

Chapter 5 Being invited to a cocktail party

After being framed by Tiana, Bena became more careful, she proposed to move out to live, Smith did not agree.

It will be a disgrace to his family, but Bena seemed to be a different person, She pestered her grandpa repeatedly and finally got his consent.

Bena rented a small suite with one bedroom and one living room, which was clean and tidy.

Looking at this place, the joy in her heart could not be quelled.

Looking back on her past life, after leaving T's home, it was very difficult to find a place to shelter from the wind and rain.

She lay relaxed in bed, and suddenly her cell phone rang.

The caller is that John, the dean of the orphanage, "Bena, tomorrow will be the 50th anniversary of the orphanage. We are going to hold a small party for the children. Are you free to come and help us with that?"

"No problem, I haven't been there for a long time. I will definitely come tomorrow."

Bena agreed without thinking.

John was a good friend of her mother. Before her mother had an accident, she often went to see the children.

Now that she has been reborn, she can't help but miss the innocent smiles of her children.

The next day, Bena got up early and went to the orphanage to help set up the party.

Because it was the fiftieth anniversary, many people came to the orphanage. Among the volunteers, Bena noticed a gray-haired old lady at a glance.

At that time, the old lady was amiable to give candies to the children, and the children seemed to like her very much. They are all noisy around the old lady.

The old lady said to the children, "Good children, there are some candies, call me Grandma I will give you sugar to eat."

"Grandma, grandma..."

"Eh!" The lady laughed happily. "I hope my grandson can give me so many babies like you guys."

Bena looked at the old woman, and the more she looked, the more familiar she felt. Suddenly, a trace of memory flashed through her mind.

Is this old lady G's grandma?

In her previous life, she had seen the old lady on TV several times, and her dignified and solemn appearance as a family member was far from that of the kind old man now.

That's why she didn't recognize it for a while.

The old lady also noticed Bena, the young girl.

Bena was dressed in sportswear, with long hair tied behind her head, and a sweet smile on her beautiful face, mingling with the children.

She turned sideways to John and asked, "Whose girl is this? Why haven't I seen it before?"

"This is the girl of the T's family."

The old lady nodded and said nothing more, but she wrote it down in her heart.

This figure and appearance matches her grandson very well!

Bena was busy in the orphanage all day until the end of the party.

She dragged her tired body back, but just as she was about to go upstairs, a lengthened Lincoln stopped in front of her.

Walking down from the car is the personal butler beside the old lady.

"Are you Miss Bena?" The man asked Bena politely.

Bena was puzzled, but nodded. At this moment, the man pulled out a bronzing invitation from his arms and handed it to Bena with both hands.

"Miss Bena, this is an invitation from our master. Please attend on time."

"Excuse me, who are you?" Bena didn't take the invitation immediately.

Although she is the daughter of T's family, it is Tiana who is usually invited to attend any cocktail party.

"I am the butler of the G's family."

G's family? Old lady?

Bena immediately thought of the grandmother in the orphanage. Did she invite me?

Then Bena did not hesitate to take the invitation immediately. "Thank you, I will definitely attend."

After the butler got on the bus and left, Bena opened the invitation, that party was set for next Saturday!