

The Alpha's Mysterious Mate by Audrey W Chapter 29

/ The Alpha's Mysterious Mate by Audrey W
Serena's POV:

"If you even leave so much of a scratch on Serena, Peter will never let you get away with this!"

Tessa continued to roar, but it seemed that the growling wolves were not listening at all. Tessa was left with no choice.

She dropped her cloak back to the ground.

"I'll try and stop them, Luna. Go and get help," she said to me before turning back into a wolf.

She positioned herself in front of me and bared her teeth at the approaching she-wolves.

Initially, I was going to do what Tessa said and get help.

But it wasn't fair to leave Tessa alone against four wolves. She was outnumbered.

I just couldn't leave Tessa behind.

I stood behind Tessa and waved my racket defensively, just in case someone would try to attack her from behind.

It seemed that they all decided on killing Tessa first.

I glanced at Tessa and saw blood oozing out of her ears and front legs.

With only a racket in my hand, how was I supposed to protect myself and help Tessa? I deeply regretted that I couldn't transform yet into a wolf.

The wolves continued to attack Tessa, and the wounds on her body multiplied.

She was at a total disadvantage now. Kate suddenly tried to lunge at me.

"No! Go away, all of you! I am your Luna!"

I roared, channeling the werewolf and vampire blood that ran through my veins. I had super powers. I should have never been afraid of other she-wolves like Kate.

For a moment, Kate was stunned by my powerful roar and it dazed her for a few seconds.

But soon enough, she regained consciousness and the murderous look on her face returned.

Kate got a hold of my racket with her teeth and yanked it off my hand, hurling it far away from me.

Now, my hands were empty. Kate growled, showing her sharp teeth as she slowly stepped forward.

Out of the corner of my eye, I saw a racket not too far away. I moved to pick it up, but Kate suddenly shoved me to the ground.

The racket was only a foot away from my hand and I kept reaching out for it.

Suddenly, the racket flew into my hand like it had been summoned. Deciding not to think too much of it yet, I quickly smashed it against Kate, who was just about to claw my face off.

The hit had quite an impact on her.

"Someone's coming. We have to go, Kate!"

One of the she-wolves transformed back into a human and hurriedly picked up some clothes. Kate and the others heard a sound, too, and transformed out of their wolf forms.

"Lucky bitches. I'll kill the both of you another time!"

Kate warned us as she ran away with her friends, disappearing from the rooftop.

Before I could figure out why they were retreating, I heard Peter's voice from behind.

"Serena! What happened?"

"It was that bitch, Kate! She, along with her other she-wolf friends, attacked me,"

I replied, trying to catch my breath. I then ran over to Tessa and carefully tried to help her up.

"Kate?" Peter's eyes widened.

"You're bleeding! You need to go to the hospital. Alvin, take Tessa to the hospital right now. David, I need you to bring Kate to me." Peter ordered his men.

"Yes, Peter," they answered in unison.

Alvin escorted Tessa, and I caught a glimpse of him staring at her filthily. Tessa was only wearing a cloak, which didn't do much of a job to cover up everything.

It seemed like such a hassle that werewolves always ended up naked when transforming back into humans. They'd have to scramble to find clothes right after they transformed.

Based on my brief talks with Peter, Alvin had quite the playboy reputation and constantly slept around.

Was he going to make Tessa the next girl on his list?

"How are you, honey? Did you get hurt?"

Peter held me by my shoulders and checked around my body.

"I'm fine. All thanks to Tessa."

I then told Peter about everything that had just happened.

"Goddamn it! I hadn't expected Kate to do such a thing." Peter shook his head.

"Peter, is Kate your ex? Tell me the truth," I asked seriously.

"No, not really. We slept together once, but were never boyfriend and girlfriend," Peter hurriedly explained.

"Was that a one night stand?"

"No, no. Wait. Let me explain, Serena. I was drunk that night and Kate... She... I'll admit that I was attracted to her. So I allowed myself to have sex with her that night. But after that we never"

"Enough, Peter. You didn't end things properly with her, did you? That's why she wanted to kill me."

"Serena, please. Listen to me"

"No, I don't want to hear any more."

I turned and was about to leave, but Anita stopped me.

"Serena, Peter is telling the truth. It's really not what you think. That time, Peter still wasn't sure if Kate was his mate or not. So, he went on several dates with her. Peter had been trying to find his Luna for years already. Everyone in the pack knew that..."

"But Anita, I could have died out there. If it weren't for Tessa, I would have been gone by now. If Peter and Kate's relationship was really as simple as you said, then Kate would not have wanted to kill me that much."

"Honey, I..." Peter tried to say something, but I interrupted him.

