Chapter 661 She did not Believe in Buddhism

Speaking of Joseph, the nurse's expression became amazed and a little envious. She recalled, "I saw you fell asleep and will not wake up so quickly, so I told him not to wait or come back later, but he didn't listen to me and sat on the sofa almost an hour. I poured water for him, but he didn't drink. He just kept looking at you."

Hearing this, Kathy was just slightly stunned, looked down, and replied absently, "Really?"

"Yeah, he sat alone for a long time. I thought he was waiting for you to wake up. Isn't he really your boyfriend?"

Seeing Kathy still shook her head, the nurse inevitably felt a little regretful. Was that extraordinary, handsome and godlike man just having a crush on Kathy?

Otherwise, how could he gaze at her in admiration when he was in a daze?

Just now, he looked at Kathy quietly without a word, his eyes were deeply painful. When his eyes fell on Kathy, he was so focused that he didn't even notice that she gave him water.

Although he had been silent, his aura was very strong. It seemed that he didn't want to be disturbed.

After she hesitated for a while, she finally couldn't help reminding him, "Sir, this is a non-smoking ward."

He seemed to come back to his senses, and he didn't seem to know that he actually smoked a cigarette. He was a little startled, "I'm sorry."

He just put the cigarette case and lighter on the coffee table. After a while, the phone vibrated silently. He immediately hung up the call and still looked at Kathy.

Kathy just fell asleep, and the nurse kindly reminded, "Sir, you can have some water first. I'm afraid it will take a long time for Ms Kathy to wake up."

He was silent for a moment, then stood up, but politely refused, "Thank you."

After that, he was already walking towards the door.

But he stopped at the door again, and said gently, "Please take good care of her."

Only by praying in front of the Buddha for the child who died, can Kathy get a moment of peace.

After praying, she found a familiar Buddhist monk in the temple, donated a sum of money prepared in advance, and then proposed that she wanted to enshrine an ever-bright lantern.

Since the ever-bright lanterns required people who specialized in Buddha dharma to sing the prayers, a Buddhist monk asked her to take a rest in front of the hall, and he went in to invite the master abbot.

After a while, The Buddhist monk turned back and said apologetically, "A guest told master abbot that he also wanted to enshrine an ever-bright lantern, and I just went in to help him deal with the matter, so I wasted some time."

Then he asked, "Miss, who do you want to enshrine the ever-bright lantern for?"

With that, The Buddhist monk took out a pen and paper and asked Kathy to write down the name.

She was slightly stunned. Looking at the blank paper in her hand, she felt the grief spreading.

Yeah, she didn't even think about the child's name and it left her.

The breeze passed through the hall, making the white paper in Kathy's hand rustle.

Seeing her in a daze, The Buddhist monk called her tentatively, "Miss?"

Kathy came to her senses, and then said, "I'm sorry, I haven't thought about it yet, can I come to you again later?"

"Okay, but I'm going to do other things in the hall later, you can go there to find me if you have any needs."

"Thank you."

"You're welcome."

The Buddhist monk gave a salute and left. In fact, he was holding another piece of paper with words written on it. Kathy accidentally saw the name on it when he turned around, and suddenly froze. She could only see the word "Jos".

After The Buddhist monk left, Kathy stood there and didn't move. After a long time, she crumpled the white paper into a ball and threw it into the trash can.

Joseph didn't look at her, clenched his fists, and said nothing.

He had no time to investigate why Kathy had left with Reece. The news of Veronica's death was like a boulder in his heart, and he didn't even know what to do.

He was always calm and restrained, but he almost collapsed at that time, so no matter what Kathy and Reece did, he would not pay attention to.

"I haven't thought about it." His voice was emotionless.

Kathy smiled, and then seriously looked at the man she once loved, and said, "My wish is that I hope you won't appear in my life again in the future."

Her voice was colder than the cold wind, "I pray for the blessing of the Buddha, that I can realize this wish."

The mountain wind passed through the forest coldly, endlessly, and intensified, and finally a bird in the corner was startled, and the black shadow passed through the air with a whistling sound.

