When I heard Lynda, I was completely taken aback.

I stood up and asked, "What?"

Getting to her feet, she gave a slight nod of her head.

"Yes, Adrian. You heard me right. I will be their mother."

I shook my head. No, she was unable to comprehend it. She was just going with the flow without thinking for herself.

"Adrian, it's a good thing if she handles your kids. Why are you opposing it?" My mother asked me with a forceful smile.

"Mom, you are not getting it."

I did not love Lynda, and even if I were to tie the knot with her in the future, it would only be a marriage of compromise.

When I looked over at my father, he was staring at me with a blank expression.

I witnessed Noah acting like a big boy, patting Aria on the head.

“We will go back to Mommy. Don’t worry.”

Noah spoke with an air of self–assurance. My gaze was fixed on him. He was truly a momma’s boy.

I tightened my fists as I mind linked with one of my officials.

I grabbed their hands and made them sit on the bench again.

I came down to my knees and sat there looking at them. They were trying to avoid looking at me.

“Are you two angry with your dad?”

Noah uttered in a choppy voice, “You are not our dad.”

It made me mad at him. But I tried my best to control myself.

When I saw her crying, it put a damper on my mood. I wiped away her tears.

“Don’t cry.”

At that moment, Delta Julian arrived in the garden carrying a tab and a phone.

I handed them to my children and said,

“You two can play with them. I really hope that it will help you let go of some of your anger.

I had seen how Aria liked to use my phone when she was with me in the hotel room.

In an instant, Noah’s eyes brightened up as he snatched the tab and smiled while looking at it.

Aria slowly held the phone with a lightened face. I chuckled. at them and patted their heads.

When I was leaving the garden, I spotted Lynda at the door.

After giving my children a quick glance, she turned her attention back to me.

“You love them.”

I turned my gaze away from her. “Of course I do. They are my blood.”

“If only their mother loved you. I can’t believe how she has been deceiving you all these years, Adrian.”

The realization that her words were true caused me to clench my jaw.

Natalia’s POV

It had been one month since my family and I moved to the Crystal Blood Pack.

Life had been different ever since the night that we were defeated in the war.

Because Adrian allowed us to stay in his pack, we were able to at least spend our days here without having to worry about being homeless.

Just because he gave my parents shelter in his pack, I could not say he was a beast. What if we were forced to live our lives as rouges? Where would my parents have gone at that time?

Regarding the matter of granting me permission to meet my children, I could say that Adrian was the most ruthless man I had ever seen.

He strictly prohibited me from interacting with my own children. He gave the order for all of the guards to stop me if they saw me close to the pack house.

To get a glimpse of my babies, I had made numerous attempts to go to the pack house, but they refused to let me in. I was disappointed.

It came as a surprise to me that Adrian's mother did not answer when I called her to ask for help. I could not help but wonder what caused her to start ac

It reminded me of how she used to behave with me when I was the new bride to his son.

"Mommy, are you okay?" Noah asked with a worried tone.

I was talking with him and Aria on a video call. Adrian had given them a phone and a tab for play. As soon as they received it, the first thing they did was connect the Wi-Fi, and then they called me.

That was the reason I was passing my days with a sense of relief. I stopped roaming around the pack house out of fear that Adrian would snatch those devices from them.

"I'm fine, my baby. Have you both had your breakfast yet?"

Aria shook her head. "No, I don't want to."

"Why?"

"That aunt always brings us our meals. We don't like her."

Aria's tone conveyed anger when she mentioned Lynda. I could not believe that Adrian wanted to make Lynda my babies' mother. He could have just let

"She even told us to call her mom in front of Dad," Aria blurted out.

I got mad when I heard that. "Don't call her mom. You have only one mom, and that's me, okay?"

Both Noah and Aria nodded their heads at me.

I rubbed my face with my palm and sighed. This Alpha rank was getting heavy on me. I got angry too easily.

"My babies, don't worry. Everything will be fi-"

Noah interrupted me, saying that,

"Mommy, someone is coming. We'll call you later."

