

Kathy did not understand what Bertie was talking about, also looking at somewhere he watched. Now there was a flash from which she knew they were sneaked photos.

Billy should leave both of them on purpose. Why did he intend to do it?

Since he hoped Kathy could divorce with Joseph, today he might try to create a publicity stunt of Bertie and Kathy to make Joseph and her break up.

Kathy would like to call Joseph, but failed for the poor coverage.

Bertie stood with his hands in the pockets of trousers and looked too calm.

“Take it easy.”

Kathy did not say anything, only badly worried. Joseph would be too anxious about her if he could not get any call from her for one night.

She asked Bertie, “Why did Billy do that?”

"For Kathy. she was so reluctant to marry him." Billy appeared to hate Joseph much.
However, Bertie did not believe it.
Just now, he could realize how much Joseph and Kathy cared about each other.
Billy continued to say, "If you are unsure about my saying, please go to investigate why they got married."

Joseph and Kathy were staying quietly in the car.

Kathy could not move in Joseph's arms.

Joseph was so serious that Kathy dared not to interrupt the peace now.

She feared his silence more.

A couple of seconds later, Kathy called his name, "Joseph."

She looked up to find Joseph watch her for a while.

He asked, "You said you were in the Booths' house. Why are you in the XS Club now?" These common words caused Kathy feel extremely nervous.

Kathy did not know what to answer him.

Trying to avoid eye contact with Joseph, she said, "I went there with Billy. At the beginning, I would like to be informed of something about the Hilton's family and Jennifer Booth. Billy promised to let me know; that's why I went to the club with him. But I don't know Bertie was also there, not to mention know we would be locked in a room by Billy."

Joseph listened to Kathy patiently, not getting happy for her explanation.

He held her face in his hands and asked with great disappointment, "You rather trust him than me?"

Kathy said, "No."

"Billy always intended to do something bad. I told you to stay away from him."

"You know he is my younger brother. We have to meet each other sometimes."

"So, you had better not go to their house."

Kathy did not argue and left Joseph's arms by instinct.

Chapter 259 Only Wanting to Show to the Women He Liked

The next day, when Kathy woke up, the one sleeping next to her was already gone.

So, was Joseph still angry?

As she walked out of the living room after washing up, she still did not see any trace of Joseph.

A Chinese-style breakfast served warm was put on the dining table, but the amount of it was only enough for herself.

Did he go to work?

Kathy hurriedly ate the breakfast and immediately went over to the Joseph's group.

After arriving at the office, she realized that even John was not there. She then clicked on her inbox to see Joseph's new schedule that had been emailed to her.

Today, Joseph was going to attend a medical forum and would not be back until later the afternoon.

So, why didn't he bring her with him...

Well, he must still be angry...

During this entire morning, Kathy was distracted. However, because she did not go to work yesterday and her work was starting to pile up, Kathy quickly got into work.

NCHV Medical Company was recently working with the Joseph's group to investigate Sammy's case, and fortunately, they had made some progress. However, this was previously Sue's responsibility, so Kathy had to contact Sue to compare their findings.

Ever since Sue left, they had not been in touch.

Kathy unlocked her phone and called Sue through her WeChat.

"Kathy." Sue's anxious voice came out.

"Sue, I'm here to get information from you about Sammy's case." Kathy said seriously.

"Okay, I'll send you an email."

After they talked about work, Kathy was about to hang up the phone.

Sue then called out to her saying, "Kathy, I'm sorry."

Kathy remained silent. However, she was also not angry.

It's just that her relationship with Sue was very difficult to return to what it was in the past.

...

It was not until late afternoon that Joseph had returned, and when Kathy looked up, Joseph had already walked pass her.

When John came out, Kathy went in with her coffee.

Looking at the man focused on work from a distance, Kathy walked in.

Chapter 260 Mrs. Joseph Can Only Be Her

"This matter was decided by Mr. Joseph. Anyway you're a family member, Mrs. Joseph, so it doesn't matter." The HR manager joked.

But Kathy doesn't want it to be done in this manner...

Wouldn't that mean that Joseph opened the 'back door' for her?

And that was a huge back door!

Kathy was still very perturbed when she went back to her office at the top level and didn't even notice that John walked over to her.

"Mrs. ... Secretary Kathy?"

John wasn't used to the different ways of addressing Kathy on different occasions...

She was secretary Kathy during working hours and Mrs. Joseph after work.

Mr. Joseph really knew how to enjoy himself!

"Assistant John." Kathy came to her senses.

"Soon there will be a high-level meeting. You should go in to see what Mr. Joseph needs."

Kathy nodded and went into the office.

Kathy looked uneasily at Joseph when she thought about what she found out at the HR department.

"How come I became a regular staff here?"

Joseph looked up when he heard, "Not satisfied?"

"No, I'm just here to help out. Isn't this inappropriate?"

"Really? I didn't think so."

Kathy, "..."

She needed to put in more effort otherwise she wouldn't feel right...

"Joseph, assign me more work to do."

He looked at her and raised his eyebrows, "You want a raise?"

Kathy immediately waved her hand. Her current salary was even higher than John's and she shouldn't expect it to go any higher.

Although it was always great to get paid more.

But Joseph would be showing too much favoritism.

"No need for a raise, just give me an extra chicken leg!" Kathy laughed.

Joseph squinted and signaled for her to go over, "Come."
