

Sweetheart 91

Chapter 91

In the morning, Kathy went to the lab as usual, when she passed by the consultation room, Herbert and Peter just discharged from the hospital.

Peter's body was injured quite a bit, and his face was bruised and swollen, it was ugly to see.

Joseph's people...they were quite ruthless.

She ignored them but someone was really an eyesore.

Herbert who was holding her belly stopped Kathy.

"Kathy, you're the one who did this to Peter, aren't you!" Herbert roared.

Next week would be their wedding but now Peter's face was swollen, it seemed like it won't be recovered within a short period.

The guests would sure make fun of them during the wedding!

Or did Kathy do it on purpose?

"You think I could hurt him like that?" Kathy squinted and her tone was slightly cold.

"Even it's not you, it must also be done by your people. You still haven't let go of Peter, we're getting married and now we have to postpone it. Kathy, you're really a scheming woman!" Herbert scolded.

Kathy frowned, Peter and Herbert had been keeping a low profile recently, their wedding was not even reported by the media, they had long lost their popularity.

smashed in front of Kathy.

The fire burned even brighter.

There was a strong flame was burning between them.

Kathy subconsciously wanted to run over, but she was stopped by Joseph, "Don't move!"

He looked at the safety elevator, and pointed over there, "Go right!"

"What about you." They were a short distance apart, but they couldn't cross.

"Later I..." A light tube fell again before Joseph finished his words. Kathy's eyes were widened in shock, although Joseph dodged it, he seemed to burn his arm.

The tears flowing from Kathy's eyes became even intense.

"No..." She stood in place, and was about to rush over.

When they arrived at the hospital, Joseph’s wound needed to be treated and bandaged, Kathy was holding onto his arms all the time, refusing to let go.

Joseph raised his eyebrows, happiness reflected on his eyes, “Wait outside, the wound is unpleasant to see.”

Kathy paused a while, and the doctor soon came in, and she had no choice but to let go.

She was waiting outside worriedly.

After half an hour, Joseph came out with a bandage on his hand, but it didn’t affect his movements.

Thinking about last time he injured his palm, and this time he injured his arm again, the worry in Kathy’s eyebrows pervaded.

“Does he need to stay in the hospital?” Kathy asked the doctor.

“No need, just come over every day to change the bandage.”

Although the doctor said so, but Kathy was still worried, she kept checking on Joseph on the way, repeatedly ensured that the man beside her was fine.

Kathy sternly pushed him away.

Joseph made a sullen face and then pulled the stew over again.

He didn't like the smell of pig's trotter since he was a child, but this time, he felt that it was fine as he tasted it.

"Why do you look like being tortured?" Kathy said angrily.

She had tasted the stew before and thought it was quite good.

"I'm glad you know I was being tortured. How does Mrs. Joseph want to reward me?" Joseph pulled Kathy over again, held her in his arms, and then kissed her with the smell of pig's trotter.

She exclaimed, "God! This is still the living room."

Joseph was always so regardless of the occasion!

Lowering her head in embarrassment, Kathy felt that she had already tasted the pig's trotter.

Although Joseph was taking a few days off, sometimes Kathy still had to go back to work in the laboratory.

"Tell me, why did I do to destroy your family?" Kathy stood calmly in front of Sammy.

"You seduced my son and ruined his marriage..."

"Peter and Herbert haven't married yet. How could I ruin their marriage?" Kathy retorted clearly.

"They are about to get married..." Sammy's tears rolled down. One of her eyes was blind, which made people feel sympathetic.

However, it didn't mean that she could make up anything she wanted.

Kathy smiled indifferently, "If your dear son didn't cross the line, how could I seduce him? Besides, I don't want him anymore. When he cheated on me, I was the victim. Sammy, stop confusing what's right and wrong."

Sammy was stunned and didn't speak for a moment.

The reporter took advantage of the chaos and handed the microphone in front of Kathy, "Ms. Kathy, you said you were married. Who is your husband?"

This was what reporters cared about the most. The news about Peter Champs had long been outdated. Now journalists were gossiping about Kathy's husband.

"Let's go back. I'll assign some people to keep an eye on the prison. I'm sure mom will be fine all the way, five years will be over soon." He had no choice but to do so.

"By the way, my elder sister was here as well. My father has sent her to the hospital over here with the claim that there will be the best doctor taking over her treatment."

