Chapter 681 He was Really Insincere

Joseph looked at the man in front of him and he gradually squinted his deep-set eyes, "So it's you."

Standing behind his boss, Waldron finally realized a problem. It seemed that people who knew the boss before didn't know his current identity, but now Boss's people including Waldron himself didn't know who the boss was before.

Marlon sneered and glanced at the man opposite who looked thoughtful, "If I hadn't sent someone to protect Kathy, she would have killed by your grandfather! Joseph, how did you take care of my sister?"

Joseph immediately retorted, "Since you saved her, you should send her back to me. I am her husband. Reece's case is not over yet. He won't let her go!"

Waldron was stunned. He thought that Kathy was the one the boss liked, but it turned out to be his younger sister...

He couldn't help but reminded, "Boss, it's more important for us to think of a way to save your sister first."

Lincoln also persuaded Joseph, "Joseph, let's save Kathy out first. She can't be trapped forever."

Joseph's expression was cold, and he said solemnly, "I will bring her back!"

Marlon curled his eyebrows and there was murderous look on his handsome but cold face, "Can you?"

If his power was in City N, he would not choose to notify Joseph.

Joseph frowned and glanced indifferently at the phone on the table, "I am waiting for news."

This time, he was afraid it wasn't just because Reece was trying to reverse the case. Maybe his Grandpa was engaging in it, or Bertie also got in.

Now Bertie's influence in City N took strong root and it is not easy for him to shake it.

And now he hadn't even found out where Kathy was being shutting away.

Luckily, Lincoln quickly found her and called him, "However, we can only find the approximate location, then we will continue to check the exact location."

"For the sake of my life, I think it's safer to leave you." Kathy couldn't help muttering.
Joseph looked at her slightly pale face and said in a low voice, "Let's leave together, then you don't need to care about my grandpa."
Kathy looked down and said in a low voice, "Thank you for saving me just now. I just want to find Marlon. We are not suitable at all."
After all, Joseph saved her just now. She can't be angry with him.

It was not that she was hypocritical or she didn't want to forgive, but that she really had no confidence in them.

"Joseph, since you think Veronica's death has something to do with me, don't force yourself to be with me. Mr Mathew and your family also don't allow. Why did you disobey them?"

She really didn't know if Mathew suddenly wants to kill her again, or maybe this man regards her as an enemy again for some reason.

"Joseph, some feelings may seem to be the most indestructible, but once they are broken, they are categorically broken. Things that are too hard are more likely to break. The harder things are, the more they cannot be repaired."

She looked up at his handsome face and said seriously, "It's been three long years. Have you ever thought that after so many things have happened, I no longer love you, I can't love you anymore, Joseph."

She looked out the window, "Zofia came to me before. She said she would not marry you, because everything you did was for me. She said you love me."

Joseph already looked very sullen, "You know I love you, you know I finally give up everything for you, you know now what I want is just you. But you tell me you don't love me anymore. Kathy, are you taking revenge on me? "

Revenge he married Ella three years ago, revenge he was with Zofia, revenge him for hurting her so many times.

Obviously, he was angry, although he was trying to get a hold of his anger. Kathy pursed her lips and said thinly, "Even if we are together, you will not be happy. In your heart, you can't forget Veronica's death. Being with me is against your conscience."

Kathy was a thoughtful woman, and she saw clearly some things.

His fingers pinched her chin fiercely, "Kathy, what you say is just want me to let you go. I tell you, I won't let you go even after I die!"

Chapter 683 She Hated Him

Seeing Joseph in front of her, she subconsciously murmured, "When can I leave you? It's good for us."

The man paused in an instant and his one knee knelt beside her. His fingers pinched her chin and his eyes smouldered with anger, like an unfathomable deep ocean.

The next second, he lowered his head and kissed her. He said in a low voice, "Kathy, I rescued you, but it doesn't mean that you have complete freedom. Because in this life, I am your jail."

When such a perverted word came out of Joseph's mouth, Kathy's brain exploded, and her eyes were filled with disbelief.

Her hand pressed against his chest subconsciously, "Joseph, you are so overbearing, you are unreasonable!"

He was unreasonable?... Why should he be reasonable? If he was reasonable, can he keep her?

Since he can't keep her, why should he be reasonable?

He looked down at her delicate little face. Her clear eyes flashed with anger, and at this moment, her cherry lips pursed slightly. His deep-set eyes gradually became hot and dangerous.

His Adam's apple rolled. Then he held her small face and kissed her forcefully. He wrapped his hand around her waist and put her soft body on his lap, "Don't be angry. Kathy, I love you."

She struggled desperately just now, but when she heard what he said, he stopped and her heart throbbed painfully.

Joseph took the opportunity to pry open her lips with his tongue and kissed her, "Kathy, don't leave me."

There was a hint of plea in his voice.

Kathy had never seen Joseph like this before. The moment she lost her senses, Joseph kissed her deeper.

She immediately turned her face to avoid his kiss, "Joseph, you told me that we broke up three years ago. Don't you understand that spilt water cannot be gathered up again?"

"What I can do to let you forgive me?" He pressed her body and growled.

