Chapter 551

Hearing Veronica talk about Kathy, Joseph screwed up his face.

"I'm gonna stay with you tonight."

"Did you quarrel with Kathy?" Veronica asked curiously, her eyebrows raised.

Joseph did not answer. He pushed her in and changed the subject. "I'll cook for you. You are poorly skinny."

Veronica pouted and looked at her brother worriedly.

'Why Joseph is haggard?'

After dinner, Joseph and Quinn were having a video conference.

Veronica sobbed when she heard Quinn's voice.

Standing at the door of the study, she covered her mouth in case that they would hear her sobbing.

Oh, she missed Quinn so badly and wanted to see him.

It wasn't until the conference ended that Veronica burst into tears.

She had been trapped by Reece for wholly seven days. Each day was a torment for her.

Joseph walked over and patted Veronica's shoulder to comfort her.

"Veronica, everything will be better. I'm always here for you." He said in a low voice.

Veronica nodded, had a stronger desire to see Quinn. It was so hard for her to get a hold of this burning desire.

"Joseph, don't go. I need you these days." Veronica looked at him with tearful eyes.

"I will stay here with you."

After getting Veronica to sleep, Joseph left his sister's bedroom and returned to his study. He stood in front of the French window. His head was full of Kathy who was so delicate.

He took out a cigarette and lit it, held it between his fingers. However, he missed Kathy more greatly.

After a while, he stubbed out the cigarette and left for Joseph Bay.

As the car drove into the residential area, he saw a familiar person coming out from Joseph Bay.

She wore a pure white slim dress with long hair down to her shoulders. He couldn't see her face clearly, but the silhouette was very familiar. She was obviously the one he missed these days.

He tightened his grip on the steering wheel. His eyes were burning with desire.

"I haven't taken good care of you, but could you please trust me?" Joseph said with caution.

Kathy had never heard him saying in this way.

How could he say in this way?

She must have heard wrong.

"Joseph, you asked the wrong person. You should ask Zofia," she said coldly.

Kathy's words were hurtful.

In Joseph's eyes there seemed to be a storm, but he strived to hold back his intense feelings.

However, he looked at Kathy deep in the eye as if he was about to swallow her.

"There's nothing between me and Zofia." He disliked explaining, and even more so now.

Kathy obviously was not convinced.

She remained aloof, "Well, I see. Joseph, can you let me go?"

"No." Instantly Joseph pulled her into the car.

Kathy had been struggling, but she failed to attract attention. Her face gradually darkened, "Joseph, where are you taking me?"

"Joseph Bay."

"I'm not going back!" Kathy's face changed, and she lowered her head to bite Joseph's arm with full strength.

Immediately, he loosened her lightly.

Kathy took advantage of it to escape from his arms. Her face turned pale and her eyes became red.

Taking a deep breath, she said coldly, "I'm not going back."

She said to Joseph as well as to herself.

She turned around and left. Joseph wanted to catch up, but Bertie suddenly blocked him.

Recently, Joseph was dealing with this matter.

He did not intend to possess his shares of Marshall Group, and had already transferred them to Bertie through legal proceedings.

However, Bertie refused.

If he transferred it to Zofia, he would inevitably have to contact with Zofia.

Hearing Joseph's words, Kathy relaxed a lot.

"You didn't even tell me." She muttered in a somewhat dissatisfied tone.

If she knew about it, she wouldn't be so angry.

"I called you two days ago. Zofia answered." Kathy said quietly.

She could not forget what Zofia had said.

If they weren't so intimate, how could she say something as "he's taking a shower" in such a misleading way?

"Kathy, I'm sorry that I didn't tell you about Zofia's amnesia, but I never had feelings for her."

At that time, Kathy and Zofia were good friends, so he didn't want to ruin their relationship.

However, the accident afterwards recovered Zofia's memories.

"The shares have already been transferred to Zofia?" Kathy blinked and looked at the man beside her.

"Zofia didn't accept it. I will gradually put the shares on the market. Nothing of the Marshall family belongs to me."

"During this period of time, I've been thinking about how to deal this matter. Kathy, I'm sorry." Joseph held her face and kissed her deeply.

He never thought that Zofia would become an obstacle between them.

Nobody or nothing would stop him from being with Kathy.

All he wanted was her.

He didn't want her to get hurt in the slightest.

Kathy looked up, clearly feeling Joseph's emotions.

"I didn't trust you enough." She murmured.

In the early morning, a few rays of sunlight shone through the window. Kathy opened her eyes and saw Joseph's handsome face.

Kathy raised her hand to touch his face. As she rubbed his stubbled jaw, she felt it scratchy but very comfortable.

She was somewhat addicted to that feeling, so she kept rubbing his jaw.

When she raised her eyes, she was surprised to find that Joseph was staring at her.

When did he wake up?

Kathy gradually blushed, and she tried to retract her hand.

However, Joseph grabbed her wrist fast, rolled over and pinned her down.

In the room arose an ambiguous atmosphere.

Kathy blinked and could clearly feel that Joseph's body was burning.

"Joseph, I'm worn out," said she in a gentle voice.

Of course, she knew what Joseph wanted to do at that moment.