I looked at them with a nod of my head.

Before they could cut the call, I heard Lynda's voice.

"My kids, come on, have your breakfast. Don't make me mad. If you don't listen to me, I will make a complaint to your dad. He is a monster. He will kill yo

The call hung up somehow. My hand was firmly gripping my phone.

It was clear to me what Lynda was up to. She was brainwashing my children against their father, just like she had been doing to their father against their mother.

I could not help but wonder about her future.

'What punishment will Adrian give Lynda when he gets to know her truth? Will he be able to punish his sweetheart, whom he loves the most?'

After I had finished getting dressed, I walked out of my room and went into the hallway.

There was no way I could deny the fact that Adrian gave us a big house similar to the one we had lived in before.

When his gamma told us that we would be moving here, I thought he had decided on a house with two rooms.

But the day we arrived here, I was shocked. Here, we had a bunch of maids and servants. Outside of the house, there were three cars that were parked

But I declined it. Instead of luxury, I wanted to get my children back. That day, Delta Julian said something that made me feel awkward.

I could still remember his words.

“Natalia, you are a lucky woman. Not every woman has what you have.”

Even after a month had passed, I was still unable to comprehend what he was trying to mean with his words. Therefore, I decided to stop thinking about

The fact that I was able to see my children through video calls was the only thing that made me happy.

As I made my way to the room where Jason was, I noticed that the maids were chatting with one another about something while looking at their phones.

I peered at the screen of their phone. I could not help but roll my eyes when I saw them drooling over the photos of their head Alpha that were posted on ‘Alpha Adrian! Why are all women into bad guys? Can they not see so many good guys roaming around the world?’ I thought, walking past them.

They noticed me and immediately hid their phones from me.

I paid no attention and went to Jason’s bedroom.

Upon entering the room, I was immediately greeted by the sounds of sobbing.

My mother was crying. I clenched my jaw when my gaze turned to my brother, who had been lying on the bed motionless for one month.

Harold was in charge of his treatment. But he made it abundantly clear to me that there was no possibility that my brother would survive. He tried but did not find any cure for the poison.

Still, I did not give up any hope at all. I did everything in my power to get in touch with Doctor Max Harrison. But I could not reach him. There were rumors Without uttering a single word, I silently exited the room after turning around.

I pulled out my phone from my bag and dialed Max's number once again.

Unreachable once again.

The moment I stepped outside of my house, I caught a glimpse of the two cars that had been left untouched the entire month.

My father used only one car to go to my old pack to meet Eric. I was also looking for a cure for him because he was in a very serious condition.

I took a taxi and went to my destination. I stepped out of the taxi as soon as it arrived at the location.

I looked at the place and read the nameplate with a smile on my face.

"Moon Lovers."

It was the coffee shop where I had been working as a waitress for one month.

When I entered the coffee shop, the owner greeted me with a grin. She was a nice lady.

"Good morning, Natalia. A new day with a new beginning."

11

Alpha 164

Alpha 164

“Good morning, Liana.” I responded, and then I gave her a hug.

Liana Anderson was a lady in her late forties. She was the owner of the coffee shop and ran it by herself. When I said run, I meant she had to cover all of the expenses on her own. There was no man to help her.

What caught my attention about this woman was that she was also a single mother like me. Maybe she had the same reason to like me as well.

However, I was all alone now. I was no longer a single as mother but a single lady who had responsibilities for her family.

Sometimes, I wish I could live a peaceful life with my children.

As a medical student, I attempted to join the Pack Hospitals before applying to this coffee shop, but they told me that their Alpha would not permit them t

He accepted my children in front of the whole world. He was going to celebrate their fifth birthday in two weeks.

“Hello, Natalia. This is for you!” an employee handed me a note.

I opened it and found a love letter. I could not help but laugh.

This coffee shop was near a college, so most of the time, lots of boys would come here to hang out with their friends.

A few of them wrote notes to the wait staff. This note was the sixth note I was getting this month.

