

Sir, You Don't Know Your Wife Chapter 960

Just as the host was about to announce the third question, Janet suddenly opened her eyes and the laziness in them disappeared all at once. Her bright eyes blinked and she opened and closed her pink lips, as if she was saying, "Got it."

Then, the third question appeared on the big screen.

If Melissa answered the question correctly, she would gain three points in a row.

After a quick glance at Janet, she began to answer the question slowly.

This is an SSS-level question that I helped Sharon do before.

With a quick glance, Janet raised her petite hand and pressed the buzzer.

Beep! Instantly, the whole place fell into silence.

Looking at the time shown on the big screen, everyone held their breaths.

"One second?"

"Janet only used one second to answer the question?"

"Is she insane?"

"I haven't finished reading the whole question but she already has the answer?"

"I think she did it on purpose so that no one else can answer it!"

“I don’t think so. It won’t benefit her at all because a point will be deducted if she answers wrongly.”

At the moment, Melissa’s expression was dark because she was still reading the question when the buzzer rang.

How did Janet answer it so quickly?

Just as she and the audience were feeling confused, Janet’s answer gradually appeared on the huge display.

After looking at the answer on the screen, the host stopped breathing for a moment.

“Janet Jackson got the third question correct. One point to her.”

Upon hearing the host’s announcement, everyone at the scene was stunned.

Janet actually answered an SSS-level question within one second. This is a rather difficult question and it is absurd for her to answer it in just one second. I’m afraid that even Melissa isn’t this quick! Is this just a coincidence?

In the audience, Dylan thought that he was hallucinating.

Oh my goodness; she answered the SSS-level question in just one second! Did she receive training secretly before the competition? If so, why didn’t she participate in the first place?

He could feel him losing his sanity because of all these questions.

On the other hand, Abby and Summer comforted each other. “Don’t worry. She has done SSS-level questions before. Let’s see how she deals with the harder questions afterward.”

After the third question was done, it was time for the fourth question.

Logically, the fourth question should be a SSSS-level question.

Slowly, the words on the display became clearer.

As Janet stood there lazily, she squinted her eyes and read almost the whole question in just a second. Then, she pressed the buzzer.

The SSSS-level question had four lines of words. Any ordinary person would need to take a full minute to read through the whole question, but Janet read all of it in almost three seconds before she quickly pressed the buzzer.

Three seconds? It usually takes others a minute to finish reading it, but she is able to answer the question in just three seconds? Does she have two pairs of eyes?

The audience’s jaws dropped because words could no longer describe the excitement and shock in their hearts.

However, the most important aspect of the competitive-answering round was accuracy.

The next second, Janet’s answer was projected on the huge display.

The host had never felt this excited before and he parted his lips for a moment, feeling at a loss for words.

A while later, a deep voice echoed. "Janet Jackson answered the fourth SSSS-level question correctly."

When the voice slowly reached Melissa's ears, she could feel her blood boiling and she tried to catch her breath.
