Chapter 51

Yasmin reluctantly opened the door to find two men in suits standing outside.

“We’re from the admissions office of Jubilife University. We’re here to deliver an acceptance letter.”

“What acceptance letter? I’m already studying at Jubilite University. No one else in our family is applying. Wait...” Yasmin’s heart sank as a bad feeling washed over her.

Her worst fears were confirmed when the staff continued, “This is an acceptance letter for Yvette Murray. May I know if Ms. Yvette is here?”

Yasmin instantly froze. Just yesterday, she had been mocking Yvette as she was sure Yvette wouldn’t get into Jubilife University. And now, this?

“Impossible! It must be fake! How could Yvette get into Jubilife University?”

Seeing Yasmin’s disbelief, the staff opened the acceptance letter for her to inspect. “Take a closer look! It’s genuine.”

Yasmin examined it closely, and her last shred of hope crumbled. It was indeed a legitimate acceptance letter from Jubilife University.

Yasmin’s mind raced with disbelief. Yvette was accepted into the highly competitive medical school. It seemed impossible. What qualifications could she possibly have?

With malice gleaming in her eyes, Yasmin saw this as another opportunity to undermine Yvette. After all, Yvette had already surpassed her in piano, and now academics seemed to be her last advantage. She couldn’t let Yvette overshadow her again.

“You must be scammers! How dare you guys try to deceive the Murray family? Get lost before I call security!” Yasmin demanded.

Yasmin thought Yvette wouldn’t be able to attend Jubilite University if she could drive them away without her knowing “We’re not scammers! We’re the staff from Jubilife University’s admissions office...” one of the men insisted.

The commotion caught the attention of Yara and Irwin, who approached to see what was happening.

“What’s going on here?”

Yasmin’s heart raced with panic, but she maintained her facade, replying, “Nothing, they’re just a couple of scammers. I’ll get rid of them

“We’re not scammers!” The two staff members saw Yvette approach and immediately pushed past Yasmin to reach her

“Ms. Yvette, we’re here to deliver your acceptance letter to Jubilife University!”

Technically, acceptance letters didn’t require personal delivery, but the chancellor, Matt, insisted. Although they didn’t know why Yvette was so important to Matt, they had to follow his orders.

Yvette hadn’t expected Matt to act so fast. She accepted the letter and thanked them politely.

“Yvie, you actually got into Jubilife University!” Yara and Irwin beamed with joy. Their precious daughter had gotten into Jubilife University by herself!

Sean praised her sincerely, too. “Yvie, you’re amazing!”

Yet only Yasmin’s eyes burned with resentment as she glared at Yvette.

Sensing her gaze, Yvette blinked and said nonchalantly, Yas, now we can go to the same school. Aren’t you happy?”

Yasmin clenched her teeth in anger. But she still had to maintain her sisterly facade in front of Yara and Irwin.

She almost choked on her words. “Of course I’m happy! I’m so proud of you! But Yvie, medical school is very challenging. Are you sure you don’t want to reconsider? It’s not too late to change your mind.

“I think the Agricultural University next to Jubilife University would suit you better. You grew up in the countryside, so you must know a lot about farming. It would be much easier for you.

As the Agricultural University meant working in the fields daily, Yasmin was excited to see Yvette suffer.

“Unfortunately, I know quite a lot about medicine,” Yvette said casually.

She continued, “But honestly, I think your IQ level is better suited for the Agricultural University.”

Yasmin’s face twisted with anger. How dare Yvette insult her intelligence?

But then, considering Jubilife University’s medical school only accepted the best students, Yasmin had a realization. Even if Yvette got in, she’d likely be looked down upon and isolated by her peers.

With a twisted smirk, Yasmin decided to sit back and watch the show.

Yasmin approached Yvette with a sweet smile that evening, although her flinching gaze betrayed her ulterior motives.

She said, “Yvie, Sean has been busy with training matches all day and hasn’t eaten much. Since you’re close to him, why don’t you take this plate of fruit to him?”

Yvette glanced at Yasmin with a knowing look in her captivating fox-like eyes. “Why don’t you give it to him yourself, then?”

Yasmin’s eyes darted nervously, but she persisted, “Yvile, I just want to help you two get closer. Sean is very tired now. He’ll be touched if you bring him some food!”

