Chapter 101 The Right to Decline

Daniella suddenly clenched her fists tightly under the table. “Even though I’m on maternity leave,

I still keep track of the company’s inside information. I didn’t tell you about the incident earlier because I didn’t want to trouble you further.”

Evan tapped his knee agitatedly and said, “Don’t make up an excuse to see Caroline next time.”

“Why are you defending her, Evan? Is there something I don’t do well enough?” Daniella sobbed, her makeup running down her face.

Changing the subject, Evan said, “You shall rest at Xander Residence during your pregnancy.”

Unable to control herself, Daniella questioned, “Are you not planning to let me come home, Evan?

This is our baby.”

Evan’s handsome face turned cold with her persistent inquiries. “I will call off the engagement and raise the child myself if you continue like this.”

He stood up and walked away, leaving Daniella in tears.

‘It’s all Caroline’s fault! She must die!’ she roared inwardly.

With teary eyes, Daniella returned to Xander Residence.

Grayson was not home, but Neil was in the living room.

Although Neil disliked her, Daniella knew she had to try.

“Hello, my brother,” she said softly.

Daniella clenched her fists. “I know you don’t like me, but our DNA is a 99% match.

“You can falsify the DNA result.” Neil put down the magazine, stood up, and approached her.”

Daniella, my mother didn’t indirectly harm others like you!”

Daniella gnashed her teeth. “My brother, aren’t you worried that you’ll piss our grandfather off for saying this?”

The door opened as soon as her voice faded.

Grayson walked into the house, talking on the phone. He immediately hung up the call after seeing Daniella’s tear–reddened eyes. 1

He said, “Who bullied you, Ella?”

Daniella began to shed tears once again. “Evan threatened to call off the marriage because of Caroline, Grandpa.”

“What the heck is going on?” Grayson’s voice rose in pitch.

Daniella recounted the event. “Am I really bad, Grandpa...”

Neil’s expression turned solemn after witnessing Daniella’s pretentiousness. He suppressed his anger and said, “I’m going upstairs, Grandpa!”

“Neil!” Grayson said sternly, “Ella is your younger sister!”

“I won’t acknowledge that!” Neil said coldly, “She can’t be my sister when she is such a hypocrite!”

Grayson slapped Neil and roared, “How could you speak about your sister like this!?”

Neil’s eyes turned cold. “I will find the evidence to prove that what I claim is right, Grandpa!”

Daniella cried even more profusely. “I’m sorry, Grandpa. It’s all my fault.”

Grayson grabbed Daniella’s hand and comforted her, yet his expression turned solemn. “I’ll help you to solve this!”

On Wednesday night, Scott invited Caroline and Paige to dinner.

Caroline headed out to the restaurant after notifying Lily.

A black stopped in front of her when she was hailing a ride outside the villa.

“Come with me, Ms. Shenton.”

Caroline looked at the speaker vigilantly. “Who are you?”

“You don’t need to ask this!”

“I have the right to decline then!” Caroline turned around and walked quickly toward Villa Rosa.

The man immediately stepped forward, stretched out his hands to grab Caroline's arms, and violently pulled her to the car.

Chapter 102

Chapter 102 Why Did This Man Capture Her

Caroline resisted with all her strength and shouted, "Let go of me!"

The man slapped Caroline, causing her ear to hum, and she almost lost her footing from the impact.

Seizing the opportunity, he dragged her into the car and ordered the driver coldly, "Drive."

Caroline didn't dare to act rashly, knowing she couldn't fight this man. If he were to harm her, her children's lives would be at stake.

She glared at the man, cautiously reaching for her phone in her pocket to call Reuben.

Unfortunately, the man snatched her phone before she could make a call and tossed it out of the window, leaving her shocked and helpless.

Caroline tried not to think about what would happen next as fear filled her. She gazed at the passing scenery through the window, her mind racing. She couldn't escape, or she might suffer a miscarriage.

Trying to remain calm, she sought a way to handle the situation.

