

Talented 1441

Chapter 1441

Looking at Rachel's look, Sethaden knew what she was talking about.

She also said that it got cut.

Sethaden was stunned.

His handsome face turned completely black as a man's dignity was at stake.

Sethaden was so distracted that Rachel got his way, and his belt was ripped off by her.

Rachel looked bold and thick-skinned on the surface, but in fact she was really a bit timid.

She tugged, not even looking at him as she fumbled and grabbed the medicine on the table, just intending to put it on him.

But she could not close her eyes when she was administering medicine.

After Rachel had done enough mental construction, she still chose to open her eyes.

When she looked at the image in front of her, she was stunned.

What happened to the hidden disease?

Why was it different from what she thought?

"Get out!"

Listening to Sethaden's suppressed hoarse voice, Rachel realized something as an afterthought, and indeed, she next heard him speak again in a raspy voice, "I was drugged by Ariella! Get out now! Or I'm afraid I'll hurt you!"

Rachel clutched the medicine in her hand, she could neither move forward nor retreat, for a moment, she could only stand dumbfounded in her place.

Ever since she was a child, whenever she got the chance, she would sneak out of the palace and walk around the world with money on her back.

Having travelled the world so many times, she has bit of experience.

For example, don't eat anything given by a stranger, because the stranger is likely to be a bad person, and what he gives is likely to be spiked with drug.

She is such a young girl, what if she is drugged and sold to traffickers!

She had also heard that some men and women would use unorthodox tactics to get the person they fancy, but she really didn't expect that Ariella, the daughter of a city governor, would use such dirty tricks!

She had heard that being put under something like that can be very damaging.

Seeing Sethaden's red eyes, as if he was a wolf, Rachel's heart was frightened, but more than that, it was still heartbroken.

This handsome young general was her man!

How could she allow him to suffer!

She wished she could slash Ariella!

Sethaden knew that his sanity was on the verge of collapse, he did not intend to continue wasting time with Rachel, he directly grabbed her by the shoulders and lifted her to the door of the room.

"Sethaden, I'm not going out!"

Rachel pushed the room door open with force and rushed in regardless. When she was in a hurry, her eyes would physically red and she looked indescribably aggrieved.

Her eyes were filled with crystal tears and her mouth pouted slightly, making him want to take her into his arms and cherish her.

Her lips trembled gently, and the words she uttered carried obvious annoyance, "Sethaden, what kind of person do you take me to be? You've been backstabbed, how can I leave you alone?!"

"Sethaden, you really look down on me!"

"I don't want you to regret it!" Sethaden spoke in a dumb voice.

He knew that this girl was good to him and was quite righteous, but they had only known each other for two days, and even if he fancy her and was willing to take responsibility for her, he could not be selfish enough to take her when he had nothing to give her yet.

"I don't regret it!"

Rachel stubbornly pounced on him, tears in her eyes.

"Sethaden, you keep driving me away, are you worried that I'll be unfaithful to you?"

"Sethaden, don't worry, I'm not that heartless woman! Since I have said that I will be responsible for you, I'll definitely keep my words!"

"If you still don't want to trust me, let's have God witness this. After that, you'll really be mine, and I won't renege on my debt for the rest of my life!"

With that, Rachel took Sethaden's hand and led him to kneel down with her.

"God, I, Rachel, and Sethaden are hereby joined in matrimony, and henceforth shall share in honor and disgrace, and shall never leave each other till death."

But perhaps the light on the girl's face was too sincere and moving, and such fatal words were not spoken by Sethaden.

He just stared at the girl in front of him and spoke word by word, "I, Sethaden, and Rachel are hereby married, and henceforth we will share honor and disgrace, and will never leave each other till death."

After hearing Sethaden's words, Rachel was very satisfied, smiling brightly.

She took his hand into her palm and, interlocking her fingers with his.

Sethaden's eyes grew darker and darker, his handsome face carried a dotting look that could not be dissolved, he was no longer willing to restrain his desire for her, he turned around and pinned her underneath him.

Rachel still smiled with her eyebrows arched as she grabbed a strand of his hair and tangled it with a strand of hers in a knot.

"We will be husband and wife forever."

"We shall have everlasting love, never separate."

Rachel's long tail voice was swallowed up by Sethaden's kiss, the sudden intimacy made her face so shy that it turned flushing, but because she liked him so much, all the shyness turned into the longest joy, as if, this moment became still.

When Rachel woke up, the sky in the east was just showing the first glimpse of white.

When she thought of the madness of last night, two more scarlet clouds instantly rose to her glistening tender face.

Because she had always said that Sethaden was her man, she felt that she had to show some courage.

So last night, she had been trying to look like a bully girl.

What happened?

Later, the man showed his true colours as a vicious wolf and nearly broke her back.

Rachel rubbed her waist, which was about to break, and her painful face was wrinkled into a frown.

Peacock flowers was a good medicine. Not long ago, Sethaden was still dying from his injuries, but last night, it was as if he had inexhaustible strength all over his body.

It nearly took her bones out.

Thinking of her frustrated appearance last night when she had been crying and begging for mercy, Rachel couldn't help but silently cover her face.

So humiliating.

After covering her face for a while, Rachel couldn't help but remove her hand again and quietly survey Sethaden's sleeping face.

He was so good looking in person, any way.

What should she say later, when he woke up?

Oops, first time she had experienced this, it was really embarrassing!

Chapter 1442

Compliment to his prowess?

No!

What if the more she praised him, the more powerful he would become! Then she would be squeezed to death by him!

Forget it, it was better to tell him again that she would be responsible for him, so that he wouldn't think of her as one of those unfaithful women who had abandoned him.

As soon as Sethaden opened his eyes, he saw Rachel's face scrunched up in a bitter, distressed manner.

Seeing her eyes keep slyly twirling, Sethaden could not help but laugh lightly.

Hearing Sethaden's laughter, Rachel hurriedly sat upright, she cleared her throat and spoke somewhat uncomfortably, "Sethaden, you're awake!"

"Yeah."

"Don't worry about last night, I won't renege on what happened last night."

Rachel continued to speak with a red face, "I will be responsible for you in the future, if you still feel uneasy, I will give you all the money I have with me."

"Sethaden, in the future, I will treat you well."

After saying this, Rachel dropped her head, she was too embarrassed to look at Sethaden's handsome face.

One look at his face and she couldn't help but remember that she had done something impure to him, last night.

Granted, last night, he was clearly the crazier one, but he was really good looking and it still gave her a sense of blasphemous guilt.

No matter how good he was treated, it didn't feel like enough.

After hearing Rachel's words, Sethaden's handsome face, which was always expressionless, was tinted with an increasingly bright smile.

Shouldn't he be the one to say these things?

This silly girl, again, stole his lines.

The moment Sethaden drifted off, Rachel had already pushed her bag in front of him, and she carefully untied it, "Sethaden, look, I really have lots and lots of money. If you take my money, you won't have to worry that I will fail you."

Rachel had not said for the first time that she had a lot of money, but previously Sethaden had not really paid much attention to the bag she was carrying. He thought that the girl had at most taken some money from home and run out, but unexpectedly, when he looked at it now, there was a thick pile of notes inside her bag, and, on any of them, there was a face value of ten thousand.

This girl is, indeed, very rich.

Her identity, it seems, is not simple.

However, no matter who she is, she is the girl that he has decided to take care of in this life.

“Sethaden, I’m not lying to you, am I? I’m really rich! I can really support you for the rest of your life!”

Thinking of something, Rachel then spoke, “Sethaden, you only know that my name, but you don’t even know what is my identity, who is in my family before you were bullied by me, do you feel so disadvantaged?”

