My Sweetheart

Chapter 591 Being Lovey-dovey

After a while, Joseph looked gloomy.

He leaned against the back of the chair, with pretty scary aura.

John stood beside him with a solemn expression.

"Mr Joseph, I believe Ms Kathy is innocent."

Joseph's face was quiet, and there was no fluctuation on it.

"Notify the lawyer." After a long while, he spoke indifferently. Now, his tone was much calmer than before.

His phone rang. It was a call from Mathew in Country C.

"Joseph, when are you and Ella getting married? I've seen all the news."

"Grandfather, the news is not the truth." Joseph was always disdainful of explaining.

"I don't care. Now that such a thing has happened, everyone in the city knows about it. Ella is seriously ill. If you abandon her, it will tarnish the reputation of the Josephs!"

Right now, the news in the city was all about Joseph taking care of his seriously ill girlfriend. If it was suddenly revealed that everything was actually a mix-up, Joseph's reputation would definitely be affected.

This time, the Bridges family had set a deep trap.

"Grandfather, the Joseph Group will be fine. Don't worry." Joseph said and quickly hung up.

However, even if Joseph refused, Mathew and Reece had jointly announced that the two families were about to match by a marriage. Meanwhile, Joseph had no real power because Mathew temporarily withdrew his shares and Quinn was dismissed. The Joseph Group was in complete chaos.

It had been a long time before Kathy who was far away in Country F knew these things.

It had already been three days before she woke up, and she had no idea where she was. The decoration of the room was very elegant and meticulous, but she subconsciously disliked it.

Sitting up, she opened the quilt in a panic. Her clothes were new. Who is it that helped her change them?

A tall figure walked in. She raised her eyes and saw Reece's handsome face.

"Why are you here ... Where ... Where am I?" She asked alertly.

"Country F. I took you here." Reece said frankly.

"What do you mean?" Kathy was about to get up immediately, but she felt limp and fell onto the bed.

Angela looked at Kathy and wanted to say something but didn't.

"Mom, why are you in the hospital? Where's Maurice?" Kathy tried to keep calm but her voice trembled.

"He ... he passed away." Angela said sadly.

Kathy was surprised and did not regain her senses for a long time.

"How could this be..."

"He came to me because he wanted to spend the last days of his life with me." Angela said in a broken voice.

After a long while, Angela repressed her sadness.

"Kathy, I didn't let you know about that because I don't have much time left, either." Angela sighed.

"No, I don't believe it." Kathy immediately shook her head.

Angela would be fine.

However, how could Angela lie to her in such a matter?

Kathy wanted to deceive herself.

"I'm at the terminal stage of cancer. I didn't want to let you know, but I changed my mind after Reece visited me."

"Mom, I won't let you go," Kathy murmured. She took the medical record and read it carefully. The more she read, the more tears she shed.

"Kathy, I know that I don't have much time left. But I just don't want you to be aggrieved.

"I'm not aggrieved. Mom, I'm fine." She said calmly.

Angela did not believe, "Joseph and you broke up, right?"

Kathy was slightly stunned, "We're fine."

"I've known from the latest news that he would marry a woman named Ella. Kathy, are you going to be his mistress? I will never allow that!" Angela said angrily.

Chapter 593 Three Years Later

Three years later.

In the People's Hospital in Country F.

Just as Kathy came out of the operating room, Vivian, her assistant, walked towards her with a bouquet of flowers in her hand. "Doctor Kathy, it's from your patient again. He is satisfied with the interventional treatment half a month ago, and he wants you to take it as a token of gratitude."

Kathy took off her mask and the fatigue could be seen clearly on her face.

She had just finished an operation that had lasted about ten hours, and now she was a little dizzy.

"Please convey my gratitude to him. There's no need to be so polite." Kathy smiled.

"Your office has been filled with banners and gifts from your patients. Mr Richard also attaches great importance to you. But, you haven't had a break for a long time, have you? And you've been on duty at the hospital during the National Day holiday. You're really a model worker." Vivian said with concern.