"No, Peter. I don't want to talk to you right now." I glared at him.

"Serena, it was Kate that Peter was dating before he left for the business trip. He was only gone for a few days, but he returned with a mate. Kate's just probably having a hard time accepting that," Anita explained again.

"Well, I guess... It does sound reasonable enough."

"Yes, Serena. Listen to Anita," Peter nodded.

"Have you explained everything to Kate already?"

"Yes, I have."

"Really, when?" Peter didn't answer.

"Tell me when you explained it," I asked.

"Last night."

"What? Last night? Was that why you came back late? Because you were with Kate?"

"Yes... I mean, not exactly..."

"Stop. You're making excuses. You promised me that you'd come back early last night. But it turns out that you were just with Kate. I can't believe it. I'm disappointed in you, Peter. I'm going to go and rest now."

"OK, I'll go with you..."

"No, Peter. You can stay here."

"But, honey..." Anita suddenly burst out laughing.

"What's so funny, Anita?" Confused, I furrowed my eyebrows.

"Oh, I'm sorry. I've just never seen Peter so nervous and flustered like this."

"Anita, stop laughing at me.

The more I explain, the worse it becomes! Please, help me out," Peter pleaded.

"Okay, okay," Anita said, wiping her tears from laughing.

"I was there last night, Serena. Peter was at the library, looking up some important information for work. Suddenly, Kate sneaked into the library, where she wasn't allowed. That was when Peter tried to apologize and explain everything to her."

"Well, then if what Anita says is true, then Kate is nothing but a victim here."

"Yes, to some extent, she is. She is a victim of her own feelings for Peter. Feelings she can't get rid of. That's why she was so willing to do stupid things just now."

"If that's the case, I don't think there's a need to hold her accountable for what happened just now."

"What? No way! She tried to hurt my Luna! Why would I—"

"Are you objecting?"

"I... No. No, I'm not!" Once again, Anita broke into fits of laughter.

"What are you laughing at this time, Anita?"

"Oh, Serena. You sounded just like a Luna." I pursed my lips and felt my cheeks blush.

"Oh, but I'm sorry, Serena. I shouldn't have left you alone in the first place. I apologize."

Anita placed her hand on my arm.

"Anita, it's okay. I don't blame you at all. This wasn't your fault."

To me, Anita had done nothing wrong.

It was partly my fault. I was already eighteen, and yet I still couldn't even protect myself.

"No, it's my fault." Peter lowered his head.

"Of course, it is! Because of your past mistake, your Luna had to suffer for it!"

"I know, and I am sorry. Serena, please punish me!"

Peter said, bowing to me. He looked like he was waiting for me to do something.

"I'm going to the hospital to see if Tessa is fine. Move aside."

I walked towards the exit.

After hearing Peter's story, I wasn't that angry anymore.

Accepting Peter as my mate meant that I would also have to accept his past.

I shouldn't be bothered by how many other she-wolves he had slept with.

But I had to admit to myself that it did bother me that he and Kate had a relationship.

"Anita, tell David not to give Kate a hard time." I turned to Anita with concern.

"Right away, Serena."

The Alpha's Mysterious Mate by Audrey W Chapter 30

Peter's POV:

I hadn't expected Kate to dare do such a thing to Serena.

She was becoming really hard to deal with.

She even got other she-wolves to help her with this.

It seemed that there were still some werewolves in my pack who refused to accept and respect Serena as their future Luna.

That was why our Mate Ceremony shouldn't be delayed any longer.

It needed to be held as soon as possible.

So I would also have to speed up the arrangements for the ceremony.

I decided to tell my parents and the elders that Serena had been attacked by Kate and other she-wolves today.

All of them were shocked and concerned.

I left out the part that Kate verbally expressed an intention to kill Serena.

It was on Serena's orders not to hold Kate accountable for now, after all.

If I revealed too much information about today's incident, I was afraid that my father and the elders would take matters into their own hands to punish Kate.

"I thought Kate was a good girl...You two were even dating before Serena came, right?" one of the senior elders asked.

I lowered my head in embarrassment.

Being a future Alpha meant that many people had to know even the private details of his personal life.

They knew about me and Kate.

I guessed it was reasonable, since I had been single for two years anyway. Finding out that I was dating someone was indeed big news for the entire pack.

"That's all in the past now. I have found my mate and it is Serena."

I brushed off their comments about Kate.

"How's Serena now? Is she hurt?" Thankfully, Elder Steve switched the focus back to Serena.

"No, thank goodness. Tessa was there just in time to save her," I replied with gratitude in my voice.