Yvette knew Yasmin harbored no good intentions, but she still agreed anyway.

Sean’s team recently won the Esports National Championship. Although this victory skyrocketed their fame, it also placed immense pressure on them.

Fans now had high expectations, and failing to meet them in the next match could lead to a severe backlash. Therefore, Sean trained hard during this period to avoid disappointing his fans.

Yvette didn’t want to see him overwork himself, so she decided to help him out.

Yasmin’s face lit up with a devious smile as she watched Yvette enter Sean’s room. She knew how much Sean disliked being interrupted during his training. His temper would flare, and he’d lash out at anyone who interrupted him.

That would leave a bad impression of Yvette in Sean's heart. Yasmin hoped Yvette would be reprimanded, allowing her to swoop in and reclaim her spot as Sean's favorite sister.

She would wait for that bitch to be scolded to tears!

Aware of Sean's focus during training, Yvette didn't bother knocking as he would not even hear her. She simply pushed the door open.

The noise caught Sean's attention, and he glared in annoyance. But when he saw it was Yvette, his expression softened.

"Yvie, what's up?"

"I noticed you haven't eaten all day, so I brought you something to eat."

Hearing Yvette's concern filled Sean with warmth, easing his fatigue from training. Having such a caring sister was the best. "Just leave it there for now, Yvie. I'll eat after this match-

" Before he could finish, a sudden stomach ache interrupted him.

"Yvette, can you take over for a bit? I need to use the bathroom!" Sean rushed out without waiting for a reply

Yvette sighed and sat down. Her fingers deftly maneuvered the game controls.

Soon, the game's notifications rang out one after another.

five minutes. Sean's teammates couldn't contain their amazement over the mic.

"Sean, what's going on? You're playing like a god!"

"Yeah, seriously! Five kills in five minutes—what a rampage!

Though Sean was usually impressive, he had never performed this spectacularly.

Sean stared at the screen in shock as he had just exited the bathroom. Then, pride swelled in his chest as he announced, "That five—kill streak was thanks to my sister, Yvie. Pretty impressive, huh?"

"Wow! Sean,

1, your s

sister is a natural talent. Why don't we recruit Yvie into our team?"

"Who gave you permission to call her 'Yvie'?" Sean snapped, cutting them off "She's my sister. If I hear you call her that again, I'll give you a piece of my mind next time I see you!"

Yvette was his sister, and only he had the privilege to address her that way.

"Wait a second! Yvie, why do your moves seem so familiar?" Sean seemed to realize something.

Yvette blinked innocently and said firmly, "I doubt it. You must be imagining things."

"Am I?" Sean asked skeptically.

Yvette nodded confidently. "Yes. You're probably just exhausted from all the training," she insisted.

Sean scratched his head, looking puzzled. "You're right. I must be too tired from training ..."

Yvette let out a sigh of relief, seeing Sean buy her excuse. That was a close one. She almost blew her cover!

But then, realization dawned on Sean. A light bulb went off in his head.

He finally understood why Yvette's voice sounded so familiar. In fact, it was strikingly s similar to Rebir's.

Moreover, Yvette and Rebir shared a similar demeanor—they were both quiet and reserved. Most telling of all, whenever Yvette got serious, she exuded a familiar, intimidating pressure.

It all clicked! Could Yvette actually be the legendary Esports player, Rebir?

Noticing Sean's suspicious gaze, Yvette decided it was time to leave before he figured out too much.

Meanwhile, Yasmin, who had been lurking by the stairs to see Yvette humiliated, finally saw her coming out of Sean's room.

She approached Yvette to mock her, but she was stunned when Sean followed. Sean's genuine happiness caught Yasmin off guard. It was not the reaction she had anticipated, Yasmin's smug smile froze. How could this be? Yvette had just interrupted Sean's training, so why does he seem even closer to her now?

The next day marked Yvette's first day at Jubilife University. Irwin and Yara insisted on driving her to campus, so Yvette couldn't help but feel exasperated.

"Mom, Dad, I'm old enough to get to school on my own," Yvette reiterated. She didn't want to be treated like a child anymore.

Reluctantly, Irwin and Yara gave in to Yvette's request.