“You are pretty. They can’t help it,” Liana said while passing me the uniform, which was a black apron where “Moon Lovers” were printed with a white– moon.

“They are thinking that I am a teenage girl. Little did they know I was already divorced and had given birth to two children.” I muttered with a chuckle.

Liana gave me a disapproving look. “Come on, young lady, Life isn’t over yet. Maybe someone new is waiting for you. outside. You can’t let the chance g

She was stunned. Perhaps she did not expect me to ask that in return.

“I apologize if I offended you,” I replied, straightening my back.

She took my hand and replied,

“I don’t want to see another version of myself. I lost my chance when I had an opportunity to grab it.”

I could see the pain in her eyes from staying alone in her life. Was it that hard? I had spent six years alone. Would I not be able to pass the rest of my life

As we listened to the bell, we noticed that customers were entering the coffee shop.

I immediately kneeled down to the lower desk in order to grab the menu so that I could distribute it to each of the other employees.

But when I stood up, I heard a loud gasp coming from Liana.

I was confused by her reaction. What happened, Liana?”

She lifted her hand and pointed her finger at my chest.

“Natalia, there is a three–line mark on your breasts. I–It looks like someone clawed you!

Alpha 165

I immediately lowered my head to fix my dress. I forgot to put makeup on my wounds today.

I thought no one would notice that since I was wearing decent clothes.

On the other hand, Liana's eyes discovered my wounds when I knelt down. I scolded myself for my carelessness.

Liana grabbed my hand and pulled me toward the dressing room. After closing the door, she inquired,

"Where did you get those marks?"

I chuckled awkwardly. "I fought with a rogue and got that mark," I lied.

"Yeah, it looks raw. Why didn't you dress it up? It will heal soon."

I appreciated her advice, but I had tried. In fact, I was shocked when I saw it had not healed despite my fast healing power. Following that, I tried to apply

When she left the dressing room, I locked the door and took off my dress.

I looked in the mirror while lifting my hand. I hissed when I touched the three claw marks.

I shut my eyes when it reminded me of the person who caused this wound.

"I thought it was only my power. But he also has the ability to leave traces on others."

I said it while gritting my teeth. After putting on the dress' once more, I made sure to wear the apron snugly so that even if I bent over at a later time, my

Then I went to start another day at work.

Throughout the day, I kept checking my phone to see if any of my children had called me. Working at a place like that made me happy and satisfied. The was calm and soothing.

I recently developed a fondness for the aroma of freshly brewed coffee and hot brownies.

I spent the entire day working at the coffee shop. Liana always left in the evening.

On the other hand, she provided me with spare keys to the coffee shop. So, I was the one who shut down the coffee shop each and every day.

It was nine o'clock at night when everyone had left the coffee shop, including the other staff members.

I put the money on the cashier and locked it.

"I am done for today."

I was about to remove the apron when I heard bells ringing from behind me. It indicated that someone had entered the coffee shop.

"Sorry, the shop is closed," I said as I turned around to look at the customer.

However, when my gaze fell on the person, my eyes widened. "Max Harrison!"

Alpha 166

Alpha 166

Max was staring at me with stunned eyes, as if he had seen a ghost.

"It has been a while. Where have you been? I had been looking for you," he muttered.

I was taken aback. "You were looking for me?"

Just to make sure I was not dreaming, I gave my hand a quick pinch.

I let out a hiss when I realized that it was not a dream and he was standing in front of me!

My eyes almost got teary as I found new hope for my brother. I had been searching for him for so long. Finally, my luck turned out to be on my side, and

A broad smile appeared on my face because of it.

He started to walk, making his way toward me.

However, he got hit on his leg by a chair on a table.

I immediately took off my apron and rushed to help him. "Max, are you okay?" I asked, holding his arm.

When he looked at me, I realized he was drunk.

"Max, please sit down."

I pulled a chair for him, and thankfully, he sat down there. "What happened to you? Why are you drunk – "

The smell of alcohol emanated from his shirt. His hair was messy, and his eyes were red because of the influence of the alcohol.