Two hours later, the car stopped in front of a house surrounded by a pitch-black forest.

The man forcefully dragged Caroline out of the car, and the driver held open the house's door, pushing her inside. The door was slammed shut and locked.

Caroline tried to open the door, but it was futile. She felt trapped, and desperation set in.

She called out, "Who are you? Why are you holding me against my will?"

She then heard the car's engine start, realizing she might be imprisoned to her death.

With no one around to help, no phone, and no food, Caroline felt helpless. She looked around the empty house, her fear growing as she explored its icy-cold walls.

Meanwhile, Scott and Paige were at the restaurant, continuously calling Caroline's phone.

"Her phone is still turned off," Scott said, sighing.

Paige was extremely anxious. "I'll call the boss!"

Scott was surprised. "Evan?"

Paige admitted, "I know you won't be happy about it, but I didn't tell you that Caroline was at Villa Rosa while you were away."

After Paige briefly recounted the events, Scott frowned, looking slightly disappointed. "Do you think Evan turned off her phone because I kept calling?"

Paige shook her head. "I'm not sure. I'll give him a call to check."

Paige dialed Evan's number, and he answered in a deep voice, "Hello."

"Sorry to interrupt, Mr. Jordan. Is Carol around? I need to talk to her."

"I just came out of a meeting, and I'm not at Villa Rose. I think she's at home now."

“Can you give me the house number? Caroline’s phone is turned off.”

Evan furrowed his brow. “I’ll call you back.”

After hanging up, Evan called the house number.

Lily answered the phone, saying, “Hello, sir.”

“What is Caroline doing?” Evan asked.

“Ms. Shenton?” Lily was confused. “Ms Shenton is out for dinner with her friends. I think she’ll be home soon.”

“Dinner?” Evan’s voice turned cold instantly. “When did she go out?”

Chapter 103

Chapter 103 Caroline Is Missing

Lily asked Evan with concern, “She went out at six. Did something happen?”

Evan’s expression turned cold. “Noted.”

After hanging up, Evan called Paige.

Paige answered the phone quickly. “Is Carol home, Mr. Jordan?”

Evan asked sternly, “Did you ask her out to dinner?”

Paige panicked. “I did, but I’ve been waiting in the restaurant all this time. Her phone is turned off!”

Evan stood up abruptly, his eyes filled with coldness. “I’m hanging up now!”

He immediately called Reuben and ordered, “Caroline is missing. Send someone to look for her.”

As he spoke, he walked out of the office swiftly.

Paige panicked in the restaurant. “What should we do? Carol isn’t in Villa Rosa!”

Scott stood up quickly. “Let’s go to Redwood Neighborhood. Maybe she’s home and forgot to charge her phone. Calm down first. It might just be her forgetfulness combined with her sleepiness from the pregnancy.”

Paige nodded and followed Scott to Redwood Neighborhood.

The neighbor across the street opened the door after they knocked on Caroline’s door. “Stop knocking! It’s annoying! It’s been a long time since she’s been back here!”

Scott asked, “Hasn’t she come home today, sir?”

The man glared at Scott in displeasure. “No! I’ve been home all day, so I would have heard her opening the door if she did!”

The man slammed the door shut.

Paige was panic–stricken. “Where is Caroline? She’s been in a good mood for the past few days!”

Scott asked calmly, “Has she gotten into a conflict with anyone recently?”

Paige thought for a moment.

She raised her head soon afterward. “It’s Daniella! No one would cause trouble for Carol other than her

Scott was visibly worried. “Let’s figure out a way to get in touch with her.”

Paige said, “Sure, I’ll figure out a way while you drive us around to look for her!”

Scott nodded.

Caroline woke up slowly when a gleam of light shone through the crack of the door. She could see the house vaguely in the light. There was nothing there except for dust.

Caroline licked her dried lips, got up slowly, and walked over to knock on the door.

She refused to give up when there was a chance she might live by encountering a scavenger.

