Chapter 1341

Everyone in the office was dumbfounded.

Kenneth and the five or six burly men in the room froze on the spot.

They never thought someone would storm into Kenneth's office and attack without a second thought.

Bang!

Sean had one hand around Kenneth's neck before kicking him.

The kick landed right in Kenneth's leg.

Before Kenneth even knew it, his legs went limp, and he fell to his knees with a thump.

It all happened in a flash.

When everyone in the room came to themselves, Kenneth was on his knees, facing Sean.

"Ah! Hsss..."

Kenneth's face was pale as he screamed in pain.

However, he was ruthless enough. Not only did he not beg for mercy, but he also ordered his men in the room to attack.

Five or six burly men in black came to themselves and pulled out steel pipes and machetes as they charged at Sean.

However, Sean did not even look at them.

He picked up the chair next to him with his left hand and tested its weight twice.

When the burly men were near, he swung it out.

Bang! Thud!

The chair swung, and five burly men were instantly knocked down to the ground.

It took less than a minute from Sean walking into the office to see Kenneth and the rest.

Sean's unbelievably powerful and swift approach left Kenneth dumbfounded.

What kind of being had he offended?

Kenneth, who had been tough, gritted his teeth slightly and looked up at Sean.

He finally realized there was something unusual about Sean.

"Do you know who I am now?"

Sean slowly lowered his head and looked condescendingly at Kenneth.

Chapter 1342

Even if Kenneth was not the strongest of the forces in the gray zones in Joules Town, he knew many big shots.

In Albert’s opinion, Kenneth was an underworld supreme big shot like Al Capone.

However, a supreme big shot like him was quick to admit his defeat and apologize when he heard the term-Mr. Lennon.

What had Sean done to be so intimidating?

Albert was dumbstruck.

He could not believe what he saw, but he had no choice.

Maybe Sean’s identity was not so simple after all. At least it was not as simple as Albert thought.

Albert slowly widened his eyes and looked at Sean.

He was already a little regretful.

He even wanted to get down on his knees and apologize to Sean.

However, Sean did not even glance at him.

“Drink some coffee, Mr. Lennon.

“Calm down. We were blind to have offended you this time...”

Sergio was attentive as he came over to pour Sean some coffee and smooth things over.

After all, he was the only person in the room who could talk to Sean.

“Yes, yes, yes. Mr. Lennon, we’ll do anything you want...”

“Calm down...”

Kenneth knelt on the ground as he nodded.

“Albert, I gave him a chance.

“But he didn’t cherish it.”

Sean took the coffee cup. Since Kenneth was clever, he would not kill him.

After all, the outside world was unlike the army. He needed to stick to some rules.

Otherwise, even Ray could not protect him.

“So he must die.”

Albert was instantly shocked when Sean said this.

"Now that I'm grown up, I'll give you this power.

Sean looked at May, his eyes and tone were serious.

May was touched to hear that.

"Okay! Okay!"

May wiped the corners of her eyes and nodded.

"Madam Randall, I'll send you the new supplies as soon as possible."

Zander also added.

May wanted to say something but only nodded without saying anything in the end.

At the same time.

Joules Town, Parker Villa.

A car pulled up slowly at the entrance.

The door opened, and an old man and a young girl slowly got out of the car.

The old man was Leonard Wester, a renowned doctor in Joules Town.

The girl was Leonard's granddaughter, Hannah Wester.

"Grandpa, are you sure you wanna come here?"

"You've never been to anyone's house on your own initiative."

Hannah said, pouting as she followed Leonard.

In her memory, no matter who the big shot was, it took many invitations before Leonard would accommodate them. He never took the initiative to go to someone's house uninvited.

"It's not the same.

"I have to see if Sean's medical skills are as good as he said."

“Dr. Wester, you came.”

Old Master Parker saw Leonard and greeted him.

However, Old Master Parker seemed a little down.

“Old Master Parker, you...”

Leonard stepped forward, puzzled.

Old Master Parker waved his hand slightly as if he did not want to say more.

Leonard gave it some thought and understood Old Master Parker’s feelings.

Sean spoke so confidently as if he could cure Old Master Parker’s illness.

Leonard and the other doctors were impressed by Sean’s medical skills at the time.

Therefore, you could imagine how much hope Old Master Parker had at the time.

However, as the saying went, “The greater the hope, the greater the disappointment”.

Two days had passed, and Old Master Parker’s condition had not improved at all.

He still could not perform the simple act of standing up.

You could imagine how Old Master Parker felt.

“Grandpa Parker, Uncle Andrew, you shouldn’t have trusted him in the first place.”

Hannah nearby said with a frown.

“Well...”

Andrew could not help but let out a sigh.

He was still a little disappointed in Sean.

He had so much faith. Besides that, he had put so much trust in Sean.

If it were anyone else at such a young age, Andrew would never have let them insert needles into Old Master Parker.

If something went wrong, even killing them would not be enough.

It was because Andrew trusted Sean so much that he dared to hand over Old Master Parker’s life to Sean.

However, he was not satisfied with the current result.

"Who knows if he's inserting the needles randomly? It's lucky nothing happened.

"Or I'll kill him!"

Anderson snorted coldly. If something went wrong with Old Master Parker, he would never forgive him.

