

Temptation 661

Chapter 661: Commendation for Righteous and Courageous Acts

Su Fan saved the lives of many doctors in the hospital, which everyone still remembers clearly.

After the applause had quieted down slightly, Zhang Haitao picked up the microphone and said.

"Good morning to all medical staff and other hospital personnel."

"We've gathered everyone in the lecture hall today mainly to discuss two matters."

"The recent emergency incident is undoubtedly still fresh in everyone's mind, and many of us are still quite shaken by it."

"As the dean, my feelings are the same as everyone else's."

"Not only that, but when the vicious criminal threw the patient out of the fifth-floor window, I had the muzzle of his gun pressed against my head."

As Zhang Haitao began speaking, the atmosphere in the lecture hall became somewhat solemn.

This was inevitable, as Guo Song had left a lasting shadow in the hearts of many medical staff, as well as other hospital personnel.

Violent criminals like Guo Song are rarely seen in Yang City.

As the atmosphere in the lecture hall grew tense, Zhang Haitao suddenly changed tack and said.

"The recent situation, although very dangerous..."

"But thanks to the joint efforts of Deputy Director Su Fan and the public security officers, we were all rescued."

"Here, let us all express our gratitude to Deputy Director Su."

As Zhang Haitao finished speaking, all the doctors in the lecture hall stood up at this moment.

The many doctors were extremely grateful to Su Fan for saving their lives.

If it weren't for Su Fan hiding behind the water tank, launching a surprise attack, and scaring Guo Song away...

No one knows what terrifying things would have happened in the end.

After everyone stood up, they all bowed to Su Fan led by Zhang Haitao, followed by a round of applause.

At this moment, the leaders from the municipal public security bureau and two hospital workers presented the certificate of bravery awarded to Su Fan by the public security bureau.

The two hospital workers also stepped forward and handed over the bravery award plaques from the public security bureau and the hospital to Su Fan, totaling four hundred thousand.

Of this prize money, the public security bureau awarded three hundred thousand, while the hospital awarded Su Fan one hundred thousand.

After the relevant procedures were completed, this prize money would be directly deposited into Su Fan's account.

Given Su Fan's current wealth, this sum of money was naturally not much to him.

However, it was important for him to do as much as possible when it came to gaining a good reputation.

The more attention he received from the outside world, the more traffic Dawn Pharmaceutical Company would get.

This was necessary for his personal development, as well as for the development of Dawn Pharmaceutical Company.

After Su Fan had accepted the certificate of bravery, Zhang Haitao then announced the second matter of the day.

"Medical staff and other hospital personnel..."

"Our hospital has received a notice from the higher-ups that a Traditional Chinese Medicine department will be officially established in the hospital soon."

"After the Traditional Chinese Medicine department is formally set up, Deputy Director Su Fan will serve as the Chief Physician of Traditional Chinese Medicine, let's give him a round of applause."

As Zhang Haitao finished speaking, he naturally led the applause.

The other doctors in the hospital also clapped at this time.

It's not that Su Fan was the only practitioner of Chinese medicine at the affiliated hospital of the Medical University, but there was no official department of Chinese medicine before.

Most of the time, practitioners of Chinese medicine were used as pharmacists, with some being able to practice Western medicine and thus essentially working as Western doctors in the hospital.

But things would be different from now on, because with Su Fan's seemingly miraculous skills in Traditional Chinese Medicine, other Chinese medicine practitioners at the hospital were also benefiting from his presence.

With the official establishment of the Traditional Chinese Medicine department, many Chinese medicine practitioners would obviously see a significant improvement in their treatment.

In fact, Chinese medicine and Western medicine each have their own merits.

However, in the treatment of some diseases, Chinese medicine has clear advantages over Western medicine.

Chapter 662 - 662

When treating some complex diseases, Western medicine often finds itself at a loss, but traditional Chinese medicine might just have an ancient prescription that has long recorded such diseases.

At that time, traditional Chinese medicine could directly take the prescription and prepare the medicine to treat and save people.