"Don't worry, Mom and Dad. I'll take Yvette to campus," Sean offered, slinging a bag over his shoulder. His youthful energy was palpable, and his face was bright with determination.

Despite Yvette's refusal to admit she was the Esports prodigy, Rebir, Sean remained convinced.

Yvette had become not only Sean's beloved sister, but also turned out to be the idol and mentor he had always looked up to. He was determined to protect her at all costs.

“Yvie, you’ve always got my back in games, and now I’ve got yours at Jubilife University . If anything goes wrong, just drop my name!” Sean said.

Yasmin could not bear the

I be late.”

“Alright, got it!”

Half an hour later, the driver pulled up at the entrance of Jubilife University.

Sean stepped out first to open the door for Yvette, then offered her a hand with overflowing tenderness.

Yasmin couldn’t help but remark sourly, “Sean, you’re treating Yvette as if she was a princess!”

Yasmin meant it as a jab, but Sean missed the sarcasm. Instead, he smiled and said, “Yvie is indeed our family’s princess.”

Yvette would have been the cherished princess of the Murray family if she hadn’t been taken away when she was young.

Hearing Sean’s sincere words, Yasmin nearly exploded with anger. She then quickly found an excuse to leave.

“Why do I feel like Yasmin was upset just now?” Sean noticed Yasmin’s emotions belatedly. His reaction was unimaginably slow.

Yvette flashed a faint smile. Sean was so clueless, but it was cute.

“Never mind that. Let’s get you to the medical department,” Sean said, taking Yvette’s hand and leading her in that direction.

But they hadn’t gone far before a group of people blocked their way.

“Are you the guy who won the Esports National Championship this year?” The group leader sneered after sizing Sean up.

“You seemed like a nobody. You probably just got lucky.”

Sean recognized them as students from another school. His handsome face darkened. "Get lost!" he demanded.

He was hurrying to get Yvette to the medical department and thus had no time for them.

"You're pretty arrogant! Winning doesn't make you special!"

"Yeah, your skills are trash..."

Their insults grew louder with each curse,

"Indeed, there's nothing special about it," Yvette suddenly said.

She continued nonchalantly, but her words cut deep. "But why don't you guys win a national championship first and then talk?"

As expected, they took offense, and their expressions turned even grimmer.

"Bitch! Who asked you to butt into our conversation?"

"Yeah, bitch! Are you looking for a beating?"

"Say that again?" Sean's eyes were piercing as he glared at them. "Apologize to my sister, now!"

They felt a chill go down their spines but still retorted, "Apologize? Only if you beat us in a match. If you win, then we'll apologize."

"That's right! You dare to take us on?"

The group went on with their insults.

"You guys wouldn't have won the championship if Savage Wolves hadn't been banned!"

"Exactly! You guys just got lucky. We, the Savage Wolves, were robbed of our rightful title!"

Did they say "Savage Wolves"?

After pondering for a moment, Yvette finally remembered who they were in the Esports community.

Savage Wolves had gained some notoriety in the Esports community and was considered a strong contender for the national championship this year.

However, they were banned from the competition after they were caught using performance-enhancing drugs before a match. They were also caught having a physical altercation with a rival team, thus losing their chance at the championship.

“Are you guys

mute? Come on, say something! Are you perhaps afraid of going against us? If so, you guys can grovel before me and call Master’ right now.

Leave us in the future! Who knows, we might even let you off the hook.”

“You should also do the same whenever you see

At the forefront, Leonard Dawson arrogantly hurled insults, and his cronies quickly joined in with scornful remarks of their own.

Exactly! If you’re too afraid to go against us, you should get on your knees and call us “Master’! You better show some respect to the Savage Wolves from now on!”

“Why should we be afraid of going up against a bunch of trash?” With a defiant glint in his eyes, Sean retorted, “We’ll teach you a lesson today and show you who the real ‘Master’ is!”

“Motherfucker! You actually have the nerve to call us trash?”

“You’ve got a lot of nerve, kid! You’re gonna get what’s coming to you.”

As a hothead from the wrong side of the tracks, Leonard was someone who couldn’t control his temper. It was also why he got into a minor altercation with the opposing team during the match, which quickly escalated into a brawl.

“Who do you think you’re messing with? We’ve got your back, Sean!”

show up!”