She knocked for a long time until her hands hurt before she rested. She sat on the ground once again and thought about who might want to harm her.

Caroline suddenly remembered the news about Neil sometime ago.

Could it be Grayson?

Caroline's expression was solemn because she knew that she would be doomed if it were Grayson.

At Villa Rosa.

Evan sat on the sofa in exhaustion, his eyes bloodshot.

The coldness exuding from his body terrified Reuben and Lily so much they did not dare to make a sound.

Suddenly, the phone's ringtone broke the heavy atmosphere of the house.

Evan grabbed the phone immediately and picked up the call after realizing it was Paige.

"Have you found Carol, Mr. Jordan?" Paige's voice was raspy as if she had been crying. "We searched the whole night but couldn't find her..."

Evan's heart wrenched in pain. "I haven't gotten any updates about her."

Paige mustered the courage to say, "Mr. Jordan, you may fire me for saying this, but I think that this is definitely Daniella's doing!"

Evan narrowed his eyes. "Do you have any evidence to prove that?"

"I swear on my life that Daniella has been targeting Carol continuously. Please trust me and talk to her, will you?" Paige pleaded.

Chapter 104 Where Are Your Manners

Evan kept quiet for a long while. "Okay."

After hanging up, Evan immediately ordered Reuben, "Continue to track Daniella's whereabouts!"

Reuben nodded. "Yes, sir."

Evan grabbed his coat and walked out of the villa. He got into the car and drove to Jordan Residence swiftly.

When he arrived at his family home, he found Draco having breakfast.

Sensing Evan's hostile presence, Draco placed down his cutlery in displeasure. "What brings you here so early?"

"Did you take Caroline?" Evan asked coldly.

"This is preposterous!" Draco stood up abruptly and roared, "Check the time! How dare you come here to question me at half past six in the morning? Do you have any respect for your father?

Where are your manners!"

Evan's gaze was solemn as he spoke through his gritted teeth. "It would be best if you didn't. Or novelbin else, don't blame me for targeting your two good sons!"

Draco was so furious that he smashed the plate on the floor. "You will be ruined by the manipulative woman sooner or later!"

Evan shifted his solemn gaze, turned around, and left.

As Evan got into the car, he received Reuben's call.

"Mr. Jordan, we found Ms. Shenton's phone by the road based on her last GPS location."

"Where is the location?" Evan asked anxiously.

"Not far away from the villa. The surveillance cameras in the nearby areas were damaged during the time Ms. Shenton went missing."

Evan angrily hit the steering wheel and roared ferociously, "Keep searching!"

He tossed away his phone and drove back to Villa Rosa.

On his way back, he thought about the people that Caroline had interacted with. Scott and Paige had been searching for Caroline last night, so the only other person she could have interacted with was Neil

Evan dialed Neil's number.

+15 BONUS

Neil had not slept all night, either. He had been spending his time looking up Caroline's information on his computer.

He picked up Evan's call after a moment of confusion.

"Is Caroline with you?" Evan's voice was cold.

Neil felt uneasy. "Isn't she staying at your place? Why are you asking me this? Did something bad happen to her?"

Evan could hear the anxiety in Neil's voice. "She didn't come home last night, and her phone was discarded by the road. I hope you're telling me the truth now, Neil!"

"This is not the time for you to question me!" Neil refuted in displeasure. "I'm not so indecent that I would come and take Caroline away yet!"

Neil suddenly remembered last night's incident. His gaze dimmed as he said, "It's highly possible that my grandfather did this. Daniella has constantly been complaining to my grandfather recently. It's possible he might have avenged Daniella in view of his temper."

"I'm coming over now!" Evan said.

"Wait!" Neil stopped him immediately. "Coming now is useless, and you might alert my grandfather. I know him well. He won't reveal Caroline's location unless you end your relationship with her and marry Daniella."

Evan could not refrain from speaking in anger. "Tell me what I should do then!"