"Tessa? You mean, my Tessa saved Serena? Well, how is she? Is she the one who got hurt?"

Uncle Justin perked up and asked with concern. Tessa was Uncle Justin's illegitimate daughter.

Back in his youth, he had fooled around with a lot of women, and one of them had gotten pregnant with Tessa.

Unfortunately, Tessa's mother passed away, so Uncle Justin offered to take her in.

Tessa accepted the offer.

But because she was extremely introverted, she preferred to live alone. She now resided in a small house in the mountain behind the Maple House.

"Tessa was hurt, but it's not serious."

"Well, you better reprimand that Kate for attacking Serena. Our pack cannot have any bad blood within itself right now,"

Steve warned me.

Kate's POV:

I wasn't planning on coming to the tennis court with my friends at all.

However, I received an anonymous message, saying that I should go to the tennis court for a surprise.

That was why I went there and took my friends with me.

Apparently, the surprise was that bitch Serena.

I was pleasantly surprised, actually.

Anita was nowhere to be found.

Those two were always stuck like glue to each other.

Finally, this bitch was now alone. I now had a great opportunity in my hands. I wanted to kill this bitch and end my problems once and for all.

But Tessa suddenly showed up.

Because of her, a good opportunity had gone to waste! Although, Serena was more powerful than I thought.

I could have sworn that the racket was not within her reach, and yet it somehow made its way to her hand.

If she was able to hit me with that racket, I would not hesitate to kill her right then and there. Thinking more about it, could she possibly have magical powers? But Serena was only a werewolf.

It wasn't common for werewolves to possess magic at all. I must investigate her background immediately.

My friends and I had to run out of the rooftop when we heard Peter coming with other people. I had to leave the Maple House immediately. For sure, Serena was going to tell Peter everything.

I wasn't afraid, though.

If ever the elders or anyone would blame me, I would just tell them about my relationship with Peter. I was determined to make a scene. Peter had dumped me for that bitch. I wasn't going to bless that relationship.

After a while, I noticed that no one was looking for me. My phone buzzed with another anonymous message.

"Damn it! Why couldn't you just finish the job? How could four wolves fail to kill two?" I had no idea who this could be, but it seemed that they hated Serena just as much as I did that they also wanted her gone.

Now, I had this mysterious ally that could help me get rid of Serena.

When I saw Peter at the library, I noticed that he was looking for books about werewolf- vampire hybrids.

Perhaps this was an important piece of information that I could share with this mysterious ally of mine.

I opened my phone and sent a reply to the anonymous sender.

Tessa's POV:

My house was not that far from the Maple House.

That was why I was able to hear the commotion that seemed to be coming from the tennis court on the rooftop.

I squinted my eyes to get a better look and saw around four she-wolves surrounding our future Luna, Serena.

They were going to gang up on her.

I had my fair share of bullies growing up, so I knew what it was like to be on that side. I wasn't going to let anyone experience that, not under my nose.

Instantly, I transformed into my wolf form. Ivy, my wolf, was not one to speak much, but I was to her invitation.

My father was Alpha's brother.

I had always considered taking the initiative to be part of this big family before. But I just could not bring myself to forgive my father for abandoning my mother.

Ever since she passed away, I lived on my own in a small house up in the mountain.

I wasn't really the type to make a lot of friends or talk much. It was only quietness in the mountain, and I liked that.

Serena told me that she wasn't going to hold Kate responsible for trying to kill her because Kate was probably going through something herself.

Hearing this, I admired Serena for her kindness and sincerity.

She was definitely going to be a great partner for Peter in leading and strengthening our pack. She was also very friendly.

That was partly why it was so difficult for me to refuse her.

A little while after, my father had also come to visit me in the hospital to help with the discharge and paperwork.

However, I still acted coldly towards him.

Once we got out of the hospital, it was time for me to move in to the Maple House and Alvin was there to help me.

I didn't really have a lot of belongings, so packing up didn't take up too much time. Soon after he left, I got a message.

"Here's a small surprise for you. Love, your A."

Ding dong! The doorbell suddenly rang to her invitation.

Ding dong!

The doorbell suddenly rang. I opened the door only to see a little boy hand me a bundle of lavender flowers.

"Excuse me, ma'am. Are you Miss Tessa?"

"Yes, that's me."

"A handsome gentleman told me to bring this to you."

There was a small card stashed in the middle of the bouquet. The card mentioned that lavender flowers meant that one was waiting for love.

At the bottom of the card, the words "Your A" were signed on it.

Immediately, I knew who the sender was and felt my heart speed up its pace. My cheeks probably turned pink.