When I didn't get a response from him, I asked him again, "Are you okay?"

He gazed at me for a while, then shut his eyes. He gave a slight shake of his head and rubbed his forehead.

"Natalia?" he mumbled to himself.

"Yes?" I responded, sitting in a chair next to him.

"How come you are here?" he asked in a low tone.

"I work at this coffee shop."

He heaved a sigh and glanced at me. His eyes appeared to be cloudy. He needed some rest. What brought him here in such a state?

"I am a little drunk. Don't mind me."

"No, it's okay, Max."

He dropped his head on the table, indicating that he was out of strength.

I could not help but wonder what had caused this healer to become so upset that he felt the need to drink.

By the way, what was the reason behind his statement that he was looking for me?

“Were you looking for me? Is there anything that I can do to help you in any way?”

He was silent. I stared at his head. His hair looked soft to me. I thought he had fallen asleep. So I did not disturb him.

Then, all of a sudden, I caught a glimpse of a red mark on the back of his neck.

With a frown on my face, I suddenly felt the urge to see it more clearly.

As I leaned close to his head to get a better look at it, I saw a small dagger of red color.

I had never seen a mark like that before. I was so preoccupied with examining the mark that I could not notice when he moved his head.

I gasped when he turned his head toward me. His face became closer to mine.

His eyes, which were a little dizzy, were looking into mine.

“What are you looking at?” he asked me.

“T–That mark on your neck,” I replied.

I bit my tongue to stammer in front of him. But I was surprised when he answered my question.

“Only a healer can have this mark on their body.”

D

Alpha 167

Alpha 167

I slowly moved my face back. My wolf’s words came to mind when I heard him calling out the word “healer.”

According to my wolf, I would be a healer in the future, which I did not believe. If I had this mark on my body, then I could at least consider it.

I saw Max staring at me again. I felt frightened by his long and deep gaze.

Was he possessed by something?

I cleared my throat and got to my feet. "I think I can help you to ease your headache a little by brewing some coffee for you.

I turned around but stopped when he grabbed my hand.

I turned to him and saw him resting his head on the table once again.

"If you want to help me, then help me get back to my car. I want to go back to the hotel."

I thought for a moment. He helped me the night I was drunk. with great care, like a gentleman. Today, it was my turn to help him.

By the way, I could not lose contact with him. He could be the life savior of my brother.

"Okay, let's go."

I took his arm and encircled it around my shoulder while I was holding it. Then, I helped him to stand up. He was not unconscious but only drunk, so he did not put all of his weight on me.

I managed to grab the keys from the counter with our shaking steps and walk out of the coffee shop.

I closed the shop and asked Max,

"Where is your car?"

"I don't know," he muttered.

I was stunned by his answer. The man was drunk, and it was nighttime. If I couldn't find his car, where would I roam around with him in this state?

I turned my head to the left and right, then began to walk to the left side along with him.

I had no idea where I was going. But with each passing second, his weight became heavier on me.

"Don't lose your consciousness. Otherwise, we will have to be on the road the whole night.

In response, he chuckled like a crazy man. I let out a sigh and decided to get a taxi.

I tried to get him to stand up straight, but he ended up falling on me. I was on the verge of falling, but I managed to keep my steps under control and prev

'How am I even supposed to call a taxi in this condition?' I thought.

There was no taxi in sight when I looked around the street. I lost hope and raised my head to glance at him.

He was tall, and my head was pressed against his chest.

I could feel the heat rising on my cheeks when I felt how close we were.

He had been my mentor for a long time. I had always dreamed of meeting him. I even got the chance twice. But this time, I met him by fate.

"Max, can you hear me?"

"Hmm?"

I did not waste my time and asked him why I had been searching for him throughout the entire month.

"I need your help. My brother is sick. Will you help him?"

He was quiet, as if he were not listening to me. I wanted to ask him again, but at that time, a car came to a stop behind

Adrian said it with an angry tone.

I guessed that he was not aware that it was me until I turned to him after hearing his voice.

