Chapter 491 She must Come Back

This was itchy...

Kathy hid with the bowl in her hand, groaning lightly, and then she quickly put the bowl down.

"You take the breakfast out!" Kathy ordered the man beside her.

Joseph felt quite refreshed and agreed to all his girlfriend's requests.

They sat next to each other at the dining table, facing the sparkling sea. Such a life was really so comfortable.

"Lincoln and Johnson will come here later."

"Okay, does Sue come over? It doesn't seem convenient for her to come here with pregnancy."

"Lincoln will bring her here, and now she can still take the flight."

Most of those who attended the engagement were friends of them. As for their relatives, Jennifer didn't have time to come, and no one from the Booth family came.

Joseph had arranged for Veronica and Quinn to come over. The other guests were his few good friends, who could count them with one hand.

On this day, the two of them did not go out, and satisfying Joseph was really...killing.

Since tomorrow was the engagement, Kathy and Joseph were separated this night, and Kathy stayed with Alexia in another room.

"Kathy Island...Joseph is really wealthy. if a man gives me an island, I will marry him directly." Alexia joked.

"Johnson has a lot of money." Kathy squinted.

"He's not as good as Joseph. Now Joseph holds the power of the Joseph's Group. Probably no one in City N has a higher status than him. You really made a good choice at the beginning."

"I didn't know that I had a flash marriage to a millionaire..."

It was still incredible to her now.

Being With such a good man like Joseph, she had to become good too.

The two chatted until the middle of the night. Although Kathy was excited, she couldn't help falling asleep.

"Mrs Booth, what are you coming here for?" Mathew sat down with dark expression.

"I'm here to take my daughter away," after she said so, Jennifer walked directly towards the second floor.

She brought quite a lot of men, at this moment they were at the entrance of the mansion facing off Mathew's men.

"I'm sending her away. She's leaving my grandson and you should be satisfied, shouldn't you?" Mathew asked, looking calculative.

Jennifer's face darkened, "I've changed my mind. Since the two kids like each other, I won't stop it."

But she had not been able to get up the stairs as a bodyguard stopped her.

Jennifer frowned. Her bodyguards were not able to come in either because Mathew was very alerted.

"Mathew!" Jennifer was furious.

"Don't waste your time, if you go up now you wouldn't be able to see Kathy either."

"You... Mathew..." Jennifer's face was pale. She was obviously no match for the bodyguard, and was quickly taken out by her shoulders.

"The two of our families should have never become tied by matrimony," Mathew shook his head.

At this moment, Joseph found also his way here. He broke into the mansion directly with his men. Mathew looked at his grandson in a calm state.

Since now Kathy was already gone.

"Grandpa!" Although he was usually calm, at this moment Joseph was entirely filled with a furious aura.

"What's going on? You brought here so many men. You're scaring your grandpa." Mathew sat down calmly on the sofa and took a sip of tea.

"Where's Kathy?" Joseph did not beat around the bush. He looked at his grandfather with his fists tightened inch by inch.

"You have asked the wrong person, how would I know where Kathy is?"

Scowled, Joseph kicked the bodyguard on guard aside and got onto the second floor directly.

But when he looked through every room, no sign of Kathy was found. Joseph continued to go to the third floor. There were bodyguards guarding there, but he could see that a private jet was rising rapidly.

Joseph's expression darkened as he ordered John behind him, "Track it immediately!"

He went down to the living room where Mathew was still sipping his tea calmly.

Joseph did not linger and walked out stone faced.

So Reece was targeting Joseph?

In her absent-minded state, Reece finally let her loose.

Kathy had her freedom, and on instinct she avoided the man.

But there were two bodyguards dressed in suits guarding by the door, she was not able to get out.

Not long after, a maid came over and asked about Kathy's tastes respectfully, in order to prepare dinner.

"I don't want to eat anything," Kathy said coldly.

The maid stunned, being in dilemma.

Reece threw away the cigarette butt and walked over, "What, planning to starve yourself? Kathy, I won't force you to eat. If you starve to death, you'll never see Joseph again."

Hearing this, Kathy's complexion paled.

"When would you let me go," she asked quietly.

"Tell the maid what you'd like to eat first," Reece's tone was adamant.