"Tessa, I already knew you and Alvin are mates, but I don't really think he deserves a girl like you. You know that he is not exactly the most faithful man," Ivy warned me in my head.

"Wait, he is my mate?" My eyes widened.

Suddenly, all the attention Alvin had been giving me made sense. He must have felt it, too.

"Yes, it has already been arranged by the Moon Goddess herself. However, you do have the option to refuse him. Whatever you do, I will respect your decision."

Ivy then went silent after saying her piece.

I was not a very sociable person, but to keep updated, I would occasionally browse for news on the Red Maple's home website.

The official news section was mostly about pack affairs and Peter.

The gossip section, however, was always about Alvin. Recalling that he was known to be a famous playboy in the pack, my heart sank a little.

At my first dinner with the family, I saw a lot of family members and Alvin. But with what I knew, I had to be vigilant and keep my guard up on my heart with Alvin. I wasn't even sure if he truly took me seriously. Should I refuse him?

Alvin's POV:

I caught sight of a girl with short hair, her body only covered by a cloak. The corner of her mouth and her shoulder were stained with blood, but she held her head high with pride and determination. The second I saw Tessa, my wolf Adonis had become restless in my head.

"Mate..." I could feel Adonis jumping up and down.

"Wait, what?"

"Our mate!"

"Are you talking about Tessa?"

"Yes, Tessa. She is our mate!"

"Oh, my God. I have finally found my mate. I'll go get her right now."

A very captivating scent had filled my nose.

Although I had been familiar with many other scents of she-wolves before, this one was just unique and unlike anything I had ever smelled.

"Oh, no. I'm afraid you'll have to win her affection first, Alvin," Adonis suddenly sighed.

"Why? What's wrong, Adonis?"

"Tessa's wolf. She is deliberately avoiding us."

"What? Why would she do that?"

"She didn't even inform Tessa that her mate had appeared."

"Why, Adonis? What's wrong with her?" I was suddenly very worried.

I knew that some werewolves unfortunately never got to meet their mates, so they had to find love somewhere else instead.

"How dare you even ask me that, Alvin? You're the one fooling around with different women every time!" Adonis snarled.

“What? But I need to satisfy my basic needs.”

I was already twenty-five. Ever since I turned eighteen, I had been eager to find my mate.

I had dated more than one hundred different she-wolves, but none had ever been confirmed to me by the Moon Goddess as my mate.

“It’s only up to fate now,” Adonis said in a regretful tone.

As expected, Tessa had instantly taken a fancy to me at first sight.

She seemed like a very innocent girl, too.

I had heard about Justin’s illegitimate daughter who lived in the mountain, but I did not expect her to be my mate.

It was the first time that I found short hair attractive on a girl.

During our time together, I was able to successfully get her phone number.

I couldn’t help but think I could have made a better impression on her and her wolf.

It seemed that it was her wolf that would be the harder to win over.

That was why I had to take initiative and volunteered to help Tessa move into the Maple House.

I even used another trick of mine that usually worked on girls.

I sent her flowers. But during dinner time, Tessa shot me a cold look. Damn, she must have already heard about my reputation.

“Adonis, what are we going to do now? Do you really think I’ll be rejected?”

“Yes, Alvin, you will! Now do you regret having such a bad reputation?”

“Hey, now. Stop making fun of me, will you? Remember, we’re on the same boat. I get rejected, you get rejected.” I quarreled with Adonis.

Whatever it took, I needed to win Tessa over.

One step at a time, because I could not rush this. I needed to prove my loyalty to Tessa if I wanted to be her mate.

Peter’s POV:

The whole afternoon, Serena didn't reply to my messages or my calls. I turned to Patricia in desperation.

Patricia had suggested that I put together a grand, ceremonious proposal for Serena before.

I had laughed at her crazy suggestion at first.

But after seeing how angry Serena was with me, I needed to do whatever it took.

As a future Alpha, I learned not to be afraid of anything. But now, I was afraid of losing my Serena. So I decided to follow Patricia's suggestions and arranged to propose tonight.

"Serena, have you seen Red Maple's cinema? It's 4D! Do you want to come with me later to watch a movie?" Patricia invited Serena during dinner.

"Ooh, okay! I actually haven't been to the cinema in such a long time." Serena gladly accepted the invitation.

The plan was going accordingly.

Patricia and Serena went to the cinema together, while I drove in a separate car.

When they got to the cinema, Patricia planned to excuse herself to the bathroom and tell Serena to go ahead inside the theater.

I would be waiting for Serena in the theater.

It would only be the two of us, since I had booked this cinema just for tonight. The movie I prepared for us was called Our Memories.