Leonard did not answer but took Old Master Parker's wrist and began to feel his pulse.

Andrew and the rest shut up and waited with bated breath.

"Huh?"

Half a minute later, Leonard's eyes widened slightly, and he let out a mutter of surprise.

"What's the matter, Dr. Wester?"

Anderson nearby quickly stuck out his head and asked.

"No. Something's wrong..."

Leonard shook his head before putting down Old Master Parker's wrist to grab his other hand.

"Something's wrong? Hsss, did that quack doctor surnamed Lennon mess up my father's body with his needles?"

Anderson froze before turning sharply to look at Andrew.

If something were wrong with Old Master Parker's body, Andrew would also be responsible.

Andrew could not help feeling a pang in his heart as he got worried.

Did Sean mess up Old Master Parker's body with his needles?

"Mr. Parker, I haven't said anything. Why are you so panicked?"

"Sean and I are both doctors, but we're not enemies.

"Why do you keep picking on Sean?"

Leonard's frowning and statement made Anderson blush and cough without saying more.

"Dr. Wester, I've spoiled Andy. Forgive him.

"How's my body?"

Old Master Parker said and helped Anderson out.

"I'll feel the pulse of this hand again."

Instead of rushing his judgment, Leonard grabbed Old Master Parker's other wrist and felt the pulse carefully.

This time, Leonard squinted slightly and seriously felt it for nearly a minute before slowly lowering Old Master Parker's wrist.

“Give it your all and stand up!”

Leonard patted Old Master Parker on the arm and urged him again.

Having been pleasantly surprised earlier, Old Master Parker nodded heavily and tried to stand on his legs.

As strength poured into his arms, he became stronger as if some seal had been broken.

Swoosh!

Old Master Parker gritted his teeth slightly before standing up with his arms and legs.

With his feet on the ground and his hands on the arms of his wheelchair, he stood in front of the crowd, trembling.

“Gosh!”

Hannah’s eyes widened instantly as she let out an exclamation.

Andrew and Anderson were shocked too.

“Then why didn’t my father stand up before you came?”,

Anderson said, and Andrew and the rest also nodded silently. It was where they were confused.

“Because Old Master Parker didn’t want to stand.

“He’s been in a wheelchair for more than five years.

“He subconsciously thought he would never stand up.

“So he didn’t feel anything even after he recovered physically. You can call it muscle memory. It’s mainly a psychological problem.”

Leonard looked at Old Master Parker as he spoke.

Old Master Parker coughed drily as he blushed slightly.

"Who is it?"

Sean immediately turned to look at Zander.

He had been on the battlefield all these years and knew little about the situation in the country. He did not even know who the big shot surnamed Lupin that William mentioned was.

Sean looked into him because he wanted to ensure they could help him after they met.

If they could help, it would be necessary for them to meet. If not, it would only be a waste of time.

"Yes..."

It was the first time Zander was slightly lost for words in front of Sean.

In the past, he had always spoken his mind and never had the slightest hesitation.

"Who is it?"

Sean asked again, frowning slightly.

“It is said that this man...

“Has something to do with the big shot surnamed Lupin that was viral all over Dragon Kingdom 20 years ago...”

Sean slowly widened his eyes as soon as Zander said that.

Dragon Kingdom’s legend was a household name 20 years ago.

Even though Sean had been in the Northwest Army and rarely returned, he knew their reputation.

“Even my adoptive father said they are a true god-like figure.”

Sean said slowly, his tone solemn.

Sean had met billionaires and commanders of millions of soldiers, but he could get along with them.

He had never seen the big shot surnamed Lupin, but it did not affect his admiration.

“Yeah!”

Zander also nodded heavily.

Chapter 1350

When Sean was in Joules Town, he was worried about things at home.
Therefore, Zander had been asked to send a team back earlier.
Their purpose was to protect Willow, of course.

Even if Sean knew Blaze dared not give Willow a hard time no matter how bold he was, he made some arrangements to be safe.

Willow was sitting in her office, flipping through some papers.

It was almost time to get off work, but Willow was still busy with something.

They had just developed a new product, so they had a lot of things to do, of course.

Just then, the office door was pushed open.

Willow frowned slightly and looked up at the door.

Old Madam Quinn, Simon, and Faye stepped in.

Two security guards wanted to stop them but were scared of being too aggressive.

After all, they also knew Willow was a member of the Quinn family.

“Willow, keep your company watchdogs in check.

“How dare they stop Grandma from visiting you?”

With a cowlick hairstyle, Simon said with a frown.

“Grandma, you’re here. Have a seat.”

Willow ignored Simon and got up to meet Old Madam Quinn.

Since Sean left, Simon was up to no good again after being quiet for a few days.

Willow was already used to it.

Anyway, Simon dared not do anything to Willow right now.

“You may leave.”

Willow glanced at the two security guards, and they finally dared to exit the office.

“Willow, why didn’t you answer the phone when I called just now?”

Old Madam Quinn asked, looking at Willow with a slight frown.

“I’ve been too busy these past two days. I didn’t hear my phone ring.”

Willow poured a cup of coffee for Old Madam Quinn. She thought a moment and poured coffee for both Simon and Faye.