“Sethaden, I admit you are disadvantaged, but I didn’t lie to you just now, I will really treat you very, very well, and I will treat you better and better in the future.”

When this happens, she is the one who is disadvantaged.

Looking at the blinding red plum beside the bed, the heavier the pity Sethaden felt for her in his heart, he reached out his hand and pulled her into his arms, “Rachel, I will also treat you well, for the rest of my life.”

Rachel’s face was blushing again.

Perhaps his voice was so mellow and melodious that when he called her, she actually felt a different kind of lingering, wanting to bring the best under the sky to him.

Rachel’s thoughts drifted slightly away.

Once, when her mother was still alive, she once told her that when she grew up, her mother would find the best young man in the world for her, so that she would be the happiest bride in the world.

Her mother was really a very gentle and good woman, but she loved the wrong person.

She had done everything to help her father rise from the least favoured prince to the throne of the emperor.

She thought that if she treated her father with all her heart and soul, he would promise her a lifetime being together, as he had promised, but she had underestimated the ruthlessness of emperor, and he had changed his heart after all. Her mother was sad and one day left this world with regrets.

When she thought of her mother, Rachel’s eyes were slightly wet. She had not been able to get married as her mother had wished, but she had found the best young man in the world, and when she married him under the moonlight, she was the happiest bride in the world.

Mother, I will be happy. My man has said that he will be good to me for life and for all time.

“Rachel

When she heard Sethaden’s voice, Rachel returned to her senses.

Rachel hugged Sethaden’s neck, smiling, “Sethaden, we have to be together for one lifetime! Don’t worry, I won’t be dazzled by the young boys outside, in this life, I only want you.”

She actually, and hopefully, Sethaden only loves her.

The tragedy of her mother was too upsetting, but she believed in Sethaden was not the same.

He is not heartless.

“We will be together in a lifetime.”

He did not make any more vows to Rachel, but only clutched her hand tightly.

The first time he was in love, he wanted to press Rachel under his body, but the situation in the border city was critical and he was worried about Kieran, Freya and the others, so he got out of bed, got dressed and hurriedly went to the military camp to meet up with the three generals.

Sethaden and Rachel had gone over early, the three generals had just finished reorganising their troops. When they saw him coming, they hurriedly drank some water and rushed with him to the border city with the 100,000 troops from Pingcheng.

Pingcheng is nearly two days' journey from the border, and even if they were to travel through the night, the earliest they could get there would be late the next night.

Last night, General Lowe had already sent out spies to scout out the battle situation over at the border city.

Halfway through the march, they came across a scout who had hastily returned.

The Huns had learned of the shortage of provisions in the Fitzgerald army and they wanted to drag them out and starve them alive.

The three thousand soldiers escorting the provisions raised in Jiangnan back to the border city were ambushed on the way and suffered heavy losses of provisions. Even if they eventually escorted some of the provisions back to the border city, the Fitzgerald army would not last three or two days.

Naturally, the Huns intended to continue with their delaying tactics and wear the Fitzgerald army down without a single soldier.

It was just that they didn't expect things to suddenly take a turn for the worse.

Chapter 1443

Late last night, the young general of the Fitzgerald family, Alistair, with a small army, sneaked into the Huns camp and took advantage to set fire to their provisions.

The greatest advantage of the Hun army was that they now had plenty of provisions in their army, and they naturally could not afford to let any of their provisions slip away.

When the fire was discovered, the Hun soldiers were quick to put it out, but the east wind was blowing so hard last night that the fire could not be stopped.

The Huns army had been preparing provisions for a whole year, and they no longer had any advantage in terms of food and fodder.

Even the Fitzgerald army could barely support itself for a few days with the provisions brought from Jiangnan, but the Huns were already without rice for even their next meal.

The Huns army was far away from their base camp, plus there was already a shortage of food within the Huns country, and with the sudden destruction of so much grain and grass, they would not have been able to replace it in time.

Leading an army of half a million men in this attack on the Great Wei was the Huns' great general, Austin.

A decade ago, the Huns were defeated by the Fitzgerald army. The Huns had been emboldened by the Fitzgerald army and were divided into two factions within the Huns, the main peace faction and the main war faction.

The main peace faction decided that as long as the Fitzgerald army was still in place, they, the Huns, must not go to war with the Great Wei.

The main war faction, however, has always wanted to wipe out the shame of the past and fight to the death against the Fitzgerald army.

The main war faction had the upper hand in the subsequent struggle between the two factions. The fact that Austin led half a million troops on the expedition had already made the domestic main peace faction unhappy, but now they had lost so much food and provisions, and if they could not defeat the Fitzgerald army, the main peace faction would have to censure them to death in front of the Huns king.

If they could behead the Fitzgerald family and return home in triumph, it would be a different kind of scenery, and from then on, the main peace faction would no longer be able to compete with them!

Austin desperately wanted to destroy the Fitzgerald army and completely overwhelm the main peace faction, so he no longer dared to wait, he beat the war drums himself, intending to take the border city and kill the Fitzgerald family!

In Austin's view, although the Fitzgerald army was brave and fierce, it only had 300,000 soldiers, while they had 500,000 troops. Moreover, he had already gotten the news that Emperor Wei wanted to put the Fitzgerald army to death, so he was afraid that this time, he could still make use of Emperor Wei to make this world with no more Fitzgerald army!

At this time, the Huns army had already started to attack the border city, and the Emperor Wei had even quietly built tunnels in the border city earlier. 30,000 of his own soldiers, following the tunnels, sneaked inside the border city and quietly cut down the Fitzgerald army, which could now be said to be under attack at the back and desperate at every step!

Kieran was a military genius, he had been in battle since he was a teenager and had achieved numerous miraculous feats, he was also the best at strategizing, but no matter how clever he was, he did not dare to think that the Emperor Wei would build tunnels in the border cities and send soldiers to kill the soldiers who were fighting on the front line when the two armies were at war.

Those who quietly entered the city were not only the 30,000 personal soldiers of the Emperor Wei, but also the 100,000 troops led by Xander, who even took advantage of the battle between the two armies to force open the city gates and let the Huns soldiers enter the city, slaughtering the people of the border city!

Even the soldiers under Xander took up the butcher's knife themselves, slaughtering the people of the border city so as to distract Kieran, so that they could destroy the power of the Fitzgerald army in one go.

After listening to the spy's report, Sethaden's face was as dark and sullen.

The three generals were furious and cursed incessantly.

Throughout the ages, they had never heard of a king who had been so lethargic and brutal as to join forces with foreign enemies and slaughter his own people in order to kill the generals who had done so much for the country!

Such a heartless ruler should be eliminated by everyone!

The three generals had been taught to be loyal and patriotic all their lives, but at this moment, they only wanted to rebel against this dim-witted ruler!

Faced with the massacre of the soldiers, the people of the city had no power to fight back.

The people of the border city were defenceless when 30,000 of the Emperor Wei's own troops, as well as Xander's army, suddenly appeared in the border city.

Luckily, Kieran was quicker to react and he found out the exit of the underground passage in the city in time and ordered his soldiers to intercept Wei's troops who were trying to enter the city through the underground passage, so that all of Xander's soldiers would not sneak into the border city.

Emperor Wei could ignore the lives of the people in the city, but Kieran could not stand by and watch innocent people die in front of him.

He mobilised a set of Fitzgerald's troops to decimate the Emperor Wei's own soldiers and, more importantly, to protect the people of the city.

As long as there is one last Fitzgerald army who has not fallen, they will never forget their guardianship of the people.