Once I found out that Serena was that little girl who saved me, I had gathered together a group of actors to shoot for this movie.

This movie was a recreation of my memories with Serena.

From our very first encounter in the forest, to our years-long separation, and finally to our joyous reunion.

Initially, I had just wanted to make this movie so that Serena could remember everything that had happened between us that year.

Throughout the whole time, I held her in my arms and gently wiped her tears.

At the end of the movie, there was even a bonus scene.

It was just added in this afternoon. It was my confessing my love for Serena.

Patricia was my director and she had even given me some advice "Serena, I only love three things in this world. The sun, moon, and you. The sun for the day. The moon for the night. And you for...ever."

It was just a few lines, but it took me so many takes to get them right.

Patricia was being so choosy and criticized me for not putting in any emotion to my words.

Later on, I found out that she also added my bloopers and her comments in the movie! I felt embarrassed.

My sister was making a fool out of me! After the last scene, I pulled out a diamond ring from my pocket and got down on one knee.

"Serena, the Moon Goddess might have already blessed our relationship and we have already accepted each other as mates, but I thought that I still wanted to propose to you myself. Serena, will you marry me?"

Serena's POV:

Patricia excused herself to go to the bathroom, telling me to go ahead inside the movie theater first.

Right when I entered the room, I saw Peter standing in the middle and guessed that this was what they had been planning all along.

When the movie started, I immediately recognized what it was about.

I didn't expect that Peter would make a movie about our memories together! The whole movie truly touched my heart.

I cried all throughout while Peter embraced me for comfort.

The last bonus scene made me cry and laugh at the same time. I could feel Peter's sincerity in his words, which moved me to tears. But his clumsiness in the bloopers and Patricia's criticisms of his acting made me laugh so hard.

Peter did not look like a future Alpha at all.

"Serena, the Moon Goddess might have already blessed our relationship and we have already accepted each other as mates, but I thought that I still wanted to propose to you myself. Serena, will you marry me?"

"Yes, Peter!" Peter smiled widely as he slipped the beautiful diamond ring on my finger.

He got up and scooped me into his arms.

"Let's go home, honey." Hand in hand, we walked out of the cinema together.

Before getting in his car, Peter asked me to open the trunk and grab his suitcase for him.

But when I opened the trunk, what I saw surprised me.

The trunk of the car was filled with red roses. I covered my mouth in shock, overwhelmed by the beautiful flowers.

Peter walked over to me and hugged me from behind, kissing my neck. The feeling of his lips on my neck almost made me go weak in the knees. I felt myself get wet again.

"I want you now, Peter."

"Wish granted, baby." Peter and I got in the back seat and made out passionately.

He started to unbutton my clothes but by the time he got to the second button, he got frustrated. He ended up ripping my top off, the buttons sent flying in different directions. He buried his face in my breasts and sucked them greedily.

I dry humped his hard dick, letting him feel my vagina through our clothes. Soon enough, he slipped off my underwear and began to rub my clit.

I was overwhelmed with pleasure again and almost fell limply into his arms.

"Baby, let me in, please."

He unzipped his pants and held his penis up so that it could slip easily into me.

Our position was that Peter was seated with his hands on my ass. I sat on top of him, bouncing up and down his dick.

"Baby, you're still so tight."

"It's because your dick is so big, honey."

I could feel myself about to reach my climax, but Peter still wasn't done. His grip on my waist got tighter as he lifted me up and down, directing my speed.

"Peter, I can't endure it anymore. I'm about to..."

"Already, baby? I'm not done yet, though."

I was feeling so limp all over my body that I was only relying on Peter's strength to move me.

Peter kept his hands on my waist, still bouncing me up and down. I let a moan escape from my lips.

"Tell me, baby. Do you want to go faster or should we slow down?"

"Faster, Peter," I moaned.

"Faster!" I could feel myself squirt on Peter as my body trembled.

Peter finally let out a grunt from his mouth. He came inside of me.

The Alpha's Mysterious Mate by Audrey W Chapter 32

Serena's POV:

After agreeing to Peter's proposal, we now had to hold a Mate Ceremony soon. But there was another important thing that needed to happen before that. There was going to be a full moon in three days.

On that night, I needed to have my first transformation.

Three days had passed.

"Honey, come on. Let's go."

Peter took the whole day off from work today.

He had worked hard to have everything arranged for all that would happen tonight.

The mountain behind the Maple House had been locked down, and more guards had been dispatched to patrol along the perimeter of the territory.

By the time the sun had set, Peter and I changed into comfortable hiking clothes and started our trek up the mountain.

"How much farther do we have to go, Peter?" I asked while panting.

We had already been hiking up the mountain for about an hour.

