Chapter 291 Are You Here Because You Care For Me

“Grandfather, I’m afraid that I can’t.”

“I know that in the next 3 years you want to continue with a post-graduate degree. When you are finished with your studies, you will succeed all the businesses of the Booth group.”

Zack didn’t allow Kathy to decline.

“Rest assured, Bertie will assist you.”

Kathy pursed her lips. Bertie...

Once she walked grandfather back to his room, Kathy went down to the living room.

Bertie came back without her noticing and stood behind her which startled her.

“Why are you so scared of me?” Bertie raised his eyebrows.

Kathy glared at him with disdain. “Don’t bother me.” She wanted to be left alone.

“What did grandfather say to you?” Bertie sat down beside her.

Kathy pursed her lips and looked at Bertie who seemed to have keen insight into all matters.

When she thought about having to learn from Bertie how to run a business ... she felt truly repulsed!

“None of your business.”

Bertie spoke for his own interests, “Let me guess. Did he say that you are to learn from me at the Booth Group? After all, grandfather intends to hand over the Booth group to you.”

Kathy was deep in her thoughts.

“You can’t refuse, can you? Or do you want to hand over the Booth Group to me submissively?” Bertie twitched his eyebrows.

“In your dreams!” Kathy retorted instantly.

She pondered about her next three years of studying clinical medicine which had nothing to do with the business sector. If she can’t become a doctor in the future, then what she will be studying for the next three years would be useless.

“I know what you are struggling with. That’s why you can hand over the Booth Group to me and then just take the annual dividends.” Bertie said.

Kathy was unfamiliar with Bertie’s capabilities.

He looked to be barely thirty years old and had earlier succeeded Marshall Group and Booth Group was only another portion of his portfolio.

Why did Zack trust him so much?

Kathy can't help but look at Bertie. This man's steadfastness and maturity were unquestionable but, in her opinion, he lacked personality.

Chapter 292 Willing To Spend My Time With You

As the time for Kathy to leave City N drew nearer, she practically spent every day with her grandfather.

Kathy just found out that it'll be grandfather's birthday in a couple of days.

The Booth family didn't want to hold an extravagant banquet. They planned to celebrate the Old master's birthday at the Booth residence.

Kathy was struggling to think of what present to get for her grandfather and asked Alexia for suggestions.

"Are you in B country? It's a pity I'm not back yet. I heard that there is a shop over there which sells some precious medicinal herbs. Your grandfather's health is frail. Why don't you get some rare medicinal herbs for him? I think it'll do some good for his health."

Kathy paused for a moment, this was something she didn't think of.

Grandfather has a private doctor to manage his nutrition so she never needed to worry about it.

After hanging up the call, she looked for the doctor to inquire. Recently he had been looking for a type of herb in the hope of sustaining grandfather for a while longer.

“Ms. Kathy, it would be great if you can find this herb.”

Kathy took over the prescription and waited for Joseph to come back before asking him if he could locate it.

With Joseph’s contacts and being the head of the medical research center, it shouldn’t be too difficult for him.

“This medicinal herb can only be found in B Country. Wait for my news.”

“Really?” Kathy’s eyes lit up.

Joseph grinned, “I’ve said before, as long as it’s Mrs. Joseph’s requests, I will endeavor to fulfill them.”

The next day, Joseph rescheduled his morning engagements and went out with Kathy.

The both of them had been in B Country for a while but this was the first time they went out together.

Kathy wore an off-white dress and put on light make up.

Joseph held onto her hand, “Do you want to date me?”

Kathy laughed, “Yes, will Mr. Joseph accept?”

“I can’t wait to.” Joseph lifted her face and kissed her affectionately.

"Joseph, the Rehmannia glutinosa you mentioned is too expensive. It's not worth it to trade for these few herbs." Kathy replied coolly.

"I still think it's worth it, Mrs. Joseph. It's indispensable for treating your grandpa's health."

"But..."

"No buts. This is our gift to grandpa. This is going to show my sincerity. Do you get that?"

Kathy could only remain silent.

Although she knew fully well that Joseph was disgustingly rich, but this price tag of tens of millions of yuan had far exceeded what she could accept as something normal.

However, when she thought of her grandpa's health, she supposed that she would probably do the same thing if this magical herb could really improve his health.

