Chapter 361

Chapter 361 Going Up Alone

Caroline enjoyed taking the children on many rides at the amusement park.

Afterward, they stood in line for the Ferris wheel

When Axel glanced up at the towering Ferris wheel, standing at a staggering two hundred meters, he turned pale. His fear of heights prevented him from daring to join the ride. Even just the sight of it made him struggle to catch his breath.

Tyler immediately noticed something amiss with Axel and asked, "Axel, are you feeling unwell?"

Attempting to act strong. Axel shook his head. "I'm okay-"

But before he could finish his sentence, he clutched his stomach and vomited.

Caroline and Jamie swiftly turned their heads at the commotion.

Upon seeing Axel's distress, fear gripped Caroline. She hurried over and embraced him.

"Axel?" Caroline asked anxiously. "What's wrong with you?"

Feeling lightheaded, Axel weakly replied, "It's the heights

"The heights?" Liora raised her head to gaze at the spinning Ferris wheel above.

"Oh! Mommy, he's afraid of heights!"

Caroline asked Axel, "Are you really scared of heights?"

Axel hung his head. “Yes...”

“Why didn’t you tell me?” Caroline patted his back sympathetically.

Axel pursed his lips tightly and mumbled, ‘I didn’t want to spoil the fun for everyone.’

Caroline lifted him gently and consoled him. “It’s okay. It’s just a ride. We can skip this one.”

Axel’s eyes lit up. “Mommy, will you be upset?”

“No, not at all!” Caroline reassured him. “Lia can go on the ride with Jamie and Ty. I’ll stay here. with you Liora chimed in. I don’t want to go if Axel’s not going.

“I’m not really interested either. I’ll stay with Axel, Tyler said.

This left Caroline in a dilemma, thinking, ‘I can’t just let Jamie go up alone, can I?’

But Jamie tugged at Caroline’s clothes ‘Stay with the kids. I’ll ride it alone.’

She was curious about why this ride felt so special to Jamie and who she intended to ride it with.

However, Caroline declined Jamie’s suggestion firmly. “No, Jamie. You can’t go alone. I’ll worry too much. Wait here. I’ll find a park employee to watch over the kids so I can ride it with you.”

“No” Jamie rejected Caroline’s plan emphatically. “We can’t trust someone else with the kids. It’s risky, and they might get taken.”

Caroline couldn’t quite understand Jamie’s logic, as she believed the park employee wouldn’t harm the children.

Helplessly, Caroline tried to persuade Jamie. “Can we please skip this ride, Jamie? I’m anxious about you going alone.”

“No! I really want to go!” Jamie remained resolute. “Carol, stop, or I’ll get upset. Just do what I said. Stay here with the kids I’ll go alone, and you can all wait here with some ice cream.”

Caroline failed to dissuade Jamie and had no choice but to come up with an alternative.

She held the children’s hands and approached a park employee, asking, “Excuse me, can you ride with my mother?”

The worker replied, “I’m quite busy, and I’ll lose part of my salary if I go on the ride during my shift.”

Caroline was in an awkward situation. Would she have to let Jamie ride alone?

Liora tugged at Caroline’s hand, looking up at her. “Mommy, you have to trust that Grandma can handle it on her own. She hasn’t been sick lately. You made her take her pill before we came, right?”

Caroline crouched down. “Lia, it’s not that. We can’t let her ride alone. How about this? Wait for me in the shop. I’ll return after riding with her, okay?”

Tyler interrupted, “But Mommy, Grandma’s already in one of the pods.”

Startled, Caroline turned and saw Jamie sitting in a pod, slowly ascending into the air. Jamie even waved at them.

Chapter 362

Chapter 362 Stop Screwing Around

Caroline immediately got up to pursue Jamie, but an employee blocked and warned her. “Ma’am, stop screwing around! It’s very dangerous.”

Unable to reach Jamie, Caroline called out to her urgently, Jamie, don’t open the door. Stay put!”

Jamie nodded in understanding.

Caroline focused on Jamie's pod but was interrupted by another employee urging her to leave the platform.

Axel chimed in, trying to alleviate Caroline's anxiety. "Mommy, Grandma wants ice cream. Let's go get some."