After the hospital's commendation for Su Fan had concluded, many doctors began to return to their respective positions.

However, Su Fan couldn't leave yet, as Zhang Haitao still wanted to keep him around to discuss the establishment of a department for traditional Chinese medicine.

Su Fan followed Zhang Haitao into the latter's conference room.

After the two sat down, Zhang Haitao said, "Su Fan, the senior leadership has given two proposals."

"One proposal is to develop the affiliated hospital of the medical university into a fifty-fifty split between traditional Chinese medicine and Western medicine."

"The other proposal is to add traditional Chinese medicine as a supplementary department within the affiliated hospital of the medical university."

"To make the affiliated hospital of the medical university a comprehensive hospital."

"Between these two proposals, which one do you think is better?"

After speaking, he lit a cigarette and then looked at Su Fan.

The affiliated hospital of the medical university had been developing under its original model for twenty to thirty years.

Although its development was fairly good, its influence was never as significant as it is now.

The current significant influence of the affiliated hospital of the medical university was, of course, all thanks to Su Fan.

His repeatedly miraculous medical techniques, which brought the dying back to life, had shocked the entire Yang City and attracted high attention from all sectors of Yang City.

Due to Su Fan's impact, the hospital had developed rapidly.

Even Yan Henglong, a business tycoon from West Capital, had come to the affiliated hospital of the medical university for treatment after falling ill.

Moreover, he had donated ten million in various medical supplies to the hospital.

Of course, Zhang Haitao had taken a cut of that large sum for himself.

Hearing Zhang Haitao's question, Su Fan thought seriously for a moment and then began to speak, "Director Zhang, I think these two proposals can be completed in phase one and phase two."

"In the first phase, it's sufficient for the hospital to become a comprehensive hospital with traditional Chinese medicine as a supplementary department."

"During this period, we can cultivate talent in traditional Chinese medicine and explore the management experience of the department."

"Once we have a solid foundation in the management of the traditional Chinese medicine department, we can officially develop the hospital into a combined traditional and Western medicine hospital, with each accounting for half."

Su Fan had been working at the affiliated hospital of the medical university for some time now.

He was quite familiar with the situation of the hospital.

For a long time, traditional Chinese medicine had not been given much importance, and of course, the hospital didn't have very skilled traditional Chinese medicine doctors.

In such a situation, it was obviously very difficult to start by building a hospital where traditional and Western medicine were equally balanced.

After Su Fan had finished speaking, Zhang Haitao nodded in great satisfaction, "Su Fan, we think alike."

"Since you think so too, there is no problem."

"From now on, you are no longer the deputy director but the chief physician of the department of traditional Chinese medicine."

"You can get involved in any major or minor issues related to the department of traditional Chinese medicine, and you can also discuss any suggestions or opinions with me."

Su Fan nodded slightly, "I will coordinate well with the director's work."

Having discussed these matters, he could naturally go on to attend to his tasks.

He now had quite a few matters to handle, with several special patients in the hospital needing his personal treatment.

One of them was certainly Yan Henglong, a business magnate from West Capital.

Yan Henglong's disease was a very rare complex disease, but he was recovering very well.

With continued systematic treatment, Yan Henglong would soon be able to regain his health.

Apart from Yan Henglong, the treatment of Xia Lingwei, deputy director of the municipal public security bureau, also needed his attention.

Chapter 663 - 663

Xia Lingwei's initial condition was extremely dangerous.

But the treatment over this period has been very smooth, and Xia Lingwei can even go home to rest in a few days.

In addition, Zhang Haitao, the head of Yang City TV station, also needed his personal treatment.

At first, Nalan Xue came to the hospital every day for treatment on time.

It wasn't until Mayor Jiang Gao suddenly fell ill that she stayed at home, taking care of Mayor Jiang Gao.

Of course, when Su Fan went to treat Mayor Jiang Gao, he also treated Nalan Xue at the same time.

After leaving Zhang Haitao's office, Su Fan first went to see Xia Lingwei.

At that moment, Xia Lingwei was leaning on the bed reading a book, and when she saw Su Fan, she couldn't help but nod her head with a smile.