It was just that Joseph was by her side, and he had helped her resolve most of her problems.

Kathy stood on tiptoes as she levelled her gaze with his.

"I got it, Joseph. I know why you are being so nice to me..." Kathy looked at him with passionate eyes.

From time to time, she would begin to feel that this was all part of her imagination.

Nevertheless, the man standing in front of her could only be Joseph.

They were married for a little more than a year.

Joseph immediately glued his lips to her, and it was an intense and domineering kiss. He clasped his hands on her waist and their bodies intertwined.

All his answers could be found in his kiss...

The next day, John sent the Rehmannia glutinosa from the Joseph's mansion to them. Joseph and Kathy once again returned to this stall.

The old man was already wrapping up the herb which was asked for by Kathy. He took the Rehmannia glutinosa in his palms and a trembling excitement was evident in his eyes.

"I can't believe that I would be able to lay my eyes on this while I am still alive."

"Uncle, we will take our leave now. Thanks for the herbs." Kathy bade him farewell politely.

Kathy didn't understand the full extent of the powers of this Rehmannia glutinosa. This herb was apparently so rare and treasured that even the boss was in such an awe.

She couldn't help asking Joseph, "Do you know what purpose that herb serves? Why was it sold in limited numbers back then?"

"It is used to control the spread of cancer cells but it never got its proper sanction and affirmation from authorities. Therefore it couldn't be launched to the market publicly. However, the effects of this herb was so shocking that it shook the world at that time. The impact had caused it to become a revered item which was so rare that even one couldn't buy it with a sky-high price."

Kathy felt not well and said, "I am going to have a break."
Bertie followed her to ask, "What's wrong with you? Shall I call a doctor for you?"
Kathy did not agree to say, "No, thank you."
Bertie kept following her to her room.
Kathy almost fell down on the sofa with much sweat on her face.
He asked again, "Don't call a doctor?"
Kathy answered in fury, "I'm ok. Please get out of my room."
But Bertie did not go out, closing the door instead.
He walked closer to Kathy and said, "Kathy, would you like to know why you are not feeling well?"
What he said surprised Kathy who remembered the glass of wine from him...
At that time, she concentrated herself on thinking about something of Joseph, without caring about anything else.
So...
Kathy looked at him angrily.
Bertie said, "You know it? You are so stubborn that I have to do it. Anyway, your grandpa allowed me."
"Grandpa?" Kathy was doubtful why her grandpa could allow him to do it.
She asked, "What's the drug I took?"
He answered, "What's your opinion? Do you think Joseph will keep you with her after tonight?"
Kathy bit her lips, going to give Bertie a slap, but her wrist was held by him.
"Bertie, you are an evil!"

“Am I? I told you before, since you are the granddaughter of the Booth family, I will be the only man to match you. I don’t think you understand your grandpa prefers you marry me. You should be my wife!” Bertie pinched Kathy’s chin hard with his fingers.

Kathy had to look at him with eyes full of rage.

She said, “I will not marry you! Bertie, you know I am Joseph’s wife now.”

“So what? Joseph is not a right guy for you. Finally, you will know I love you most in the world.”

In the bathroom, Kathy felt much worse after the bath, dizzy to fall down as soon as standing up.

The noise from the bathroom worried Bertie who could not go to have a look.

He knew he would lose control to hurt her if coming into the bathroom.

Bertie blenched his fist at the door and remembered the order of grandpa, "Don't be a soft touch!"

He was a tough man to everyone except Kathy.

Right the moment, his mind was interrupted by some noise outside the room. He knew It was from Joseph.

However, the door was refitted. Only the one holding keys could open it.

Kathy was happy to hear the noise and much better to stagger from the bathroom.

Bertie said, "You can't go out."

"None of your business."

Kathy walked to the door and slapped it hard. She yelled, "Joseph, I am here."

Joseph replied calmly, "Baby, don't worry." Yet he had already been in some of panic in his mind.

He could not open the door, so, he called John to take some professional technician here.

Kathy sat on the ground by the door and said, "Joseph, I miss you so much." The drug she took made her almost lost consciousness.

She was sad for the fact she was cheated by her dear grandpa.

Kathy was so heartbroken to cry a lot. Bertie could not hear more and tried to help her stand up.

He said, "It is a short night."

Kathy was annoyed to say, "Don't touch me!"

