Chapter 651 You are Different from Her

The temperature in the room was warm, but Kathy didn't answer Joseph's words, and kindly fed the soup to his lips, "take a sip, it tastes good."

The man looked at her delicate facial features through the clouds of steam, and drank up the soup.

"Go for a walk later, or watch a movie?"

Kathy was stunned. At this moment, she wanted to remind Joseph that they used to have a small home theater room in their wedding room. The sound and visual effects were impeccable, even better than the studio.

However, that was all over.

She nodded and did not refuse.

Recently, the movies were all action movies. Kathy suddenly stopped when she passed a poster.

Joseph put his arms around her shoulders casually, and saw the poster, "we can wait a while."

They waited for almost an hour to see Detective Conan.

The hall was a bit noisy, because there were so many children and the sound of eating popcorn all the time.

While Joseph went outside to answer the phone several times, Kathy always watched the movie intently.

At the end of the show, commemorative model toys were sold in the theater shop.

Kathy's gaze settled on them for a while. Then she heard a frantic scream.

"Why are there so many people?" She turned her head and found that many people were lining up at the entrance of the cinema.

It turned out to be the premiere of a new movie. The leading actors were all popular idols. It was unprecedented that all the leading actors of the movie had all arrived.

Kathy looked at the huge propaganda battle, gripped Joseph's arm subconsciously and then stood on tiptoe in his ear, "So you showed me this?"

Joseph's gaze fell on Annika, who was dressed in a pure school uniform on the poster, but the ridicule in Kathy's tone lingered in his ear.

Chapter 652 As if She Had No Soul

The first-class cabin was very spacious, and there was some distance between Kathy and Joseph.

Seeing Kathy's nervous look, he just stretched out his hand, put his palm on the back of her hand and rubbed her lightly.

Although there were no people in the first-class cabin, in such a panic situation, the quiet space will be noisy.

She heard Joseph's voice in her ears, "Are you afraid?"

Scared? What was she afraid of?

Her lips were pressed into a straight line, her hair hanging down on both sides of her cheeks. She remained silent.

Joseph thought she was just scared. He clasped her ten fingers slightly, and then said softly, "Don't be afraid."

"Do you know what the funniest joke I heard today?" Kathy turned her head suddenly, and said nonchalantly with a hint of smile in her eyes.

"What?"

Her eyes made him feel very uncomfortable, but he didn't know the reason.

"Nothing. But her word to me makes me feel that she is really just a child, and some words are ridiculously naive."

"What did you say?"

"It's just small talk." Kathy was no longer willing to continue speaking. Her eyes fell on his slender fingers, she smiled, "If she said those words three years ago, I would definitely believe them, but now I only know I'm still too naive."

Joseph's eyes became sad. Looking at Kathy, his palms gradually tightened.

At this moment, he was so scared. He could feel Kathy's change, and this change was caused by him.

But they can't go back. Between them, no one knew what the future will be like.

He looked away in silence and let go of his hand.

The two did not speak until the plane landed.

Jaydon confirmed the time his teacher returned to China. Kathy negotiated the time with him and thanked him, "Is it difficult?"

He just grinned, "I'm just helping a friend."

After a pause, he said again, "He is always looking for the right offer, and he gets what he needs."

Kathy smiled lightly, but changed the subject, "Will you go to the medical dinner party in Country F tonight?"

"Do you want to go?" Jaydon asked her.

"Still considering."

"Go to the dinner party, then we can go together."

After hanging up the phone, Kathy looked tiredly at the file in front of her. Shortly afterwards, the secretary knocked on the door and came in, "Ms Kathy, Miss Marshall is looking for you."

"Miss Marshall?" Kathy frowned, and immediately thought of Zofia.

But why did she come here?

"Kathy, let's talk." At the door, Zofia had walked in with high heels.

In the office, two women with the same delicate makeup were sitting face to face.

"Unexpectedly, you would really give up going to the doctor, and even take over Booth Group." Zofia said with irony.

Kathy's face was always indifferent, "get straight to the point."

Zofia frowned and narrowed her eyes slightly. "I know the current relationship between you and Joseph."

"So?" Kathy's mind was calm.

During this period of time, she didn't know why Joseph didn't look for her as if he had disappeared in her world. Did he change his mind and treated Zofia well?

Or maybe he was tired of her.

Kathy's lips had a bit delicious fruit flavor, which attracted Joseph to gain the initiative quickly and held her tightly in his arms.

He opened his eyes slightly. His one hand clasped the back of her head and the other was pressed against her soft and white back. He murmured in her ears, "Kathy, you are so enthusiastic today."

She didn't want to answer and want to retreat, but Joseph clasped her with force, with a deep smile spreading across her lips, "Want to escape? It's too late."

He picked her up with his hands while he sat on the spa bed. He lowered his head and kissed her from lips to face.

