Chapter 1261

However, they forgot that billionaires were humans too, and humans would get sick.

No amount of money could keep you alive.

However, it was as good as having an extra life if you had a miracle doctor like Sean giving you treatment.

Who would refuse to be friends with a miracle doctor like Sean?

Andrew dared not show Sean any disrespect after seeing his amazing medical skills.

“I don’t know anything about medicine.”

Sean and Andrew looked at each other for two seconds, and Sean immediately figured out why he was there.

However, Sean was not trying to be some saint, saving the world.

He would take good care of the people around him at best.

He was not interested in dealing with the rest.

“Mr. Lennon, well...”

Andrew never expected Sean to refuse so flatly.

‘Does Sean not know me?’

‘Or does Sean know me but still doesn’t take me seriously?’

Andrew was caught in a dilemma.

“Seanie, Mr. Parker has donated some supplies to the welfare home before too...”

May hesitated for two seconds before saying.

She did not want to use it to force Sean to help Andrew.

However, they accepted Andrew’s things and had to be grateful after all.

Sean’s expression softened instantly when he heard this.

“In that case, just say what you want, Mr. Parker.”

May’s remark instantly made Sean like Andrew.

"Mr... Mr. Lennon, what did you say?"

Dr. Carter could not believe his ears.

'Is Sean going to set up a special support fund for May's orphanage in this hospital?

'Besides that, he's paying us two hundred thousand dollars?'

"I meant I don't need the two hundred thousand dollars refund.

"Besides that, I will spend another two million dollars to set up a special fund.

"I will top up the amount when its balance is low."

Sean nudged back the bill for the surgery refund.

"Hsss!"

Dr. Carter got another confirmation from Sean that he heard him correctly.

Sean was indeed setting up a special fund in their hospital.

The money was earmarked for the orphanage May owned.

There were mixed feelings in Dr. Carter’s eyes as he watched Sean drive away in the car.

“Sir, how did your talk with Mr. Lennon go?

“Will he work in our hospital?”

Joseph whispered behind him.

Dr. Carter shook his head slowly when Joseph asked.

“He doesn’t need to work here!

“He has no lack of money. With his medical skills, he could easily meet many big shots.

“He doesn’t need to stay anywhere for long.”

Dr. Carter shook his head slightly and spoke emotionally.

Joseph was even more confused when he heard this.

What did Sean talk to Dr. Carter about?

“Madam Randall’s efforts over the years aren’t in vain.

“I don’t see anything good in him.”

William waved his hand slightly as he lost interest in Sean.

Ordinary people could do what Sean did.

Why would William pay attention to him?

It was just like how someone had a sword that permitted you to kill without taking responsibility first.

However, the man used the sword to dig the earth and plant flowers. It was a waste of resources, time, and energy.

The more William thought about it, the more he realized that Sean was not worth his attention.

“Fortunately, I didn’t promise to help him.”

“Otherwise, he would have brought down the Collins family. We would have had to pay for his mistakes.”

“Alright, ask your men to leave. Leave him alone. I don’t think he’ll do anything impressive.”

They talked some more and left the hotel together.

Jimmy and Weston were both preoccupied, so neither was watching their steps. Walking through the hotel lobby, Jimmy slipped and stumbled.

Weston rushed to help him but accidentally kicked the cleaner’s mop nearby.

In the end, he did catch Jimmy, but the mop smeared his expensive shoes.

“Oh, Mr. Lidell and Mr. Willard, are you alright?”

“So sorry. Sorry. We just finished mopping the floor.”

The hotel receptionist rushed over and helped Jimmy as she apologized.

However, Weston glanced down at his shoes before Jimmy could lose his temper.

“Are you f*cking blind?”

Weston reached over and pushed the cleaner mopping the floor.

Weston was already upset, but this incident had made him even angrier.

“I’m sorry. I’m sorry. I didn’t see...”

The cleaner apologized repeatedly. Although Weston was the one bumping into her, she dared not pass the buck!

"I don't know what poor people like you do with your lives. All you do is spoil my mood."

Weston looked condescendingly at May as she wiped his shoes.

His sense of superiority was currently at its highest.

May said nothing and carefully wiped Weston's shoes.

She did not care about her dignity or face, which she had lost all those years taking care of the children in the orphanage.