Half a million Huns troops, Xander led 100,000 troops, plus 30,000 of the Emperor Wei's own troops, and the Emperor Wei's sharpest minions, the secret guards, adding up to almost 650,000 troops, while the Fitzgerald army, only 300,000, they also had to divide their troops to protect the people in the city, this battle, for the Fitzgerald army, actually seems like a massacre.

At that time, when the Huns came to invade, Kieran had already asked for troops to go out, but the Emperor Wei had been deliberately delaying, and by the time he led his army over, it was already too late to evacuate the people in the city, which made the situation of the Fitzgerald army more and more critical.

Sethaden's fists were clenched, Kieran had never wanted to plot a rebellion.

But the king had forced the issue and he had to rebel!

If this time, the Fitzgerald army can still return to the capital in triumph, there will be rebel!

What the Fitzgerald army guards has always been more than a mountain and river free from worry and peaceful people, not a dim-witted and brutal emperor!

Casey, Emperor of Wei, deserves to die!

The soldiers under the three generals also had a heartfelt admiration for the Fitzgerald army. They were still tired from the long journey, but now they heard that the Fitzgerald army had been attacked on their backs and that the Emperor Wei had not even spared the people in the city, they were so enraged that they did not feel tired even though they were walking fast.

They just want to grip the spear and slaughter, not to let the scheming of the unscrupulous emperor succeed, not to let the loyalists who are dedicated to the country and the people spill their blood on the frontier.

Without realising it, the army accelerated its journey.

There were some words that no one said, but everyone knew clearly in their hearts that if this time, all of Fitzgerald army was killed, they were only afraid that the Emperor Wei's lackeys would join hands with Huns to slaughter the city.

When the time comes, the Emperor Wei will definitely place the charge of slaughtering the city on the Fitzgerald army, and then, the Fitzgerald army will sacrifice for Wei, but in the end, they will still be tarnished as bandits!

On what grounds!

How is it that the loyal and virtuous are wronged and the sinister and cunning Emperor Wei is still able to sit on this great land?

Each of the 100,000 soldiers secretly gnashed their teeth.

They must not allow the Emperor Wei's machinations to succeed!

Because, if the Emperor Wei's plotting and scheming succeeds, the Fitzgerald army dies, the loyalists are gone, and this country, too, dies

Chapter 1444

When the army led by Sethaden and the three generals was thirty miles away from the border city, the spies suddenly came to report that a troop had appeared to the south of the border city.

A rough estimate is that there were about 100,000 troops.

The scout under the three generals was first class and he had already found out where the troops were coming from.

That army was the army of the Nanyi State.

Nanyi is also a small southern state adjacent to Nanzhao, and its power is simply not comparable to that of Great Wei, but unlike Nanzhao, which has befriended Great Wei for generations, Nanyi has always been ambitious.

Ten years ago, Nanyi once stirred up trouble along the southern coast, and Kieran led the Fitzgerald's army to quell it. So they retreated from the border and never disturbed the peace of Great Wei again.

But this time, the army of the Nanyi State rushed to the border city because an agreement had been reached with the Emperor Wei.

The Great Wei promised that if Nanyi could assist the Great Wei in destroying the Fitzgerald army, all five cities along the southern coast would be in the possession of Nanyi.

"Crazy! Crazy!"

Hearing the news from the scouts, General Lowe was so angry that he stabbed his sword on the ground, dust flying.

"This self-indulgent ruler is trying to give our Great Wei away to someone else! We had a hard time expelling Nanyi from our Great Wei borders ten years ago, and now this ruler wants to give away five cities along the coast!"

"In order to exterminate his people, he has gone to the lengths of ceding land to lure invaders into our Great Wei! When I help General Fitzgerald expel the Huns from the country, I will go and cut off the head of that dim-witted ruler! Does he know how many innocent people will be killed and how many more will be displaced and lose their homes?"

"Foolish ruler! What a faint-hearted ruler!" General Lee also sighed in anger, "It's ridiculous that we are loyal to such a dim ruler. If it wasn't for General Sethaden informing us of the battle in the border city this time, I'm afraid we would still be aiding and abetting the enemy in Pingcheng!"

General Moore waved his spear in his hand, "This time, even if we leave our lives on the frontier, we will definitely not let the Emperor Wei's plot succeed!"

The war horse Rachel rode was right beside Sethaden, and she heard all the words reported by the spies.

She was also taken aback by the behaviour of the Emperor of Great Wei.

It was the first time in her life that she had heard of a lord of a country giving up his country's cities to foreign invaders in order to brutalise the loyal.

In this way, her father was much more noble than even the Great Emperor Wei.

Rachel knew that the person who was most worried at this time was definitely Sethaden, whose parents, younger siblings, many friends and relatives, as well as the 300,000 troops of the Fitzgerald family who had fought together to kill the enemy, were all at the frontier, their lives hanging in the balance, and he must be thinking about their safety all the time.

"Sethaden, don't worry, the Fitzgerald army are all great heroes, they will be fine."

“Yeah, they’ll be fine.” Sethaden replied softly, as if he was speaking to Rachel, in fact, it was more like he was telling him himself.

Originally, 650,000 troops against 300,000 Fitzgerald army, Fitzgerald army was already carrying a heavy load, now with 100,000 more soldiers from Nanyi, he was really worried that Kieran and the others would not be able to support them.

Sethaden heavily closed his eyes and slowly opened them again, his once dark and cold eyes were streaked with red blood, and he tilted his face up as if silently questioning God.

The faint-hearted ruler has no sense of justice, does he not know that the people suffer when he rises, and when he falls, they suffer.

When he thought of the bloodshed in Feng Ming Valley, and his men fell down with wounds all over their bodies, Sethaden only felt chills all over his body. The sun was warm in the sky, but his body was covered with a thick layer of ice.

“Sethaden, I’ll stay with you!”

A hand, clutching his large hand, intertwined with his fingers.

“Sethaden, no matter what happens, I will be there for you.”

Sethaden did not say anything, but he felt that, being clutched by this hand, the coolness in his body was dispelled, little by little, and in his heart was warm again.

It was as if, as long as she was there for him, everything would really be okay.

Sethaden was really badly injured this time, even if Freya treated him, he would still have to recuperate for half a month, but the effects of the Peacock flower were so miraculous that after he took it twice more on the way, he could no longer feel any discomfort in his body.

Sethaden really could not put on his wings and fly to Pingcheng immediately to help Kieran.

But in modern times, 30 miles is just a ten-minute drive, whereas in ancient times, when transport was backward, a march would have taken nearly half a day.

Besides, the soldiers had to rest, and if they had gone on without sleep for the two-day journey, they would have collapsed from exhaustion just before they reached the border.

During the rest of the journey, spies kept reporting that the Huns were attacking the city from the front, and that Nanyi were trying to enter from behind Pingcheng, and that the Fitzgerald army was split up in many places, their forces were badly scattered, and in every place, they were outnumbered.

The only good news was that after Xander and the others took the initiative to open the gates to meet the enemy, Kieran actually killed the first wave of Huns attacking the city, leaving almost no survivors, and re-closed the gates.

But the second wave of Huns soldiers had already rushed up, and the attack was becoming more and more fierce. The gates of the border city were already shaking, and even if Kieran led his troops to defend it to the death, he would not be able to hold on for long.

Soon, another spy came to report that even though the Fitzgerald army was outnumbered and brave, they were outnumbered in the end.

The gates of Pingcheng had been breached by the Huns, and Xander had hidden his troops so that everyone thought he was leading an army of 100,000, when in fact, he had brought 200,000 troops to the border city.

The army led by Xander had already met up with the army of Nanyi, and nearly 300,000 troops were assembled, ready to deal a fatal blow to the Fitzgerald army.