Neil was slightly stunned that the usually calm Evan would actually lose his composure for Caroline.

"I'll gather information and inform you when I find anything at once."

Evan hung up the phone as soon as Neil's voice faded.

Soon afterward, Neil called his personal assistant. "Max, prepare three covert listening devices for me."

Chapter 105

Chapter 105 Where Is Caroline

Caroline lay on the floor, her red, swollen hands shaking. She stared at the crack in the door from day to night and then to day again.

The claustrophobic house and the fear of death crushed her spirit constantly. She hadn't ended her life because of the three lives growing inside her womb.

She closed her eyes, and Evan's figure appeared in her mind. Over the past few days, she had thought about many things and suspected the Xanders or the Jordans were probably behind her predicament.

Both families had vast connections and great influence, making it impossible for her weak self to stand up against them.

Alone and pregnant, she worried about what would happen to her children when they were born. They were innocent, and she still had yet to avenge her mother.

Curling up her body, Caroline decided to place a bet for her children's future survival. She wanted to believe that Evan would keep and protect them.

At Villa Rosa.

Evan sat on the sofa with a gloomy expression. The stubbles on his chin added to his worn-out appearance. His bloodshot eyes remained fixed on his phone without looking away.

Lily approached Evan, holding a bowl of soup. "Eat something, sir. Otherwise, your health will deteriorate before Ms. Shenton is found."

Evan took the bowl from Lily, but his expression remained solemn. He took a couple of sips before a commotion at the door caught his attention. His eyes turned cold as he saw Daniella being led in from afar.

Evan's intense gaze took aback Daniella. Rushing forward, she spoke with pity. "Evan, you-"

Evan's voice was terrifying as he interrupted her, demanding, "Daniella, I didn't see you for three days out of respect for the Xanders. Tell me now, where is Caroline?"

"Caroline?" Daniella shook her head in astonishment. "I don't know."

"Don't know?" Evan's eyes narrowed, and he moved closer to her. "You cried and complained to Mr Xander, yet you're telling me you don't know?"

Terrified, Daniella stumbled back onto the sofa and began to cry. "I really don't know, Evan I did complain to my grandfather, but I have no idea about Caroline's situation!"

A bodyguard immediately shouted, "Mr. Jordan! There's a house here!"

Evan walked in the direction of the voice, and his gaze dimmed visibly when he saw the metal chain used to lock the door. "Smash it!"

The bodyguards broke the metal chain in a few seconds with their tools.

When the door was opened, Evan saw Caroline curling up on the ground right away.

His heart was racing, and he rushed into the house.

"Caroline!" Evan's voice sounded shaky.

Caroline lay on the ground without moving, and her emaciated face was ghastly pale. She appeared to be on the verge of death.

Evan scooped Caroline up into his arms, his eyes bloodshot.

He roared to the bodyguards harshly, "Get Scott to come quickly!"

Chapter 106 Go Hostile

Daniella rushed to the desk and asked in tears, "Grandpa, did you take Caroline? I know you did it for me, but if you really did take Caroline, will you release her, please?"

Grayson's expression turned somber. "Ella, have you forgotten how overbearing she was to you?

Don't you want Evan and the marriage anymore?"

Daniella shook her head, crying. "Evan wanted to choke me to death when I was at Villa Rosa earlier, Grandpa. We can't rush love, and I believe that I can still get back Evan!

"But if something bad happens to Caroline, my relationship with him will be over. He's going to make me get an abortion!”

“Did he really say that?” Grayson’s gaze turned grave. “I’m going to go hostile on him if that’s the case!”

Daniella was shocked. Did Grayson really abduct Caroline? She didn’t want to have a falling out with Evan! She loved Evan and could deal with Caroline anytime, but not now!

Daniella wept. “I’m begging you, Grandpa! Your action must have intimidated her enough to stop fighting for Evan’s attention with me. Plus, I’m already three months along. It would be bad for me to get an abortion now. I’ll lose my mind if I become infertile.”

