My Sweetheart

Chapter 521 I Really Miss Him

Kathy was supposed to rest on weekends but she received a phone call from Reece.

They shared a mentor and had to talk from time to time.

However, she rarely saw him after the semester started. He had to take care of Bridges Group besides putting himself to school for his doctorate. In a nutshell, he was super busy.

"Mr Bridges."

"Come to school later. The professor has arranged an academic debate contest for you and some other students."

"What time will it be?"

"Three o'clock."

After saying that, Reece hung up the phone.

Kathy frowned and looked up, meeting Joseph's gaze.

She had just agreed she would stay at Joseph Group all day today.

"Something came up at school." She walked over and sat on Joseph's lap, her voice soft and cute.

"Yes, I'll take you there." Joseph was not angry.

"I'll go by myself. Otherwise, it'll waste you more than two hours to go there and come back."

"I don't mind wasting my time for you." Joseph pulled her down and pushed her on the desk before kissing her passionately. Then he reluctantly let her go.

Kathy blushed and leaned against Joseph's chest, rubbing her head on it. "We will meet here again next Saturday."

She really missed him.

"Yes, I'll pick you up on Friday evening."

Joseph smiled dotingly and held her face. He couldn't kiss her enough.

At three o'clock in the afternoon, Kathy arrived at University F on time.

According to the position Reece shared her, she came to a classroom.

There would be two debates, which lasted about three hours.

It was held in the large conference room of the school, which was full of students now.

With so many people here, Kathy's hands got slippery. She couldn't help but clench her hands.

Reece stood beside her and looked worried about her.

"Kathy, you can do it." Reece tried to encourage her.

Kathy raised her head and slowly nodded. She found her seat and sat down. Her eyes ranged over the students and came to rest on someone on the right side.

Kathy could see the handsome man in a white shirt from such a distance. He was like God's masterpiece, attracting everyone's attention.

When Kathy saw his smile, she miraculously calmed down.

Reece looked in the direction and saw Joseph. Something cold moved in his eyes.

Soon, the debate began. After seeing Joseph, Kathy had a good performance. She won the first debate and advanced to the second round. They could rest for 30 minutes before the second debate.

Kathy got off the stage and looked at Joseph. It was too troublesome for her to go over there. She could only wait until the end of the debate.

As Kathy was thinking, Reece walked over. "Zofia has got out of the surgery."

"How's she feeling?" Kathy asked with concern.

"You can go to see her after the debate." Reece did not answer her question.

But Kathy knew the answer from his tone.

Zofia didn't keep the baby.

Kathy trembled slightly, and her face turned pale.

But she knew that she should respect Zofia's choice.

In the next round, Kathy had dealt with the emotions and did her best.

However, the opponents were very smart. And they were stuck in a dilemma for a long time. In the end, it was Reece who refuted the last point and won the debate.

Kathy was a little surprised. Their opponents almost won, but Reece suddenly turned the scale in favor of them. All of a sudden, they won the debate.

"Reece, you're amazing!" The students all gave Reece a thumbs up.

When Kathy got to the ward, Zofia had just finished her examination. She could be discharged from the hospital tomorrow.

Zofia looked at Kathy and smiled weakly. "Kathy, you're so nice to come and see me."

"I'm worried about you." Kathy frowned. She remembered what Sonny had said yesterday. She didn't expect that Zofia broke up with him because of this accident. They used to be a loving couple.

Love is sometimes so fragile that it makes people sigh.

"Thanks. But you don't have to worry about me. You should go back to school."

"Alright, call me if you need anything."

Kathy turned to leave with a frown. Zofia couldn't help but start trembling while she stared at Kathy's back.

Kathy couldn't light up until she went back to school. She didn't even realize that the car had stopped.

"Kathy." Joseph held her hand, and she finally noticed they had arrived at the school.

"Then I'll go to the class. See you Friday." Kathy turned around and gently leaned against Joseph's chest.