She now knew that it was Su Fan who had saved her when her condition was most dangerous, and that Su Fan was her life-saving benefactor.

She had a best friend who was a doctor at the First Hospital.

Her best friend told her that her original condition was actually very dangerous, even to the point of being hopeless!

If she hadn't met Su Fan, she would have been dead.

Xia Lingwei completely believed her best friend's words, which of course made her even more grateful to Su Fan.

As Su Fan entered the ward, he smiled at Xia Lingwei, then asked, "Deputy Director Xia, how do you feel about your recovery?"

Xia Lingwei spoke seriously, "I feel that I'm recovering quite quickly. In the past, my injuries were never as serious as this time, and it used to take a long time to fully recover."

"This time, although the injury was so severe, I'm able to sit up before much time has passed."

Su Fan nodded slightly, "I'll take your pulse."

Upon hearing this, Xia Lingwei extended her fair, white wrist generously.

Su Fan took Xia Lingwei's wrist and channeled a strand of True Qi into her body.

After his True Qi traveled a complete cycle within Xia Lingwei's body, Su Fan knew exactly what her condition was like.

With Xia Lingwei's curious gaze upon him, Su Fan began to speak, "In seven or eight days, Deputy Director Xia's injuries will be about seventy to eighty percent healed."

Xia Lingwei immediately became very joyous, "Really? I can't thank you enough, Dr. Su Fan."

She was actually someone who couldn't stay idle, and had it not been for that, she wouldn't have gone to catch the criminals herself, resulting in her injury.

Having heard that she would be almost recovered in seven or eight days, she was naturally over the moon.

While Xia Lingwei was very happy, Su Fan smiled and said, "Deputy Director Xia, take good care of yourself, I have to see other patients now."

Xia Lingwei nodded her head, having a very good impression of Su Fan.

Su Fan was not only her life-saving benefactor but had also recently killed the criminal who had injured her, making him a hero of Yang City.

Xia Lingwei had a favorable opinion of Su Fan and was also very curious about him.

Since she was a Martial Artist in the Qi Nourishing stage herself, she was very aware of the difficulties of martial cultivation.

Su Fan seemed quite powerful, mastering miraculous medical skills while concurrently advancing in martial cultivation, which was extremely rare.

Of course, Su Fan was unaware of Xia Lingwei's thoughts.

At this moment, he was already calling Yan Henglong to ask if he was coming to the hospital for treatment today.

Just as his call went through, Yan Henglong already appeared in the corridor.

Su Fan had no choice but to hang up the phone and walked towards Yan Henglong.

Seeing Su Fan, Yan Henglong also quickly walked over.

"Divine Doctor Su, I'm sorry for the delay on the road today; I'm a few minutes late," Yan Henglong said.

Unconcerned, Su Fan shook his head, "It's fine, I thought Director Yan might come for treatment tomorrow, so I just called to check."

"Director Yan, have you been feeling uncomfortable during this time?"

Chapter 664 - 664

After Su Fan asked, Yan Henglong responded with a smile, "After being treated by Divine Doctor Su, I felt as if I had rejuvenated by more than a decade."

"During this period, I've been eating well, sleeping soundly, and I have had abundant energy throughout the entire day without any discomfort."

Su Fan's treatment was obviously highly effective.

Hearing Yan Henglong say this, Su Fan also smiled and then directed Yan Henglong towards the treatment room.

He had to attend soon to Mayor Jiang Gao, and also to Nalan Xue.

Whatever he needed to discuss with Yan Henglong could clearly be done while giving him a massage.

On this occasion, Yan Henglong was sitting in a chair, receiving treatment from Su Fan.

Su Fan was going to massage his head and perform acupuncture.

While being treated, Yan Henglong curiously asked, "Divine Doctor Su, how long will it be before the products of Dawn Pharmaceuticals are on the market?"

Su Fan had not expected Yan Henglong to ask this.

However, since he asked, Su Fan gave a rough timeline, saying, "In about a week, Dawn Pharmaceutical Technology will begin to introduce products into the market."