"I just miss you very much." Kathy touched his forehead and panted slightly. Her fingertips gently brushed across his handsome face, "Why didn't you look for me during this time?"

Joseph seemed to be a little surprised. His eyes became deep, and he kissed her red lips. Then he slowly let go of her, but he didn't answer.

"I want to ask you something." Her hands were still around his neck, and the corners of her lips are slightly curled up, looking naughty and charming.

"What?" His eyes grew deeper and deeper. The night outside the glass window seemed noisy, but here was so quiet.

"Forget it." Kathy thought for a while, shook her head, but there was a smile on her face, "Will you have time later?"

He looked at her indifferently, and finally his eyes fell on her flat shoes, his heart trembled slightly, "Wait for me in the apartment. I have to go back to the hospital."

Kathy blinked, then kissed on his thin lips, and said softly, "I'm waiting for you."

When Joseph returned to the lobby, he didn't notice that his tie had been pulled a little messy.

Today he was a little absent-minded, or because he was in a good mood, he didn't notice the strange look of the people who came up to talk.

In the end, John stepped forward to remind him with embarrassment, "Mr Joseph, your tie is crooked."

Joseph lowered his head, but he saw a very clear rose-red lip print on it, and he smiled helplessly.

"Go back to the hospital first, I'll have something to do later." He did not continue to stay in the banquet hall.

Joseph punched heavily on the steering wheel. He looked up at the traffic jams and opened the door without hesitation.

This luxury car worth tens of millions was left on the street by him, and his long figure ran towards the hospital.

When Kathy was sent to the ambulance, she was still conscious.

She still remembered that Jaydon's eyes were red when he found her. He was afraid that she had a broken bone, so he didn't dare to pick her up, and called an ambulance in a panic.

Bertie stood not far from them, clenching his fists. He wanted to walk over to her, but finally restrained.

"If something happens to her, I won't let you go!" Jaydon clenched his fists and snarled at Bertie with a terrifying look.

Bertie's eyes were full of chagrin, and his body trembled slightly.

Kathy still understood Jaydon's temper. Long time ago, when others just pushed her gently in the hospital, he knocked that people to the ground, not to mention that she was lying on the ground and could not move at all.

"Jaydon..." She called him weakly. Jaydon calmed down and came back to Kathy. He said softly, "don't worry, the doctor will be here soon."

The medical staff arrived soon, and Kathy was quickly carried on a stretcher. The lights in the corridor suddenly brightened, and the outside was already crowded unknowingly.

The black security guards stood in two rows to block those onlookers, but unable to block their words.

"Isn't this the woman who has an affair with Professor Joseph?"

"I heard that she got involved in other people's emotional life..."

Chapter 656 Too addicted to Make Mistakes

When Kathy opened her eyes again, the man's handsome face came into her eyes, and her red lips lost color in an instant.

She looked at him quietly and didn't say anything.

There was a trace of emotion in her eyes, but it faded until it disappeared.

"Why are you here?" She said in a cold voice.

Joseph's face was also pale and he looked at Kathy deeply.

And the smile on Kathy's mouth was still spreading. She paused, raised her hand to touch his handsome face, and said in a low voice, "It's fine, I don't want my child to be an illegitimate child. It shouldn't exist."

Joseph didn't stay in the ward for too long. Kathy didn't want to guess his emotions and thoughts, she was tired.

Closing her eyes, the ward gradually became quiet. The ward without Joseph was the most comfortable place.

Until the evening, when Kathy woke up again, Jaydon was sitting next to her.

As soon as he saw her waking up, he immediately took the pillow to make Kathy lean more comfortably.

"Are you hungry?" He asked in a deep voice.

Kathy still remembered Jaydon was anxious and afraid when she was pushed down. Her lips were slightly parted and she nodded slowly.

He helped her open the small table, and gently blew on the hot porridge.

Kathy looked at his movements and Joseph's handsome face rose before her. She squeezed her palms, and then opened her eyes again when she felt pain.

"Do you still feel uncomfortable? I will notify the doctor."

Seeing Kathy frowning, he immediately stood up nervously and rang the bell.

Kathy stopped him immediately, "I'm fine."

She had slept for a day, and her strength was gradually recovering, although her body was still very weak.

"She has gone back to the Booth family?" Joseph asked.
John shook his head, "There is no whereabouts of Ms Kathy yet."
Hearing that, Joseph's face suddenly became colder.
"In addition, this is the hotel's monitoring."

John handed the tablet over. The screen showed Kathy was arguing with Bertie. Bertie was so angry that he slapped Kathy. Kathy couldn't keep her feet and fell backward.

Joseph played back this scene over and over again and finally his eyes fell on Kathy's hand.

Clearly, she can grasp the railing, but it seemed that she was deliberate not to seize it.