"Don't get too worried about Zofia, OK?"

"Yeah, I won't. She must have a reason to break up with Sonny."

Kathy had another busy week at school. She was in Dona's class this week, but Reece was also in the class most of the time.

Until Friday, students got the email about their internship in the hospital. Dona could only bring one student with her. As a doctoral student, Reece could bring two. If students wanted to follow the other professors, they should apply on his own.

Kathy looked at the email. She would not choose Reece. But there were quite a few students who had signed up for Professor Dona's class. And Joseph? He was the most popular professor.

Each student had two choices. Kathy thought about it for a while. Then Dona became her first choice, and Joseph was the second.

But when she got the result on Friday, she was arranged to intern with Reece.

Kathy just couldn't believe it.

But Friday was the first day of her internship in the hospital. Kathy had to go there no matter how reluctant she was.

Kathy saw Reece after she got out of the dormitory. He was leaning against a black car and looked very handsome, attracted the attention of many girls.

"No, you don't have to do that. I'm fine now." Kathy immediately shook her head.

She didn't want Joseph to pull any strings for her again.

Although it was uncomfortable to intern with Reece, Kathy could endure it because she wanted to learn something.

"But I don't want you to stay with him," Joseph said coldly.

"Joseph, please stay out of this. I just start my internship, and I only want to focus on my studies." Kathy didn't want to think about anything else now.

"Tell me if you're not happy, okay?" Joseph smiled helplessly.

"Don't worry. I won't let that happen."

"I hope so." Joseph frowned. He was still worried about Kathy.

After lunch, they went to a supermarket before returning to Joseph Bay.

They planned to spend the weekend together. So, they wanted to buy some fresh vegetables and meat for the next two days.

The supermarket was near the Joseph Bay. In the afternoon, office workers hadn't got off work. Only elders came and shopped in the market.

Joseph stood in front of the shelf and scrutinized everything that Kathy took.

"The leaves are dead. Get another one."

"This tomato is not ripe yet."

"This is fat meat. I thought you hate it the most?"

In the end, Joseph put everything back on the shelf and started selecting food himself.

Kathy pushed the shopping cart and looked at Joseph with admiration.

What a good man at home.

Kathy walked over and hugged Joseph from behind. "Joseph, you look so handsome when you buy vegetables."

"I'm not handsome before that?" Joseph raised his eyebrows with a faint smile on his face.

"Of course not. Even if you're not handsome, I'll still like you." Kathy leaned over and suddenly kissed Joseph.

When he turned around, Kathy had gone back to push the shopping cart.

Joseph put all the ingredients in the cart. When Kathy pushed it, he hugged her shoulder gently.

"Zofia, stop! You can't drink now!" Kathy pushed all the wine away.

Zofia, however, insisted on going against Kathy. She rushed over to push Kathy away.

Fortunately, Joseph supported Kathy from behind. His face sank as he instructed John. "Take Miss Marshall away."

"No, I'm not leaving ... I want to drink. I broke up with Sonny! Kathy, drink with me!" Zofia looked at Kathy pitifully.

Kathy's heart ached even more.

She wanted to walk over, but Joseph grabbed her waist tightly. She turned to look at Joseph and found that he had got angry.

"Let's go home." Joseph wanted to take Kathy away from here.

But she did not move. "I can't leave Zofia here."

Zofia was slumping over the counter. She felt so sad and upset that her eyes went red.

Joseph pursed his lips and looked at Kathy. He just couldn't resist her puppy dog eyes.

"What do you want to do?" Joseph tried to subdue his anger.

Kathy said nervously, "I want to bring her back to the Joseph Bay."

Zofia couldn't stay at school now.

But Joseph called Bertie immediately.

However, Bertie had returned to Country C this afternoon because of his work.

"Joseph, Zofia is my friend. I can't leave her alone." Kathy broke away from Joseph's arms.