Yan Henglong nodded, then asked again, "What kind of products will Dawn Pharmaceutical Technology be selling?"

He was very optimistic about Su Fan's company, or else he would not have sent his daughter there.

While treating Yan Henglong, Su Fan replied, "Dawn Pharmaceutical Technology will initially produce various types of traditional Chinese medicine."

"Our vision is to use traditional Chinese medicine that is cheaper, more effective, and has fewer side effects to replace all Western medicine available on the market."

Hearing this ambition, Yan Henglong was very surprised, "Divine Doctor Su, won't that be somewhat difficult?"

"Can traditional Chinese medicine truly replace all Western medicine by being cheaper, more effective, and having fewer side effects?"

Although Yan Henglong was a business magnate in Xijing, even if he wasn't involved in the pharmaceutical field, his business intuition was apparent.

The question he raised was actually quite challenging to answer.

Su Fan did not conceal anything in response to his question.

After pondering for a moment, he said, "It is feasible to replace all Western medicine with traditional Chinese medicine produced using herbal ingredients."

"After all, in the past over five thousand years, we had no Western medicine, and relied entirely on traditional Chinese medical techniques to treat and save people."

"Various common and rare diseases are detailed in traditional Chinese medical texts and books, which even include various prescriptions."

"However, there are still some issues with the cost."

"Some traditional Chinese medicines are relatively expensive, and using these to replace Western medicines would only result in a loss."

"But if we view traditional Chinese medicine as a whole, there are evidently no problems."

"While some medicines can only be sold at cost, there are still many others that can somewhat yield a profit."

"Moreover, the vision of Dawn Pharmaceuticals is to address everyone's health concerns and the pain points of struggling to afford medicine; making money is secondary."

After Su Fan expressed these thoughts, even Yan Henglong gained additional respect for him.

If Dawn Pharmaceuticals really could achieve what Su Fan had described, their medicine would truly be a blessing for the hardworking masses.

Many people who fall ill cannot afford medicine and just have to wait, hoping their pain will gradually lessen.

Once Dawn Pharmaceuticals' various medicines hit the market, all types of expensive drugs will undoubtedly face an unprecedented massive shakeup.

After chatting with Yan Henglong a little longer, the treatment session with Yan Henglong came to an end.

He then escorted Yan Henglong out of the hospital.

As they reached the entrance of the hospital, Yan Henglong spoke earnestly, "Divine Doctor Su, if Dawn Medical Technologies needs investors, please consider Longheng Group first,"

Su Fan nodded slightly, "Definitely, thank you Director Yan for your kind offer!"

Chapter 665 - 665

Dawn Pharmaceutical Technology Company doesn't need investment at the moment.

But if they want to expand rapidly to the whole province, the entire country, or even to lay out a global strategy, then clearly they would need investment.

Of course, Su Fan will always have absolute control over Dawn Pharmaceutical Group.

His medical skills are the core and soul of Dawn Pharmaceuticals, and holding two-thirds of the shares is nothing but normal.

After sending Yan Henglong away, Su Fan went to the pharmacy to prepare the medicine for Mayor Jiang Gao.

Jiang Gao's body was extremely weak, and a quick recovery was almost impossible; he needed gradual recuperation.

Moreover, the current Jiang Gao couldn't afford to get angry or upset.

Otherwise, it wouldn't be impossible for his illness to worsen.

At the same time, in Mayor Jiang's villa, Jiang Gao, very disappointed, asked his secretary to send away a famous doctor.

After falling ill, he had invited a lot of famous doctors to treat him.

Although Su Fan has a very high reputation in Yang City,

Su Fan's medical skills are indeed formidable.

However, Jiang Gao didn't fully trust Su Fan.

He still hoped to have more doctors help with the diagnosis and provide different treatment plans.

As a result, all the doctors he brought in had impressive reputations,

But none of them had any effective means to deal with his symptoms.

Even though he didn't fully trust Su Fan, since only Su Fan could provide treatment, Jiang Gao had no choice but to seek Su Fan's treatment.