Seeing this, the man's face became colder, and he immediately went to No.1 Hospital. This was the hospital Kathy was sent for resuscitation and treatment that day.

He looked at Kathy's medical records repeatedly, and the doctor who operated on Kathy that day had quitted the job the next day, and now there was no news about him.

"Check whether there is Kathy's arrival record in the major airports and train stations of City N." Joseph coldly ordered.

At this time, City N.

When Kathy got off the plane, she went directly to the AN Road community. The house here was still the same as three years ago, but because it had not been cleaned for too long, the house was already covered with dust.

It took Kathy three hours to clean it. Then she lay on the sofa and turned on the phone.

She dialed Jennifer's phone and told Jennifer that she to go back to City N to do some things. After replying to some friends' messages on WeChat, she put her phone aside.

She still felt very uncomfortable and she was drowsy after she ordered the takeaway. Suddenly, someone knocked on the door.

Chapter 658 He was Really Annoyed

Before Kathy finished speaking, she was lifted up by a tremendous force. She was caught off guard and couldn't resist. She could only be pulled out of the bed and staggered with her feet on the ground. She can barely stabilize her body.

And Joseph's handsome and gloomy face was under the light, and a shadow fell across his face. He looked cold.

He was really offended.

"Say again what you said just now." He stared into her eyes and spoke word by word.

But Kathy kept her mouth tightly closed and didn't speak any more.

He was silent for a long time, then his eyes fell on her face with complex and deep emotions under his eyes. After a while, he suddenly raised his lips and smiled.

When he was so angry, when he looked at her fiercely, she could remain indifferent.

But now he laughed suddenly, which made her feel a chill, as if it spread from the lower abdomen to the neck, making her scalp numb.

"You don't want to have anything to do with me?" His tone was cold and he was laughing, but in the next second, he tore Kathy's dress quickly and flexibly.

She was still wearing the dress when she was discharged from the hospital. At this moment, the sound of the fabric being torn to pieces was heard. She didn't resist, but stubbornly bit her lip and closed her eyes.

Kathy had never seen such a cruel and fierce Joseph before.

She knew how terrible he was to be fierce, but she didn't know they will come to that.

His breath, his body, and the masculine power of a man enfolded her completely.

She was now like a boat floating on the ocean, experiencing violent storms and rolling waves. She can't control it at all.

Kathy looked at him and kept silent.

When she smelled the alcohol she only felt that she felt chest congestion, so she turned and went back to the room.

She didn't walk fast and she did not hear Joseph following up.

She thought he would rest in the guest room because he drank too much, but she didn't expect that when she was about to close the door, the door would suddenly be pushed open by him.

She frowned and turned around displeased. Joseph had followed in and closed the door.

"What are you doing!" she asked angrily.

"What do you think?" His voice could still be so calm after the violent argument during the day.

She felt as if she had only met this real Joseph now.

Although he had always been like a bottomless black hole and people couldn't see through him.

Only now, she was very uncomfortable by his calm appearance, and even felt a deep danger. Before she had time to guard, the tall and powerful man had pushed her onto the bed.

In fact, she knew what he was going to do next, but she couldn't help widening her eyes, and she looked surprise.

He drank so much alcohol, but his movement was quick and somewhat rough, but there was almost no expression on his face.

He didn't pause for a while until her smooth and delicate skin was exposed.

But it was just a moment. After a while, he pinched her chin with one hand, and she had to open her eyes and look at him painfully.

Chapter 660 A Child Who Couldn't Be Born

Kathy wondered in a daze if she could escape Joseph completely. She was really tired and didn't want to bear the hatred he gave her.

After a long time, Kathy finally couldn't help but scream. The colic in the abdomen was accompanied by the heat flow out of the body, and finally, everything was gone.

Her eyes were filled with distress and guilt. This child was destined to be born, it was too innocent.

Tears poured down her cheeks, and her consciousness became more and more blurred. At the last moment, she only heard the sound of the door being pushed open, and she completely lost consciousness.

Her eyelids were heavy, she seemed to have heard the sound of an ambulance, and there was also a very noisy noise, and her left hand seemed to have been firmly held.

It was summer, and her hand was cold due to blood loss and pain, but the hand holding her was colder than her.

The chill in the man's palm was so tightly pressed against her skin, but the voice of the medical staff lingered in her ears. She did not hear the sound that had been carved into the bone marrow.

Was she dying...otherwise why she can feel the huge fear of the man next to her.

She seemed to have a very long dream. During the operation, before she woke up, she fell into a dream.

By the sea, two small figures stood facing each other.

"I heard that your family came to pick you up, will you leave?"

"Well, I will."

"So, you are not homeless?"

"But I don't want to go back, I don't like it there." The boy's voice was sullen.

The girl frowned and hugged him lightly, "You should be happy that you can go home."

"I want to stay here."