I looked away from him and bowed my head to him.

He was my head Alpha now. I was bound to bow down to him.

One thing that always surprised me was that he forbade the entire pack from saying anything against my parents. He declared the first day that the form

I was taken aback by the fact that he was such a great Alpha for the members of his pack. When the other pack said he was a successful Alpha, they did lie.

I wondered why he was giving my family such facilities. Did Jason make a request for that from him before submitting himself to him? Or was everything compensation for him for taking my children away from me?

“We were just trying to get a lift, Alpha.” I said it politely without looking at him.

I was afraid that if somehow his words angered me or if I offended him, he would make it difficult for me to contact my children.

Adrian ignored me and looked at Max. He patted his shoulder when he noticed Max was leaning on me.

“Doctor Max? What happened to you?”

Max was a very important person for every pack. He was the biggest healer, and no one could afford to offend him. Because every Alpha knew once in life, they might need Max's help for the

He gritted his teeth and asked,

My lips parted in shock. How could Adrian possibly have such a thought? Not only was he a cold-blooded man, but he was also the most filthy man I had ever come across.

What did he think of me? Who was I? A slut who roamed around men to sleep with them?

I was on the verge of growling at him. But I tightened my fists to control myself.

"You are misunderstanding the situation, Alpha," I said blankly while looking into his eyes.

His eyes were filled with scorn for me, which was something that I had seen before.

He scoffed at me. "Did I even need to ask you that question? You, you are the woman who can do anything to get what she wants. You drugged me that

His loud voice and the position of the way we were standing caused Max to come back to sense.

He shook his head and tried to stand straight. He frowned at Adrian, then glanced at me.

'Will he act in front of Adrian as if he did not ask me to help him?' I pondered, silently praying that I would not appear foolish.

"Alpha Adrian? What are you doing here?" Max asked with a muttering voice.

I immediately moved away from Adrian since Max had stood up straight by himself.

Doctor Max, you are drugged.

I could not understand why this man was calling Max drugged when he was actually drunk.

"No, I'm just drunk. Don't mind me."

Max took a step back, but his steps were shaky as he did so. I dashed to grab him again. Adrian gave me a stern look when he noticed that.

"Don't trust her," he said to Max.

Max blinked his eyes a few times and rubbed his forehead.

"She is with me. You don't have to worry about it."

Adrian's brows lifted when he heard his reply. His attention turned to me. However, I was looking at Max.

I could see he was making an effort to get back to his senses.

I wondered what actually happened to him. Did someone really drug him? Who wanted to harm a man as gentle as him?

"Alpha Adrian, I will see you later. I am just heading back to the hotel. She will help me."

After he finished speaking, Max placed his hand on my shoulder, signaling that he needed my assistance again without saying anything else.

I smiled at him and nodded my head. As soon as we began to walk, Adrian spoke out.

"Get in my car. I will drop you off at the hotel."

I turned my head to look at Adrian. "We can manage," I uttered at him.

He did not pay attention to me and looked at Max directly.

"It's already late, and you are not in a good state. I can't let you get harmed in my pack. So get in the car."

Max slowly turned to face him, and then he gave Adrian a nod.

"Thanks, Alpha Adrian."

I closed my eyes in annoyance. Max should not have accepted his offer.

After heaving a sigh, I walked toward the car while holding Max. I opened the back door and helped him sit inside.

I walked around the other side and opened the door. Before I could get inside, Adrian grabbed the edge of the door to stop

"Where are you getting in?" he asked.

I looked at him and replied, "In your car?"

I mean, was it not obvious to him?

He frowned at me. "Why? Do you want to go to the hotel so you can carry out your plan?"

He was getting on my nerves right now. How could a person take so much humiliation at a time?

"I don't care what plan you are thinking about. But I don't think I can trust you with him."

He scoffed at me. "And who is he to you that you can't trust me with? Your next target after your fiance, Eric? Oh wait, ex- fiance, because he is deadly

After saying that, I clambered into the backseat and forcefully closed the door.