She really hoped that Kathy could give herself some time off instead of working so hard. She simply kept stressing her body all year round.

"It's good. Anyway, I don't have anything else to do." Kathy sat down and took a sip of water calmly.

"You should spend more time with Mr Bridges when you have a break. He's so handsome and rich. There must be many women coveting him." Vivian went on nagging.

Kathy's expression didn't change. "He could do whatever he wants. I will not interfere."

"By the way, has my vacation request for next week been approved?" Kathy asked.

Jennifer's wedding would be held after three days. This was her first vacation request since she worked in this hospital.

"Yes, and I can finally have a short vacation." Vivian stretched her body.

"It's been hard on you to work with me." Kathy sighed.

"Not at all. Anyway, I'm single now. It's good to keep myself busy, so that my parents won't push me too hard to get married."

After chatting with Vivian for a while, Kathy received a call from Reece. He had already arrived at the gate.

She took her bag and left. After getting in the car, she closed her eyes tiredly.

"Don't perform so many surgeries. There are enough doctors in your department." Reece was somewhat dissatisfied.

Chapter 594 Come into Her View

As the Wedding March was played, Kathy followed Jennifer out of the hollow floor of the hotel. A blue lake was facing them, and it was very beautiful.

Kathy didn't follow Jennifer to the end. She stopped halfway down the corridor. And Reece was standing beside her.

She slightly looked away, only to see a familiar figure out of the corner of her eye.

Her entire body trembled, and she was almost unable to stand on her feet.

Fortunately, Reece supported her in time, and Kathy immediately withdrew her gaze.

However, that handsome face had been lingering in her dreams for three years. How could she be calm at the sight of him?

Not far away, Joseph's gaze did not rest on Kathy. Beside him was Zofia in a black short skirt. The two of them were very close.

"Are we going back to City N tonight?" Zofia's voice rang out in Kathy's ears.

"You will go tonight. I have other things to do." Joseph's voice was cold.

"Can I stay?" Zofia looked at him expectantly.

"You're about to take the exam." Joseph reminded her.

Zofia bit her lips, her gaze secretly sweeping past Kathy, and she quickly looked away.

With Kathy here, how could she return to City N?

However, she did not have guts to go against Joseph.

"I'll stay until the banquet is over, and leave tomorrow morning."

After the wedding ceremony, all the guests moved to the banquet hall.

Kathy was busy following Jennifer. She was already exhausted when the guests proposed toasts to them. Reece took the glass in her hand and said, "Just eat something and have a break."

"But..." Kathy frowned.

"I won't give you the chance to touch the glass."

Without a glass, Kathy could no longer propose a toast.

She sat down at the top table, while her gaze was involuntarily looking for the figure of Joseph.

Chapter 595 The Distance Between Him and Her

The next day, Kathy was informed that there was going to be an academic exchange meeting centering on neurosurgery in the Westlife Hotel. As an attending doctor, she would attend the meeting on behalf of the hospital.

Kathy got the schedule from her assistant Vivian. The meeting would last for only one day, but definitely a busy day judged from the full schedule.

Unexpectedly, she saw Joseph's name on the list.

He....

Nothing surprising. He was a professor of neurology and it was in Country F right now, so he wouldn't miss such a meeting.

The possibility of meeting Joseph aroused complex feelings in Kathy.

There was fear, but more joy.

After washing up, Kathy went downstairs. Jennifer and Karl would fly to the Maldives for their honeymoon today. For the next half month, there would only be she and Reece.

"Going back to the hospital today?" Reece asked.

"I'm going to the Westlife Hotel for an exchange meeting."

"I'll drive you there."

Kathy nodded. For the past three years, it had always been this way between them. Kathy seldom rejected Reece, but she was lukewarm or even indifferent all the time.

Reece didn't know how to change her.

Upon arriving at the Westlife Hotel, Kathy saw the figure from afar as soon as she got off the car.

He was wearing the usual white shirt and black trousers. Only his back was radiant enough to eclipse others. Kathy was caught at the first glance.

