Chapter 16: Heaven Will Bring Justice Upon Those Who Lie (2)

Oh. My. God!

Mister Numbers actually managed to pull off a headshot even while talking to them!

Innumerable exclamation marks flashed across Shi Yao's mind.

She then saw [111111] raising his arm, and yet another notification popped up:

[111111] killed [Homework Let's Break Up] with 98K.

[Expert of the Monkeys] continued talking, "Boss, you should be honest. Lying through your teeth will bring the heaven's wrath upon you! There, look. The red zone appeared right above us. If you speak against your true thoughts, the heavens will exact justice upon you!"

Hearing what [Expert of the Monkeys] said, Shi Yao quickly took a look at the minimap and realized that a red circle currently surrounded the area they were in.

During the game, red circles would appear from time to time, and these places were termed as the Redzone.

The Redzone would be blasted with bombs from above, and if a bomb were to land on a player, the player would die immediately. The players coined the term for this death as 'Justice From the Heavens'.

However, the chances of suffering by 'Justice From the Heavens' was rather low.

"Heh..." [111111] chuckled disdainfully as he casually replied to Expert while maneuvering his gun, "You're saying that I spoke against my true thoughts? What I said is the truth—"

Shi Yao was thinking that they'd soon get another notification of [111111] knocking out or killing someone with his 98K when a massive fireball suddenly fell from the sky and landed accurately on [111111]'s avatar. After which, a notice popped up on the screen:

[111111] knocked out in the Redzone.

The four people were silent for an entire five seconds before [Expert of the Monkeys] and [Juice] burst out into frenzied laughter.

Shi Yao was too embarrassed to laugh out loud, but that didn't stop her lips from creeping upwards.

[Expert of the Monkeys]: "Boss, I told you that speaking against one's true thoughts will bring the Justice From the Heavens upon you. See, even the heavens can't stand watching you!"

[Juice]: "Hahaha, I've already saved this recording."

[Expert of the Monkeys]: "Share it with me later!"

[Expert of the Monkeys] and [Juice] gloated for quite a while before [Juice] climbed out from the bushes to pick [111111] up.

However, before he could reach him, yet another massive fireball fell from the sky and—

[Expert of the Monkeys] killed by the Redzone.

[Juice] killed by the Redzone.

[111111] killed by the Redzone.

[Yao Loves Ice Cream] killed by the Redzone.

In that moment, everyone inside G University's Room 501 was petrified.

What was up with their luck?

Their entire team was actually wiped out in the Redzone?

After finally coming back to their senses, Lu Benlai and Xia Shangzhou were just about to complain about what happened when Lin Jiage, the man who'd been struck first and then ridiculed, spoke leisurely, "Indeed. Those who speak against their true thoughts will be punished by the Justice From the Heavens."

Lu Benlai and Xia Shangzhou turned to look at Lin Jiage, bewildered by his insinuation.