From where I was sitting, I could see him tightening his fists.

As if he were trying to control his anger, he took some deep breaths and got in the driver's seat since he was the one who was driving the car.

During the whole ride, the car was silent. I did not let Max go alone with Adrian because I was afraid that I would lose contact with Max once again.

As the car was moving toward the direction of the hotel, I began to think about how Max would remember me.

A small smile appeared on my face when I got an idea. I opened my bag, took out the little notepad and pen, and wrote something down.

"Max, here is my cell number. Please call me when you are free. I need your help. - Natalia

I did not forget to leave my number on the note. As I was thinking about how to put the note in Max's pants' pocket, fate made it easier for me.

Suddenly, I felt weight on my shoulder. I turned my head and found Max sleeping on my shoulder.

I glanced at his pants' pocket and put the note into it in a very slow motion.

When I finally succeeded in doing it, I could not help but laugh. As I was about to move my head toward the window, my eyes fell on the rear mirror of the car.

I was taken aback when I noticed that Adrian was looking at Max and me with his dark eyes.

I opened the door and got out of the car. I was about to help Max come out when Adrian spoke out.

some waiters running over to Adrian’s car and starting to help Max.

“Be careful. He is sleeping,” I told them when they proceeded inside the hotel.

“Foolish woman, he is not asleep. He is unconscious.” I heard Adrian mutter.

The anger in my heart caused my eyes to glow blue as I replied to him.

I was on my way to the pack house in my car. Right now, my mind is completely disorganized.

Because of her words and the way she looked, I could not help but think about the past.

I recalled the night she drugged me. I used to believe that she was the one who did it.

“How can she admit it?” I groaned in anger as my fingers clenched around the steering wheel.

I was okay until today. I was aware of her plans against me, but the moment she admitted that she had drugged me and married me only for my position

I swerved the car to go in a different direction. I no longer had the mind to return to the pack house.

I went to my company’s apartment. I took a shower to ease my mind, but Natalia’s words kept replaying in my head.

I went out of the bathroom after the shower, lit a cigarette, and took a few puffs.

It somewhat relieved my distress a little.

At that moment, my phone began to ring. I glanced at the screen of my phone and noticed that it was Lynda.

I was not willing to receive her call right now. However, when she called once again, I went to grab the phone.

I received the call and was immediately greeted by her soft voice.

“Adrian, where are you?”

“I am at my house.”

“Your house? But I am in the pack house. You are not here.”

I frowned when I heard her. “What are you doing there late at night?”

After a brief silence, she replied in a low tone, “I am trying to get along with Aria and Noah. They are very sweet kids. I think they like me a lot. They even was hard to remain in my life. She was even taking care of my children selflessly.

“Lynda, it’s good that they like you.”

She chuckled and said, “I have a request. Will you fulfill it for me?”

“Just say it.”

“One of my friends is throwing a birthday party on Silver Night. Will you please accompany me there?”

Hearing that name, my mood turned gloomy.

Silver Night was the most expensive club in my pack. In fact, it was the same club where Natalia drugged me and managed to sleep with me.

Suddenly, my sight grew dark as I thought about something.

“I will.”

“Thank you, Adrian.”

I cut the call as my mind began to think about something. I checked the contact list on my phone and dialed a number.

When the person at the end of the line received the call, he let out a trembling voice.

“A–Alpha.”

I gave him the order to bring me all of the surveillance footage from that night without wasting any time.

Alpha, it’s been almost six years. How can we manage that night’s footage? We are not sure if it is still saved.”

I blew out the smoke of the cigarette and replied,

“Make sure that all of the surveillance records are checked. I want all the video recordings of that night in my hands tomorrow. If you can’t make it, I will shut down your clubbing business.”

I could not sleep the whole night as the past began to replay in my mind.

After that night, when I woke up the next morning, I found a stranger lying next to me naked under the blanket.

I was not shocked at all. I thought it was just another girl in the club who wanted to earn money by selling her body.