Feeling helpless, Caroline bought ice cream with the children while keeping her gaze fixed on the Ferris wheel

Minutes passed, and Caroline's anxiety peaked as Jamie's pod reached its highest point. It swayed in the wind, causing Caroline's limbs to weaken.

Caroline couldn't tell if Jamie was afraid or not. She could only pray that Jamie remained still.

Meanwhile, Jamie sat in the pod, taking in the expanding view of Angelbay City. Gradually, she felt calmer. Her mind drifted to a man she once rode the Ferris wheel with—Keane Pierce.

It had been so long that his face was now a blurry memory. She recalled his tenderness toward her and the promises they made when they were deeply in love. He had vowed to marry her when the Ferris wheel reached its apex.

However, fate had other plans. A month before their engagement, Draco intervened. He forcibly took Jamie back to the Jordans and threatened to ruin Keane.

When Keane discovered what happened, he confronted Draco in a rage, resulting in a severe beating and his disappearance.

A sudden noise interrupted Jamie's thoughts. She instinctively looked up, and the pod began to sway violently, startling her.

Then, the pod abruptly dropped twice in quick succession. It dawned on her—it was in free fall.

Despite the impending danger, Jamie remained strangely calm, smiling as she looked down at the ice cream shop far below.

'I won't be able to say goodbye to Carol and the kids,' she thought, leaning against the pod wall with her eyes closed. 'Keane, it seems I can finally come to you...'

A few seconds earlier.

"Oh my goodness, look!" a tourist suddenly screamed near the ice cream shop, pointing at the Ferris wheel.

Hearing the commotion, Caroline turned around while wiping Liora's mouth. She saw Jamie's pod swaying uncontrollably.

Tyler gasped and dropped his ice cream. Wide-eyed, he stammered, "M— Mommy, that's G- Grandma's podi Caroline trembled, bewildered Why is Jamie's pod swaying when the others are fine?!" she wondered.

Before she could grasp the situation, the pod sagged twice again.

Tourists shouted, "It's going to fall!"

"No, it won't!" Caroline shouted in a futile attempt to reassure herself.

But then, Jamie's pod suddenly detached and plummeted rapidly.

"Grandma!" Liora abandoned her ice cream and ran toward the Ferris wheel, her eyes filled with panic

Axel and Tyler immediately grabbed her.

“Lia, it’s dangerous!”

“Lia, stay here!”

A loud crash echoed, and Caroline’s heart sank. She stood frozen, unable to move, as time seemed to come to a standstill

“No! No! No! Grandma” Liora cried out desperately beneath the Ferris wheel.

Chapter 363

Chapter 363 It’s All Her Fault

Evan heard a loud commotion from the amusement park as he stepped out of the car at the entrance

Suddenly, a sharp pain gripped his heart, causing him to clutch his chest and crouch down.

Reuben and the bodyguards rushed forward to assist Evan when they saw this.

“Mr. Jordan, are you okay?” Reuben and Julian asked simultaneously.

Evan felt an inexplicable panic, causing him to push them away. He struggled to control the suffocation and dizziness before rising and heading into the amusement park.

Inside, chaos reigned as everyone hurried toward the Ferris wheel

Julian grabbed an employee and inquired about the incident.

The panicked employee replied, “A pod from the Ferris wheel fell off!”

Upon hearing that, Reuben looked up at the vacant space in the air where the Ferris wheel stood, towering 200 meters high.

There was little hope for the person inside...

Panic flickered in Evan's eyes as he recalled the inexplicable pain he had experienced earlier.

His eyes narrowed, and he paled at the thought

"Caroline..." he murmured and rushed toward the Ferris wheel.

His sudden action alarmed Reuben and the bodyguards, who wondered if he was risking his life.

As Evan reached the Ferris wheel, he heard familiar cries and screams.

His bodyguards cleared a path for him through the dense crowd, allowing Evan to approach.

When he arrived at the shattered pod, he found Caroline and the children sitting before it, looking dazed and heartbroken

He couldn't identify who was in the pod, but a pool of blood stained the ground nearby.

His heart skipped a beat, and he urgently pulled Caroline up.

"Caroline, are you okay? Are you hurt?" he asked anxiously.

Caroline's eyes were vacant, and she remained unresponsive to Evan's forceful grip on her

shoulders

Evan frowned in worry and raised his voice "Caroline, answer me!"