Kathy bit on her lip, "There's nothing I don't like to eat."

"See if there's any cuisine made in City N, and make some home-made ones," Reece ordered.

The maid immediately went to prepare.

“When would you let me go?” Kathy asked persistently.

“Depends on your performance, if you keep having a long face like that and make my mood bad, I won’t want to release you.” Reece sat on the couch, his long legs crossed, and his eyes cold.

Kathy smiled coldly, she was equivalent to being kidnapped, how could she still smile.

At dinner time, the maid had made a lot of the home made food in City N., which tasted good , but Kathy had not much of an appetite so she did not eat much.

Rather, Reece ate almost half of the dishes.

Kathy looked at the man, and remained expressionless.

She did not know if Joseph was also in Country B. Today was supposed to be the date they would be engaged, as everything was already prepared.

But something happened abruptly.

Mathew was adamant in not allowing her and Joseph to be together.

Thinking this, Kathy was still sad.

She had hoped that her relationship and marriage would be recognized and blessed by the elders, but now...

Kathy stood up, passing by Reece, and said lightly, "I'm going to the bathroom."

"Yeah." Reece didn't look at her, focusing on the ball.

Kathy turned around and walked into the opposite building. After coming out of the bathroom, she did not return to the court. Instead, she walked towards another door.

It was just that there were bodyguards actually following behind her.

Just when she was about to step out of the door, two tall bodyguards came and clasped her shoulders.

"Kathy, Mr. Bridges told you not to go out." The bodyguard said rather sternly.

Hearing this, Kathy bit her lips and tightened her fingertips.

"Let go of me, I will go by myself!" Kathy said with anger.

The two bodyguards looked at each other, and then slowly let go of her.

Kathy was a little fidgety, but she didn't expect Reece to send someone to follow her at any time.

After she returned to the court, Reece looked at her coldly from distance and his thin lips seemed to be pursed with a vague smile.

When Kathy came back to him, he asked, "Can you play?"

"No." Kathy said coldly.

Reece has consistently ignored her angry tone and said, "I'll show you."

Kathy hadn't looked back yet, and the club had been handed in front of her.

"Don't hold the club too tight, otherwise it will affect the speed of the head when you lower the club." She didn't expect Reece to really start teaching seriously.

Kathy was surrounded by him. Her body was a little stiff and her hands didn't move.

Being aware of her tightness, Reece backed off a little. She didn't know if he was intentional, but when he spoke, his thin lips were gently wiped over her earlobes.

"Swing it." Reece reminded her.

Kathy frowned, and she wasn't very interested in this kind of sport, so she didn't listen much to Reece just now.

From the corner of her eye, she saw the man behind her when she swung the club, then she slightly leaned over, and her elbows "accidentally" hit Reece's chest, very hard.

The next second, Kathy hit the ball out and handed the club back to the caddie next to her.

Kathy glared at him with her teeth gnashed, still pushing the door of the car without giving up.
Reece hooked his lips and stretched out his hand to help Kathy open the door.
Then, Kathy immediately pushed the door and got out of the car. She firmly hugged Joseph who was standing by the car.
The familiar smell made her want to cry.
Reece then got out of the car, put his hands in his pockets and looked at the two hugging each other. He was not angry.
“Joseph, how could you play so excitingly?” Reece sneered.
Joseph looked at him deeply, “Mr. Bridges took Kathy away, this is the only way I can do.”
“I saved Kathy.”
“No,” Kathy muttered.
“Kathy, you eat well at my house and live well, and I also take you to play golf. Are you not satisfied with that?” Reece said in a low voice.
“I’m very dissatisfied.”
After that, Kathy turned and left.
The slight smile on Reece's face gradually faded. Watching Kathy walk away, he took a cigarette out irritably.
Even after getting in the car, Kathy still clearly felt that he was looking at her coldly behind her.
She shuddered subconsciously and hugged Joseph tightly.

During the two days with Reece, she was always frightened.

“On the golf course...I was on the third floor, I saw you...” Kathy murmured.

“I know, Kat, from now on, I won't let you leave me.” Traces of ferocity flashed across Joseph's eyes, but now he was in front of Kathy, so he quickly concealed it.