But what surprised me was that I could not recall anything. I was not even sure if I had slept with her. But there were many purple marks on her bare bac

“They are on their way to the company.”

As I heard him, my attention shifted to him. My brows lifted, and I asked,

“Did they find all the records?”

“Yeah. There are a few videos because there are so many cameras installed in various locations.’

I tightened my fists, trying to calm myself. The pressure on my right fist caused the cigarette to break. I threw it on the floor and stood up.

At that very moment, I heard a knock on the door of my cabin.

“Come in.”

I said it almost immediately. Patric glanced at me as if he were observing my desperate tone.

I saw three of my officials, Benjamin, Emon, and Julian, enter the cabin.

“Where is it?” I asked them.

Walking over to me, Benjamin gave me a pendrive.

I did not waste my time and hurried over to the desk. I opened my laptop, put in the pendrive, and started watching the first video.

The moment the video started to play, my eyes darkened.

I rewinded the video and saw the waiter adding something to my drink. I was not expecting it.

When I tried to see who gave him the order, my eyes widened.

It was not Natalia!

It was another woman. I was able to get a better look at her face by zooming in. My jaw was clenched as I stared at the face of the woman that was displayed on the screen.

I discovered that she was Natalia's cousin.

"Does that mean she did it and Natalia is innocent?" Benjamin asked all of a sudden, as all of them were standing next to me, to find the truth.

I said nothing, which made him stop talking.

There was no way that Natalia could be innocent. She might be the one who gave her cousin permission to do it.

I continued to play a few more videos. This time, I was only interested in watching Natalia's cousin's activity because I no longer needed to watch mine.

Almost ten minutes later, a girl entered the club. My gaze paused on hers. She was none other than Natalia. She was quite young at the time.

I almost scoffed when she went to meet her cousin directly. However, what her cousin did to her shocked me.

Natalia's cousin slapped her. Natalia began to cry while holding her cheek.

I clenched my jaw when I saw it.

"What's wrong? Why did she slap Natalia? Didn't she do everything for her?" Patric muttered.

I could not move my eyes from the screen for a second, nor did I blink.

I saw how Natalia tried to hold her cousin's hand, but that woman withdrew it away from her. Her cousin grabbed her hair and said something to her, the

That woman pointed her in the direction of the private rooms as if telling her to go there.

"Is she blackmailing her to sleep with you?" Julian said it in a lower tone.

I was not getting anything about what was happening in the video.

My mind was messed up. Things like this were not what I expected from the video. My mind was no longer focused on what the truth was.

My blood was boiling from the thought of Natalia's cousin physically abusing her.

How dare she?

Natalia had never told me that any of her cousins bullied her. In fact, when she met this cousin at our wedding, she talked to her very politely, as if she wished.

I saw Natalia start to walk in the direction of the private rooms. I knew where she was going.

But I froze when I noticed she had stopped in front of the door of another room, which was not where I was.

My eyes widen when I see her colliding with me.

I could feel my officials turning their heads toward me.

My heart began to pound as I was ready to see reality, to know the truth, and to learn that what I had been believing was only a lie.

"Play the video from my angle," I said with an angry voice.

Theta Emon looked right away for the video, where I could see the camera recording on my side.

He played it as soon as he discovered it.

I leaned over, put my palms on the desk's glass, and took a close look at the footage.

Chapter 177

The moment the video was over, I shoved the laptop away from the desk and threw it on the floor.

"Adrian!"

Patric tried to hold my hand, but I yanked it away.

"How can I be so stupid? HOW?"

I growled when I felt like my heart was burning in hellfire. I could not believe Natalia was innocent and had not drugged me.

In fact, she did not even look like she had any intention to trap me.

It was all because of Natalia's cousin.

"Bring that bitch here to me. I will kill her."

I yelled at my officials, who immediately lowered their heads in submission.

I ran my fingers through my hair as I was losing all of my patience.

Natalia was innocent!

She was not the one who drugged me. Her intention was not to ensnare me in any way. Because I was under the influence of drugs, I was the one who might have been the one to initiate getting closer to her. She was only trying to save herself.

