The Divorced Billionaire Heiress chapter 2480-Future Boyfriend

That was why Selena put the focus of Eric's offense on his impoliteness for not knocking on the door.

How frustrating.

Selena took a deep breath and did not even bother to change. She fixed her clothes and went out.

Eric stood tall beside the railing and looked down.

He was holding a cigarette in his hand that he had just lit. His expression was inscrutable as his face was in the shadows.

Hearing the movement, Eric turned his head and frowned slightly when he saw that Selena had not changed her clothes.

However, he did not ask about it. Selena was probably still angry and wanted to scold him to vent her anger.

Eric paused. His throat moved slightly, and he averted his eyes guiltily.

Selena came out with her arms folded, glanced at Eric, and walked downstairs without saying anything.

Eric froze slightly. His voice was deep and low.

"Selena, let's talk."

Selena paused. She turned slightly sideways and looked at him strangely and coldly.

"Didn't you come to pick up your son? He's downstairs now. Pick him up and leave quickly."

Selena had nothing to say to Eric.

It must be too late now.

Between Eric and Zachary, anyone with eyes would choose Zachary.

Selena was not stupid!

Although Selena did not like Zachary that much, at least Zachary liked her!

After she finished speaking, she turned around and left gracefully.

Eric suddenly thought of the short clip on the internet that Mitchell showed him. Mitchell even said that Selena was talented and that she could become popular if she changed her career to become an actress.

He sneered in disapproval.

However, at this moment, Eric suddenly felt that what Mitchell said made sense.

The woman in the video was elegant and charming. Her eyes were glimmering and indescribably alluring.

His heart clenched tightly, and he raised his voice a little.

“I’ve seen everything.”

Selena’s back froze. She turned around abruptly and glared at Eric with a sharp gaze.

Eric was unmoved as he stood there and stared at her. He tapped the railing with the hand holding the cigarette and said, “Come here. Let’s talk.”

He seemed to be able to grasp Selena’s emotions easily, and he did not care whether his means were despicable as long as he could achieve his goal.

Selena took a deep breath, walked over to Eric with a lot of resentment, and stopped one step away from him, refusing to take a step closer.

She raised her chin slightly with a bit of arrogance. Her long and thick eyelashes were trembling.

“Mr. Ferguson, I didn’t even pursue your responsibility for being a peeping tom, so how dare you bring it up?! What, are you so proud of peeking at women when they change? Is that your fetish? It turns out that you’re such a crazy pervert!”

She cursed at him in one breath and suddenly felt much better.

Eric was livid. He took a deep breath, and his chest heaved up and down.

If he was not mentally prepared, he would have been exasperated.

This happened every time they met.

Thus, Eric seemed immune to it.

It was funny to think that Eric would one day be used to a woman scolding him.

Eric pursed his lips. His face was glum, and his eyes were dark.

“I’ve been waiting for you to look for me and cash that check. Who told you to tear it up and block me?”

Eric did not expect that the woman who took care of him for $10 million would be so determined.

She did not seem to care about that $10 million.

Eric had been waiting for Selena to regret her actions.

It was just a torn check, and he still had plenty.

As long as she begged him, he would naturally give her a new one.

After all, he had loads of money.

Eric hoped that Selena was a money-grubber.

That way, he could at least have the means to keep her.

Yes, keep her.

Eric did not know why he was so interested in a woman who was not Nicole.

It might be because he had not been around women for too long.

Eric was not interested in anyone but was attracted to Selena.

He pitied her and pampered her, but she still played hard to get.

Eric was sure of his heart.

He was extremely loyal to Nicole. That was also a pain and regret that he would never forget in his life.

Nicole had an elusive existence in his life.

Eric was willing to risk his life for Nicole.

However, she did not care about him.

Thus, when he saw how happy Nicole was, he felt a lot more at ease.

Eric persuaded himself to be more open-minded and get on the normal trajectory of life.

Marrying Cindy was normal, but he did not marry her.

Selena's appearance made him deviate from the track again. Eric admitted that he was disturbed by Selena's existence.

At first, when Selena said that she approached him deliberately, Eric was glad although he did not admit it.

However, Selena gave up on him and approached Zachary instead. Thus, Eric felt uncomfortable.

Eric was possessive. Even before he figured out his feelings for Selena, he started to make trouble.

It was always right to strike first, just in case it was too late.

Then, he would really end up with nothing.

Yes, Eric feared that he would be one step too late.

He stood there with countless thoughts running through his mind, but on the surface, he looked calm and gloomy.

When Selena heard about the check, she became even more furious.

She thought, 'He actually has the cheek to mention that check?! Why did he speak so nonchalantly and blame it on me instead?'

Selena choked. She was hot-headed and gritted her teeth. She raised her chin slightly, with a bit of disdain.

"Isn't it just a piece of scrap paper? Do you think I'm easy to fool? You just want to use this to humiliate me. Don't think I'm unaware! I've shown you enough respect just by blocking you and not going over to curse at you and expose your petty behavior!"

She spoke in one breath. Her words were sharp, and she vented out everything that had been bottled up for several days.

Selena thought, 'Eric is such a b*stard and hypocrite! Did he really think that I was easy to fool?! If it wasn't for Mitchell's reminder, I would still be in the dark. If I foolishly went to the bank to cash the check, the bank staff would've laughed at me!'

She took a deep breath and soothed her chest. She looked like she had won the fight.

Selena sized up Eric, who looked restrained with his lips pursed into a straight line.

Her beautiful face was filled with anger.

“You still have the nerve to come over?! In that case, let me make it clear to you. I don’t want your stupid money, take your dirty money and get out! Don’t even say that I’ve coveted you for a long time. I was just fooling you! You’ve been divorced twice, but you still have the nerve to look down on me? Even if you stripped naked, stood in front of me, and begged me to take you with $10 million in your hand, I wouldn’t even take a glance at you! I’m going to have a boyfriend soon, so you’d better stay away from me! I’m afraid my boyfriend will misunderstand our relationship!”

Selena simply said the last sentence and did not expect Eric’s face to get even gloomier.

Eric was domineering. His dark and gloomy eyes were probing as he slowly narrowed them.

“Boyfriend? That boy toy named Zachary? The one you went to dinner and watched a movie with today?”