Grayson was startled. “You’re too kind, child. I did get someone to abduct her and put her in a deserted house in the southern suburbs. Here’s an idea. We’ll wait two more days. I’ll release her if she survives this, okay?”

Daniella felt immensely relieved that Grayson would be so accommodating. She wanted to use this opportunity to change Evan’s perception of her.

However, Daniella was unaware that Neil had overheard everything. He sent a voice message to Evan as soon as he heard the conversation. Then, he put on his coat and drove to the southern suburbs.

When Evan listened to Neil’s voice message, his eyes were filled with bloodthirsty coldness. He ordered Reuben to bring more people to search the southern suburbs before he left Villa Rosa.

Daniella called when he was driving. Evan picked up the call solemnly.

“Evan, she’s in the southern suburbs. The exact location is unknown.”

Evan hung up the call without saying anything. He would deal with the Xanders for this sooner or

Chapter 107 Has Feelings for You

Caroline was aware of Evan’s actions and voice, but she didn’t have the strength to open her eyes. She was unusually exhausted from the stressful situation. She fell into a deep sleep after realizing that she was safe.

Two days later.

Caroline woke up to find Evan lying next to her. She saw his well-defined facial features as soon as she opened her eyes.

There were dark circles under his eyes as if he hadn’t slept in days. His eyebrows were still tightly furrowed in his sleep. She wondered whether he looked like that because of her.

Caroline felt warm and fuzzy in her heart.

Then, she looked at the intravenous fluid hanging next to her and a bowl of soup placed on the table. She couldn’t help but feel hungry for the soup, yet she didn’t want to wake Evan.

“You’re awake.” Evan’s hoarse voice sounded.

Caroline was surprised that her small movement had awakened him. Before she could react, Evan propped himself up to check on her.

Sensing his familiar scent, Caroline looked at him. She could see the relief in Evan’s eyes the moment their eyes locked.

Caroline looked away in slight embarrassment and said, “I’m hungry.”

Evan nodded, got up from the bed, and picked up the bowl of soup. He helped Caroline to sit up and then brought the spoon to her lips.

Caroline accepted it and ate soup in small mouthfuls.

After Caroline finished eating, she felt like she had some strength back. She looked at Evan's messy hair and asked, "How long have you not slept?"

Evan put down the bowl. "Not long."

Caroline looked down. "Thank you for saving me again."

"I don't want your thanks. You can express your gratitude with real actions," Evan said, his handsome face looking overbearing.

scared me to death!"

Evan's expression changed. "That's really bold of her to run into the room without permission!"

Caroline quickly reminded Paige, "Paige, Evan is here."

Paige's eyes widened in shock as she turned to look at Evan, who was sitting on the chair elegantly. "Mr. Jordan! I didn't see you, and I got too emotional when I found Caroline awake. I'm so sorry!"

Evan stood up with a solemn expression. "Both of you talk. I'll be outside."

He walked out of the room.

Paige patted her chest in fear. "You scared me to death."

Caroline was at a loss of whether to cry or laugh. She had finally mustered the courage to tell Evan the truth, but Paige had interrupted her.

Paige sat down on the chair. "I'm sure of one thing now, Carol!"

"What is it?" Caroline looked at her in puzzlement.

Paige said, "Mr. Jordan has feelings for you for sure. He didn't sleep for days because of you. His subordinates had almost searched the whole of Angelbay for you! I've never seen him being so out of composure! When he found you two days ago, I saw his eyes well up with tears. That "Ms. Smith also told me that Mr. Jordan barely ate for three days," Paige shared, shaking her head.

"You've been talking to Ms. Smith a lot, haven't you?" Caroline asked.

"Yes, she took care of me when you were gone. I learned a lot from her, including the fact that Mr. Jordan threatened Daniella to find you."

Caroline's eyes widened. "He wants her to have an abortion?"

Paige nodded. "I wish he would, for the sake of your babies."