"WHY?"

I punched the glass of the desk in anger. Immediately, blood rushed out of my broken skin as my hand broke the glass.

'Calm down, Adrian.'

Patric and Benjamin held my arms tightly to stop me from destroying everything in front of me.

"Alpha, please. Control your anger. We are in our company right now," Delta Julian reminded me.

I was lost in reality. I had never thought the truth would hit me like this.

"Did you not hear what I said? Bring that bitch over here right now." I yelled at them again.

Theta Emon nodded his head and glanced at the others. "I am going to find Natalia's cousin," he said, leaving the cabin.

"Why did that woman drug you when she had no plan to send Natalia into your room?" Julian asked with confusion.

"It's simple. She wanted to sleep with Alpha but at the same time ruin the daughter of the gamma's reputation in public by sending her to an old man's room."

I tightened my fists, which caused my right hand to bleed more.

Suddenly, Natalia's words came to mind. "I thought you would kill my children."

My eyes widened. I could no longer hold my expression anymore.

Was she telling me the truth? Was that the only reason she divorced me and ran away? Was that the reason why she had been hiding them from me? Was she just trying to protect them from me?

Patric, my best friend, aka my beta, pulled me over the couches and sat me down.

"Take it," he said, pulling a cigarette out of its packet and offering it to me.

He did that to ease my anger but all I wanted right then was a bottle of wine to remove the stress I was experiencing in my mind.

"All these times, I was hurting for nothing? I thought.

My wolf growled inside, telling me that I was wrong from the beginning. He kept telling me how I had hurt his mate without trying to find out the truth.

I got to my feet and made my way to the door.

I opened the door and replied,

"Where is she right now?" I asked while looking outside the window.

"Alpha, as you ordered us, we always kept an eye on her. She is in the Moon Lovers coffee shop right now."

"Moon Lovers coffee shop?"

"Yeah. That is the place where she is currently working."

Why was she working in a coffee shop? Didn't I give her my cards to use?

"Send my driver the address," I said and cut the call.

In a few seconds, my driver got the address and started the car to head to that coffee shop.

In the meantime, I checked my phone to see the balance of the cards that I had sent her through Delta Julian.

As the passing landscape outside the window drove me crazy, I closed my eyes and leaned back against the seat.

Memories of the past began to torment my mind. I could hear Natalia's cries of the moments whenever I used to tell her about divorcing her. She used to

This was what she told me whenever I told her how much I despised her.

I came here all the way to talk to Natalia, but when she was in front of me, I had no words to say.

What would I tell her? How would she react?

As I was thinking all of these while looking at her for a long time, I heard a few voices from outside.

This led me to believe that he was the one who instructed his friend to refer to Natalla as his sister-in-law.

I tightened my fists when I saw Natalia give him a warm grin as he went to the counter to place an order.

The walls of the coffee shop were made of glass. Since they opened all the blinds to let the sunshine enter the shop, I could see everything happening inside.

It could not just take it and open the car door. I got out of my car and shut the door.

I went to the shop and opened the glass door. I could hear the sound of bells ringing. It was an alarm that a customer had entered the shop.

I ignored it and went inside. When I looked around, I noticed that the majority of the customers were students from high school and college.

Everyone’s eyes fell on me, and I could see their scanning eyes.

I bet they did not know who I was. Otherwise, they would never dare look at me like that.

My gaze roamed around the shop and stopped on the counter.

I could not find Natalia. I glanced at a door behind the counter and assumed she went inside.

“Call your other employee.”

“Who, Sir? Are you looking for someone?” She asked with a blush on her face.

“Call Natalia. I don’t have much time for inquiries.”

I almost said that out loud. The customers at the tables closest to the counter focused their attention on me.

“What are you doing here?”

I heard Natalia’s voice and looked in that direction.

My eyes paused on her the moment she came out of the door.

She pulled her hair back into a high ponytail. Her black shirt and blue jeans gave her a really young look.