Bertie narrowed his eyes and said, "If you would like to go out now, I have a suggestion."

He held Kathy to the sofa and saw an agreement on the table.

"If you signed the divorce settlement, I can let you out."

Kathy looked at the paper, badly angry.

Kathy bit her lip. She was about to lose consciousness, and only Joseph remained in her sight.

She was right in front of Joseph.

When she lowered her head, she kissed Joseph again and tried to pull off his shirt.

John turned around, understandingly.

Joseph didn't give her the chance to do that, he picked her up and ran to the car.

"Tell Stanley to come over."

In the apartment.

Joseph put Kathy on the bed, and she kept tugging at him and craned her legs while her eyes wandered as she bit her lip.

For Joseph, it was a deadly invitation.

Stanley Barker had already come over and saw Kathy. He immediately went over to diagnose her pulse.

"A mixture of enigma and stimulant, but there should be other ingredients. I'll try one kind of medicine first." Stanley said.

"Well, I can't identify this drug, it's not listed in the market," Joseph said in a deep voice.

Stanley was a member of the Pharmaceutical Testing Section and also a member of the Institute of Medical Research, and has an excellent relationship with Joseph.

After withdrawing Kathy's blood for testing, he immediately went back to the hospital to get medicine.

Joseph frowned at the sight of Kathy's distress.

He took out his medical kit and injected Kathy with hypnotic, and soon after, she gradually closed her eyes.

However, her body was still very sensitive, and Joseph held her in his arms and pressed her against him.

"Mrs Joseph, you'll be fine."

Until dawn, Joseph didn't close his eye for a bit, and Kathy had left tons of mark on his chest. All this was just to let Kathy feel slightly better.

Stanley quickly came over because the lab results were out.

In addition to the previously diagnosed enigmatic and hypnotic drugs, there was also a new type of alcohol that had extremely strong side effects. The alcohol would remain in the patient's system for a long time if there were no drug dilution, which was a huge concern.

Joseph coldly squinted, and his hand was shaking slightly.

"Insolent! You are, Zack Booth's granddaughter, how can you say such treacherous things!" Zack slammed the table in anger.

As soon as the words were out of his mouth, his old face went pale, and he clutched his heart tightly in distress.

"You are my granddaughter..." Zack's words became disjointed.

Jennifer and Bertie immediately held Zack and asked the doctor to come.

Kathy didn't say anything else, this time, she would not be softhearted.

She turned around and held Joseph's hand.

"Don't get a divorce, okay?" She looked at him expectantly.

She hated being threatened by people, especially the ones she trusted the most.

"Kathy, we should divorce," Joseph's look was undeniable

He pushed her away.

"I'll be fine, we'll go back to City N and there will be an antidote." Kathy gripped Joseph.

But once again, he pushed her away.

Her face was gradually becoming pale.

At this time, Bertie walked to Kathy's side, his face decisive, "Only the Booth family has an antidote, the drug in your body is the Booth Group's unlisted drug, only the internal research and development personnel have an antidote, don't risk your own body."

"It...it's impossible, why are you guys doing this to me..." Kathy's face surfaced with despair, and she slowly squatted down, at the moment, the overwhelming despair made her almost breathless.

She didn't want a divorce. She just wanted to break away from the Booth family, break away from that horrible family...

"You...Grandpa is doing this for your own good!" Zack took medicine and felt a little better, but he was still very emotional.

Jennifer spoke worriedly, "Kathy, we are your closest ones. We won't hurt you."

After that, Jennifer called Bertie to bring Kathy to them.

As soon as Bertie touched her, Kathy immediately shook him off.

"I'm not staying!"

She looked at Joseph, "If you don't take me with you, then I'll leave by myself."

After she said that, she stubbornly left alone.

However, she was so weak and uncomfortable that she couldn't hold on and soon fell down in a heap.

Joseph clenched his fists, and when he wanted to go over, Bertie was one step ahead of him.

Chapter 298 He Could Only Indulge Her

It was already late at night. She checked the time: three o'clock in the morning.

She removed the vein detained needle directly from the back of her hand, then found her phone and dialed Joseph's number.

But no one ever answered.

Her heart grew icy cold gradually.

She didn't want to stay here anymore, she wanted to go back to N City.