His stern tone gradually brought Caroline back to her senses, her eyes welling up with tears as she cried silently.

“Evan...” She spoke softly, gazing at his worried face. “I’m sorry

“Sorry?” Evan’s heart sank

Terror soon filled his eyes as he turned to look at the bloodstained pod.

“Mom?” He quivered and withdrew his hands hesitantly.

Swallowing hard, he walked shakily toward the pod

Reuben’s eyes were red with tears as he approached, attempting to stop Evan. Struggling to speak through his sobs, he managed, “Mr. Jordan, it’s... It’s Madam Weiss.”

He couldn’t bring himself to say more, as Jamie’s body was beyond recognition after the fall.

“Move aside!” Evan’s voice was cold, and his eyes burned with intensity.

Reuben reluctantly stepped aside, avoiding eye contact

Evan circled to the other side of the pod. When he saw Jamie’s tragic state, he closed his eyes, his fists clenched tightly, veins bulging on the back of his hands.

His anguish was evident, making it unbearable for Caroline to witness

She blamed herself. If she had prevented Jamie, this tragedy might have been avoided

Before long, medical personnel arrived and carried away Jamie’s lifeless body.

Meanwhile, police officers spread around to gather statements. The crowd dispersed, sighing in helplessness once the police had Evan and Caroline’s testimonies.

The police officers summoned the park’s manager for questioning.

Although the park's staff wanted Caroline and the others to leave, Julian and his companions prevented them from doing so. novelbin

Now, the vacant spot was filled only with the soft sound of the evening breeze and distant, mournful cries.

Chapter 364 You Don't Get To Cry

Liora would not stop crying, so Caroline carried her and patted her back to comfort her.

Liora kept her head buried around Caroline's neck, sobbing endlessly. "Mommy, I don't want to see Grandma go. Hmm I don't want that..

Caroline felt very sorry for Liora, so she held Liora tighter and cried profusely. "I'm sorry. I didn't protect her well. It's all my fault..."

Tyler and Axel's eyes were red and swollen. They did not know how to console Caroline and Liora. novelbin

Evan had been standing on the spot motionlessly. Suddenly, he spoke with a hoarse and desperate voice. "Why?"

Caroline looked at him with guilt and self-reproach "I'm sorry."

Evan pulled his lips into a line and slowly walked to Caroline, exuding a fierce aura. "Caroline, tell me! Why do you want to ruin my mom and me?"

"Ruin?" Caroline frowned with shock. "What do you mean?"

"Do you still want to play dumb?" Evan sneered and glared at Caroline “Caroline, listen. This isn’t over! I’ll have a talk with you after my mom’s funeral” he threatened coldly.

Caroline saw Evan’s face contorted in hatred. Even after he left with his bodyguards, she couldn’t come back to her senses.

Paige arrived shortly after Caroline got home.

Upon entering the villa, she found Caroline alone on the sofa, curled up. This sight instantly filled her with deep sympathy.

Approaching Caroline, Paige sat down beside her and gently embraced her shoulders. “Oh, Carol...”

Caroline rested her head weakly against Paige’s shoulder and replied hoarsely, “Uh–huh.”

“Don’t blame yourself, Carol. It’s not your fault,” Paige began to console Caroline

But Caroline bit her lip bitterly. “Yes, it’s my fault. I didn’t stop Jamie, and I watched her fall right in front of me.

“I even witnessed... her crashing into pieces before my eyes...”

Paige sighed softly. “Carol, it was an accident. Nobody wanted that to happen. It’s okay to cry.

She was concerned that Caroline might suppress her grief, leading to depression, especially after witnessing such a traumatic event.

However, Caroline shook her head. “I don’t have the right to cry, Paige Please help me find out where Evan buried Jamie.

Paige replied, “Okay, I will. But there’s something else.”

Caroline nodded. "Go on."

Paige said. "The current hot topics revolve around Mr. Jordan and Jamie."

Caroline was taken aback and looked at Paige. "What are the topics about?"

Paige understood that Caroline was unaware of the situation, so she took out her phone and showed it to her.

After Caroline had a look, she was shocked. "Jamie seduced Casey? No! That's impossible!"

"Yeah, that's not true. Alex told me everything."

Anxiously, Caroline asked, "What really happened?"

