

Temptation 129

Chapter 129 - 129 Divine Doctor Effect

The free clinic van parked.

For a long time, no one came to seek medical treatment.

Just as Su Fan had said, there were many bad people here, and also many pitiful ones.

Many elderly people already had serious illnesses, but they couldn't even afford to go to the hospital for a check-up.

Now, at the free clinic stand, they also dared not come forward, fearing it might cost them money.

If they had money, who wouldn't want to live in a high-end compound like a lord? Who would choose to come to this urban village?

"Young man, do you really not charge for medical treatment here?"

After waiting for quite some time, finally, a gray-haired old man came forward and asked cautiously.

His clothes were old and patched, but very clean.

Su Fan smiled and nodded.

"Yes, not a cent."

"Would you sit down so I can check on you?"

"No, not me, it's my spouse, just wait a moment."

The old man hurried off and soon returned, supporting an elderly woman of similar age.

The elderly woman's walk was unsteady, limping along.

"Oh my, I won't go. I won't go. It's just wasting money again. My granddaughter still needs to go to school. Let's save the money for the kids. I'm not dying yet."

The old lady was very resistant.

Liu Ye, holding a microphone, shouted.

"Madam, rest assured, this is a free clinic."

"Really? It's free? Don't trick me. Last time, someone offered 'free medical treatment,' and ended up selling some massage chairs and deceived many people."

Su Fan was speechless.

But he also began to sympathize with these pitiful old people.

This situation was actually quite common, especially in the countryside. There were always scammers disguised as medical practitioners who tricked old folks into buying health products, massage chairs, water purifiers, and the like...

Su Fan took the microphone from Liu Ye's hand and said loudly.

"We are official doctors from the City Hospital, and the person next to me is the department head. We have professional certification and documents issued by the city health department. Everyone is welcome to take a look."

Speaking, Su Fan took out these pieces of evidence.

"Oh, I recognize you..."

Suddenly someone in the crowd exclaimed.

"You are the Solitary Doctor who was on the news a few days ago."

"He saved a little girl who was declared dead in a car accident, and in a very short time cured an elderly person with cancer..."

As this person exclaimed, more and more people began to pay attention to Su Fan.

Some young people took out their phones to look up the news and began comparing it to Su Fan.

"It really is that Divine Doctor. The Divine Doctor has come to our Citizens Village for a free clinic. He truly is a good person."

Suddenly, the entire village entrance was packed tight.

"Divine Doctor, my chest hurts. Please take a look at it."

"Divine Doctor, I have a daughter about your age. Are you seeing anyone?"

People surrounded Su Fan, and some even began introducing him to potential partners.

Liu Ye teased Su Fan, saying.

"Hehe, you, the Divine Doctor, are even more in demand than this head director here. Today, you're really going to be kept busy."

Su Fan was embarrassed.

He hadn't expected the broadcasting power of social media to be so terrifying. Just a few days after entering the city, he had become a well-known Divine Doctor.

"I am not currently looking for a partner. I am here for a free clinic and today, let's just talk about treating illnesses. Everyone, please line up, one by one. I promise, everyone will have a chance for a free diagnosis, and I will also prescribe the appropriate medications for everyone. Come, one by one."

"Madam, I'll take a look at you first."

Just as the crowd was lining up and the old lady had settled down, Su Fan was about to take her pulse.

A van pulled up.

Several burly men quickly walked toward the treatment van.

"Old woman, out of the way."

The bald leader pushed the old lady sitting in the chair.

"Oh no!"

The old lady fell to the ground, crying out in pain.