Listening to the scout's report, Sethaden's face became increasingly grave.

If Xander could hide his troops, Emperor Wei's own troops could naturally hide their strength too.

If the Fitzgerald army had ignored the old, weak, women and children in the city, they might have had a chance to break out, but it was impossible for the Fitzgerald army to ignore the lives of the people, so they were hamstrung at every turn and struggled.

After a short rest, the soldiers were actually tired, but hearing that so many troops had laid siege to the Fitzgerald army, the soldiers were all as beaten up as if they had hastily set up camp to eat some lunch to satisfy their hunger, and then continued on to border as fast as they could.

Nearly a mile from the border, Sethaden and the others heard the fierce sounds of killing.

Rachel had heard many stories of generals who fought and killed in the sands, but this was the first time she had ever been in battle.

The smell of blood wafting through the air made her stomach feel sick.

But when she thought of Sethaden's parents and relatives ahead of her, and the brothers he had been born with, her body was suddenly filled with endless strength again.

He is her man and she will protect him, and she will try to protect the people he cares about.

Chapter 1445

With the openness of the people of Great Wei, and the fact that Kieran would always take Freya with him no matter how he fought in the north or south, there was no rule in Great Wei that did not allow women to enter the military.

Rachel had already changed into a military outfit early.

She looks delicate and beautiful, and in her armour she adds a touch of gallantry, rather like a female general.

Sethaden actually wants Rachel to stay in Pingcheng, after all, swords have no eyes, and he does not want his beloved girl to spill her blood on the battlefield.

He knew she was stubborn and he couldn't argue with her, so in the end, he had no choice but to let her go.

In the worst case, he will take his life and keep her safe and sound.

Rachel knew that she was really not very good at fighting, but she certainly couldn't possibly hold Sethaden back.

Instead, she wanted to stand alongside him and do her bit for the people she cared about.

She's been resourceful since she was a child, plus she's quietly hidden a lot of guns and ammunition on her body, so she'll definitely be able to help him cut down a lot of enemy soldiers this time!

Sethaden and Rachel finally saw the soldiers fighting together, and almost at first glance, both of them, coincidentally, saw Freya and Kieran, who were holding swords and fighting side by side against the Huns.

In fact, after carefully counting, after crossing over to his previous life, this was the first time Sethaden had met Kieran and Freya of this era.

Kieran and Freya, who look exactly the same as they do in modern times, have a slightly different temperament, however.

In modern times, Kieran was cold and calm, but in this era, he has a stern and murderous aura, and a domineering spirit, as if he was born to be an undefeated god of war.

In modern times, Freya also has a cold and stern side, but in front of Sethaden, Jayla and Alistair, she is mostly gentle and loving. At this moment, her body is splattered with blood, and she is holding a sword in her hand, fighting bravely to kill the enemy. Her body is full of heroic energy, which makes Sethaden feel the urge to cry.

One after another, the Hun soldiers fell beside Kieran, and the more he killed, the more brave he became, but Freya, standing beside him, was obviously stretched.

A soldier in Great Wei uniform, seeing the weakness of Freya's body, crept up behind her with his spear in hand, wanting to deal her a fatal blow.

Freya was in the middle of a vicious fight with two Hun soldiers, so he didn't notice this man's sneak attack!

"Mother!" Sethaden shouted in anxiety, he wanted to rush over and cut down the soldier who had shamelessly sneaked up on Freya, but he was still some distance away from her, he was not that fast.

Luckily, Kieran noticed the man's movement, and he kicked over the Hun soldier who was wrapped around him. He quickly pulled Freya into his arms, and with the force of his hand, he directly broke the lance in the hand of the man who tried to sneak in.

In a flash of lightning, the head of the broken spear was again viciously stabbed into the heart of the sneak attacker by him.

When Freya was not injured by the sneak attacker, Sethaden did not breathe a sigh of relief because he saw that the Huns general, Austin, took advantage of Kieran to save Freya, he galloped his horse wildly, clutched the large sword in his hand and slashed at his back heart.

Another soldier of the Great Wei, with a lance in his hand, stabbed viciously at Freya's heart. Kieran quickly kicked the soldier over and took Freya with him to avoid his attack, but he could no longer avoid the slash of Austin when he shielded Freya.

Sethaden's eyes were red with desire, and he drew his sword and wanted to fight Austin to the death.

He thought that the large sharp knife would eventually cut through Kieran's back, but unexpectedly, the knife did not pierce his back, instead, a bloody hole appeared on the back of Austin's hand.

"Sethaden, am I a good shot?"

Rachel smiled with a self-satisfied face, "Actually, I'm even better at archery!"

If she had done such a brave thing in normal times, Rachel would have had to ask Sethaden to give her compliment, but now that the situation was critical, she couldn't be bothered to ask him for a compliment.

With a firm clip to the belly of her horse, she quickly rushed into the fray to help the Fitzgerald army.

The Fitzgerald army was outnumbered and did not show much of a decline. Now that reinforcements had arrived, the Fitzgerald army's morale instantly rose, and in an instant, many Huns as well as Great Wei soldiers were cut down.

Austin had taken this shot from Rachel, he was willing to take such a big loss for nothing!

At that moment, he couldn't care less about slashing Kieran to death, he just wanted to kill the girl who shot him through the right hand first!

Austin was used to using his right hand, which was now badly injured, and the large sword in his hand fell to the ground.

On the battlefield, it is an ominous sign when a weapon falls to the ground. In the shadow of the sword, he could not pick up the sword that had fallen to the ground, so he could only take the weapon handed to him by his men with his left hand and slash at Rachel with a fierce face.

Of course Rachel would not be foolish enough to wait to be hacked to death by Austin, she gripped the gun in her hand and tried to deal him a fatal blow.

This time, however, Austin was already on guard, and he easily dodged her shot, and then spurred his horse straight at her.

Sethaden's brow knitted as he rushed to Rachel, then raised his sword and tangled with Austin.

Looking at Sethaden, who was dressed in white armour, Freya's tears, wordlessly, rolled down.

"Jaden, you're alive"

She had already heard her men report how tragic the battle at Feng Ming Valley was, and she thought her Jaden was gone, but to her surprise, she could still see him, standing with his sword across his back, fighting bravely to kill the enemy.

If it weren't for the fact that there were still heavy enemy forces surrounding her, she would really want to rush to him, hug him hard and tell him that it was good that he was back.

Hearing Freya's voice, Sethaden's eyes were slightly wet as he spoke softly, "Mother, I'm back!"

When he returns, he will protect this Fitzgerald army, the people of the world that the Fitzgerald army is so determined to defend!

Austin also thought that Sethaden had died in Feng Ming Valley, and when he saw the young general holding his sword and stabbing him viciously, he was slightly stunned.

Sethaden was one of the best in the world, and with his right hand wounded, he was defeated.

Just now, Austin first sneaked up on Kieran and then swung a knife at her, Rachel had a very bad impression of him. Seeing him being beaten up by Sethaden, she couldn't help but raise her lips at him with glee.

See how handsome the man she fancy is!

"Brother!"

Seeing that Sethaden had returned alive, Alistair also rushed over to this side with his horse, his body, too, was covered in blood, not knowing whether it was the enemy's or his own.

When he saw Alistair, Sethaden looked slightly dazed.

In modern times, Alistair is more than five years younger than him, but in this time and place, he is only two years younger.

The Alistair, as he is remembered, has grown into a man.

The man who can fight alongside him, side by side.

Chapter 1446

Seeing Austin's lieutenant attacking towards Sethaden, Alistair hastily drew his sword and went to meet him.