Paige sighed once more. "Jamie didn't seduce Casey. It was Casey who took an interest in Jamie and publicly humiliated her

"Mr. Jordan witnessed Casey's mistreatment of his mother when he was young. But he couldn't do anything because he felt powerless.

"Afterward, Casey fabricated stories to turn Mr. Jordan's father against Jamie, leading to her being sent abroad and locked up for 15 years.

"Fifteen years of imprisonment, during which she endured humiliation, verbal abuse, and physical assault from the guards there. 1

"Alex told me Jamie was covered in injuries and unconscious when she finally resurfaced."

Caroline clenched her fists tightly. She should have suspected as much. Jamie reacted with fear. when she saw Casey and went into a frenzy when she encountered Evan

The resemblance between Casey and Evan triggered Jamie's deep-seated fear and resentment.

Furthermore, Evan appeared as if he wanted to harm Casey.

Those feelings of resentment and pain were ingrained in him.

Chapter 365

Chapter 365 She Deserved It

Caroline could not imagine how Evan had endured that when he was young.

And how much pain had it caused to Evan?

Paige added when she felt Caroline shudder in anger, "Carol, the problem is who twisted the facts and let the mass media report it that way."

Paige's words knocked some sense into Caroline.

"I think it's Casey, but the title of the hot topic vaguely pointed out that it was me instead " Caroline continued with her analysis after gradually calming down. "It was because Jamie was with me all this while."

"Casey?" Paige was baffled. "Why didn't he do that long ago but wait until today?"

The same doubt was troubling Caroline. Casey might have exposed that to someone else weren't him. After all, very few people knew about that incident.

if in

Besides, the people who knew that were very likely Caroline's enemies. They could ruin Evan while making him hate Caroline

It was very likely to be Daniella then because Caroline had no other enemies except her.

But didn't Daniella like Evan? Why did she want to do that to him? Did the failure to gain his heart make her hate him?

"Carol, is it Daniella?" Paige raised the same doubt,

Caroline sat up straight. "It's possible!"

While talking, Caroline fished for her phone and called Neil.

Neil picked it up after a while and greeted her gently, "Carol."

Caroline asked, "Neil, do you know who Daniella has been in touch with recently?"

"Well, I don't know." Neil asked, "What's wrong?"

Caroline described today's accident to Neil concisely,

After a long silence, Neil said, "Okay, I'll ask someone to keep an eye on her.

"Be careful. I'm sure Evan will make trouble for you before you find the evidence to prove your innocence."

Caroline looked down. "Okay, tell me immediately if there's any issue,"

"Will do."

After Caroline hung up, Paige punched the sofa angrily. "That pretentious bitch is disgusting! She tried all means to please Casey since she failed to win Mr. Jordan's heart. How shameless!"

Caroline patted Paige's arms. "Go home. It's late. It's useless even if you're mad now."

“Okay, I’ll head home. Don’t be sad. After all... Jamie is already gone.”

Caroline nodded. “Okay. Be careful.”

Draco was watching TV in the living room when his housekeeper rushed in hurriedly. “Master

Jordan, Madam Weiss is dead”

Draco’s gaze flickered before he glanced at the housekeeper expressionlessly. “Stop making a fuss out of nothing! How did she die?”

The housekeeper explained, “She was sitting in a pod of the Ferris wheel. It fell and killed her!”

Draco scoffed. “Ha! It serves her right! She slept with Casey while we were married. This kind of bitch deserves to rot in hell!”

The housekeeper became ashamed “Yeah, that’s true. But Mr. Evan...”

“What about him? Did he cry? Is he heartbroken?” Draco asked coldly.

The housekeeper continued. “He wanted to tear Galaxy Amusement Park down for Madam Weiss’ death!”

Draco frowned. “Doesn’t he think it’s already a big enough mess?”

The housekeeper said, “It’s beyond the issue of exposing Mr. Evan’s identity. It’s related to you, too!

“What about me? What does her death have anything to do with me?” Draco demanded gloomily.

The housekeeper immediately put on his long-sighted glasses and found the news on his phone to show it to Draco.

“Please take a look. They’re all scolding you.”

Chapter 366

Chapter 366 He Is Dishonorable

Draco narrowed his eyes as he read through the comments.

[How ridiculous! This news clearly wants everyone to target MK’s CEO and that renowned female entrepreneur.]