In these three days, he had not rested, because once he closed his eyes, he was thinking about the terrible scenes that Kathy might have happened. He dared not think about it.

Holding her face carefully, Joseph kissed her lips gently. She was his precious, but he had lost her for three days.

Kathy raised her head and they missed each other deeply. She couldn't wait to be integrated into Joseph's body, and her eagerness became stronger and stronger.

Joseph had no choice but to smile. He looked at Kathy's worried look and raised her chin then kissed her.

When she was panting and speechless due to the kissing, he left the room.

Kathy was annoyed but when she recovered from it, Joseph was gone already.

"This man always did this, so hurts his body." Kathy cleaned herself hurriedly and ran outwards.

A dining trolley was pushed in and Joseph gently put each food on the table. Kathy looked at his back and felt touched suddenly.

She ran towards him and hugged Joseph's waist from his back. Her cheek leant against his slightly cold back.

“Joseph, grandpa doesn’t agree on our relationship.” She said.

It seemed to be difficult to overcome this obstacle.

“Don’t bother grandpa.” Joseph said in a cold tone.

“But, he is your grandpa.”

She had experienced Joseph’s methods so it was expected that she and Joseph would not have a peaceful life together.

She was not afraid but she worried about Joseph.

“I will handle the relationship with him properly, don’t worry. Alright?” Joseph turned his body and hugged her in his arms.

She bit her lips and did not reply to him.

“When are we going back?”

“Let’s stay in Country B during these days. Can we?” He asked her.

He did not want to go back now.

Kathy looked at Joseph surprisingly. Although Joseph did the school transfer for her strongly, she had not agreed with it yet. She should be able to go back to Ocean University.

But, she was afraid that Mathew would use some methods.

“I want to return to the school because the holiday is going to be over.”

“Mathew used his relationship to drop you out of the school.”

In the following days, Joseph was busy doing his job everyday and occasionally went out for a meal with Kathy. With this, a week's time passed.

This time, the holiday in Ocean University had finished and Kathy contacted Professor Watson. Benedict Watson had already received her notice of withdrawal. He was also helping her to resume her school status, but it took time.

Kathy could only wait.

City B's winter came earlier and Kathy stood in front of the window. She looked at the snowy city view, she really wanted to play with snow.

City N's climate was comparatively warmer so it is hard to experience such snowy days.

Joseph knew what was Kathy thinking and he walked towards her then hugged her from behind. His big hands covered her cold small hands. He said, "If you want, we can go to snow hill for a few days."

"Can we?" Kathy looked at Joseph surprisingly.

He had a lot of work to do now and normally till one or two o' clock. Could he allocate some time to spend with her...

But Joseph said firmly, "I will arrange."

That night, Joseph made a plan immediately and it was located at XL Snow Hill in Country B. The itinerary was quite relaxing but Kathy looked at the guide and added the journey to see the sunset as well as sea of clouds.

Joseph's plan was going skiing and visiting the hot spring. Kathy had a look and said worryingly, "We do not have any equipment."

Furthermore, she did not know how to ski...

"John will send those equipment here later." Joseph ordered earlier.

Kathy smiled as it was assured. It seemed like she would never have to worry as long as Joseph was there.

The departing time was the next day and Kathy was looking forward to it. She had a good sleep that night.

At this time, Joseph received a call from Veronica.

Chapter 498 Like It More And More

The place Joseph mentioned was really a great place!

When dipping into the hot spring, it relieved fatigue. The hot spring was also open air, so it was possible to enjoy the falling snow. The place was incredibly pleasant.

When their body gradually soothe over, Kathy had the idea to go out to watch the snow. But after putting on her clothes, she went around the back and walked back to the house discouraged. She stood at the entrance to shake off the snow, then took off her shoes and stepped on the warm floor.

"I should have stayed in the hot spring. I could have played in the water and watched the snow at the same time." She looked at Joseph who came in right behind her, "I really shouldn't have changed your schedule and torture myself."

Joseph was good at teasing Kathy.

Joseph smiled dotingly and pinched her red cheeks, "It's all the same, go upstairs and take a look."

Kathy was almost running in the front. After soaking in the hot spring, she felt more refreshed.