His tone was as if she was the one who did the wrong thing.

Joseph frowned, and threw the phone back. "Do you want to go on sleeping? Or have breakfast first? I'll cook noodles for you."

Kathy said tonelessly, "Your sister Maryam called you early in the morning, won't you call back?"

Joseph looked at her face, smiled and said in a low voice, "You are angry, I had no time to talk to Sister Maryam. Now it is more important to feed my Kathy."

Why did she feel when he said the word "feed", he meant something else?

Her face became sullen, "I don't like men who flirt in bed. Get out of my way."

Joseph raised his eyebrows and looked down at his leg on the floor, "Baby, I'm down."

Kathy frowned, her face becoming more terrible, "Who do you call baby? Can you be more disgusting?"

He always called her name, but now he called her baby.

Kathy only felt goose bumps, although she didn't feel sick when the man called her baby.

He lowered his head and kissed her neck again and again. His lips curved in a smile, "Do you want me to be more disgusting? I'm just worried that you will be too tired because you haven't eaten breakfast."

The man's dark eyes were very bright, dangerous and hot. His hands had reached into her clothes.

Kathy was immediately furious. She picked up the pillow next to her and threw it over, "Go out!"

Joseph's eyes still fell on her. The simple white shirt made her look more soft and sexy.

His eyes gradually became more deep, and Kathy was taken aback. She became even more angry. She picked up a pillow and threw it on him again.

"Joseph, get out!"

"Okay." He took the pillow and was not angry at all, "I'm going to cook the noodles. If the noodles are served and you haven't come out yet, it means that you are not hungry, and then we can do other thing."

Chapter 685 We are still a Family

Just stepping into the living room, Kathy heard a particularly crisp laugh, "Brother Joseph is back!"
Kathy really got goose bumps when she heard 'Brother Joseph'.

But this voice was very soft and clear, like a very innocent girl. It was hard to be disgusting.

But Kathy looked up and saw that the girl in front of her was very young and very familiar...

Her eyelids suddenly twitched.

Maryam... was Annika?

Many people knew this woman looked like her, but Mathew adopted her... His purpose was a little evident.

"Ms Kathy, long time no see." Maryam's smile was bright. When she smiled, her eyes and brows were like crescent moon. She looked very pleasing.

When she finished speaking, she glanced at Joseph nervously again and her cheeks flushed slightly, "Brother Joseph."

Joseph just glanced at her indifferently, and took Kathy directly over her, walked onto the sofa, and stood in front of Mathew, "Grandpa."

Kathy also spoke lightly, "Mr Mathew."

Mathew's gaze retracted from Maryam, and his face was displeased. "Joseph, Maryam was greeting you. What's your attitude?"

Joseph just said indifferently, "I always have this attitude."

He and Annika had never had anything to do with each other. Maybe they used to have some relations, but now they will not have any relations.

Just after Maryam had cut the vegetables and prepared to wash the pot, Joseph walked in and said faintly, "You can go out, let us do it."

Maryam was stunned, "Brother Joseph can do the cooking?"

She thought Joseph was just a doctor who could perform operations with a scalpel and didn't know how to cook.

"Ok."

Maryam smirked at him, "Then I won't bother you."

After speaking, she turned on the faucet and washed her hand. Then she took a brisk step to go out quickly.

So Kathy also put down what she was holding. Joseph would do it anyway.

The man watched her movements with a flashing smile in his eyes, "Just leave it to me."

When Joseph was there, everything was done briskly. Kathy occasionally helped him, but most of time she was just looking at Joseph.

She was so bored that she couldn't help but wondered and asked, "Why doesn't your grandfather find a granddaughter who looks similar to Veronica, but instead finds a granddaughter who looks like me?"

Looking at Maryam's face, she sometimes thought she was herself.

Joseph just glanced at her lazily, "Looks like you? Which part?"

Kathy was speechless.

This guy used to spend a lot of money to make Maryam become famous.

She said tonelessly, "But didn't you like her before?"

The man quickly chuckled, "Kathy, would I like her if she looked like you? You are really thick-skinned."

She blushed and muttered, "My face is not thicker than you, you are the most shameless."

After she finished speaking, she felt she was grumbling in a flirtish manner, and was more like a coquettish woman.

"So what? I'm going to take my sister away today." Marlon said arrogantly.

But she didn't know when Joseph's bodyguards who have been following him all of a sudden ran up to block them, and they all had guns in their hands. The atmosphere suddenly became tense.

Joseph had a lot of people here, and only Waldron was beside Marlon.

He hugged her tightly, lowered his head and said solemnly in her ear, "Kathy, if you are good, I won't do anything."

As long as she stayed by his side, he also can protect Marlon.

But Marlon was indeed a bomb.

Marlon's eyebrows twitched slightly, and his smile was charming and sexy. "Kathy, I don't like you saying such a word."

His power was enough to fight Joseph, but now, he must hide his power.

"Joseph, let go of my sister."

Compared to Marlon's evil aura, Joseph always stood upright. He was calm and hardheaded, like a statue, but he was also shrouded in a dark temperament.