It had gotten dark and the eclipse had begun, the white moon starting to lose its perfect circular shape.

"We're almost there, honey. Just a little more."

We finally came to a flat grassland.

Aside from a tall maple tree in the middle, there were only some bushes surrounding it.

To the side was a still, small lake.

The water was clear and sparkled under the remaining moonlight.

By this time, the full moon had already become crescent-shaped and the light was getting dimmer.

Using some dry firewood, Peter ignited a small bonfire by the lake.

"We're here. This is where I had my first transformation. All the elders and my parents witnessed it."

Peter then started taking off his clothes and folding them neatly into a pile.

Under the dim light, his toned body appeared like a beautiful bronze sculpture that was carved by a masterful artist.

I fought all the desires to touch him.

Just then, the crescent moon had fully disappeared, leaving only the blood moon on the night sky.

I had only ever seen full moons in my lifetime, but never a blood-red moon.

I then began to feel some burning sensations within my body.

"Honey, I'll show you how I transform first. I'll go slowly, so that you can closely observe."

Peter's body gradually started to transform, starting from his head.

His body began expanding and black fur was growing out of his smooth skin.

His extremities grew thicker as a tail sprouted from his behind.

With one final leap, Peter had finished his transformation and landed on the ground as a wolf.

I had seen Tessa, Kate, and the other she-wolves transform, but they did it so instantly that I could never process what was happening.

Obviously, Peter could transform much faster if he wanted to.

But since he wanted me to observe so that I could learn, he did it slowly.

Finally, I had seen what Nate looked like.

He was a handsome wolf with a pure black coat.

He definitely looked like an Alpha.

In terms of size, Nate was also much bigger than any wolf I had ever seen.

He could easily deal with eight to ten wolves alone in a fight, probably.

Nate walked toward me and nuzzled gently on my face.

I could feel Molly getting restless, eager to finally come out.

Nate stared at the sky and howled at the blood moon, echoing throughout the valley.

A few moments later, several more howls coming from the direction of the Maple House responded back.

“Now, it’s your turn. Just follow your instinct and focus on releasing Molly. Let her take control of your body.”

Peter mind-linked me.

My bones started to creak.

Molly could not hold it in any longer.

I closed my eyes and focused my energy on Molly’s presence.

Just like Peter, the transformation began from my head.

I felt my skull change its shape, and a hot sensation burned on my face.

Other parts of my body had also begun their transformation process.

The bones inside my limbs stretched themselves on their own.

The itch on my skin had turned into fur.

I then felt a tail grow out of my tailbone.

“Relax, Serena. Don’t fight Molly.”

Peter's voice rang in my head.

When I finally opened my eyes again, I looked down and saw claws in place of my hands and feet.

Snow white fur had covered my claws.

"Congratulations, Serena. You did it. God, you are beautiful."

Molly raised her snout to the blood moon in the sky and howled out loud for the very first time.

Nate turned around and affectionately licked Molly.

"They seem to really like each other," I giggled.

"Of course, they do. Our wolves are mates, too."

"Molly, let me see what you look like," I told Molly.

Molly walked over to the lake and a beautiful white wolf in the reflection stared back at me.

She looked just like my toy Fluffy.

She was exactly the wolf that I had dreamed about since childhood! Molly's pure white fur perfectly matched Nate's completely black coat.

They played with each other for a while, jumping around on the grassland.

Naturally, Molly was smaller than Nate.

They nuzzled their heads together and licked each other's ears lovingly. They seemed very busy with all this licking.

"Pet?"

"Yes, Serena?"

"Maybe we should give Molly and Nate some private space."

"You're right. Let them enjoy this time with each other."

Molly and Nate were overjoyed to be with each other.

All night, they ran, played, and even made love to each other.

Peter and I had to wait for them to stop before we could finally change back to our human forms.

A few hours later, the eclipse had finished and the blood moon had disappeared. The moon was full and white again. Peter hugged me.

"Let's make love on this grassland, too."

"Forget it, Peter. What if someone catches us here?"

I blurted to Peter while putting on my clothes.

Peter scooped me up in his arms all the way back to the Maple House.

I could tell that everyone was already tired from staying up very late.

It was a good thing that Mrs. Brown had brought in some midnight snacks to wake us up.

In my mind, Molly was still reeling from her exhilarating experience. I understood perfectly.

After all, it was the first time I had ever let her out to meet her mate.

"I really like Nate, Serena. I had such a great time with him."

"I'm glad you do, Molly. Don't worry, I will let you out more often to see Nate in the future."

"Really? Don't you think it'll take away your private time with Peter?"