When the doctor saw her act on the spur of the moment, he immediately stopped her, "Miss Kathy, you can't get out of bed yet!"

"It's none of your business," Kathy said coldly.

As soon as she said this, she picked up the bag next to her and started packing.

Bertie, who was standing aside, didn't stop her.

She was downhearted and so was he.

She felt pain and so did he.

Therefore, he could only indulge her.

"If you really want to leave, let me see you off," Bertie said in a deep voice after a long while.

Kathy turned a blind eye to him. After taking her bag, she ran out of the room and went downstairs to the living room where there were two bodyguards standing at the door.

When they saw Kathy want to go out, they stepped forward indifferently to block her.

"We're sorry, Miss Kathy. But you can't go out without the Master's order."

Kathy looked at the two beefy men in front of her, who obviously had consummate combat skills, and she couldn't push them away at all.

Frustration glinted in her eyes. She sat in the living room, still dialing Joseph's number persistently.

However, a busy tone was still heard after the ringing sound.

A moment later, a tall and slender figure came down the stairs. It was Bertie.

"Trust me once, okay?" Bertie could see her pain and struggle.

He didn't want to force her, and he didn't like Kathy becoming lifeless.

Kathy looked up at Bertie's serious look and frowned.

Chapter 299 Kathy Would Still Be With Joseph Soon

Kathy kept silent. Where was her home?

Did she still have a home?

Kathy thought that Joseph bay was her home. But now Kathy divorced Joseph and she would not go back there anymore.

And the Booth family would not be her family any longer.

Kathy missed Angela and the happiness in the past so much.

Although Kathy wasn’t rich in the past, she was very satisfied with those days.

All Kathy felt was endless pressure in the Booth family.

Kathy was regulated by rules about what she can and can’t do.

Kathy hung up the phone and went back to AN Road.

Neither Kathy nor Joseph contacted each other. It’s as if the relationship between Joseph and Kathy was back to a year and a half ago when they were strangers.

It turned out to be so easy to break off a relationship.

However, Kathy had to go back to Joseph Bay since she left something there.

Kathy postponed the day back to Joseph Bay several times.

In the Joseph's Group.

Joseph had been in the Joseph's Group for a whole day and night.

Since Joseph stayed awake, John had to be around him and stay awake too.

But John cared about Joseph's health.

"Joseph, do you want to go back home and have a rest?" John asked modestly.

Why was there no information from Mrs. Joseph?

Joseph went to country B with Mrs. Joseph and he went back alone.

Did they quarrel?

But John didn't dare to gossip about Joseph and Mrs. Joseph.

"Are you very free?" Joseph asked and lifted his eyes lightly.

John shut up and went out.

The mood was ups and downs like a roller coaster.

In the evening, Joseph finished the meeting in the office and Julian came over.

My Sweetheart

Chapter 300 The Feeling Of Being Infatuated

Their separation wasn't known in City N. The only reason Alexia knew was because she called Kathy and Kathy brought it up.

Kathy on the other hand hadn't seen Joseph for almost half a month.

When their marriage ended, it was like their connection broke off too.

"Why didn't you tell me earlier, Kathy! This is a big deal! Divorce? Who was the crazy one? You or Joseph?"

"None."

Kathy then told Alexia the details of what happened.

If Joseph agreed to divorce her just to keep her safe, why didn't he find her after that?

Did he think that their relationship should end after their divorce?

If it's like that, did he agree to accept the reality and just let it be?

It's only her that remained in this relationship.

Kathy couldn't help but to laugh at herself. "Alexia, I didn't expect that we'd really divorced."

"Are you crying, Kathy?"

Alexia panicked when soft crying noises could be heard.

She had known Kathy for so many years, but she had never seen her cry.

Now, she's crying because of Joseph.

Kathy sniffed a few times. For some reason, tears started to flow down her cheeks.

She thought that her relationship with Joseph would remain the same after she came back to City N, but she was wrong.

He didn't contact her, nor tried to find her.

She then realized, maybe, he would walk out of her life forever.

“Kathy, you should go and talk things out with him,” Alexia suggested.

She’s even worried after knowing that Kathy had not stepped out of the house recently.

“Didn’t he sign the papers...” Kathy muttered.

“That’s because he was forced to. He likes you so much, Kathy. He won’t want to divorce you,” Alexia consoled.