The sun in the mountain was gradually going down. Kathy's eyes were streaming now from the wind. It was so painful that she wanted to shed tears.

She could only squint her eyes slightly, but could no longer see Joseph's appearance and expression.

He was now more restrained than he was three years ago. Even if he lost temper, it was only a short period of time. He still always kept calm

She stood still, and neither did he. He hadn't moved since she just spoke.

His eyes were as deep-set, but were as cold as stars.

Now, looking into his black eyes, Kathy will still involuntarily indulge in it.

The twilight had turned to a deep blackness, but he still didn't give her answer.

She bit her lip, then resolutely turned around, and went down the mountain alone.

Joseph followed behind her, but after going down the mountain, she took a taxi back alone.

Kathy soon returned to the hospital to continue working, but on the first day of work, she met an acquaintance.

In the opposite outpatient clinic, Jaydon had already come here early. Kathy stopped, and looked at him a long time.

"Doctor Kathy, during your absence, the dean poached Dr Young..."

"How long has he worked here?" Kathy frowned.

For the next half month, Kathy went back and forth between the hospital and the Bridges House.

She was so busy that she had no time to take care of other things. Even if she had free time on weekends, she will help her mother deal with Booth Group's work.

However, the peaceful life did not last long. Kathy had just finished an operation when she received a call from her mother.

Karl accidentally fell down the stairs and was seriously injured. Jennifer immediately booked a ticket to Country K.

Kathy frowned. Reece was ambitious now, so she couldn't rest assured that her mother would go there alone.

"What happened?" Jaydon asked worriedly when he saw Kathy's pale face just after finished the work.

"I may have to take time off." Kathy said in a low voice.

"Well, I will take over the patient in your hand, don't worry." Jaydon said gently.

Kathy looked at the man in front of her. He always took care of her in this way.

But she really couldn't be with him.

"Dr Young, thank you."

"You don't need to be so polite to me. Do you want to go home now? I'll see you off."

After that, Jaydon was already arranging today's work.

Kathy nodded slowly. After returning home and packing up, she rushed to the airport with Jennifer.

Jaydon drove them to airport. Kathy asked her mother nervously, "Why Dad fell from the stair?"

"He should have been a dispute with Reece. He has been still in the operating room. I don't know what's going on." Jennifer looked worried.

She shouldn't have stayed in City N, she should have been to England early.

She was now annoyed and anxious, and she couldn't help shaking.

"Mom, don't worry, it's okay." Kathy didn't know the situation, but she could only comfort her mother in this way.

"Kathy, you can stay here. I won't come back so soon..."

"Mom, I'll accompany you to know what happen. Dr Young will be at the hospital and he will help me."

"Right, don't worry. Just let Kathy accompany you." Jaydon said warmly.

Kathy bit her lip and stared at the devilish man in front of her.

She...really dare not.

Smiling sarcastically, she turned her head and wanted to stay away from Reece.

But the elevator was very narrow. Even though Kathy was against the wall, she still can felt the dangerous aura of Reece.

"What do you want to eat?" he asked in a deep voice.

"I have no appetite." Kathy said tonelessly.

"Even if you have no appetite, you must have a meal with me."

"Reece." Kathy looked up angrily, but she didn't know when the man was already standing in front of her.

The distance between the two was very close. Kathy's whole body tautened and just wanted to escape.

"Kathy, I have pampered you for three years, and I have no patience anymore."

"I can agree to everything except marry you." Kathy said in a low voice.

"I just want you to marry me."

At this time, the elevator door opened, and Kathy almost ran out. Reece's words kept lingering in her ears. She didn't want to listen to him...

But she knew so clearly that Reece was holding her weakness, and she seemed to have no other choice.

She couldn't let Reece report Jennifer. Her mother was advanced in years. How could her mother stay in jail?

There must was a favorable turn in this matter.

Behind him, Reece's gaze fell on her from afar, watching Kathy look confused and flustered. He frowned, and the distress in his eyes flashed.