Jiang Gao didn't wait too long in his villa before he received a call from Su Fan.

Now, moving around was still somewhat difficult for him, but his arm had regained mobility, and answering the phone was not a problem.

Jiang Gao quickly took out his phone and answered the call.

Su Fan's voice immediately came through the phone, "Mayor Jiang, the Chinese herbal medicine you need has been prepared at the hospital."

"Should I come over to treat you now or would another time be more convenient?"

Afflicted with illness, Jiang Gao of course hoped to receive treatment sooner and make a full recovery as quickly as possible.

He immediately said on the phone, "Divine Doctor Su, please come now to treat me; I have everything ready here."

Hearing this, Su Fan replied on the phone, "Alright, I'll be there shortly."

After hanging up the phone, Su Fan took the Chinese herbal medicine he had prepared for Mayor Jiang Gao and headed to Mayor Jiang's house.

Waiting for Su Fan outside the mayor's villa was Nalan Xue, wearing a silk warm-white floral-collared jacket and tight black leather pants.

Nalan Xue's figure was comparable to that of a supermodel.

Dressed in such attire, with the combination of silk and leather, she was very alluring to Su Fan.

Noticing Su Fan's gaze, Nalan Xue smiled proudly and asked, "Divine Doctor Su, what are you looking at?"

Su Fan responded with a smile, "Just admiring Big Sister's beauty."

Nalan Xue covered her mouth and chuckled lightly, "Just admiring? Don't you want to do something else?"

Nalan Xue's personality was somewhat similar to Wang Xiaoxiao's.

Once she became comfortable with someone, she liked to joke around.

Su Fan approached Nalan Xue and kissed her on her tender red lips.

Since he still had to treat Jiang Gao, he didn't kiss her for long.

After kissing Nalan Xue, Su Fan entered Mayor Jiang's villa.

Nalan Xue followed Su Fan inside.

As they walked, Nalan Xue casually asked, "Can Mayor Jiang recover to his former state?"

Su Fan shook his head without hesitation, "It's difficult, we can only try to make him recover as much as possible and look for ways to maintain his condition."

"Returning to his previous state is very challenging, even downright impossible."

Hearing this, Nalan Xue didn't show much reaction on her face.

It wasn't because she was callous or lacking in loyalty, but rather because if Jiang Gao dared to start something, she would dare to see it through to the end.

Jiang Gao's illness was, to a great extent, brought on by himself.

But Nalan Xue would never say such things outright.

Su Fan and Nalan Xue quickly caught sight of Jiang Gao.

The mayor's complexion had improved a lot, but alas, his body was still not cooperating, forcing him to work from home.

When Su Fan saw Jiang Gao, he was slightly surprised.

Jiang Gao's recovery was not looking good; his condition may have gotten even more serious.

Chapter 666 - 666

In the bedroom of Mayor Jiang Gao, Su Fan once again provided a diagnosis for him.

After a moment of diagnosis, Su Fan's expression turned serious.

"Mayor Jiang, aside from my treatment, has any other doctor treated you?"

Jiang Gao hadn't expected Su Fan to be so perceptive, knowing such things.

Indeed, besides Su Fan, he had also paid a hefty fee to hire a French medical expert to treat him.

The expert had not yet entered China, but after an initial diagnosis, he prescribed some medications to him.

After taking them, he vaguely felt that his physical condition seemed somewhat better.

But seeing how serious Su Fan was, something must have gone wrong.

Mayor Jiang immediately didn't dare hide it; he nodded and said,

"I have a college classmate who now works at a medical center in France, conducting research on related diseases."

"Upon learning about my illness, he recommended a French medical expert to treat me."

"That medical expert previously prescribed me two special medications, which I felt considerably restored my health after taking them."

After Mayor Jiang had finished speaking, Su Fan internally cursed him for being incredibly foolish.

He knew that people like Jiang Gao were hard to trust others.

Even though he held a great reputation in Yang City and had achieved preliminary success in treating Jiang Gao, Jiang still sought diagnoses from other doctors.