Almost all his strength was used to hug Kathy,

He lowered his head, his chin rubbed her pink cheeks, and the dumb voice was in her ears. His voice was low and he almost whispered, "Kathy, you tell her you won't go with him, huh?"

He had clearly realized Kathy's mood and dependence on this brother.

They looked so alike. It was the bond of blood relationship that attracted the two to each other.

Kathy leaned on her brother's shoulder and choked for a long time. Then she raised her head sullenly, but her fingers touched the scar on his right cheek, "I'm crying for your face..."

She looked at the scar on his face distressedly. Her eyelashes were covered with tears, and she grumbled, "Although this scar doesn't affect your handsomeness at all, I still feel distressed... Why there is a scar on your face?"

Marlon's eyes were deep-set. He didn't tell her that it was left when he was in prison.

He didn't want his clean and innocent sister to step into his world.

Seeing that Marlon didn't answer, Kathy didn't ask any more wittily. Maybe it was something sad that her brother didn't want to mention anymore.

"Do you know that I have been looking for you for a long time? Mother and I are both worried about you..."

Marlon didn't explain anything, just reached out and gently wiped away her tears, "It's my fault... Brother will protect you from now on. Don't cry, okay?"

She responded softly. Then she bit her lip obediently and stopped letting the tears flow.

Marlon looked at her worriedly. "Has Joseph been bullying you? Brother can help you teach him a lesson."

Kathy immediately grabbed his arm and shook her head, "We won't talk about him anymore. He has nothing to do with us."

Marlon looked at her and met Kathy's expectant eyes. She was his sister, so he naturally spoiled her and didn't refute her.

"Brother, let's leave here and go to London right away. Mom misses you too."

"It's not the time yet." Marlon said solemnly.

Kathy followed Marlon back to the apartment where Waldron brought her to live in last time. "I will send someone to guard you. If you need anything, tell Waldron. He will prepare for you."

After Marlon sent her back, he changed his clothes and was about to go out again.

"Don't worry, no one will take you away this time. Have a rest at ease."

Kathy nodded obediently. Looking at her brother was so eager, she asked in confusion, "Then where are you going?"

The owner of the car also got out of the car quickly. He was a middle-aged man about forty years old. He looked angrily at his half-broken car. He pointed at Vivian and yelled, "Can you drive? I have just bought it, can you afford it?"

Vivian frowned and couldn't help but explained, "Sir, it was you who slammed the brakes on suddenly, so I ran into it."

Although her driving skill was not very good, she will not crash into others for no apparent reason.

When the man heard what she said, he became even more angry, "What do you mean? Do you want to shirk responsibility?"

Vivian squeezed her eyebrows a little irritably, and said lightly, "How much I need to pay for your car?"

The man held up a finger and quickly said a number.

Her eyes widened suddenly, and she said coldly, "Are you blackmailing me? This money is enough for you to buy a new car."

The man suddenly sneered, "Then you go buy a new one for me."

He pointed arrogantly at the car behind him, "You can't buy this car with money."

Seeing Vivian's embarrassed look, the man became even more presumptuous, "Lady, if you can't afford it, just tell me, we can call the police."

"Ok, then go to the police station!" Vivian said solemnly.

As she said, she took out her mobile phone, but before she dialed number, the man suddenly smashed her mobile phone as if he had been stimulated. The expression on his face was even a bit fierce, "Who do you want to call? Go to the police station directly!"

Vivian paused, and immediately knew that this man's intention was not simple.

And his eyes seemed to be ill-intentioned. Her back chilled. She turned around on high heels decisively, and walked towards to other cars.

There were quite a few car owners who stopped to watch a good show around, "Sir, can you lend me your mobile phone to make a call?"

He smashed her cell phone and thought she couldn't make calls?

Vivian was still very confident of her beauty. When she smiled, people can't refuse her. It was so easy for her to borrow a mobile phone.

Chapter 690 Fucking, She was not Jealous

Kathy was very depressed recently, because she will receive harassment calls from Joseph these days.

She also didn't want to answer, but somehow every time she hung up, she remembered his indifferent words that day, "He is now a wanted criminal, as long as I notify the police..."

She was still afraid that Joseph would do something. He was powerful in City N. He was a big shot in business and medical circles. Now that he had found her brother's whereabouts, she was really afraid that he will deal with his brother for her.

But when she asked her brother, he never mentioned the past, which was what Kathy worried most.

Every time she hung up on Joseph's phone, he would always call her tirelessly and patiently until she answered it.

"Have you eaten?"

He asked these boring questions every time.

"I've eaten." She replied feebly, "You keep calling me to ask if I have a meal? Mr. Joseph, Dr. Joseph, I eat regularly every day."

"Then you are good." He complimented.

Kathy was speechless.

When she was about to scold him and ask him not to call her and harass her, she suddenly heard the soft voice on the phone, "Brother Joseph, are you hungry? I specially make crucian carp soup today, and it is good for wound healing. Grandpa says you like to drink it."

Sitting on the sofa in the apartment, Kathy seemed to be able to see the bright smile of the young woman through the phone.

She actually forgot what she was going to say next.