When Jasper Quinn ran over, he was accompanied by another person. It was clear that they were both Sean's teammates. "Oh, you even called for backup, huh? We're not afraid of anyone! We'll still crush you, no matter how many of you "What's the meaning of this? You're clearly not Jublife University students, yet you're here making a scene. If you don't leave at once, have security throw you out."

I'll

With all the commotion, it naturally caught the attention of Zachary Walker, the head of the Esports Department. As a result, he hurried over and warned them that he would call security to escort them off the premises.

"Your students from the Esports Department had already agreed to a match, so stop trying to weasel out of it !!

"Damn straight! They need to grovel before us, admit that Futur is trash compared to Savage Wolves, and that we're the true champions of this year's Esports competition! If they can do that, we'll be on our way!"

As these humiliating conditions were laid out, Sean and Jasper's expressions grew even more grim. They were both used to being on top and couldn't stomach such an affront .

"Whoever backs down today is a sissy!"

Everyone in Savage Wolves became even more cocky, exclaiming, "We'll livestream the match! Whoever loses must admit defeat and address the other as 'Master' whenever they cross paths in the future!"

After hearing that, Sean's features contorted with a menacing grin. "We'll see about that ! We'll be waiting to hear you losers cry "Master' later!

Jasper casually draped his arm over Sean's shoulder, and his words echoed the same cocky attitude, saying, "Oh my, Sean! What are you even saying? As a bunch of lowlives, they're not even worthy of calling us 'Master'!"

As he witnessed the scene before him, Zachary knew that there was no way he could stop them.

After all, one of them was the fifth scion of the Murray family, and the other was the youngest scion of the Quinn family. When those two were set on something, no one could dissuade them, so he simply let them be Additionally, Savage Wolves had come all the way to their campus to taunt them. If the Jubilife University Esports Department backed down now, it would be a massive blow to the university's reputation.

“Sean, Fatty's out sick today... We're one player short.!”

When he heard this, Jasper's face fell. “We're short of a player, Sean. How are we supposed to compete?”

After all, Savage Wolves weren't weaklings, and they could even be considered a formidable opponent. If Futur just had a random person fill in, that person's skills might not be up to par, and could even hinder the team.

When Savage Wolves heard this, they became increasingly arrogant and smug “Oh, what's this? Is Jubilife University's Esports Department so pathetic that they have no one else who can play besides you guys?”

“Wow, your esports department is really scraping the bottom of the barrel, huh? You can't even find one decent player to fill in?”

As they listened to the insults hurled at their department, Sean and the others' faces grew grim, their eyes burning with fury.

“What should we do now, Sean?”

As they questioned him, Sean furrowed his brow, unable to come up with a viable solution at that moment.

In the next second, a cold yet graceful voice broke the silence.

“I'll do it.”

Sean was momentarily taken aback. After that, he quickly regained his composure, his handsome face brimming with joy.

As it turned out, his sister truly cared about him!

While Sean was filled with excitement, everyone in Savage Wolves scoffed derisively.

“Are you letting a woman on the team? It turns out Jubilife University’s Esports Department is really full of actually play!”

“They’re truly a bunch of clowns! We’re definitely taking the win today!”

“Are you looking down on women?” Yvette’s tone was nonchalant, yet it carried a bold arrogance and an intimidating pressure. “If you manage to secure even one kill today, I’ll concede defeat.”

Everyone in Savage Wolves was momentarily stunned by her declaration. However, they quickly snapped out of it and retorted in anger.

“Fuck! How could a woman have such nerve! Don’t come crying to me when you lose!”

A wave of worry washed over Jasper and the others, and they couldn’t help but whisper to Sean.

“Are you really going to let her play?”

“I’m not so sure about this, Sean. Why don’t we let Shades play instead? Although he doesn’t have as good a synergy with us, his skills are solid, and he should be able to match our tempo.”

They weren’t worried because Yvette was a woman. While female players were rare in the Esports scene, the former legendary gamer, Rebir, was also a woman.

Rebir’s prowess was so immense that everyone revered her, and no one dared to look down on female gamers or think they were inferior to male gamers anymore.

Although Rebir had retired, she was still the undisputed Queen of the Esports scene—an insurmountable legend!