The poor cannot afford to ignore illnesses, but the social elites scrutinize and choose their doctors and treatment plans.

Jiang Gao was obviously not fully satisfied or trusting of his treatment plan.

While receiving his treatment, he had also consulted other medical experts.

After deliberating, Su Fan could only say, "Mayor Jiang, according to my treatment plan, your condition requires a gradual approach."

"If you continue with the regimented treatment, within a short amount of time, you will be able to regain your most basic mobility."

"Now that you have taken some medications, your physical condition has turned quite poor."

"This medical expert's treatment for you is completely akin to quenching thirst with poison."

The so-called 'quenching thirst with poison' implies that when someone is dying of thirst, they choose to drink poison to quench it.

Of course, they would no longer feel thirsty, but they are also not far from death.

After Su Fan spoke, Mayor Jiang Gao's face visibly turned somewhat gloomy.

Because he realized that the real situation was exactly as Su Fan had described.

While taking the special medications, his physical condition indeed saw a brief improvement.

But afterward, his condition seemed to have worsened a bit, becoming more severe.

Thinking of this, Jiang Gao couldn't help but feel a bit anxious.

He hurriedly looked at Su Fan, earnestly asking, "Divine Doctor Su, what exactly is the state of my illness now? Do I need to be hospitalized for treatment?"

Su Fan nodded solemnly, "Mayor Jiang, it's best that you are hospitalized for treatment and also fully trust my and the affiliated hospital doctors' professional level."

"Your condition at the beginning was not very severe."

"Although the recovery was slow after I treated you, as long as the treatment is followed systematically, you will gradually recover."

"But now, because you have taken other medications, there has been some relapse in your condition."

"My suggestion is that it's best for you, Mayor Jiang, to go to the University Affiliated Hospital for a more comprehensive treatment."

Upon hearing this, Jiang Gao did not immediately express his stance.

His first reaction to anything and everything was to question it.

If not, he would have been deceived by those under him long ago.

Regarding his condition, he consulted numerous experts both domestically and internationally.

Some experts' opinions were similar to Su Fan's, while others, especially those from Western medical experts, differed from Su Fan's.

Chapter 667 - 667

Like the French expert who prescribed his medication, an appealing treatment option was provided that intrigued him greatly.

The expert suggested a minimally invasive surgery for him, stating that after undergoing this procedure, his bodily pain would be alleviated, and he could recover quickly within about half a month.

Jiang Gao's career was flourishing, and he managed Yang City impeccably.

Actually, he wanted to advance further, to a provincial-level position.

In his view, neither recuperating at home nor hospitalizing for treatment were considered excellent treatment options.

After giving it serious thought, he spoke plainly and directly to Su Fan, "Divine Doctor Su, Doctor Bonas from France will be coming in two days."

"He wants to perform a minimally invasive surgery on me, saying it could ease my illness and speed up my recovery."

"Divine Doctor Su, what do you think about this treatment plan?"

Jiang Gao held a high position with significant authority and relatively substantial financial resources.

This afforded him a wide array of choices, even allowing for medical treatment abroad.

However, there were also downsides to this approach.

That is, different doctors obviously have different understandings of the same symptoms, leading to different treatment plans.

Su Fan's treatment plan included bone-setting, massage, acupuncture, tonifying debilities, and strengthening the body.

Jiang Gao's spine was somewhat deformed.

Typically, people who sit in offices, especially those who remain seated for long periods and work overtime, are likely to have some spinal issues.

Hence, Su Fan intended to set his bones correctly and then relieve his channels and collaterals through massage.

His aim was to restore the vitality of his meridians to adapt to the changes in his body.

The subsequent acupuncture was also aimed at awakening his entire body's meridian points to function properly again.

Western medicine experts do not study meridians, much less the intricacies of the meridian points.

In such a situation, naturally, they were not capable of offering Jiang Gao this type of treatment.

Beyond this, Su Fan also prescribed Jiang Gao many tonics to replenish his bodily deficiencies.

