

Tattooed Luna by Mrs Smith Chapter 455

Tattooed Luna by Mrs Smith Chapter 455-“Any word from your men?” I asked.

We were currently sitting in the casino’s parking lot. The front of our car was facing the entrance, making it impossible to miss the coming and going guest.

Not a child in sight as casual men and woman to people in suits walking in and out. The decor was very nature themed with exposed treated wooden beams and wood carvings. A large Indian carving was the main focus but there was also a bear and a wolf.

“They haven’t been able to see him coming or going. He must be working out of the casino.” Alec sighed.

“I hate fucking suits.” Jasper grumbled in the back. We had stopped a few miles and changed into our suits before pulling up. Since we were a tad early, we just have been sitting there, allowing my anxiety to get high.

“You never did tell us what you found out about Kara.” Jacob thankfully changed the subject.

“The old man that runs the auctions said she was in the line up to be sold.

Follow current on novelenglish.net We need to figure a way to save her. No word on Gunther. According to the old | man, Gunther is allowing this to happen but requested I save her.” “He probably had to ditch her and is hoping you will saver her.” Jasper interjected.

“If we save Kara, Vin will know that Gunther tipped us off. He has to know his time is limited.” Jacob kept going.

| Alec and I just looked at eachother as | they started to sound more like a married couple argument than a discussion. “You can’t think Vin has actually allowed Gunther to still live? No way that Gunther isn’t tied to a | chair right now.” Jasper sounded like | he was disappointed in Jacob.

“If Vin gave him an ultimatum. He could have easily ditched Kara.” “Only if he was so far deep that he didn’t think he could make it out.” Jacob snapped his fingers. “What if Gunther has to hand deliver Kara to the auction. With everyone else, of course but still. He would hand deliver her?" "She is marked. No one will buy her.

SURRY Ue 0 *15 BONUS There is another thing going on. I'm betting they just told you that to get your attention on the auction so they could get away with something else." Opening the door, I was done listening to them. Even though they made a valid point, I needed to focus on this meeting and then I'd worry about Kara.

"Time to go." Stepping out, all four of us adjusted our jackets and started walking in. Alec and I allowed our auras to gently spread around us. Not enough to make people bow or question our movements but enough that they got out of our way. Jasper and Jacob instantly stopped bickering and flanked us like the betas they were.

The automatic doors opened and the es fbb sounds of a thousand slots filled my ears. Happy chatter accompanied with the smell of alcohol was so thick in the air that I had to refocus myself. How wolves did any business in these places was beyond me.

Follow current on novel-online.com "Mr. Colt?" I heard as I had paused in the foyer.

Looking to my right, there was a gentle that looked like he was twelve standing in a full tux. "That is me." @ "Great. Please follow me." He said and abruptly turned on his heels and started walking. Never once looking behind himself, he kept going.

Weaving our way around the tables and the bar, we went through a door.

As soon as the door shut behind Jasper, the noise was completely gone.

Instead, elevator music stuck to the WW TY BONUS velvet on the walls as we went down a set of stairs. Even the decor was different with shades of black, red and : even some purple. This gave me more vampire vibes than anything else.

Although velvet was the fabric of choice for these types of places, I never liked it.

At the bottom of the stairs, a long hallway that was dimly lit lead to two men standing on either side of a single door. "Sir Joe Gabino will see you now."

“Thank you.” I said as he opened the door for us. Jasper and Jacob kept their hands crossed in front of them as the four of us walked in to the massive office.

Follow current on storynovel.net “It looked more like a hotel room than an office. A large living area with a pool Wy 715 BONUS table was below and elevated desk.

Yellow lights were scattered around the room and multiple men. Jasper and Jacob stayed by the door as Alec and I went to greet Sir Joe.

“Alpha Colt! It is a pleasure to meet you!” The same man from the video walked towards us .

“Thank you for agreeing to meet with me. This is Alpha Alec.” Taking the hand he offered, we shook before he moved on to Alec.

Sir Joe waved me off as he walked back to his seat behind his luxurious desk.

“Not at all. Anything I get to meet the duo of death is a pleasure.” €» “Duo of death?” I repeated, slight caught off guard.

“Haven’t heard you being called that?” Sir Joe laughed. Alec and I stood in front of his desk and just looked at each other.

“Can’t say I have.” “After what you did to Alpha Rip...” Sir Joe widened his eyes and looked down.