Zofia leaned against Kathy's embrace, all wrecked. She was looking at somewhere blankly, and tears ran down her cheeks.

Kathy hugged her and gently patted her shoulder to comfort her. "Zofia, I'll take you home. Don't cry."

In the car, Joseph sat in the passenger seat, while Kathy and Zofia sat in the back.

Joseph remained silent on the way back to Joseph Bay.

The bodyguard and Kathy helped Zofia get into the room. Joseph went to work in the study.

After feeding some tea to Zofia, Kathy made her change into comfortable pajamas and left the room.

Kathy bit her lips. She did not want to get angry with Joseph because of Zofia.

Perhaps she could go back to the Booths' this week. And then Zofia could live there with her.

"Then I'll go back to the Booths' with Zofia."

"No, stay in the Joseph Bay." Joseph frowned.

Kathy was stunned. She knew that Joseph had compromised when she saw his stern face.

So, she held his arm intimately. "Mr Joseph, I know you're the best."

Joseph's face lighted up a bit, but there was still something cold moving in his eyes.

Kathy came back in the evening after school. As the servants came to the Joseph Bay, dinner was ready when she returned. Joseph had an operation tonight, so he probably wouldn't get back until late at night.

Zofia sat on the sofa and was watching TV. But she just stared at it blankly. She seemed to be absent-minded.

Kathy was very worried, so she walked over. "Zofia."

Zofia turned around. Her face was very pale. After the hangover, she looked even worse.

Suddenly, Zofia's phone rang. It was Sonny.

He hadn't given up looking for Zofia, but Zofia never answered the phone.

Now Zofia picked up her phone and put Sonny's number on the blacklist. She looked very calm while doing this.

"Did you and Sonny really break up?"

"Yeah," Zofia said indifferently.

Kathy knew Zofia used to love Sonny very much.

Therefore, she was very surprised that Zofia looked so calm now.

Kathy was dumbfounded. From his gaze, she could see that that person must be very important to him.

When she was little, she remembered a little boy. He always played it cool in front of others, but in front of her, he would give her brilliant smiles.

"Joseph, I think I've known you a little more." Kathy smiled brightly.

Joseph tenderly caressed her hair, and then he scooped her face and kissed her fondly.

They had lost themselves in passionate kisses. Realizing they might have sex right on the sofa, Kathy pushed him away.

Zofia was here!

She gave Joseph an embarrassed glare and ran back to her room.

But Joseph turned gloomy. Zofia was going to stay here for a week, and he couldn't stand for even one day!

Putting his fingers to the forehead, he went to the bedroom. Zofia was coming from the opposite direction with her cup in her hand. She didn't wear the bra, and her fair skin was showing through her light nightgown.

Not even casting a glance, Joseph passed by.

The smell of Zofia's perfume annoyed Joseph more.

The next day, Zofia got up early and made breakfast, which was Joseph's job before she came. But he slept in these days!

Kathy hugged Joseph and gave him a gentle push, "Joseph, you're going to be late."

"Can we not have breakfast at home?" Joseph looked at her.

"But Zofia has made it..." Kathy frowned.

Although she had already told Zofia that she did not need to do it, Zofia insisted. Kathy had to let her do.

"Then I'll have breakfast outside." Joseph then got out of bed.

Kathy rubbed her eyes. She knew Joseph was angry.

Many patients visited Reece today. When he ended his work, it was already one p.m. Kathy helped him with the end and Reece invited her to lunch like he always did.

Kathy shook her head and declined. She had to go back to school in the afternoon. She might have to grab a bite on the way.

After walking out of the hospital, Kathy saw Zofia.

Shouldn't she be at Joseph Bay?

Seeing Kathy, Zofia smiled plainly, "Are you going back to Joseph Bay?"

"I'm going back to school. Why are you here?"

"A check-back with my doctor. I'm about to go back."