Caroline pursed her lips. "I've been thinking about this a lot since I was kidnapped. I want my children to have their father's protection. I can't bear the thought of them being in danger again."

"So you're going to get back together with Evan?" Paige asked.

"No, I'm going to tell him the truth. I won't be his mistress, but I will tell him about the pregnancy and my wishes. He can make the decision about everything else," Caroline replied.

"Are you worried that he'll make you have an abortion?" Paige asked.

"I'm taking the risk," Caroline said. "I need to talk to him properly."

Paige nodded. "I support you." novelbin

Half an hour later, Evan arrived at Xander Residence with his men. He got out of the car and strode toward the villa, his presence commanding.

The bodyguards at the entrance tried to block him, but Evan simply glanced at Julian, who immediately ordered his men to step aside.

The service staff rushed to inform Grayson, who was sitting in the living room.

"Master, Mr. Jordan is demanding to see you."

Grayson frowned. "Show him in."

Evan entered the living room and stood before Grayson.

"I came here to demand an explanation," he said coldly.

Grayson's expression hardened. "It's clear why you're here, Evan. You want to know why I had your woman kidnapped."

+15 BONUS

Evan sat down on the sofa. "I'm not going to waste my time with games," he said. "Give me an explanation for your actions."

Grayson's eyes narrowed. "You're demanding an explanation for a lowly woman? Do you think your father would approve of this behavior?"

"You don't have to worry about my father," Evan said. "I'm more interested in knowing why you interfered in my affairs."

Grayson slammed his fist on the armrest of his chair. "You're out of control, Evan! How dare you barge into my house and demand an explanation?"

Evan sneered. "Do you have any respect for the Jordans?"

"Do you have any respect for the Xanders when you're still involved with another woman after being engaged to Daniella?" Grayson shot back.

Evan smiled. "It seems you're going to ignore this matter, Master Grayson."

Chapter 109 Attempt to Salvage the Situation novelbin

"Don't even think about getting me to give a justification for a mistress!" Grayson was livid.

He thought, 'He must have lost his mind! How dare he say this to me!'

Evan stood up slowly and looked toward Grayson with his cold, narrowed eyes. "If that is the case, don't blame me for not respecting our families' past relationship."

"Evan! Do you think that you're all-powerful in Angelbay?" Grayson asked in rage.

Evan said nonchalantly, "I think you're unaware of the situation due to your age, Master Xander. The Xanders probably won't have a place in society anymore if not because of Neil."

Evan walked away upon saying that, leaving Grayson glaring at him, shaking from anger.

After a long time, Grayson recovered from his surprise and grabbed his phone to call Draco.

MK had been attacking the Xander Group for the past three days.

Apart from the stock price plunges, two important projects of theirs were taken by MK.

Neil did nothing when all this was happening, and Grayson was so overwhelmed with anger that he fell sick.

Draco reached out to Evan on several occasions after learning about the situation, but Evan refused to take his call or meet him.

Caroline soon learned about the situation and was astounded by Evan's behavior.

Even though the Xanders had a firm hold in Angelbay, they would suffer significant financial losses due to these incidents.

Caroline found Neil's lack of action incredible.

Rumors were spreading in the online community.

It was rumored that the Xanders and Jordans were going hostile against each other.

Everyone was waiting to see how the Xanders would make a desperate attempt to salvage the situation and what MK's next action would be.

In fact, someone had even brought up the engagement affair.

Many people speculated that Evan attacked the Xanders because they refused to agree with Evan to call off the engagement for the mistress.

Caroline could not care less about the Xanders. After all, Grayson had almost killed her.

+15 BONUS

Paige called her after spending some time reading the online forums. “Carol, have you seen the trending post online? My boss is awesome for going against the Xanders for you.”

Caroline did not feel as excited as Paige. “This matter can’t be determined at the moment because MK might experience some form of losses if the Xanders work with other established companies.”

“Why are you still thinking about that at this point?” Paige said in a displeased tone. “Don’t forget what the Xanders did to you!”