[Seconded. This media is fooling us. They want us to curse others for no reason. But I think the culprit is that old Jordan!

[A man in his 50s forced a young woman in her 20s to marry him. How sick!

[Luckily, MK’s CEO is Evan Jordan. If not, its reputation would be long ruined by that old bastard!]

[Well, Evan is bold and mighty in tearing Galaxy Amusement Park down. This kind of dangerous amusement park should be closed down for good!]

[Everyone, let’s condemn that old Jordan He forced a marriage just because he’s powerful and influential!]

[Ms. Weiss, I pray that you rest in peace. I wish you never fall into such an abyss like the Jordans in your next life.]

Draco’s face turned livid, and he smashed the phone on the floor when he read those comments.

“It’s all nonsense!” Draco trembled furiously. “That bitch seduced my son! But it is our fault?”

The housekeeper stepped forward to comfort Draco. "Master Jordan, please calm down. I think the people who scolded you are part of the scheme of the one who reported this affair."

Draco fell silent. "So, you're saying the mastermind purposely let the reporters post this and then hired some netizens to pull me into the mess?"

The housekeeper replied, "Yeah, it seems to be seeking justice for Mr. Casey, but they're trying to use the public to dig deeper into the truth behind it. Who do they defend after they learn about the truth?"

"Of course, it's none other than that ungrateful brat, Evan! Draco snapped.

"Yes, Mr. Evan will be pitied. When you place Mr. Casey in the company, the company's shares will plummet!

"Master Jordan, I'm sure they will forcefully stop you from allowing Mr. Casey to join the company.

Draco's fierceness was ignited. "So, they'll very likely tell everyone the truth later!"

coldness seemed to have intensified

When Reuben saw Evan, he immediately approached him. "Mr. Jordan, I've contacted the crematorium and cemetery

Evan remained indifferent. "What's up with the public opinion on the Internet?"

Reuben found this incident strange "Mr Jordan, the direction of the public opinion is weird. novelbin

They didn't scold Madam Weiss but rebuked Master Jordan for being dishonorable."

"Didn't anyone doubt it was Caroline's doing?" Evan questioned icily.

"No," Reuben answered. "Maybe they didn't guess that it was Ms. Shenton"

Evan nodded and ordered. "Get a mass media to announce my mother's death and expose what she went through 15 years ago."

His decision shocked Reuben Mr Jordan, these things-

Evan interrupted Reuben and retorted 'Do you want my mother to suffer in grievance even in the afterlife?"

Reuben immediately kept his head low. "Okay, Mr. Jordan."

He secretly glanced at Evan before leaving.

Evan must have suffered a lot of pain to be willing to expose his scar in public.

Reuben could not understand why Caroline wanted to do that. Did she hate Evan that much?

But this incident had been torturing Evan for nearly two decades. Why did Caroline want to do that to Evan?

Chapter 367

Chapter 367 Who Are They?

The next day, the children were in a bad mood, so Caroline requested leave for them and allowed them to stay home and rest.

At noon, Paige sent her a text about Jamie's burial site in the cemetery.

Caroline sat in Jamie's room, staring at her photo on her phone for a long time.

Neil then texted her, reminding her it was Grayson's birthday.

Their plan needed to start soon.

Caroline regained her composure and slowly surveyed Jamie's room before leaving.

She heard arguing and fighting at the door as she descended the stairs.

Doubtfully, she walked toward the foyer.

Suddenly, the door was kicked open before she reached it.

Several bodyguards rushed in, grabbing Caroline and pulling her outside.

Caroline's deep fear drove her to struggle. "Who are you? Let me go!"

However, the bodyguards remained silent. One of them pulled a handkerchief from his pocket and covered Caroline's face with it.

Caroline quickly lost consciousness, and the bodyguards placed her in a car.

Upon hearing the commotion downstairs, the triplets rushed down to see what was happening.

When they saw Caroline being dragged away, they tried to chase after the car.

But the car sped away, and they failed to run after it.

Liora cried out anxiously, "Who are they? Why did they take Mommy? I want Mommy..."

Axel clenched his lips and gasped for breath. He stared at the retreating car and said, "It's Grandpa."

Tyler's face grew cold. "Why would he take Mommy away?"