Stepping forward, he said solemnly, "If you don't want to eat with me, I will send you back to Bridges's house first."

Kathy had calmed down. She looked up lightly, "I booked a hotel."

"Why you are so indifferent to me?" Reece's eyes grew gloomy.

"Yes."

"If you really like Kathy, you wouldn't force her." Jennifer said solemnly.

"If she didn't love me, I never mind playing tricks to let her marry m. Otherwise, why I would allow you to marry my father?" Reece's voice was cold.

Jennifer shuddered and looked at Reece in surprise.

"It turns out that everything is because of Kathy." Jennifer's face gradually became full of vicissitudes.

She was wrong, she shouldn't have been with Karl in the first place. The Bridges family was too dangerous and complicated.

After all, she got her daughter into trouble.

"Mom, don't worry, I will treat Kathy well. You and dad will stay in the Country K in the future. You don't need to worry about us." After that, he quickly turned around, and left.

Jennifer could hardly stand still, and staggered a few steps back. Fortunately, the nurse behind her helped her to stand still.

After checking the time, she went back to the ward and saw that Karl was asleep, so she went to the hotel.

Kathy didn't sleep, and was sitting on the sofa looking at the medical report. Vivian was sending her the events of meeting in two days. She couldn't participate, but she had to write a report while watching the video of the meeting.

Until someone knocked on the door, Kathy realized that it was almost twelve o'clock. She thought it was Reece, but when she saw her mother, Kathy gave a smile.

But Jennifer's face was obviously terrible, as pale as paper and looked bloodless.

"Mom, are you ok?" Kathy immediately supported her.

Jennifer waved her hand and walked in weakly. Her hand which held Kathy's was shaking.

She thought a lot along the way. If she surrendered to Country F, Reece would no longer have opportunities to threaten Kathy, and her daughter would not need to marry Reece.

But Karl was advanced in years. She wanted to stay with Karl so much in the afternoon of life.

She was very tangled.

In the past twenty-five years, she had not been by Kathy's side. She didn't want Kathy to lose the happiness because of her.

"Reece, don't come over..."

Kathy's back pressed against the door and looked at Reece in resistance.

But he didn't seem to hear her, and he approached closer and closer. In an instant, the two were almost sticking to each other.

"Since you are willing, show your sincerity to me." Reece squinted coldly, his arm pressed against Kathy's shoulder, and the cold temperature was passed over immediately.

Kathy trembled all over. She already knew Reece's thoughts. The next moment, she almost exhausted her strength to lift her foot and kicked hard below his lower abdomen.

Reece obviously didn't expect Kathy's movement, and he didn't even have time to back up, so he could only be kicked.

As soon as he let go, Kathy turned around and wanted to open the door, but Reece locked the door faster. Only his fingerprints could open the door.

"Aren't you willing?" He said in an ironic voice. His fingertips lifted her chin, and Kathy suddenly had to face him.

His face looked terrible. She bit her lip and tugged at her shirt.

"I can't accept." Kathy confessed, "I just promised to marry you, but I can't do anything else."

"What I want is not just a marriage." Reece pinched Kathy's chin with her fingertips, and she had to look up at him.

"I just promised to marry you. I don't like you. No matter how you force me, I won't like you."

Kathy said calmly.

What's more, she would not allow herself to like Reece.

He always threatened her, so she had an emotional aversion to him.

Reece's face became cold. He stared at Kathy in anger.

But she always looked at him indifferently, her eyes were emotionless.

He couldn't help being a little frustrated. It seemed that no matter what he did, Kathy was always so calm.

"If you want Jennifer to be safe and happy for the rest of his life, Kathy, I advise you to think about how you should live with me!" After that, Reece opened the door coldly, and walked away soon.

Kathy closed her eyes heavily. She had already sweated a lot on her back, she was weak, and she was almost unsteady and was about to fall.

The dishes cooked by the top chefs were served on the luxurious marble dining table, which were Kathy favorite.

But she had no appetite and her face was terrible.

"Do you feel uncomfortable?" Reece asked with concern.

"Yes." Kathy frowned.