She would do anything not to have to pay him.

"Ha. Pfft."

Weston looked disdainfully at May and spat on her.

May paused, feeling somewhat uncomfortable.

“I’m not going too far by spitting on your clothes when you made my shoes dirty, am I?”

Weston asked with a sneer after snorting coldly.

May was silent for two seconds before continuing to wipe the shoes quietly.

“Lower-class people like you should know your place.”

Weston sneered, his face even smugger.

Is this lower class cleaner Sean's mother?

He had never expected such a coincidence!

However, it was already too late.

Sean twisted his hand, and Weston's arm deformed.

Crack! Click!

Finally, Weston's wrist cracked, and his joint snapped.

Sean broke Weston's wrist with one hand.

"Ah!"

Then Weston's screams rang throughout the lobby.

The hotel staff was paled by the sight.

May also froze in shock.

She had often been bullied over the years, but no one had ever stood up for her.

Caitlyn was kind to her, but she was only a girl after all.

The little boy who used to follow her around, calling her Aunt May, was now old enough to protect her.

May was filled with emotion.

However, she did not want Sean to get into trouble by offending these rich people.

"Seanie, let him go."

May stepped forward and stopped Sean.

However, Sean's eyes were red as he ignored May.

Chapter 1268

Weston’s feelings at this point could only be described as complicated.

He finally understood why Ray had told them not to mess with Sean.

Sean was too ruthless and imperious!

He was unreasonable, doing whatever he wanted.

Even if Weston could arrest Sean using his connections, would he not have taken the beating for nothing ?

“Did you not hear me?”

Sean asked with a frown again when Weston did not move.

“Yes... Yes...”

Struggling with pain, Weston dragged his wounded body slowly to May.

There was a long blood stain on the white floor.

Everyone watched it with dismay.

Only Sean remained calm as if it was nothing to him.

“I... I’m sorry. I was wrong. I’m sorry...”

Weston got down on the floor and apologized to May.

“It... It’s okay. Forget it, Seanie. Forget it...”

May waved her hand. She had been bullied many times over the years.

However, no one had ever apologized to her.

It was the first time today.

“What can you do?”

“Let me remind you again. This is Joules Town.

“Nobody cares whatever you do in your territory.

“But Joules Town is my territory.”

Jimmy pointed to the ground beneath him, his face arrogant.

“Anywhere could be my territory if I wanted.”

Sean smiled faintly. His eyes were more arrogant and wilder than Jimmy’s.

Jimmy froze for a second before laughing.

“You’re killing me!

“How dare you say that in my territory?”

“Who gave you the courage?”

Jimmy pointed at Sean, his face disdainful.

“Your territory?”

“Is Rigger Hotel yours?”

Before Sean could speak, everyone heard another sarcastic voice suddenly.

Then they saw a middle-aged man in a suit and tie entering the hotel, followed by two bodyguards in black.

“Mr. Parker?”

“Mr. Parker, you’re here!”

The hotel staff froze slightly before hurriedly coming forward to greet him.

It was Andrew Parker, chairman of Wonder Group, who had just met Sean yesterday.

Rigger Hotel was only a small property owned by Wonder Group.

"Yes! Mr. Parker."

The hotel receptionist dared not speak much and replied immediately.

There was a saying that the more connections you had, the more options you had. However, Andrew did not need to consider Jimmy as a friend.

More importantly, Andrew was a businessman who prioritized profit.

When one party could offer more benefits than the other, he would not hesitate to dump the other party.

The help that Sean could provide Andrew was far greater than Billion Trees Real Estate.

Therefore, so what if he offended Jimmy for Sean?

Once Andrew made the order, Jimmy blushed instantly.

However, he knew his status was no match for Andrew's, so he could only clench his teeth and leave.

Two hotel security guards carried Weston to the car.

"Mr... Mr. Lennon, I'm sorry. We didn't know you were Mr. Parker's friends..."

Before Andrew could say a word, the hotel staff, including the security guards who went after Sean, came to apologize.

"It's alright."

Sean waved his hand slightly, unconcerned.

He and Andrew were not that familiar with each other, so the best choice was not to go too far.

It would only embarrass both parties if he insisted on Andrew giving him an explanation.