Retracting her gaze, Kathy walked into the hotel quickly.

The conference hall was crowded with doctors and scholars from other cities. Kathy had known some of her peers in the past few years, so it could distract her a little talking to people around her.

However, the figure walking towards her was somewhat familiar.

She thought for a while before she was sure that it was Sonny...

"Here are some files from the director of the People's Hospital that need your signatures."

Kathy stood over a meter away from Joseph and handed over the files with a respectful and calm attitude.

Joseph raised his eyes slightly and his thin lips curled into a faint arc, "Sit here and wait a few minutes. I have a meeting right now."

With that, Joseph turned on the camera and talked in a language that Kathy could not understand.

Kathy frowned and checked the time. She wanted to ask Joseph how long this meeting would last, and tell him that she was going back.

But Joseph did not look at her, and concentrated on the meeting while speaking English.

Kathy could only sit there and text Reece to let him go back.

The next second, Reece's phone call came. Kathy walked to the window to answer it.

"Kathy, the meeting isn't over yet?" Reece asked concernedly.

"I've got something to deal with. You may go back home."

"What is it?" Reece asked.

"Private business." Without saying much, Kathy hung up the phone quickly.

When she turned around, Joseph was staring at her, and the meeting seemed to have been suspended.

"Reece?" He raised his eyebrows.

Kathy nodded subconsciously, but changed into a cold voice immediately, "It has nothing to do with you."

Joseph sneered and resumed the meeting quickly.

Kathy had been planning to urge him to sign the files, but now she could only swallow it.

At the entrance of the hotel, Reece's eyes were full of sinister anger when he heard the busy tone in the phone.

He knew that Joseph had also participated in this meeting and was staying at this hotel.

He walked into the hotel quickly and told the manager to show the surveillance video.

In the suite, time was passing.

Kathy almost fell asleep from the boring waiting. The sky outside the French window was getting dark, but Joseph was still busy with the meeting.

"Oh, Joseph has gone to Country F?"

"Yes. I saw him at my mother's wedding."

"He has been married and you've started a new life. Just move on." Alexia sighed and said earnestly.

If it were in the past, she would have encouraged Kathy to chase after the one she loved. But it was all different now.

"I know. I don't want to think about him, but I can't control myself."

She didn't want herself to be like this either.

"Kathy, don't be silly. Stay away from Joseph. You must listen to me."

Hanging up the phone, Kathy lay on the one side of the bathtub. Her eyelids began to droop.

After a while, there was a knock on the door. "Kathy..."Reece called.

"Oh..." Kathy murmured, realizing that she had almost fallen asleep.

"I'm fine." She quickly wiped her body clean and put on her clothes.

Reece, standing outside, felt relieved to see Kathy coming out safe and sound.

"Kathy, I was worried about you." Reece frowned.

Kathy looked calm but pale.

She was weak since she hadn't recovered from her fever.

"Have some porridge if you have an appetite." Reece had told the servant to bring it over.

Kathy nodded. Reece sat down beside her, watching her eating.

Her hair was still dripping. Reece picked up the towel to wipe, but Kathy immediately flinched.

"I can do it by myself." She put down the bowl and quickly took the towel.

Noticing all her rejection, Reece was frustrated.

Chapter 598 Never Want to See Him Again

Arriving at the Westlife Hotel, Kathy sat in the lobby to wait for Joseph. Soon it went dark outside.
It had been over ten o'clock when Kathy took her steps to the room. However, before she could enter the elevator, Sonny walked towards her. They converged at the door of the elevator.
"Kathy? What are you doing here late at night?" Sonny came from City N, where many doctors and scholars lived.
Kathy stopped with her eyebrows furrowed. She did not want to tell Sonny that she was here to look for Joseph.
"For something personal." Kathy answered.
Although Kathy did not say, Sonny could guess what she was for. "Come for Joseph?" Sonny became serious immediately.
Kathy said yes and was about to step into the elevator.
Sonny followed her up and it seemed like she wanted to say something.
"Sonny, what do you want to say?" Kathy looked at her.
"Joseph is very happy with Zofia. Kathy, don't go find Joseph again," said Sonny after a while.
Kathy turned pale at the moment.
She quivered a bit and bit her lower lip tightly.
"I am here for business." Her voice trembled.
"I hope that it should be. Kathy, I think you are my friend. That's why I warned you. I don't want you hurt."
"Well, really?" Kathy looked indifferent.