He looked at Kathy affectionately, with the Adam's apple moving up and down.

He rolled over and hugged Kathy in his arms, gently kissing her between her eyebrows.

"Kathy."

"Aren't you going to the hospital today?" Kathy asked in a gentle voice.

"I'll be there this afternoon. This morning, I'd like to stay with you, okay?"

"I'm going to school later." Kathy looked at him.

After a while, she picked up her phone. It was time for her to leave.

With a flash of displeasure in his eyes, Joseph held her hands and leaned over. "Have you been spending much time with Reece recently?"

Kathy pursed her lips and remained silent for a moment.

Indeed, she spent much time with Reece to complete the research and development project those days. Of course, there were other students with them too.

Kathy pursed her lips and her face clouded over.

"It's time for me to go back." Kathy turned around and left.

However, Reece kept following her until she returned to the dormitory.

Kathy hurried upstairs. When she came back to her room, she was so tired that she lay down as soon as she got on the bed.

After getting up and taking a bath, she hung clothes on the balcony, only to find that the tall figure downstairs hadn't left yet.

Kathy withdrew her gaze almost at once, but Reece had clearly spotted her just now.

She was a little irritated. She sat at the desk and intended to read a book, but her mind was all about Joseph. She couldn't get rid of him.

Coincidentally, Joseph called her.

Kathy smiled and picked up the phone sweetly.

"Are you going to bed?"

"Soon, but I want to read some books now. What about you?"

"I'm still in the hospital. Just finished an operation."

"It's so late. You may go back as soon as possible." Kathy said concernedly.

"Alright, have a good rest, Kathy." Joseph's voice was very gentle.

"Good night." Kathy's heart trembled.

After hanging up, Joseph took off his doctor's overall. After hearing the assistant report the work, he quickly left the hospital.

However, a thin figure stopped him.

Zofia had obviously waited for quite some time. Now that it was getting cold, she was dressed so little that she could not help but shiver.

"Joseph." Seeing Joseph walk out, Zofia revealed a smile, who had kept a straight face for a long time.

Joseph was always indifferent as he looked at her, frowning.

After Kathy hung up the phone, the smile on her face disappeared. If Joseph went on a business trip, she would miss him very much.

Then Kathy's phone vibrated. Joseph then saw the photo Kathy sent him and replied, "Are you angry?"

"No, it was Zofia who sent it to me. And I send it to you." Kathy texted Joseph back.

After thinking for a while, Kathy continued, "I'm not angry. I know that Zofia is just trying to provoke me. I don't believe it."

Suddenly, Joseph sent her an extremely cute emoji.

Kathy couldn't help but laugh softly.

The next day, when Kathy woke up, Joseph arrived at City D.

Many students should have been in the research laboratory usually when Kathy arrived, but no one was there then.

Just as Kathy was about to make a phone call, she saw that Reece had notified in their WeChat Group that the project was suspended indefinitely.

Kathy was confused totally.

Suddenly, a piece of news appeared automatically on her phone. It was about the illegal investment of the Bridges Group. It said that several senior executives were arrested. And it also revealed that the research and development of the maritime drug were not approved by the Food and Drug Administration. It was suspected that the banned ingredients were used in this project. Nevertheless, not only the research and development of this project but that of all the Bridges Group's projects were suspended.

Was the Bridges Group in trouble?

This event did not break out without warning. Actually, a few days ago, news about suspending the project was spread. And many R&D personnel heard that.

When Kathy looked up, she saw Reece.

Reece's handsome face was filled with exhaustion. He came out of the research laboratory. Kathy wondered if he stayed there all night.

"Good morning, Reece," Kathy greeted him politely.

Reece frowned. When he raised his eyes, the emotions in his eyes were hidden by him.

"The project was suspended. Kathy, is it as you wish?" Reece asked mockingly.

Kathy was slightly stunned. She...she had never meant this before.

Although the person in charge of this project changed from Joseph to Reece, she would participate in the same mood. Kathy didn't care much about who the person in charge was.

Even though she didn't want to get in touch with Reece.

"Reece, will the project start again?" Kathy asked.

"What did Mom say to Joseph?" Zofia blinked.

Bertie frowned at her words.

"I wasn't there at that time, but I think Joseph might have changed his mind. Our mother saved his life, so he won't ignore you." Bertie frowned again. "As long as you give it another try, there might be a chance that he is persuaded."

With that, Bertie handed his sister a glass of scarlet wine.

Zofia lowered her eyes and slowly smiled.

Holding the wine glass and wearing high heels, she walked towards Joseph's table.

Many doctors and professors respected Marshall Group as a patron. Besides, Zofia was also an intern. She gradually became familiar with many professors through this meeting.

"Dr. Marshall, you really did hard work this time." A young doctor approached her.

Since Zofia was also strikingly good-looking, many more people came to greet her.

"It's you who have worked so hard and done us a great favor," Zofia replied while having one eye on Joseph.

Seeing him stand up, Zofia gently pushed away the man in front of her and walked towards him.

"Joseph." Zofia gave him a bright smile.

Joseph's expression was cold as usual. He nodded and prepared to leave.