Alistair was no less skilled than Sethaden, his sword in his hand was sharp, and in the blink of an eye he had cut down Austin's lieutenant.

When Austin saw that he was surrounded by fewer and fewer men, and the men of the Fitzgerald family were fighting more and more bravely, he couldn't help but feel nervous.

He knew that if he continued to fight with Sethaden, today, his life, for sure, would be gone.

The emperor of the Great Wei wanted the death of the Fitzgerald army, and the number of their men in several directions completely crushed the Fitzgerald army, but he never thought that the Fitzgerald army would not be completely defeated and would be more and more courageous.

Could it be that he was really destined to be only Kieran's defeated opponent in his lifetime?

He's not happy about it!

In fact, when he reached the position, money and power were no longer too attractive. What he wanted more was to be known and admired by all the people.

In his opinion, only by defeating Kieran once and for all could he be praised by the Huns' subjects, and he would have to, with his strength up, make a comeback and defeat Kieran once and for all!

Austin withdrew his large sword, about to turn his horse around and flee back to his camp, but he only felt pain in his heart, he looked down and saw bright red blood slowly flowing out of his heart.

And the girl standing at a short distance with her horse, her smile was bright, and she provocatively hooked the corner of her mouth at him, "How is my shooting? Am I particularly good?"

Austin was so angry that he lost his breath, rolled his eyes and rolled off his horse.

"General!"

Austin's men rushed up and tried to help him up from the ground.

But Sethaden and Alistair moved even faster, and with quite a tacit understanding, they lifted Austin off the ground and beheaded him just as quickly as they could.

A number of Hun soldiers noticed what was going on over here, and the Huns were, in an instant, in disarray.

"You killed our great general, I will kill you!"

Several of Austin's loyal men brandished the weapons in their hands and attacked in Rachel's direction.

However, before they could get close to her, the weapons in their hands were directly broken by Sethaden, and their bodies, too, were viciously shaken out.

And Alistair, raising Austin's head high, his voice was as loud as a bell, "Austin's head is here, you surrender, the Fitzgerald army does not kill surrendered soldiers, if you insist on fighting again, you will be killed without amnesty!"

The commander is dead and there is no leader, so why fight?

In addition, many Huns soldiers did not really like war, and they had been forced to fight in this battle. Now that the main warrior, Austin, was gone, why would they abandon their wives and children to fight for their lives on the battlefield?

At once, the Huns soldiers surrendered and fled, and the half-million Huns army, originally high in morale, was instantly routed.

Of course, there were some who were loyal to Austin and wanted to avenge his death and resisted, but the 500,000 Hun army was no match for the Fitzgerald army, and the small wave of people left could not make any waves at all.

Soon, all those soldiers who were determined to avenge the death of Austin were killed by the Fitzgerald army.

When Xander saw this, he was directly dumbfounded.

Even if they had 100,000 troops from Nanyi coming over to support them, it would be a complete fool's errand for them to try to confront the Fitzgerald army head-on with these troops.

What's more, when they quietly entered the border city through the tunnel, Freya put poison in the tunnel, and the soldiers under him suffered heavy casualties, and now even with all their forces combined, they no longer had an army of 300,000.

They wanted to reap the benefits when the Huns army and the Fitzgerald army were defeated, and now that the Huns army had scattered and gone, they wanted to run too.

But when he thought of the Emperor Wei's explanation that he must kill all the Fitzgerald army on this trip, Xander did not dare to run.

He could only grit his teeth and desperately cut towards the Fitzgerald army in front of him.

At first, Xander was afraid to run, but soon, he found that even if he wanted to, he couldn't run.

Leo, the first minister, Christ, Walker, and even Fabian brought troops over to support the Fitzgerald army.

The vast army was so dazzling that Xander's eyes were dazzled and his legs were weak, and in the end, he couldn't even hold the long sword in his hand.

Xander may not look like a general of an army, but he is actually the most greedy and fearful of death.

He lusted after the glory and wealth promised to him by Emperor Wei before he came to the border city and sneaked up on the Fitzgerald army.

Now, with his momentum gone, he had no choice but to bring out Emperor Wei as a shield in order to save his life.

At that moment, he tumbled off his war horse and stumbled directly to his knees at Kieran's feet, "General Fitzgerald, spare my life! Spare my life!"

"I did not mean to make an enemy to you, I came this time because I took the order"

Before Xander could finish his sentence, a sharp arrow had pierced his throat. His eyes were round and staring into the unknown, motionless, apparently dead.

Once Xander died, the soldiers under him instantly turned into a scattered mess.

In addition, the Fitzgerald army has a great reputation in Wei and has accumulated a lot of prestige. Many soldiers under Xander actually respect the Fitzgerald army, so it would be difficult to make an enemy of the Fitzgerald army.

At that moment, most of the soldiers under Xander voluntarily joined the Fitzgerald army, wanting to protect the family and the country together with this army they admired most, and to guard the peace on one side.

Only the Emperor Wei's soldiers and his carefully trained secret guards were loyal to him.

After Xander was silenced by them, they still did not dare to let up as they continued to fight desperately against the Fitzgerald army, together with the soldiers of Nanyi.

Nanyi' army was in a difficult position, as they already had a grudge against the Fitzgerald army, and now that they had taken advantage of the situation, the Fitzgerald army was even more unlikely to let them go.

However, the soldiers of Nanyi were already mostly dead and wounded, and with 30,000 of their own troops, there were only 20,000 at most left, and being pinned down on all sides by the Fitzgerald army and reinforcements from all sides, there was not the slightest doubt that they would soon have been defeated.

Outside the gates of the border city, bodies were strewn about, but in the border city, there was laughter and life again.

The Fitzgerald army did its best to guard the people's well-being and there were few casualties in the city.

As soon as he saw Brian and Sophia, Alistair greeted them with a pleasing smile.

"Sophia, I miss you so much"

With that, Alistair wanted to offer a warm hug.

But the person Alistair hugged was not Sophia, but Brian, and Brian leaned over, with his mouth pouting.

Chapter 1447

Alistair has severe gastrointestinal discomfort.

He wanted to hug his beloved Sophia, not this shameless Brian!

"Alistair, I miss you so much too." Brian imitated Sophia's voice and spoke in an eerie manner.

With that, he pouted again and continued to stick it to Alistair face.

The three generals who were on their way to Kieran's council meeting, just happened to pass in front of Alistair and they saw this scene, and they instantly felt as if they had stumbled upon some great secret.

However, the matter of him and Brian being together had long been known to the world, and they were not considered to have accidentally stumbled upon an adulterous affair between them.

General Lowe took a deep glance at Brian's pouting mouth and he couldn't help but sigh quietly.

Alistair is a very handsome and talented man, how can he be a gay!

Fortunately, the eldest son of Kieran is not a gay, otherwise the family's legacy would really have been cut short.

Of course Alistair didn't want to be kissed by Brian, so he slapped him on the face and spoke in an unpleasant manner, "Get lost!"

"No!"

He continued to speak in a strange voice, "Alistair, I just gave Mr. Wong an extra glance that day, why are you so jealous? You've been angry for so long and you're still angry with me!"

What was he talking about!

He was not jealous!

The three generals had a look of understanding, not realising that Alistair liked to be jealous!

They had wanted to say hello to Brian, but now they thought better of it. He had to be angry for so long even if Brian looked at someone else, and if he talked to someone else, Alistair would die of jealousy!

They don't want to be hated by Alistair!

The three generals glanced at each other, rather tacitly lowered their heads, pretending not to see the presence of Alistair and Brian and others, but walked towards Kieran and Freya's courtyard.