They were worried about the young lady, who didn’t seem like a gamer at all. It would be too risky to let her play, right?

A loss would mean more than just embarrassment for Futur. It would also tarnish the reputation of Jubilife University’s Esports Department.

After hearing what they said, Sean laughed and said confidently, “You don’t have to worry about a thing! We’re practically guaranteed a win today!”

Although Jasper and the others still had doubts and reservations, they chose to believe in Sean and kept their thoughts to themselves.

“vie, you’ll take the jungle position, and I’ll be your support!!

When Jasper and the others noticed Sean acting so subserviently, even offering to surrender the position of jungler, they were flabbergasted and gaped in astonishment.

After all, the jungler was the most crucial role on the team. If they were to let Yvette take the position, wasn’t this a guaranteed loss?

“Are they seriously putting that woman in the jungle position? Are they out of their minds?”

Everyone in Savage Wolves became even more cocky.

“We’re definitely winning this match today!”

Meanwhile, Sean completely ignored the Savage Wolves’ taunts and kept fawning over Yvette “Are you thirsty, Yvie? Do you want some water? Or should I give you a massage?”

Yvette was unfazed by Sean’s fawning and replied indifferently, “No thanks. You should sit back and let me carry you to victory.”

After hearing this, Jasper and the others couldn’t help but cast doubtful glances at her. After all, Savage Wolves were formidable, and even they wouldn’t dare to make such a audacious claims!

They were completely thrown off their game after only ten minutes in

“Way to go, Yvette!”

“Holy cow! You’re amazing, Yvette!

Jasper and the others were whipped into a frenzy of excitement.

Yvette’s jungling skills surpassed even Sean’s, and it was clear that she was leagues above them in skill. She really wasn’t bragging when she said she would carry them to victory!

When they thought back to how they had questioned her skills, Jasper and the others felt a wave of embarrassment wash over them.

At that moment, Sean was the only one who maintained his composure, knowing that Yvette had yet to unleash her true power. However, Savage Wolves weren’t worthy enough for Yvette to go all out!

Meanwhile, the fans watching the livestream also became excited as they witnessed this scene, and the viewer count kept rising.

Did Savage Wolves really become this pathetic? They were actually decimated in a mere ten minutes.

g exceptionally strong

In truth, it wasn’t actually a case of Savage Wolves being too weak, but rather their opponents being exceptional. After all, the jungler’s skills were out of this world! It was as if they were watching Rebir’s gameplay. Although there were definitely some similarities, Rebir was the undisputed Queen of the Esports scene. Even if someone else’s plays were a bit like hers, they could never surpass her.

After being crushed in such a humiliating manner, the Savage Wolves’ expressions turned grim and sullen, their earlier swagger nowhere to be seen.

“Fuck! Why is that woman so good?”

“If we keep playing like this, we’re definitely going to lose, Leonard. Another loss will be the end of Savage Wolves.”

After their ban, the Savage Wolves’ reputation and popularity had plummeted. If this downward spiral continued, they would soon fade into obscurity.

However, if they could defeat Futur, the champion of this year’s Esports championship, Savage Wolves would rise to fame once again!

Therefore, they had to win today, by any means necessary.

“Please, Leonan! You have to come up with something,”

Chapter 57

As his teammates' pleas grew more frantic, a sinister glint flashed in Leonard's eyes as he stealthily pulled out his phone and sent a message.

They got back to him in a flash, saying, “You got it. I'll hack into their computers as you've requested.”

When he saw the message, a cocky grin spread across Leonard's face. “Chill, We're definitely going to win this match today!”

It didn't matter how impressive that bitch was! After all, he had just spent a fortune hiring a hacker to back into their computers. Their skills were irrelevant once their computers malfunctioned. At that moment, Savage Wolves would definitely win the match!

“What the ? What's wrong with my Internet connection?”

After hearing that, Sean and Jasper's faces fell as their computers started lagging badly, severely hindering their operations.

“If you can't beat us, own it! Stop making excuses!”

Savage Wolves didn't hesitate to start trash-talking.

“I know, right? They suck and then blame their hardware. What a joke!”

It appeared a cyberattack was being launched against their computers.