She never thought that anyone could change her mind.

"As far as I know, Joseph had been married with Ella for long." Kathy suddenly uttered.

Actually, she had been curious about it for some time. After she left City N, Carl and Maria were busy in divorcing. Ella would be with Maria. But Reece didn't talk about Ella.

Chapter 599 She Must Be His Wife even if He Had to Force Her

The next day, Kathy didn't wake up until almost noon.

Looking at the watch, she got annoyed.

Every year on this day, she would go to the cemetery early to pay her respects to Angela.

After Kathy came down to the living room, Reece had already prepared the sacrificial items. There was lunch at the dining table. Sitting at the side, Reece was obviously waiting for Kathy.

"We'll set off after lunch."

"I'm sorry to trouble you." Kathy said indifferently.

In that instant, Reece thought that Kathy had smiled at him. It was a faint smile, but he was satisfied.

Until he finished his meal, Reece had been in a good mood. Kathy did not look at him and kept replying to the patient's inquiry online.

"Have more meat." Hearing it, Kathy suddenly looked up.

Reece had already placed a piece of chicken in her bowl.

Kathy frowned. She didn't touch the chicken, but pick up another piece and put it in the bowl.

They arrived at the cemetery in the afternoon. Reece was holding a bouquet of flowers in her hands while Reece was half a meter behind her.

"Mom, I come to see you." Kathy looked down and slowly squatted down.

In front of her mother, Kathy no longer concealed her emotions. She felt very uncomfortable to live behind a mask.

But now, she gradually felt that she might be like this in the future.

"Mom, I will try my best to forget Joseph," she murmured.

Her mom's warning was still ringing in her ears. "Kathy, if you still think of me as your mother, you must stop hanging out with Joseph. That man ... is very scary...."

Kathy's tears fell onto her palm-sized face and she got choked with sobs.

A napkin was handed to her. Kathy took it and wiped her face randomly. She turned her head to prevent Reece from seeing her sorry state.

Reece didn't get any closer. Every year, on this day, Kathy was in such low spirits.

"Mom, there are dormitories in the hospital. It's more convenient for me to go to work."

Jennifer frowned, showing a look of disapproval.

She finally found her daughter, so she wanted Kathy to be by her side.

Moreover, Kathy was alone. So, how could Jennifer be at ease?

"Promise mom that you'll date with other men."

Kathy had a sense of helplessness. In her eyes, all other men were inferior to Joseph.

None was him.

"These are the few men from established families that Mom chooses for you. Are you satisfied with them?" After saying that, Jennifer handed over the tablet. They were all life photos that hadn't been greatly photographed.

Kathy frowned. But in order to move out, she took it over.

They didn't look bad, and some were quite handsome.

However, Kathy was not interested.

She had no feelings for the people in these photos.

"Pick one first. Mom will arrange a date for you," Jennifer said eagerly.

Actually, Jennifer hoped that someone could take care of Kathy. Kathy always put all her mind into her work and didn't have any private life. Jennifer felt sorry for what Kathy was experiencing.

"This one." Actually, Kathy did not take a serious look and casually pointed at one.

"Alright, I'll arrange you to meet this weekend," Jennifer said with satisfaction.

Kathy pursed her lips and didn't take it to heart. She had been on blind dates in the past, so she could be considered to be experienced.

However, her identity was now very different, and she shouldn't have encountered weirdos like before.

Blind dates reminded Kathy of Joseph. Although she and Joseph did not know each other through blind dates, they knew each other while she was on a date.

Kathy couldn't help but put on a smile when she thought of the scene of their meeting. But she quickly restrained her expression.

She promised herself that she wouldn't miss him.