"At this point, Peter and I have made love so frequently that I almost can't stand it anymore! Don't worry about it, Molly. I'm sure Nate would also want to see you more often."

"Ha, of course. Thank you, Serena."

Kate's POV:

A few hours past midnight, when it was quiet, I snuck myself into the banquet hall of the Maple House.

Tomorrow, there was going to be a huge party.

Serena's seat was already set up in the banquet hall.

The future Luna of the pack would always have a special seat just for her.

Above Serena's seat, a beautiful chandelier hung right on the ceiling.

It was a great decoration, but an even greater tool for my plan.

I immediately transformed into a wolf and carefully jumped onto the chandelier.

With my sharp claws, I scratched at the ceiling, chipping it little by little.

Soon enough, cracks had started to appear.

Once the ceiling started to creak and dust began to fall, I jumped off the chandelier.

I looked at my work with satisfaction, smiling to myself.

Just above the banquet hall, there was a corridor that was usually bustling with people during the daytime.

If that cracked ceiling would be walked on by many people in the corridor, it was definitely bound to collapse.

When the chandelier fell, it would undoubtedly land right on top of Serena's head.

Last time on the tennis court, I recalled how she could control the racket from afar.

As far as I knew, this was a power only vampires possessed.

Either Serena had something to do with vampires before, or she must be a vampire herself.

But it seemed that I was the only one who saw her power that day.

I didn't have any evidence or witnesses that could back me up.

This time, it was going to be different.

Tomorrow, the banquet hall would be surely filled with people.

If the chandelier fell and Serena tried to control it from afar, everyone would see.

According to my research in the library, all hybrids must be killed on sight.

If my suspicions were right, Serena was a hybrid herself.

But even if Serena refused to use her super power tomorrow, she would still be crushed to death by the chandelier.

Either way, I was happy with whatever result would come out.

With a grin on my face, I snuck out of the Maple House, excited for the show that was about to take place tomorrow.

Oh, Serena was definitely doomed, all right.

The Alpha's Mysterious Mate by Audrey W Chapter 33

/ The Alpha's Mysterious Mate by Audrey W
Serena's POV:

Today, as the future Luna of the pack, I was going to attend the formal banquet of the Westwick family for the first time. It was a tradition before the Mate Ceremony, and it was going to be held in the banquet hall of Maple House.

Elders and high-ranking officials from packs all around the world were invited to attend.

I found the atmosphere during the banquet to be quite relaxing and pleasant actually.

Of course, there had to be someone who was dissatisfied with me, only because I was a she-wolf of unknown origin.

They spoke in a voice dripping with sarcasm, saying that I was undeserving to be Peter's mate, but they were instantly refuted by Peter himself.

Even Peter's parents were also on my side.

I was determined to be a highly respected Luna in the pack, just like Luna Vicky.

One day, I would prove to everyone that family background was not always the most important thing to be considered.

As the party was coming to an end, the desserts had been served.

I happily ate the mango souffle, and it was scrumptious.

All of a sudden, I noticed some dust particles fall onto my plate.

My eyes followed the falling dust to where it was coming from.

As expected, another cloud of dust fell from the ceiling.

With my sharp werewolf hearing ability, I heard a hollow, creaking sound coming from up there.

I watched as cracks began to appear on the ceiling, right where the ornate crystal chandelier was bolted to.

The ceiling collapsed, and the chandelier came crashing down, right above me.

“Serena, watch out!” Peter’s voice jolted me out of my daze.

My survival instincts immediately kicked in.

My body reacted quicker than my brain could even think of what to do first.

Without thinking twice, I reached my hands out and willed the big chandelier to fling itself to the other side of the banquet hall.

The chandelier crashed against a wall in the other corner.

A million shattered pieces of crystals scattered everywhere.

Fortunately, I had thrown the chandelier at a place far away from the banquet table, and no one was injured.

“Serena! Are you okay?” Peter rushed over to me as quickly as he could, checking my body for any wounds.

I immediately noticed that it was only Peter who seemed to care about my safety. Everyone else stared at me in what was a mix of astonishment and horror. It was then that I finally came to my senses and realized I had made a mistake. In my panic, I had used my vampire powers in a public event, for everyone to see! “Her power... She’s also a vampire!”

One of the elders pointed a trembling finger at me.

“Get her! We must kill her immediately!” The hall erupted into an uproar.

Led by the same people who had expressed disdain for me, many of the werewolves ran in my direction with ferocious looks on their faces.

“Nobody touches my mate!”

Peter transformed and roared.

Before me appeared an enormous black wolf, baring its sharp fangs at the pack members who dared attack me.

He growled in a low, threatening voice.