She really wasn't comfortable to have dinner with Reece.

"I asked the doctor to come over."

"No need, I just feel sick." Kathy said in a low voice.

Hearing that, Reece's face was gloomy. Then Kathy said, "When can I go out?"

"When I'm with you."

"Are you still afraid of me running away?" she said sarcastically.

Reece pursed her thin lips, and said in a deep voice, "Yes."

"Do you think I can escape?" Kathy said coldly.

"Kathy, when you want to go out, I will accompany you."

"You are imprisoning me." She put down the chopsticks and didn't want to have a meal.

"If you are obedient, I will consider giving you more freedom."

Seeing Reece was so domineering, Kathy was very annoyed.

Was she not obedient enough now in front of him?

"I am full." Kathy didn't want to say more to him. She turned and went back to the room.

She didn't go out for the next few days and Reece also went on a business trip. Only when Jennifer came here did Kathy step out of the room.

Chapter 669 Can't Let Her Go

When Joseph read the news about them trying their wedding dresses, it was the evening of that day.

The screen on the tablet showed the backs of the two of them. Kathy, wearing a long veil, stood beside Reece. She looked beautiful.

Just looking at her figure, Joseph almost couldn't be calm at the moment.

Joseph came back to his senses when Zofia knocked on the door and came in.

"Kathy is getting married?" She apparently read the news. Then she sat down beside Joseph.

"What's the matter?" Joseph didn't answer and turned off the tablet.

"Grandpa has already decided the date for our wedding. Grandpa will come back next Monday. Shall we pick him up together?"

"Ok."

"My family has confirmed whom they will invite. You need to give me the list whom you want to invite."

"John will send it to you later." Joseph said thinly.

Zofia was a little angry at Joseph's attitude. Although she knew he would not care, she also was disappointed when he behaved indifferently.

"Joseph, when will you have me in your eyes?"

"I will do what I promised you, but as for other things, I can't satisfy you."

...

It was evening when they returned to Bridges house. Originally, Reece wanted to eat out with Kathy, but Kathy refused.

Seeing her look tired, Reece didn't force her either.

Kathy stayed in her bedroom as soon as she came back. Reece was back now, and she didn't want to go to the study.

In a few moments, the phone vibrated continuously. It was Jaydon who called her.

During this time, Jaydon gradually took over her patient, so they kept in touch.

"Kathy, I come to London on a business trip. Will we have a meal together at noon tomorrow?"

Kathy frowned. Reece probably wouldn't let her go out alone now.

Seeing that Reece didn't speak, Kathy had a bad feeling in her heart.

She raised her head. Reece's eyes were so dangerous.

She turned pale, and pushed him away with all her strength.

"Kathy, don't let me wait too long." He didn't come closer. But the chill in the tone was very shocking.

Kathy took a deep breath and her eyes gradually become red. She bit her lip to restrain her emotions.

A week later, when Karl was discharged from the hospital, Kathy and Reece came together.

Seeing Reece, Karl's eyes were cold.

Reece got used to it and asked, "Dad, are you and mom going to stay in London?"

"Stay in London first!" Karl said sternly.

"Kathy, you also go with mom first." Jennifer grabbed her daughter's hand.

During this time Kathy lived with Reece, she was always worried.

Kathy shook her head, "Mom, I won't go there."

Jennifer frowned to show her disagreement.

"I will take care of Kathy." Reece stopped Jennifer strongly.

"Kathy..."

Kathy still shook his head stubbornly.

Watching Karl and Jennifer get in the car, the smile on Kathy's face gradually disappeared.

Behind her, Reece approached, "You are good, my fiancée."

Kathy's face was still extremely cold. She got into the car first, and didn't say anything to Reece.

After sending Kathy back to the villa, Reece had to go back to the company. Kathy stayed in the study.

After watching Reece's car drive away through the floor-to-ceiling windows, she stood up from the carpet.

Reece's computer had set password. She plugged in a USB and quickly cracked it and copied all the files.

The whole process took less than five minutes, but she almost was in a cold sweat.