As she observed the sluggish computer before her, Yvette instantly diagnosed the issue. A smirk instantly played on her lips. Did they really think they could outsmart her when it came to hacking?

Game on. It was time to show them who the real “Master” was!

Yvette's fingers danced across the keyboard, and in less than three minutes, Sean and the others' voices rang out.

"Oh, it's not lagging anymore. My computer is running smoothly again."

"Mine too! My Internet is also back up to speed."

As soon as they heard that, the Savage Wolves' faces immediately fell

What the hell? They had hired a professional hacker to wreck their computers. How did their computers get fixed so easily?

While they were still baffled by the situation, they received a message from the hacker.

"You've screwed me over, man! Whose computer did you ask me to hack? My whole damn self is about to be laid bare! I'm not equipped to do this. You'd better find someone else!"

snow

When they saw the message, everyone in Savage Wolves was collectively dumbfounded. They had hired a professional hacker, yet he was saying he couldn't do it, which could only mean that the other party was more skilled than him.

Yet,

as far as they were aware, no one in Futur possessed hacking skills. But then a thought suddenly occurred to them!

As that startling thought struck them, their eyes locked

Yvette in disbelief. Was she the one behind it all?

Still, that thought was promptly discarded as soon as it crossed their minds. After all, how could a young lady like her be more skilled than professional hacker?

It was absolutely impossible! They must have gotten it wrong!

When she caught sight of their shocked expressions, Yvette casually raised an eyebrow and flipped them off.

Although they were taunted and angered by the gesture, Savage Wolves was completely powerless against her.

After a while, "Victory" was displayed on Futur's computer screens.

"Heck yeah! We won!"

Jasper leaped from his seat and enthusiastically high-fived Sean.

"Did you really think we wouldn't win?" Sean had no doubts about the outcome. He smugly raised his chin, taunting, "Do you finally realize who's superior now?"

At that moment, Savage Wolves could no longer be as cocky as before. They were crestfallen now, each wearing a look of utter defeat.

They suffered a crushing defeat, leaving them utterly disgraced.

Yvette completely decimated Savage Wolves, who were unable to score even one kill by the time the game ended.

"Not only are they trash at gaming, but their morals are also garbage," Yvette said as she lazily reclined in the gaming chair with her slender legs casually crossed. With an icy and haughty tone, she continued, "You can forget about staying in the Esports community from now on."

Their willingness to resort to such underhanded tactics to win was proof enough of their poor character. It was clear that the Esports community had no place for such trash!

Savage Wolves seethed with shame, their faces contorted in anger as they voiced their discontent.

"You think you have the power to kick us out of the Esports community? Who the hell do you think you are?"

"Exactly! Who are you to kick us out of the Esports community? You're nothing but a little brat!"

“Oh, you don’t think I can do it?” Yvette’s tone was indifferent, yet it sent shivers down their spines. “We’ll see who has the last laugh.” “What a conceited brat! Who do you think you are?” After losing, Savage Wolves was humiliated, and they immediately lashed out in anger, “You shouldn’t think you’re all that special just because you won one game! You just got lucky today!”

“Exactly! We’ll show you our true strength next time and make you plead for mercy!”

It was quite unfortunate, though. They wouldn’t get another chance to do so.

Yvette pondered nonchalantly as she took out her phone and logged into her messaging account. As soon as she went online, everyone in the group chat went wild

“Rebir, you’re finally online!”

“It’s been ages since you were last online, Rebir! You’re finally back! I’m so stoked!”

Within the group chat were all prominent figures of the Esports community. Each of them wielded enough power to shake the Esports community to the core. Yet before Yvette, they were utterly subservient, practically groveling.

If word of this got out, it would have blown the minds of those Esports players!

Yvette’s message was short and precise. “Savage Wolves is a name I never want to see again in this community.”

“Savage Wolves? Who the hell are these guys? Nobody messes with Rebir and gets away with it! Ban them! Ban them now!”

“You’re damn right, they have to be banned! Rebir has never done this before, which shows how vile their actions were. Otherwise, Rebir would never have banned them!”

“I’m all for it, bar ban their asses! Wait a minute. Isn’t Savage Wolves part of AO Club?”

Someone from AO Club immediately responded, “It’s our fault for not keeping our guys in line, Rebir. We’ll give these guys the boot now. Please ban them if you must! We won’t make a peep about it!”