Alistair was in a hurry to go after Sophia, and now that he was being stopped by Brian, he couldn't help but get cranky.

He was about to punch Brian out of the way, but he heard a voice with obvious shock, "Sethaden, is this your brother? He looks just like you!"

"But he's not as good-tempered as you, he's so mean to his lover! Sethaden, do you think your brother and his lover are a good match?"

Alistair was shocked to hear that. He only wanted his Sophia to be his lover, not this Brian!

"Well, my temper is the best in our Fitzgerald family." Sethaden gently embraced Rachel into his arms, his eyes, which were always as cold as the cold moon and frost, carried a light warmth and endless doting.

Alistair was surprised to hear that. His brother was the best-tempered of their Fitzgerald family!

Everyone knows that Sethaden is cold-hearted? Can such a man have a good temper?

The most shameless of the Fitzgerald army is more like it!

He really can say anything to coax girl.

Sethaden did not want to pay attention to his brother and Brian, but, when he walked to the side of Brian, he still could not help but give him one more look.

Somewhat surprisingly, Auntie Kiki in this life was with Uncle Christ.

He thought that if Auntie Kiki wasn't with Uncle Quinn, the children they had would look different from the one they had in the modern era, but he didn't expect that Brian would look exactly the same as the modern one.

It's really an amazing thing.

Sophia should also look exactly the same as the lost daughter of Auntie Kiki in modern times, except that he is in modern times and has also lived for 18 years, but Auntie Kiki still hasn't recovered her precious daughter.

He had a strong feeling that Sophia was able to live well in this era, and that in modern times, she must still be alive as well.

He hopes that the modern day Auntie Kiki and Uncle Quinn will find their Sophia soon.

After Sethaden embraced Rachel and left, Alistair could not stand it any longer. He directly kicked Brian on the buttocks and went to chase after Sophia.

"Sophia, I'm wrong, don't be angry with me, okay? I really don't have any interest in the first daughter of Laurence Chapman, last time it was her who took the initiative to burrow into my arms and you saw her. But I really didn't hug her, Sophia, don't ignore me again, okay?"

"Sophia, you are the only one in my heart!"

Sophia was actually not really angry with Alistair, his lack of proximity to women was well-known in Great Wei.

But the image of the first daughter of Laurence Chapman rubbing herself into his arms just didn't sit well with her.

"I'm not angry with you!" Sophia indeed, looked exactly alike the one in the modern era.

She glared at Alistair without good grace, "You can hug whoever you like, what does it have to do with me!"

"Sophia, in this life, I only want to hug you."

With that, Alistair forced her into his arms, despite Sophia's objections.

At first, Sophia tried to push him away, but later, her face became increasingly red and she couldn't push him away

After a rainstorm that faded the blood in the air, Jayla stood at the edge of the moat, throwing the stones in her hands with a single movement.

"Jayla!"

Without turning around, Jayla knew that the person coming was Leo.

She rolled her eyes haughtily, and her eyes were so lively that a lazy lift of her eyelids was enough to make her charming.

"When we get back to the capital, we'll get married."

"Leo, I remember that I already rejected your marriage proposal last month."

Jayla turned around slowly, lazy and casual, yet compellingly beautiful.

“Don’t you want to take care of your cousin Annie! If you marry me, you’ll be heartbroken if she seeks death!”

“Jayla, in this life, I only want you.”

Leo stubbornly embraced Jayla, and she was about to break away from him when suddenly she heard his voice soften several times, “Jayla, I will be sad if you don’t marry me.”

Jayla’s body stiffened, she was used to Leo’s cold and impersonal nature, and she couldn’t resist when he suddenly showed weakness.

Jayla’s heart was so soft that she couldn’t help but reach out and take the initiative to hug him, but when she thought of how he had mercilessly rejected her time and again when she was chasing him, she hardened her heart, “Leo, it’s none of my fucking business whether you’re sad or not!”

“Jayla, no swearing!”

Jayla was about to give him another blank stare, but she heard him speak again in a low, somewhat husky voice, “Jayla, I’m sad and you’ll be heartbroken.”

Saying that, Leo’s lips pressed down heavily, and in an instant, the light fragrance swept Jayla’s entire brain.

She wanted to say proudly, “Who cares about you!”

But she did like him, and in the end, instead of pushing him away, she wrapped her arms around his neck and let him kiss her.

Chapter 1448

What the Emperor Wei Casey did this time really chilled the hearts of the entire army, and many members of the Fitzgerald army, who had always adhered to the principle of loyalty and service to the country, were turned against the army.

They wanted to kill this ruthless emperor.

An emperor who can even slaughter his own people is truly ruthless.

The reason why the Fitzgerald army did not raise the banner of rebellion this time was that they had the people of the world in mind and could not bear to see them suffer from war and dislocation. But this time, Emperor Casey no longer had any military power in his hands.

Emperor Casey was also able to bend and stretch, and when he failed to take advantage of the opportunity to get rid of the Fitzgerald army, he quickly issued an edict of guilt.

In his edict of guilt, he listed a number of his own faults.

For example, wrongly trusting a treacherous minister.

He sent Xander to lead 200,000 troops to transport provisions to support Fitzgerald army, but he did not expect Xander to collaborate with Huns, not only did he take the provisions allocated to Fitzgerald army by the court, but also tried to help Huns to kill Fitzgerald army.

For example, not sympathetic enough to the people.

Xander led a large army to slaughter the city, but he was not able to lead the army himself to guard his subjects. He voluntarily fasted for ten days to pray for the innocent people who died tragically.

This time, Emperor Casey issued an edict of guilt, putting all the blame on Xander and the others who had died, and taking himself off the hook.

The Emperor of Wei, Casey, was a complete hypocrite, but because of his hypocrisy, he rarely exposed his brutal and suspicious side to the people, and in the years since he ascended to the throne, he has built up a wonderful image of diligence and love for the people in the hearts of the people.

The people, who did not know what was going on, naturally supported the emperor, who was supposedly concerned for the people of the world.

After issuing the edict of guilt, he began to reward the Fitzgerald's army for their merits, and even rewarded the three sons of Kieran with numerous jewels and good land, in the manner of a wise ruler who loved his loyalty and conscience.

The Emperor of Wei, Casey, is so pretentious, plus Xander is dead, the soldiers under Xander simply do not know the inside story, even if the Fitzgerald army wants to rebel against the Emperor of Wei, but has no reason.

On the way back to the capital in triumph, the people of Great Wei ran to tell of the victory, and everyone stood by the roadside with bated breath, wanting to catch a glimpse of the Fitzgerald army.

It takes nearly half a month to travel from Border City to capital, and Sethaden has already informed Kieran and Freya of what happened between him and Rachel.

Sethaden is known for not being close to women, and Freya and Kieran have always feared that he would never take a wife for the rest of his life, but now that he finally has a sweetheart, the two of them are naturally happy to see it.

What's more, Rachel saved Sethaden's life and also contributed to repelling the Huns army, making a great contribution.

The Fitzgerald family is already illustrious enough, and Kieran and Freya have never thought of using their children's marriage to consolidate power in their hands, so they don't care about Rachel's origins, whether she is a relative of the royal family or an orphan girl in the countryside, in their opinion, as long as their Jaden likes her, she is the best.

During the half month on their way back to the capital, Sethaden and Rachel were close to each other.

In the heart of the Fitzgerald family, Sethaden is the cold mountain snow, unsmiling, cold-hearted and cold-hearted.

But on their way back to the capital, if they were not careful, they would see Sethaden smiling.

Many Fitzgerald's troops exchanged pleasantries. It turned out that the Great General of Hussar have his lover.