Caroline said, “I don’t sympathize with the Xanders, but I’m worried that the situation is not as simple as it seems.”

“You make a fair point. Mr. Jordan’s father will probably penalize my boss because of the two families’ close relationship.”

Caroline frowned. “That is not the issue. Evan did avenge me, but what’s going to happen next?

The two families’ heads won’t do anything to harm Evan, but there’s no telling what they might do to me.”

Paige was stunned. “So, you’re saying these two families might join hands to deal with you?”

Caroline answered, “Yes, I’m worried about this. After all, they won’t do anything to Evan.”

At Xander Residence.

Daniella was reading the trending posts on her phone with a gloomy expression.

'Why were two men protecting Caroline when something bad happened to her? In fact, those were the men from two of the three most influential families in Angelbay!' she thought in rage.

She could not make peace with the fact that she had helped them, yet no one expressed their gratitude to her.

In fact, Evan was targeting the Xanders and had put her in a difficult position!

All of a sudden, Nicholas' text message popped up on her screen.

[I'm back!]

Daniella was taken aback, thinking, 'How could he be back so soon? It's only been a month since his plastic surgery!'

Nicholas would make unreasonable demands and threaten her if he found out she was at the Time was different now as Neil seemed irritated by her presence. She knew Neil would grow suspicious if she met up with Nicholas.

Pondering for a moment, Daniella suddenly had an idea.

She found a way to eliminate Caroline and Nicholas.

Daniella: [Welcome back, Nic. I need to tell you something.]

Nicholas: [Let's talk when we meet. I miss you so much!]

Daniella: [Let's not rush, Nic. I'm at Xander Residence now]

Nicholas sent a surprised emoticon.

Nicholas: [Xander Residence, belonging to one of the three most influential families in Angelbay?]

Daniella: [Yes, we must be more careful when meeting! Let's meet the day after tomorrow. I'll choose a place and let you know, okay?]

Nicholas: [Sure! Looking forward to hearing from you!] Nicholas hastily replied.

A sinister look filled Daniella's eyes as she put down the phone.

'No one can threaten me this time! Evan and the Xanders will be mine too!' she gloated inwardly.

At 7:30 p.m., Draco visited Grayson at the hospital.

Grayson looked at him solemnly. "Draco, look at the good son you've raised! Don't you dare forget who supported you when your family first came to Angelbay."

Draco always prioritized his reputation, but Grayson's berating made his expression turn unpleasant.

"Mr. Xander, this is not an issue for our families!" Draco replied coldly.

"How is it related to my family?" Grayson roared. "Tell me, how do you plan on compensating for my family's losses?"

“Tell me, what solution do you have?” Grayson demanded.

“I have a solution, but I’m waiting for the right opportunity,” Draco narrowed his eyes. “If she makes even the slightest mistake, I’ll make sure she never gets back on her feet. And I’ll naturally find a way to stop Evan from saving her!”

“Make sure you don’t disappoint me!” Grayson warned.

After leaving the hospital, Draco sat in the car solemnly.

He showed respect to Grayson, but the latter refused to show him any respect.

‘They are not qualified to threaten the Jordans!’ Draco thought.

However, attacking the Xanders wouldn’t be wise right now, as there were still other competitors in Angelbay to deal with. The Jordans would be negatively affected if those competitors joined forces with the Xanders.

‘It seems it’s the time to unleash the woman! She is the only person who can help me regain novelbin control over Evan.’

He needed leverage to suppress the Xanders.

‘Caroline...’ Draco sneered. “Bring over the Xander girl tomorrow.”

Daniella didn’t deserve to be his daughter-in-law!

He wanted to show Grayson that he had chosen Daniella out of respect for the Xanders.

The next day, Daniella received Draco’s invitation to meet and woke up with excitement.

It was her first time meeting Draco, so she wanted to leave a good impression.

Daniella purchased several expensive gifts on her way and arrived at Jordan Residence at the appointed time.