"I don't know." Axel paused and then asked, "Ty, can I use your laptop?"

Tyler nodded. "Okay."

Axel and Tyler returned to their bedroom with Liora.

Axel quickly hacked into all the surveillance systems at Jordan Residence and called Evan.

The phone rang for a while before Evan answered

Axel urgently said, "Daddy, Grandpa's men took Mommy away."

Evan was still at the cemetery, his eyes narrowing.

But he regained his cold demeanor when he looked at his mother's black and white photo on the tombstone.

His voice was emotionless as he said, "What does that have to do with me?"

Then, he hung up.

Axel was dumbfounded, wondering. "Why did Daddy say that?"

Tyler interrupted Axel's thoughts, noticing something was wrong with his expression. "What did he say? Is he going to save Mommy?"

Axel avoided Tyler's gaze and hesitated before lying. "Yes."

He believed that Evan would save Caroline, no matter what he had said.

Meanwhile, Axel would monitor the surveillance footage. If Evan didn't go, Axel would be deeply disappointed

Caroline hadn't eaten since Jamie's accidental death, and her grief mirrored Evan's.

At Xander Residence.

Daniella was preparing for the birthday party. She held her phone, reading online articles with at sense of confusion.

'It's strange. Why isn't anyone condemning Evan's mother? Why hasn't anyone suspected Caroline's involvement? And Casey's father is receiving Severe criticism,' she wondered.

That morning, a news report about Jamie emerged, providing clear evidence she had been taken advantage of and had not seduced anyone.

Public opinion heavily sided against Draco and Casey, condemning them.

In response, Draco attempted to quell the controversy by exposing embarrassing incidents from Jamie's past.

However, this only fueled the public's anger, as they felt he showed no respect for the deceased.

Moreover, many vowed to boycott MK products if Casey took over, pledging support only if Evan Daniella could not stop sneering.

“So, what if Evan refuses to let Casey have MK? Master Jordan can make use of Evan’s power. He can force Evan to give up everything he builds to Casey!

MK will only get stronger if it’s beneficial to Evan now.

‘And I can have whatever I want as long as I’m married to Casey. It’s because Master Jordan will only be biased toward Casey!’

Gloom spread across Daniella’s face as her thoughts darkened.

It had been quite some time since Casey had reached out to her. She couldn’t help but wonder what was keeping him so busy, Daniela’s anger flared when the stylist working behind her accidentally tugged on her hair.

She hissed in pain, and the stylist retracted her hand immediately, apologizing, ‘I’m sorry, Ms.

Love. That was unintentional.’

Daniella swiftly rose and turned toward the stylist, her intent to slap her evident.

She then exclaimed, “Are you being completely clueless? Utterly useless!”

The stylist covered her face, her eyes welling up with tears. ‘I’m sorry, Ms. Love. I’ll be more careful.’

Daniella glared at the stylist before resuming her seat.

Suddenly, her phone vibrated.

Annoyed, Daniella glanced at her phone, and her face lit up with excitement when she saw it was a text from Casey

She eagerly clicked on it.

Casey: [My apologies. Something came up, so I've been hospitalized for recovery.]

Daniella was shocked.

Panic gripped Daniella.

Daniella: [Mr. Jordan, I made a mistake. Can you give me a chance to make amends?]

Casey stopped texting her. As he leaned against the headboard of the bed, he smiled sinisterly while gazing at Daniella's profile picture.

He then chuckled slyly. Reputation? I've never cared about that. I just want a woman I can control."

Moreover, Daniella had resolved to persist in her efforts.

Casey needed to slowly manipulate her psyche if he wanted her to remain devoted.

He had anticipated this outcome all along.

Draco questioned, "You don't know? Did you forget working with Evan to deal with Casey and me?"

Caroline endured the dizziness and frowned. "When did I do that?"

"Quit acting clueless!" Draco cried out angrily. "You two put on quite a show!

"You initially fueled public opinion against us before suddenly changing your stance. That led everyone to scold Casey and me!

"You did that to stop Casey from entering the company and exploit this situation, right?"

Caroline listened quietly and finally understood why she had been brought there. She then sneered. "I didn't do this, and Evan wouldn't stoop so low to harm himself either.

"Also, what good would it do me? I have no interest in Evan and don't want to be with him!