Freya had also heard the soldiers' chatter, and she had noticed the change in Sethaden, and was naturally very happy about the change in her son.

In the past, Sethaden was impeccable in his literary and martial skills, but he was always cold, like a block of ice, making people feel that he was in the clouds.

Rachel found that she liked Sethaden more and more.

This is a man who normally doesn't smile, but suddenly hugs you and says a warm and soft word that she simply can't resist.

Moreover, she found that the cold-faced general, who spoke so beautifully of love, made her want to cut her heart out for him.

The only thing that made Rachel feel very speechless was that this man, in bed, was always like a wolf, as if he had an inexhaustible amount of energy.

The two of them had already married, and in their hearts, they were already husband and wife in name only. In addition, Sethaden naturally did not want to stay alone, so every night, he could not help but want to sleep with her.

Kieran and Freya also knew that they had already married, but they still set a wedding date for them, and when they returned to the capital, they would have a wedding.

Rachel treats their precious son with all her heart and soul, and they naturally want to give her a name, so that Sethaden can marry her in style and let the whole world know that she is the daughter-in-law of the Fitzgerald family.

Rachel actually likes to take advantage of Sethaden, who has a good body and is handsome, she has no half resistance to him at all.

It's just that after each sex, her back hurts like it's going to break, which is really torturous.

However, she liked him and was happy to spoil him, and even if her back hurt a bit, she was happy.

Rachel knew that two people who love each other should be honest with each other and not hide anything. She sometimes wanted to tell Sethaden her true identity, but recently there had been a lot of tension between Pingliang and Wei, and she was afraid that if she knew her identity, it would add to the hardships between her and Sethaden, so she dismissed the idea.

After all, from the moment she left the palace of Pingliang with her bag on her back, in her heart she was no longer the eldest princess of Pingliang.

She is just that the most ordinary girl in search of freedom and love.

The Emperor of Wei, Casey, hosted a banquet for the Fitzgerald army, and officials of second rank and above were allowed to bring their families along to the banquet.

In Sethaden's mind, Rachel is his wife, so he naturally has to bring her along to the banquet.

It was the first time that Rachel went to the palace of Great Wei, and her heart was very excited.

Before going to the palace, she had also feared that today's banquet was a feast set up for the Fitzgerald's army.

However, the thought that the Emperor of Great Wei had almost no military power left in his hands made her heart settle down again.

The future son-in-law of the Fitzgerald family, the first minister of the dynasty, Leo and Fabian are all the most solid allies of the Fitzgerald family, and the Emperor Wei, Casey, does not dare to make things difficult for the Fitzgerald army.

True to its name, Great Wei is the most powerful country on this continent, and its imperial palace is much more luxurious than the one in Pingliang.

The banquet was held in the evening and Rachel entered the palace at noon, and the ladies were now enjoying the flowers in the imperial garden.

As soon as Freya and Kiki met, they had endless things to say. She asked Jayla and Sophia to take Rachel, who was entering the palace for the first time, for a walk around to see the sights of Wei Palace.

Rachel, Jayla and Sophia were all especially fond of each other, and the three of them gathered together, chattering and talking endlessly.

However, Rachel feels that Jayla and Sophia are really quite lustful and light on their friends. After accompanying her for a short while, one of them ran away with the chief minister of the dynasty and the other was taken away by Alistair, leaving her alone.

Rachel muttered and planned to wander around on her own.

She had just stepped behind the wigwam when she was met with a pair of sinister eyes.

Chapter 1449

This man, whom Rachel had met, was the Prince of Great Wei, Harrison.

It was the man her father wanted her to marry.

It was at the beginning of this year that Rachel met Harrison. At that time, she happened to be dressed as a man and from afar, she heard many people shouting, "Look, this is the legendary prince of Great Wei.

Rachel also joined the countless curious people, craning her neck and glancing towards the man sitting on the sweat-blooded horse.

One look and never want to look again.

It is not that Harrison looks ugly, on the contrary, he is considered handsome, it is just that, the look in his eyes makes people feel particularly uncomfortable.

His eyes gave the impression of a poisonous snake. Obviously, he was far away from you, but when you were suddenly swept by his eyes like that, you still had the feeling of being bitten by a poisonous snake.

In short, it was the feeling he gave her, not like a nice person.

In her life, Rachel loves a gentleman who is open and honest, and what she hates most is a villain with a sinister face. Therefore, when her father asked her to go to Great Wei to make peace and be Harrison's prince consort, and she objected in vain, she simply packed her bag and left.

She didn't expect to see this man behind the rockery today.

Rachel's heart beat uneasily, but when she thought that Harrison was the one who hadn't met her, and that her current status, as Sethaden's soon-to-be wife, her heart, in an instant, fell back to where it was.

Just pretend she didn't see him.

For someone she hated, Rachel didn't even bother to exchange pleasantries with him, she didn't even look at him, turned around and walked in the opposite direction.

Just as she took a step, Harrison's voice, which carried a distinctly unkind tone, rang out behind her, "Princess Rachel, how have you been?"

Rachel's heart thumped, she really didn't expect that Harrison recognized her!

"Your Royal Highness, I don't know what you are talking about."

"Rachel, the eldest princess of Pingliang, my destined prince consort, what do you think I am talking about?!"

As Harrison said that, he took a step in front of Rachel, the evil smile on his face getting heavier and heavier, he was almost on top of her, still taking a step forward.

Rachel hated the feeling of a poisonous snake approaching, and she quickly backed up, trying to keep some distance from Harrison.

Harrison was faster than she was, he pressed her shoulder with one hand and pulled her into his arms with a violent tug with the other.

"Princess Rachel, I didn't expect you to be so eager to throw yourself to me, it seems that I will have to report to my father and marry you soon!"

"Let go of me!"

Rachel tried to break Harrison's grip with force, but he was obviously very good, and she had already exerted almost all her strength, but she was still held in his grip.

"Your Royal Highness, please behave yourself! I don't even know what you are talking about! I'm not some eldest princess, I'm the soon-to-be-wife of the General Sethaden!"

"General Sethaden?"

Harrison's voice was tinged with obvious malice, especially when he was pronouncing Sethaden's name.

"Sethaden is not worthy of snatching you from me!"

Harrison hates Sethaden and has hated him since he was a child.

Harrison is gifted and quick-witted, but in this world, the most fearful thing is competing.

He was the best of all the princes, but when compared to Sethaden, all his talents were worthless.

As a child, he and Sethaden were taught together by a teacher, who would praise Sethaden as a gifted student and his most admired pupil.

But to him, the teacher only hindered his status, and when asked by Emperor Casey, he said, "His Highness is excellent since, it has improved his writing again."

He had never, ever seen in his teacher's eyes that glow of heartfelt appreciation when his teacher looked at Sethaden.

He can't match Sethaden in literature, but in martial arts, he will overpower him.

He desperately practised martial arts, wanting to go into battle and kill the enemy, and to achieve great military success for the Great Wei.

But when he fought with Sethaden, he was no longer able to fight back after three moves.

He tried hard to prove himself on the battlefield. When the small state of Xirong burned and killed the people of Great Wei on the border, he volunteered to go to war when he was sixteen years old.

The Emperor of Wei was overjoyed, except that he had led 100,000 elite troops and lost a few men before he could barely drive a small army of Xirong out of the frontier.

The Emperor of Wei commended him, but he was not at all happy, for, having lost most of his troops and expelled a small army of Xirong, it was not really a glorious victory.

At the age of 14, Sethaden led a raid on the 50,000 soldiers of Dongwu, who had repeatedly attacked Wei, and he killed almost all of them.

Even though he didn't want to admit it, he had to say that he couldn't even match Sethaden in terms of civil and military tactics.