“Wow, Yvette! You’re amazing!” Jasper exclaimed at this moment, his eyes filled with unceasing admiration. After that, he nudged Sean’s shoulder, asking. “What do you think about me being your brother-in-law?”

looking for a beatdown?” Sean immediately glared at him and said fiercely, “My sister is off-limits!”

As soon as she heard the commotion from their side, Yvette glanced over. When she saw Jasper’s enthusiastic expression, she couldn’t help but raise an eyebrow,

She didn’t pay much attention to him previously. And now that she did, he kind of bore a resemblance to someone. Nevertheless, Jasper seemed to radiate a naive kind of silliness, unlike that man’s captivating charm.

As Yvette fixed her eyes on Jasper for a bit, she couldn’t help but recall the face of that other man. She recalled him smiling affectionately with his lips curled, sweetly coaxing her to call him “Will”.

“It seems like your sister can’t take her eyes off me. Do you reckon she has a crush on me?” Jasper said as he cockily adjusted his collar.

“Get lost and stop hovering around my sister!” Sean felt a mix of annoyance and jealousy toward Jasper.

After all, Yvette had never looked at him like that before!

“Woah, what the heck, man.” Jasper stumbled back, almost falling over

After Sean impatiently pushed Jasper away, he smiled gently and approached Yvette, saying, “What’s so good about that idiot, Yvie? Am I not better looking than him?”

Yvette was at a loss for words.

“Hello, Ms. Murray. Are you perhaps interested in joining Jubilife University’s Esports Department? Zachary sidled up to Yvette, his face plastered with a warm, inviting smile.

“As long as you’re willing to join us, we promise to provide you with top-notch coaching from the very best in the industry-

Besides, Yvette was the genius Esports player, Rebir! She didn't need any coaches to teach her—instead, they should go over and revere her as their mentor!

“What! She's enrolled in the Department of Medicine?”

Zachary was naturally taken aback. After all, the Department of Medicine at Jubilife University was a top program with extremely rigorous admissions. Therefore, he didn't expect someone like Yvette to be able to enroll in the Department of Medicine!

Why was she studying medicine when she had such great talent in Esports, though? She should have joined their Esports Department!

At that moment, Zachary immediately started devising a plan. No matter what, he had to find a way to poach Yvette from the Medicine Department to their Esports Department!

“Fuck! It was so embarrassing today!”

After everyone from Savage Wolves retreated fr om Jubilife University in disgrace, their expressions were a mask of frustration and humiliation.

They had initially planned to use today's win as a springboard for their team's resurgence. Yet, they ended up shooting themselves in the foot.

“It's all that bitch's fault! We wouldn't have been crushed like this if it wasn't for her!”

“You're absolutely right! If it wasn't for her, we wouldn't have suffered so much! We have to make sure she pays for it!”

While they were still in the midst of their outbursts, they suddenly received a message from an AO Club representative.

“We regret to inform you that Savage Wolves is officially expelled from AO Club. As of today, Savage Wolves is no longer affiliated with AO Club,

As soon as they saw the message, everyone in Savage Wolves was collectively stunned.

-What the hell? Why did AO Club suddenly kick us out?

AO Club was a top-tier organization in the Esports community. After working so hard to get in, they were unexpectedly expelled.

Before they could even come to terms with this news, they received another piece of information.

“We’re screwed, Leonard. Not only have we been axed by AO Club, we’ve also been banned from the entire Esports community.”

As soon as he heard that, Leonard nearly passed out from shock.

“What’s going on here? Why were we suddenly banned from the Esports community?”

“We’re not sure about that either, Leonard! However, I heard that we crossed a powerful figure we shouldn’t have, which led to our downfall ”

When did they manage to get on the wrong side of this powerful figure! All they ever did today was face off against Futur.

Wait a second. There was no way the powerful figure they mentioned was that woman, right?

At that moment, they suddenly recalled Yvette’s warning. “You can forget about staying in the Esports community from now on.”

All of a sudden, everyone in Savage Wolves looked at each other in dismay, their faces drained of color.

At the time, they laughed off her threats and even mocked her. Yet, at that moment, they were paying the price for their arrogance. They were truly done for.