His fur all over his body stood on its ends, looking like it even emitted electric sparks.

The other werewolves took this as a sign to also transform.

With hatred burning in their eyes, both sides stood in defensive stances.

A fierce battle was on the verge of breaking out.

“Enough!”

A majestic, commanding voice boomed all throughout the hall. It was the Alpha's voice. As soon as he spoke, all growls came to a halt. Alpha, Luna, and Patricia didn't transform and attack me, but they didn't move to protect me either.

Luna and Patricia were standing there and staring at me, dumbfounded.

“Turn back into your human forms right now, all of you,” Alpha commanded.

Everyone obeyed reluctantly and transformed out of their wolf forms, but they still refused to drop their guard.

They all eyed me with great suspicion and caution.

“But Alpha, she is clearly a werewolf-vampire hybrid! We need to kill her immediately. It's in the law!” the same elder that pointed his finger at me shouted.

“Peter, did you know she was a hybrid prior to this? Why hadn't you killed her? Why did you even bring her back here and accept her as your mate? Have you forgotten your responsibility to the purity of our bloodline?” another elder asked harshly, as if I wasn't in the room.

“No, I didn't forget. But now, I am doubting the rationalities behind this agreement. Serena may be a hybrid, but she has never done any harm to werewolves in her life. We would be killing an innocent person if we simply did as the law says,”

Peter retorted without hesitation, as if he had thought about this a long time ago.

“Well, even if she has never hurt one of us, who's to say she won't ever do it in the future? Hybrids are too powerful. Killing them is a precautionary measure! History tells us that they were the cause for the many werewolf casualties back when they attacked us. That is why we eliminate them before they even prove to be dangerous!”

“No, Serena is not like those hybrids we were always taught about. You can't blame her for the actions of others just because she is one of their kind. There is no evidence to prove her guilty of doing such a thing. Using your argument, I would throw it back at you. I can simply say that although you might have never betrayed the pack, who's to say you won't do it in the future? Following that reasoning, shouldn't that be enough reason to kill you, too? Now, does that sound reasonable?"

"You..." Peter had the elders at a checkmate.

Mixed feelings swelled in my heart as I silently stood behind Peter.

I knew this day would eventually come, but I didn't expect it to be this soon.

Still, I was touched at how Peter was fiercely defending me.

No matter what was going to happen, I had no regret entrusting him with my life.

"All right, stop arguing!"

Alpha's voice resounded against the walls again, and the quarrel stopped.

"It is true that we have been working hard to maintain the purity of the werewolf bloodline for many years now. We cannot simply break traditions like these."

"But, Dad! I can explain..." Peter protested.

But Alpha raised one hand, signaling Peter not to interrupt.

"However, Peter is also right. We must not kill the innocent. I know that Serena is a good girl. It is almost impossible for me to believe that she would ever kill a werewolf, like those hybrids before."

"But, Alpha, that's..."

This time, it was the elders who became restless, but Alpha silenced them with a single glare.

"Whether or not we abide by the agreement this time is not something that can be decided right now. We must be careful with this, and take everything into consideration. Therefore, we will need more time to discuss this matter. But before that, Serena must be detained for the time being. When we come to an agreement, we will announce how to deal with this situation. Until then, I hope everyone here can keep her identity a secret."

Peter opened his mouth to say something, but I squeezed his hand and looked at him, shaking my head.

What Alpha said made sense.

They couldn't just ignore tradition because of me.

The decision to even consider talking about it felt more than fair to me.

Either way, even if Alpha wanted to protect me, they still wouldn't be able to convince all the conservative elders to simply give up the long- established agreement just like that.

It was better to give in now, and persuade them slowly.

Peter was reluctant, but he agreed anyway.

He personally selected the most spacious cell in the prison for me, and asked for it to be cleaned up.

He was even able to bring some furniture in to make it look like our room, which was sweet.

"Honey, just wait here for a few days, okay? I'll come get you out as soon as possible."

There was an apologetic look in Peter's eyes.

"I trust you, Pet."

I had no problem staying in this cell for a couple of days, especially now that Peter helped to make it more comfortable.

After kissing me on the forehead, Peter rushed to the emergency meeting and left me in the cell.

I sat down on the bed and realized that there was a skylight in the ceiling where I could watch the sky turn a darker shade of blue, waiting for my judgment.

I waited until it was late at night, and then, I heard a commotion from outside.

Peeping out through the cell's window, I saw all the lights of the Maple House turned on, and people outside looked like they were running frantically about.

Several guards ran past my cell in anxiousness, and I stopped one of them.

"What's going on? Why does it sound like chaos outside?"