"So, I'm not trying to take advantage of this "

Draco narrowed his eyes. "Can you swear you never wanted to be with Evan once you're back? If not, explain why you kept his mother at home."

Caroline stared directly at Draco. While gritting her teeth, she sat up. "Will you believe me if I say I found her by the road?"

“Absurd!” Draco scoffed. “I won’t buy such a coincidence!”

Caroline clenched her fists. She knew he wouldn’t believe her.

But that was the truth. She was equally surprised when she learned about it

“You can’t deny it, can you?” Draco interrogated.

Caroline remained resolute and said coldly. “I won’t confess to things I didn’t do!”

“Hmph! So stubborn! Let’s see how long you can hold on.” Draco turned to his bodyguards. Teach her a lesson until she admits it!”

They nodded and approached Caroline, but she spoke up immediately. “Mr. Jordan, I have one Yuliana pouted her fiery red lips and approached to hook her arm with Neil's. She then said, coquettishly, "Yeah, I came back yesterday. Neil. I've been calling your name for a while, but you didn't hear me. Which pretty girl caught your eye?"

Neil chuckled. "Stop that. I wasn't looking at anyone."

Yuliana did not believe him and looked around. When she saw Daniella, deep disdain rose in her eyes. "Neil, does Daniella look like Aunt Lyra? I don't think so!"

Neil smiled. "They're not bound by blood at all. Of course, they don't look alike."

Daniella turned abruptly when she felt Neil's gaze and was taken aback to see Yuliana. Soon, she recalled that Yuliana was Grayson's biological granddaughter. With a smile on her face, she adjusted her handbag and walked toward Yuliana

However, Yuliana scoffed as Daniella approached and spoke sarcastically when they came face to face. "Wearing a luxurious gown doesn't make you a noble young lady."

Daniella responded with a sweet smile. "Yulia, you must be joking. I'm just glad I'm not embarrassing Grandpa."

While chatting, she retrieved a delicate box from her bag and handed it to Yuliana. "Yulia, it's a small gesture. We had a bit of a misunderstanding before. I hope we can put that behind us. After all, we're cousins."

Yuliana glanced at the box indifferently and accepted it. Upon opening it, she found a diamond bracelet.

Puzzled, she wondered, Why is she giving me a diamond bracelet? It's a new design from MK and costs 25,000 dollars."

Yuliana then looked up and scrutinized Daniella. 'Is she trying to win me over?'

Yuliana said tentatively. "Thank you. But I have nothing for you. I hope you don't mind."

"It's fine. You're my cousin, and I should give you a gift after your return from abroad," Daniella explained warmly.

Yuliana reluctantly accepted the gift. She had long known that Grayson had spoiled Daniella during her time abroad.

Yuliana couldn't afford to embarrass Daniella in front of everyone, especially since Grayson remained the head of the Xander family. If she angered Grayson, it would be detrimental to her father's position in the company.

Yuliana decided it was wise to maintain a friendly relationship with Daniella, as she might need her help to mend her father's relationship with Grayson. "Alright, thank you for your thoughtful gift."

'Thoughtful gift?' Daniella thought with a hint of sarcasm. She had spent nearly 27,000 dollars on that gift, but Yuliana had labeled it as thoughtful. However, she endured it in silence to maintain favor with the Xanders.

As for Neil, she believed he needed to respect her since all the Xanders supported her.

Unfortunately, as soon as he exposed her true identity, she would lose her position in the Xander family.

Neil checked the time on his wristwatch. It was almost time to start presenting gifts to Grayson, but Caroline was nowhere to be found

While contemplating this, Neil's phone suddenly vibrated in his pocket. He retrieved it and saw that Axel was calling. A sense of foreboding washed over him. He answered the call and moved toward toward the door. "Axel?"

"I'm Tyler, not Axel!" Tyler's voice was cold. "Uncle Neil, where are you?"

Neil frowned, sensing something amiss in Tyler's tone. "What's wrong, Ty?"

"Master Jordan's bodyguards have taken Mommy away. They're hurting her. Uncle Neil, you have to go and rescue her!"

Neil's grip on the phone tightened, and he swiftly headed to his car. "Tell me everything. I'll rush there now."

Tyler explained urgently, "Master Jordan suspects that Mommy and that despicable father of mine intentionally started the rumor to slander him and Casey."