After calling Zofia a cab, Kathy went back to school. She had a lab class tonight, and the class wasn't over until nine o'clock.

When she walked out of school, she found Sonny waiting for her.

"Kathy." He stopped her.

He held a large bag in one hand, in which there were red dates, wolfberries, longan, and so on. And there was a thermos in the other.

"You must know where Zofia is. Do me a favor and give them to her." Sonny begged.

"You know you don't need to do this." Kathy sighed.

She could tell that Zofia no longer had any feelings for Sonny.

Giving these to her would only irritate her.

"Kathy, help me. I know that she doesn't want to see me. Just say they're yours." Sonny thrust the bag onto Kathy's chest.

She couldn't refuse him.

The flask of chicken soup and the large bag of supplements were all Sonny's love for Zofia.

"Thank you, Kathy."

Joseph went to pick her up. Seeing that she was carrying so many things, he immediately took it for her.

"For Zofia?" Joseph immediately realized.

Joseph Bay was spacious. Zofia's room was on the other end. John rushed over at the middle of the night to help her pack up and take her away without delay.

In the study, Joseph held a cigarette between his fingers, and continued the meeting.

"Are we still doing this? Was it Zofia?" Quinn frowned.

He heard about something about the past of Joseph and Zofia. But he didn't know the whole story.

"Yes, we are." Joseph kept a straight face.

He didn't come back to the bedroom until it was almost two in the morning. Kathy woke up from her slumber. Remembering hearing something outside, she frowned, "What happened?"

"Zofia left." Joseph told her the truth.

"What?" Kathy immediately sat up.

She smelt the perfume on Joseph.

Joseph never wore perfume, and it seemed to be Zofia's.

"She moved away. I asked her to."

"Why did you do this?" Kathy was a little angry with him for not telling her.

It was so late. She was worried about Zofia.

"Do you have a problem with her?" She was somewhat irritated.

How could he let a girl out in the middle of the night? No, she needed to find Zofia.

Just as she was about to get out of bed, Joseph held her into his arms. "Kathy, I don't want another woman at home."

Joseph said with a sullen look.

"I know, but she is my friend. It is just a week. And you know she just had an abortion." Kathy explained.

She hoped Joseph would understand.

The next day, Kathy woke up early to go to school, and she called Zofia on the way.

However, it was Bertie who answered the phone. "I'm taking her back to Country C. We're about to board the plane."

Right now, Bertie was holding Zofia's phone. Otherwise, she would definitely run away. This was the only way he could stop her.

"She's going back to Country C? What about her student status?"

"Retaining for now, but she may not come back to City N," Bertie said in a deep voice.

"Is she alright?"

"Yes." Bertie frowned, realizing that Kathy did not know about Joseph and Zofia.

"I'm boarding the plane. I have to go."

Bertie put down the cell phone, and Zofia immediately rushed over, trying to snatch it. Bertie threw it to the assistant beside him.

He clasped his sister's wrist and took her into the cabin.

Zofia was still struggling, snapping, "I don't want to go back. I'm begging you, please. You know they'll force me to go on a blind date when I get home. I don't want to marry a man I don't love."

Bertie's heart ached. "I don't want you to marry a man who doesn't love you."

Zofia pursed her lips and suddenly covered her stomach. She squatted down and said, "I need to go to the bathroom."

"I'll accompany you."

"Wait outside!"

However, after Zofia went inside, she soon disguised herself and left. Bertie had let his guard down. When Bertie realized that, his face sank.

"Mr Marshall, the shareholders' meeting scheduled in the afternoon has been brought forward." The assistant reported nervously.

"Go back!"

Zofia slowly walked out after watching her brother board the plane.

Upon receiving Zofia's call, Kathy was surprised.

It was an unknown number, but she recognized Zofia's voice.

"Kathy, my brother wants to take me back to Country C. I have no one else to turn to except you." Zofia's sobbing voice sounded.