Esmee, who was the eldest daughter of Herbert's family, had suffered meningitis in her early days. Her health didn't have any response to the treatment after all these years, but her family never stopped to look for good therapy and medication for recovering her.

"Alright, let's spare a time to visit her," said Peter. "I can also take this chance to accompany you for your pregnancy check-up."

Herbert's cheeks blanched at his words. "It's not the day for my pregnancy check-up yet, I can go by myself when it's time. I don't want to bother you with this since you've been much occupied with the affairs of the company."

"No, I haven't gone with you last month, I feel like having a look at our baby as well."

Herbert smiled stiffly, laying her hand on her belly, her baby...

After dinner, Kathy helped Joseph redress his wound. She had learned the fundamental nursing knowledge before, so she performed the job with practiced skill.

Nonetheless, she couldn't bear to see Joseph suffering from burn.

"How is everything going with my sister?"

"She is diagnosed with bacterial meningitis. Right now, we've to identify the pathogen first, so we're able to choose the well-suited antibiotic for her. However, because of your sister's intricate pathogenesis and degeneration of her physical function, for now, there's only a slim chance to cure her completely," said Joseph lightly.

"Are you not an authoritative expert? My sister has been sick for many years, how come you can't cure her?" Herbert gazed at Joseph with a suspicious look.

Although she knew that he was a great doctor indeed, she found him an eyesore.

"Every doctor can never say that they have absolute confidence to cure every patient successfully, what I can only say is, I will always try my best."

"What? Are you not the top doctor? If you aren't absolutely sure to cure my sister, why do you take charge of her treatment?" Herbert snapped.

Hearing these words, Joseph's face became frosty, he looked up to Herbert. "Since Ms. Herbert needs a doctor who can ensure a hundred percent success rate, I will suggest the President appoint another doctor for your sister."

After the words, he put the medical report down, leaving the room arrogantly.

Outside the door, Kathy paused and suddenly felt a little nervous, wanting to know Joseph's answer.

Joseph just sneered, "Does this have anything to do with my wife?"

"You care if I was with Kathy before!"

"Ms. Herbert, I think that your fiance seems to still think of my wife. He keeps talking about Kathy." Joseph's tone was extremely cold when he spoke.

Herbert's face was pale. Seeing this, it would be even more unlikely for Joseph to treat her. She was a little emotional, "Joseph, since you are a doctor, it is your duty to save lives and cure diseases."

"Yes, but this is beyond my ability," Joseph frowned.

Even City N's doctors wouldn't be able to cure it because Esmae's condition was so rare that she could only control her condition with drugs for now. There was little hope of curing this disease.

"You... What can I do to make you treat her?" Herbert was also helpless.

"I said that you needed to find someone that is more capable." Joseph started to lose his patience and felt annoyed.

Kathy leaned in his arms, unable to calm herself down for a long time.

Looking at her hands, they seemed to be covered with blood.

Just now, Herbert lost a lot of blood.

"If... something really happens to her..." Kathy shook her head, her eyes blurred.

Joseph held her face and kissed her eyes gently, "Don't worry. I am here."

As long as I was here, I wouldn't let you be in trouble.

In the emergency room, Herbert was pushed out an hour later.

The doctor took off his mask, his face solemn, "Ms. Herbert is fine, but the child was aborted."

Hearing that, Peter staggered back. He couldn't believe it.

The picture of Kathy pushing Herbert down just now was vivid. She was the one that did this.

Peter was furious. The two men looked at each other. Peter suddenly grabbed Joseph by the collar and raised his hand, ready to hit him.

Joseph sneered and kicked Peter to the ground with an easy move. Kathy panicked and held Joseph's arms, "Let's go home."

She looked at Peter and said solemnly, "Peter, I know you won't believe me, but I still have to say, I have never been hostile to Herbert. And I have already moved on. I don't have any feelings for you. She is pregnant. There is no such malicious intent to hurt her."

Peter looked at the back of the two of them and thumped the floor so hard. He would never spare them!

In the car, Joseph's face was tense, his hand still holding Kathy tightly.

Her hands were cold and even shaking.

"Joseph, do you believe me?" Kathy asked suddenly.

"You are my wife. I'll never doubt you." Joseph held her hand.

Kathy looked up and said in a low voice, "But, after all, Peter broke up with me because he cheated on me with Herbert. Don't you think I will hold a grudge?"