However, Zofia still stood in his way. In the next second, her glass suddenly collided and she moved her hand backwards. As a result, most of the wine was poured onto her evening dress.

"Joseph ... I'm sorry." Zofia's face turned pale and she felt chilly all over the body. Subconsciously, she leaned against Joseph's body.

Many of the surrounding guests looked over. Joseph took off his jacket and draped it over her body. Then he said softly, "Go to change first."

"My room isn't here..." Zofia looked at him with frustration.

"Let Bertie send you back."

After saying that, Joseph left directly.

Joseph's tall figure approached. His menacing aura was dominating.

He pinched Zofia's wrist so hard that it was about to be broken.

"Joseph..." Zofia couldn't help but shed tears from the pain.

Joseph didn't even look at her. He stared at Kathy with his intense eyes.

Then he pushed Zofia away fiercely and stood in front of Kathy. The way she looked at him was very indifferent.

"Kathy." He called her.

Kathy came back to her senses and was at a loss for a moment.

Facing Joseph, she realized that she actually cared about what Zofia had just said.

Zofia drugged him, but now he seemed quite normal.

Could it be ... that the effects of the drug have been negated?

Did Zofia help him with that?

When she thought of this, her face couldn't help turning pale.

"What are you thinking?" Joseph frowned as he raised his palm to stroke her little face.

John told him just now that Kathy had already come to the hotel but for some reason left.

Joseph's eyes narrowed as he glanced at Zofia.

Her eyes turned red when she looked at them. She was completely disappointed at his indifference.

The next second, she turned around somewhat awkwardly, hating to look at the two who were deeply affectionate to each other.

Kathy shook her head and raised her eyes. She wanted to smile, but why did she have a sudden urge to cry?

As her tears rolled uncontrollably, she heard a sharp braking sound. They turned at the same time, only to see what had happened to Zofia...

Blood was all over her body...

Kathy widened her eyes and immediately ran over. Though the driver had already braked sharply, Zofia was still badly injured.

He staggered out of the car and said anxiously, "This is not my fault ... This crazy woman suddenly ran out..."

Zofia had already passed out, with her entire body covered in blood. Kathy immediately called an ambulance and then called the police. She leaned against Joseph as he held tightly her trembling little hand in the palm of his big hand.

Joseph's expression instantly changed. Looking at the Kathy, he seemed to be very gloomy.

"Kathy." He reached out and hugged her.

Kathy looked up and her eyes were moist. Joseph's expression softened a little. He was worried about Kathy.

"Do you wanna stay here?" He asked.

Kathy was stunned. When she regained her senses, she slowly nodded.

Even if she went back to the hotel right now, she wouldn't fall asleep.

"OK." Joseph replied, letting Kathy lean against his leg. He patted her shoulder with his palm.

Kathy closed her eyes and hugged Joseph's waist. Soon she fell asleep unconsciously.

When she woke up, she was already in the hotel.

Beside her was Joseph, who did not sleep. He sat up and looked at her.

Kathy immediately got up and looked at Joseph's calm expression.

"Why didn't you wake me up?" She was a little embarrassed.

And she actually slept on Joseph's leg. He must be numb.

Thinking of this, she became even more annoyed.

"I'm not willing to." Joseph looked deeply at her.

Kathy smiled and leaned over to hug Joseph. "Why are you not willing to wake me up?"

However, she didn't smile for a long time. When Kathy thought of Zofia's situation, her face immediately turned pale.

She took out her phone and wanted to ask Bertie about Zofia, but Joseph took her phone away.

"Zofia hasn't woken up yet."

He had already had someone keep an eye on Zofia in the hospital, so he would know about her situation as soon as possible.

Kathy frowned and she looked so worried.

"Do you have a lot of work to do today?" Kathy asked Joseph.

Chapter 560 It Was an Accident

"Joseph!" Kathy muttered and she pushed Joseph away. Meeting Joseph's eyes, she saw the burning rage. Joseph was angry. "What's wrong...?" Kathy turned away. "Don't stay too close with other men." After Joseph said that, he took her into the car. Kathy was stunned. She did not get very close to other men. Did Joseph mean Bertie? Kathy recalled that she was leaning against Bertie's shoulder just now. But, it was an accident! "I didn't." She muttered. Joseph frowned and held Kathy in his arms.

Just now, one of his subordinates took a picture outside the ward. On the picture, she was leaning on Bertie's shoulder.

Although Kathy pushed him away, Joseph was still not happy about that!

"So you know that?" Kathy looked at Joseph's tense expression. Her intuition told her that Joseph minded what happened just now.

Joseph pursed his thin lips and didn't say anything.

"Let's go back to City N tomorrow, OK?" When he turned around, his expression became gentler.

"Are you done with your work?" Kathy asked.

She remembered that Joseph was going on a business trip for a week, but now only three days had passed.

"Almost." Joseph looked at her with burning gaze.

Actually, it wasn't over. He just wanted to bring Kathy back to City N.

"Alright." Kathy nodded.

The next second, Joseph clenched Kathy's chin, and kisses fell on her.

Kathy hugged Joseph and leaned against him. This embrace was the only place where she could feel most reassuring.
