

Temptation 53

Chapter 53 Critical Moment

Su Fan scanned the old man's body once again.

He was certain now.

His eyes had become an all-encompassing scanner—no, not even the most advanced scanner in the world could do this.

How could this be?

Was it because of the extreme Yin constitution?

"It must be related to my union with Liu Ye."

"Grandpa said that once I obtain the Yin essence of the extreme Yin body, it would not only help me suppress the heat toxin but also bring me many benefits."

"This must be one of those so-called benefits."

For a moment, Su Fan was ecstatic.

"Old man, my apologies."

Su Fan gently pressed on the old man's neck.

The old man fainted instantly.

"The cell necrosis is too severe, and the area of infection is too large; to save someone quickly, I can only use my blood."

Su Fan once again cut his wrist, and his blood dripped into the old man's mouth, drop by drop.

Meanwhile, several armored vehicles stormed into the hospital.

A large number of fully armed bomb disposal personnel rushed into the building.

"To the criminal inside, you are surrounded,"

Shouting started outside, and snipers began to get into position.

"You..."

"Bitch, you lied to me..."

The criminal's emotions, which had calmed down, flared up in an instant.

A pair of eyes filled with resentment stared deathly at Li Jing.

With backup arriving, Li Jing felt much more confident.

"You are surrounded, raising your hands and surrendering is your only choice."

"I, I won't let you go even as a ghost; we'll die together."

The man, determined to die, had a resolute look in his eyes.

He was about to press the detonator.

"It's over."

"Help..."

Everyone in the corridor was in panic, like headless chickens.

Despair loomed over everyone.

"Wait..."

Suddenly, a voice shrieking with all its might echoed through the corridor.

The man's movement to press the detonator halted.

Where his gaze fell.

He saw two figures.

One was Su Fan, and the other was the old man Su Fan was pushing on a bed.

Apart from using his own blood to repair the old man's necrotic cells, Su Fan had also performed surgery to remove a polyp from the old man's womb.

"I've cured your mother's illness."

At this moment, Su Fan was drenched in sweat, his complexion pale, and his legs trembling, able to stand steady only by holding onto the bed.

He pushed the bed, step by step moving toward the man in the corridor.

In that moment, he looked like a peerless hero.

"Su Fan, how are you?"

Bai Man wanted to move toward him, but Liu Ye had already rushed to Su Fan's side, supporting him.

Bai Man's brow furrowed slightly, and her expression became peculiar.

"I'm fine."

With Liu Ye's support, Su Fan pushed the bed, step by step, until he was in front of the man.

"Mom."

The man held the detonator tightly in one hand and Luo Ya's neck in the other, calling out nervously to his mother.

"Son, mom's okay now."

The elderly woman had just undergone surgery and was very weak, but after taking Su Fan's blood, she was not in serious danger and could speak.

Clearly, her complexion was much better than before, and what was more astonishing was that she looked younger.

The old woman, who previously appeared to be in her seventies, now looked like she was in her fifties.

"Mom, you're really all right?"

The man found it unbelievable.

The experts, led by Hospital Director Zhang Haitao who had been mocking Su Fan just a while ago, were also full of disbelief.

"Impossible, kid, are you joking? It's only been over forty minutes; you completed the surgery? And it was successful?"

The old lady on the bed, with a kind expression, spoke to the man.

"Mom is really better, and I feel my body is much stronger than before, all thanks to Divine Doctor Su."

"If you still have any doubts, I can now arrange for a comprehensive examination for your mom,"

Su Fan said.

"I don't believe you're capable of that; arrange a comprehensive examination immediately; I want to see the results for myself..."

Zhang Haitao adjusted his glasses.

A group of experts volunteered eagerly.

"None of you are allowed to go; stay here as hostages. You, you go,"

The man wasn't foolish. What if Zhang Haitao and the others looked for a chance to run? He looked at Liu Ye.

"Did you really cure this old lady, or are you just deceiving this man to have him release everyone?"

Liu Ye whispered to Su Fan.

Su Fan smiled.

"I said before, I am a doctor."

Seeing Su Fan so composed, Liu Ye led a few assistants and pushed the old lady into the examination room.

Soon after, Liu Ye came out.

"The ultrasound results are out."

A report was handed to Zhang Haitao.