If it was just a matter of not being able to match Sethaden, he would have put up with it.

After all, he will be the ruler of a country in the future, and no matter how capable Sethaden is, he will only be a minister under him.

But, the girl he had his heart set on, was the one Sethaden liked, and she would rather give up the honor of the Eldest Princess and refuse to be his wife.

Everyone thought that the marriage between the Princess of Pingliang and him was a political alliance.

Only he knows in his own mind that this is not the case.

He likes her.

When he was eight and Rachel was six, she came to Great Wei once with Emperor Pingliang.

On that day, it was spring and the city was full of peach blossoms, he was in a state of decay, sitting outside the palace under a peach blossom tree, weeping with a snotty nose and a tear, with no dignity.

His beloved mother was gone, and he had fallen behind again to Sethaden in the monthly test given to them by the teacher.

His father praised Sethaden as being astonishingly talented, but said that his writing was, well, dull and insipid.

Criticised by his father, whom he had always revered, for being useless, he missed his mother even more when he thought of his defeat at the hands of Sethaden time and again.

He shook off the palace guards and slipped quietly out of the palace, crying uncontrollably like a silly child under the peach blossom tree that he and his mother had planted together.

He was made a prince at birth, a man of honor, but he was also a child, who wanted to be loved and approved of.

In the past, when he was defeated, he still had his gentle and loving mother by his side to comfort him, but she was gone and she would never return, and there was nothing but gloom in his life.

Silver bells ringing and light laughter intoxicating, Harrison, eight years old, slowly lifted his face as he looked at girl in a pink palace gown, holding a candy cane in her hand, standing in front of him with a light smile.

Chapter 1450

“Don’t cry, I’ll treat you to a candy cane.”

“No!”

“Candy canes are very sweet! I know you must be very sad inside, but if you eat the candy cane, you won’t be sad anymore! Your heart will sweeten up!”

The girl had a sweet voice and spoke with a long, upturned coda. He took the string of candy canes, and indeed, eating them, his heart sweetened.

In that instant, she silently took up residence in his heart.

And now, she no longer coaxes him to eat a candy cane, or even, she no longer remembers having a teenager in her life who cried unimaginationally under a peach blossom tree.

But that young boy, every year when the peach blossoms were in full bloom, would sit under that peach tree and eat a bunch of candy cane.

He inquired that she was the eldest princess of Pingliang.

He had been waiting for her to grow up, and when she did, he would ask his father for a marriage with her, making her his wife, giving her a lifetime of glory and favour, and loving only her for the rest of his life.

He knew that he would be the future emperor of Wei, and as an emperor, bunch of wives were the norm, but if he was the emperor, he would only want her in his harem.

God knows how happy he was when his father issued the royal decree of marriage. He bathed and dressed and wanted to go to Pingliang to welcome his wife in person.

But when he arrived in Pingliang, he didn't see the young girl he had been longing for, but received news that she had run away.

He wasn't angry that she had skipped the wedding, really.

He knew that she would run away from the marriage simply because she did not know that he was the young man she had given a candy cane to back then under the peach blossom tree.

He has enough patience to get her back, to make her fall in love with him with all her heart, to make her willingly become his wife.

But he never expected that when he saw her again, she would have already fallen in love with Sethaden and become his unmarried wife.

Sethaden, again!

Why, no matter what he did, he had to be overpowered by Sethaden! Why, no matter what he wanted, he couldn't snatch up Sethaden!

On what grounds!

Harrison's eyes grew red, like a lion in a frenzy, and the force in his hands suddenly tightened, almost crushing Rachel's shoulders.

Rachel frowned in pain, and her voice could not help but be more than cold and austere, "Your Highness, let go!"

"Why?! Why are you doing this to me?!"

Harrison almost growled, but if you listened carefully, you could hear the vulnerability in his voice, as well as the worry and uncertainty.

Rachel really felt that this man was very sick, in her opinion, there had never been any encounter between the two of them, she really could not understand why he was so angry at this moment as if she had done something unjustifiable to him.

The political alliance between the two countries and the fact that the ruler of Pingliang had something in mind was really not a good thing for Great Wei.

Shouldn't he be happy that she had escaped the marriage and made his freedom?

"Rachel, tell me why!"

The pain in Rachel's shoulder was so bad that she could hardly speak. Seeing her look of pain, Harrison suddenly realized what he had done to her.

He let go of her shoulders in a panic, "Rachel, why did you abandon me and fall in love with Sethaden?!"

Rachel's eyebrows jumped, the charge he had placed on her seemed to be a bit too big.

It is only when a man and a woman have fallen in love and found someone else to love that they are considered to have abandoned each other, but the two of them have not even had a single encounter, what kind of abandonment is that?

Rachel felt more and more that this person was sick.

She wasn't about to waste time with him, she ran back as fast as she could.

Just now she was so focused on enjoying the scenery that she didn't even notice that she had strayed badly from the group.

Near the rockery, few people passed by, and it was dangerous for her to be with Harrison, but by the time she ran to a more crowded area, she would be safe.

After all, Harrison is the prince of a country, no matter how crazy he is, he can't pull on her in public.

However, Harrison had no intention of letting her go at all, he stepped forward and pressed her directly on top of the rockery.

His eyes grew red, leaping with a tangle of love and hate she could not understand. He stared at her with a deadly gaze, and suddenly, his voice was tinged with indescribable pain and nostalgia.

"In the ninth year of Jingde, we met under the peach blossom tree outside the Great Wei Palace."

Rachel froze, she was trying to remember what had happened that year, and she heard Harrison speak again, "That day, when I was sitting under the peach blossom tree crying my heart out, you gifted me with a string of candy cane."

Hearing Harrison's words, Rachel suddenly recalled that when she was six years old, she had indeed given a string of candy cane to a young boy outside the imperial palace of this Great Wei.

At that time, she gave the teenager a candy cane purely because she was kind-hearted and didn't want him to cry so much.

After all, it's just a six year old kid, what could be the point!

She hadn't really thought that Harrison would remember her for so many years.

He also looks like he's smitten with a string of candy canes for life.

Rachel felt that this matter was ridiculous, she silently sighed that it was a sinful fate, and then tentatively spoke, "Your Highness, I remember this matter, but that was all when I was a child, I really have no other intention. I have no interest in you, please don't come to ruin my marriage."

"As for the marriage between Pingliang and Great Wei"

"Your Highness, you are so young and handsome, the girls who adore you will be a lot. There are so many good girls for you to choose from, how can I dare to spoil your relationship!"

"Your Highness, I will soon be married to Sethaden, and our union cannot be taken seriously."

"It can not be taken seriously." Harrison muttered, "It is the words of the two kings, how can not be taken seriously! "

“Your Highness, you’re so stubborn! There are so many pretty girls in the capital, you really don’t need to stick to me!”

“Rachel, I only want you! In this life, I only want you!” Harrison spoke stubbornly with red eyes, and Rachel was truly stunned by his insane appearance.

Seeing that he was still holding her down, she struggled desperately to keep some distance from him, but the more she struggled, the closer he came to her.

His voice suddenly softened, “Rachel, when I was sad, you coaxed me. Now, I’m very sad, can you coax me again?”

This man is hopelessly sick!

She is not related to him, why should she coax him?

If she wants to coax, she will only coax Sethaden!

“Your Highness, I only have Sethaden in my heart! Please let go of me! If you do this, everyone will misunderstand!”

“You only have Sethaden in your heart

“Good! Aren’t you afraid that people will misunderstand you? I will fuck you here and let everyone know that you are my woman, I would like to see if Sethaden is still willing to marry you then!”