

Chapter 10 Should You Explain That To Me?

Bena waited for many days, but she didn't see anyone looking for cats in the community. So she kept the cats at home with peace of mind. She also bought some toys and cat food for it.

One morning, Bena woke up in her sleep and heard someone knocking at the door.

Who would come to her early in the morning?

Bena rubbed her eyes and got up to open the door. After seeing the man standing at the door, she suddenly froze.

It's Galen!

"Why are you here?"

The handsome man wrapped in a cool military uniform with wide shoulders and narrow hips. He looked at her with a grim face, "Miss Bena, should you explain that to me?"

Explain? For what?

Bena was a little confused about Galen's sudden appearance at her door.

She also wanted to ask Galen for an explanation!

Why came out early in the morning to bother her!

"Shouldn't you explain that you stole my cat?"

Louis was installed the latest GPS positioning system. After knowing that Louis was lost, he asked his men to check Louis's whereabouts.

It was finally found that Louis was here.

What made him feel more interested is that the owner of the house was Bena!

Louis disappeared on the day Bena came to the Camellia Party, so it is clearly that this woman took his Louis!

"Cat?" Bena finally woke up. She thought for a while and said, "You mean chubby?"

What Chubby!

Galen frowned .

Louis a British royal cat, was called such a rustic name now.

He said with anger, "Hand over Louis, and maybe I can let you go."

Bena finally understood.

It turned out that Chubby's owner is Galen?

She was furious at the thought of being pushed off the pool by Galen that day.

"You said you are Chubby's master, show me your evidence." It's crazy! Now she is seeing the man's stingy appearance!

"How to prove that you are its owner?!"

Evidence?

Galen stared at Bena with cold eyes. "Louis wears a gold bell made of 24K pure gold! It is engraved with the design of G's family! This is the evidence!"

Golden bell... ?

Maybe that's true...Bena still couldn't believe it. It is impossible that such a fierce master is the owner of cute Chubby!

Galen's eyes were cold as if she were going to poke several holes out of her.

She muttered: "Since you are the master of chubby, I will give it back to you. Don't be so fierce!"

Then he moved away and let Galen into the house.

Galen's frowning brow tightened after entering the room.

How could people live in this shabby little house?

He felt distressed to think that Louis had lived in such a place all this time.

As soon as he came in, Louis, who was still sleeping, seemed to feel the arrival of his master. It opened its eyes and walked over with his tail upright. The golden bell around the neck made a crisp sound.

"Meow meow."

Master, there you are.

Louis leaned on Galen's leg with cute and clever face.

Galen's original cold face floated a smile.

Bena was a little surprised.

This cold-faced man could also be gentle?

At that time Galen had bent down to pick Louis up and sank: "Louis, come back with me."

Bena was going to say goodbye to Louis. Louis, who was lying in Galen's arms, meowed a few times, and then jumped out of Galen's arms with lightning speed.

Galen was stunned and stepped forward to hug it again.

Louis suddenly stood upright, lying in the corner, holding two claws and refusing to go.

Galen was angry. He looked at Bena and said, "What have you done to my Louis!"
