Chapter 136: Tai Chi Kung Fu

Su Fan clearly hit the nail on the head, which is why she became furiously embarrassed.

"Young man, how did you know about my daughter's health condition?"

The elder's gaze toward Su Fan became sharp, and his tone was very authoritative.

Su Fan smiled slightly.

"I told you, I'm a doctor, Chinese medicine, which cares about observation, listening, questioning, and pulse-checking. I knew your daughter's health condition just by looking."

"That's impossible; I know a bit about Chinese medicine too, but how could it be as exaggerated as you say?"

Chen Ruoshui was full of disbelief.

The old man was deep in thought, seemingly undecided.

"That's right."

Suddenly, Su Fan had an idea and pulled out his cellphone.

"You must have heard about the Solitary Doctor in Yang City lately?"

"Of course."

"Ha ha, do you think I look like him?"

Su Fan searched for a news article about himself on his phone and handed it to Chen Ruoshui.

It was the very scene where Su Fan had saved lives in the hospital explosion.

The person performing miracles in a white coat was none other than Su Fan, standing right in front of them.

"This, this..."

Chen Ruoshui was at a loss for words.

The old man's face quickly relaxed, and he greeted Su Fan with a salute and a smile.

"So it turns out you are Divine Doctor Su, my apologies, this was all a misunderstanding."

"It's my younger daughter who has been rude; I apologize to you here."

The old man's attitude left Su Fan pleasantly surprised.

He had not expected the name of Divine Doctor to be so influential.

It seemed the old man noticed Su Fan's surprise.

The old man smiled and explained.

"Divine Doctor Su, I respect not just your skill, which is indeed impressive, but I deeply respect your medical ethics. Now, doctors like you who have such integrity are scarce, and we martial artists also value the spirit of chivalry."

Su Fan shyly touched his head.

"You are too kind; I'm just doing my duty as a doctor."

Having revealed his identity as a Divine Doctor, others naturally didn't suspect him of spying anymore.

"Oh, so it's you."

The female student looked at Su Fan with an unusual expression.

"What, do you know me too?"

Su Fan asked the female student.

"No, I don't know you. Goodbye."

The next moment, she fled in a rush.

She really is puzzling.

The old man saluted Su Fan again

"I am Chen Tai, this is my daughter Chen Ruoshui; Ruoshui, quickly apologize to Divine Doctor Su."

Knowing she was in the wrong, Chen Ruoshui kept a straight face and did not speak.

She really was a stubborn one.

Su Fan didn't mind.

"Master Chen, let's forget it since it was all a misunderstanding."

"Ha ha, Divine Doctor Su, you are magnanimous."

"Um..."

"Since you have diagnosed my daughter's illness, could you perhaps lend a hand in treating her?"

"I've consulted many doctors, all to no avail, alas..."

Chen Tai looked troubled.

Su Fan generously said.

"I am actually here for a public medical service today, which of course is possible. Miss Ruoshui's illness is due to long periods spent in cold water as a child, leading to cold accumulation and subsequent complications. I can administer acupuncture and massage for three sessions, expel the internal cold, and support with medicinal decoctions for recuperation. She should fully recover within a month."

"Wonderful, wonderful!"

Chen Tai clapped his hands repeatedly.

But Chen Ruoshui was hesitant,

"Acupuncture and massage? You perverted shameless, surely you have ulterior motives, I don't want your treatment."

She then stepped into the martial arts gym.

"Ah, this child, I really have no solution. Divine Doctor Su, my apologies for this."

Though Chen Ruoshui's temperament was a bit strange, Chen Tai's attitude was very positive, which made Su Fan feel a bit embarrassed.

"Master Chen, there's no need to be so polite; Miss Ruoshui is still young, it's normal to be a bit childish. How about this, whenever she feels ready, she can come to the city hospital to find me at any time."

Chen Tai was overjoyed at Su Fan's promise.

"You are a divine doctor; surely your intervention would be beneficial."

"Here's what, I can't let you work for nothing; wait a moment, I'll go get you ten thousand cash as a fee."

"No, no, no, you are too kind. I am a government-appointed official doctor, and the government has already paid me my salary. Your daughter coming to the hospital to see me is official business. If I were to also take your money, wouldn't I be just like those corrupt doctors your daughter mentioned?"

Chen Tai awkwardly chuckled.

"Ha ha, the old man thought too shallowly, my apologies, my apologies, but I am indeed somewhat embarrassed."

Su Fan continued along Chen Tai's line of thought.

"If you really want to give something, why not teach me Tai Chi instead?"