After a while Joseph also came up, and he was holding a towel. While Kathy was wondering why he brought the towel, Joseph wiped off the fog on the floor window.

The fog was wiped off and the window became clear.

The surface of the lake and the road were all covered with snow. From the second floor, it looked like a sea of snow outside and it was beautiful.

Kathy wore pajamas and sat cross-legged on the warm floor.

She drank tea and Joseph enjoyed red wine. It was cold outside, but it was warm in the house.

Kathy lazily said, "I used to love to listen to the rain outside the window in the middle of winter, I thought it was so warm and happy."

Joseph liked to observe the snow since long ago. He brought Kathy was because he wanted her to be comfortable.

However, Kathy changed the schedule of the trip and it was a long journey. She even surrendered on the first night.

Seeing that Joseph had drunk a lot of wine, Kathy couldn't help but stop him, " Don't drink too much, I don't take care of alcoholics!"

The scene where Joseph was drunk last time was still vivid in Kathy's mind, so much so that now she was stern-faced when she saw Joseph drinking alcohol.

Joseph frowned helplessly, but obediently put down his glass, "Well, you said not to drink, so I won't drink anymore."

"Enjoy the snow then." Kathy smiled in satisfaction.

Joseph's mood did not seem to be affected by the hospital's removal, he was still staying in Country B. Occasionally, he would go over to the branch to deal with official business, but mostly staying in the hotel with Kathy.

Kathy, however, was worried, "So, you're not opening a clinic in the hospital anymore?"

"Not certain, the Ocean University accepted grandfather's terms, they will not let me go easily to perform my duties."

"Grandfather is forcing you to go back." Kathy said bitterly.

She thought it's not good to stay in Country B all the time.

There were things that had to be faced.

But she didn't know what Joseph was thinking, and subconsciously, she trusted him.

"You want to go back? Hmm?" Joseph came over and took Kathy into his arms, and on the spacious sofa, the two were intimate.

Kathy didn't say anything.

Of course she wanted to go back to City N. It was the place where she grew up. It was the first time, she had been away from City N for so long.

In this unfamiliar place, although accompanied by Joseph, Kathy still didn't feel like she belonged there.

It was not her home.

Her friends, her home, and her school were in City N.

"Joseph, I'll listen to you, if the school really can't restore my academic degree, I've thought it over in the past few days, I won't give up on medical school. Worst case scenario, I'll take the post-graduate entrance exam again."

"The school has already made arrangements, so you can go back next week." Joseph said.

After hearing that, Kathy's eyes brightened up and she looked at Joseph without blinking.

She wondered what Joseph had just said was really true.

Joseph pursed his thin lips, "You did not agree to the transfer, the school simply does not have the right to unilaterally transfer you to another school. The university in Country B did not accept your school registration, you can go back and continue your classes."

"Joseph, it must be you who is helping me again." Kathy murmured.

Otherwise, how could the school that had already agreed to give her a transfer easily let her go back.

After getting off the plane, Joseph ordered the bodyguard to drop Kathy back to Joseph Bay.

"Are you going to the hospital?" Kathy asked.

"Yeah." Joseph nodded.

Kathy became a little depressed.

She didn't want Joseph to come in contact with Ella. Even though Kathy had faith in Joseph, Ella was a very annoying woman.

Kathy seemed to have become a lot more possessive for her man now.

"Kathy, I will only meet Ella as a doctor. Do you want to go with me?" Joseph asked.

"No, I'll go home first and meet Mom. You go." Kathy shook her head.

She really didn't want to meet Ella.

Joseph nodded and watched her get into the car before he got into another car.

When he came to the hospital, outside of the consulting room, Reece's tall figure came into view.

"My mother really requested for you to come." Reece's tone had no ups and downs.

"Ella's symptoms are very special, only a few doctors can handle it." Joseph's tone was dull.

“If only you can cure my sister that would be great.” Reece stepped back and opened the door. Ella had her back towards the door. When she heard the footsteps, she thought it was her brother.

“Reece, I am going to sleep...”

Ella didn’t get any response. Joseph was looking at her latest medical examination reports.

After a long while, he said solemnly, “Ella, you don’t need surgery.”

Hearing Joseph’s voice, Ella’s body stiffened and she did not recover for a long time.