Afterward, he would teach Jiang Gao the Five-Animal Frolics of traditional medicine, to aid as much as possible in his recovery.

This was a long treatment process, but it was sure to help Mayor Jiang Gao recover his health to the greatest extent possible.

But Jiang Gao evidently found this treatment process too complicated, wanting to resolve all issues through a minimally invasive surgical operation.

After Jiang Gao had finished speaking, Su Fan could only shake his head, "Mayor Jiang, what you need is a systematic treatment, not a minimally invasive surgical operation."

"I have already discussed your treatment plan with you in detail last time, so I won't repeat it here."

"If Mayor Jiang still insists on using minimally invasive surgery for treatment, I have no objections."

Since his time treating patients at the affiliated hospital of the Medical University, Mayor Jiang Gao was undoubtedly the most challenging patient Su Fan had encountered.

The patient had access to an abundance of medical resources and was not entirely trusting of his treatment plan.

Indeed, Western medical treatment plans could treat Jiang Gao's current symptoms.

But he was certain that his treatment plan was the best.

That could also be proven by observing Jiang Gao's life energy.

Life energy, like a blazing torch, could be sensed by any Martial Artist at the explosive energy realm, feeling the life energy of others.

After undergoing his treatment, Jiang Gao's life energy had indeed recovered significantly.

But he seemed to admire and trust the Western medicine expert greatly, directly taking the medications prescribed by the Western medicine expert.

This caused his life energy to weaken to a certain extent.

However, if he were to tell Jiang Gao about these, he would certainly not listen; it would just be a matter of waiting for the patient to make his own decisions.

After much serious consideration, Jiang Gao finally made a decision.

"Divine Doctor Su, I completely trust your medical skills."

"But at the moment, I cannot be away from my position for too long."

"I need to quickly regain my ability to be active and return to my job."

"Between your treatment plan and Professor Bonas's, I must opt for Professor Bonas's."

"However, for my subsequent recovery, I still hope to receive suggestions from Divine Doctor Su."

Jiang Gao seemed to be a wise man, treating with Western medicine and recuperating with traditional Chinese medicine.

Allowing both Western and Chinese medicine to play their respective strengths.

Chapter 668 - 668

Of course, this treatment approach wasn't pioneered by Jiang Gao, as many wealthy businessmen also underwent treatment this way.

However, Jiang Gao's condition wasn't suitable for such a plan.

He was insistent on doing it his way, and Su Fan had no choice but to comply.

Su Fan nodded slightly, then said, "If that's the case, I will head back to the hospital today."

He truly felt that Jiang Gao was being somewhat clever for his own good, but with Jiang Gao's status, there was nothing he could do.

Jiang Gao's actions would inevitably lead to him suffering the consequences later on.

His condition could have been relatively well managed with the proper treatment, thus achieving maximum recovery.

After such reckless actions, he would obviously need treatment every now and then, turning into a pill popper.

That's good too, by then Jiang Gao could only seek his medical help.

Once he got a clear grasp of Jiang Gao's condition, he naturally planned to take good care of Nalan Xue and administer a few shots to calm her down.

Previously, in the hospital and even in the villa's kitchen, Nalan Xue had undoubtedly launched an offensive against him.

But considering Nalan Xue's status, he didn't dare to go too far with her, nor did he dare to take the plunge and try out the taste of this fiery beauty.

When Su Fan was about to leave, Jiang Gao did not stop him but told Nalan Xue, "Please see Divine Doctor Su out."

Naturally, Nalan Xue nodded and said to Jiang Gao, "If Divine Doctor Su doesn't come to the villa for your treatment later, I will have to go to the hospital."

Jiang Gao hummed in response, "It's good for you to go to the hospital. The hospital has complete facilities and medicine, and the medical environment is better."

Nalan Xue's situation was different from his.

He couldn't leave his job, but Nalan Xue could.

During this period, she hadn't gone to the hospital for treatment because he was recuperating at home.

If he had adopted Su Fan's treatment plan, then naturally he could have asked Su Fan to come to his home every day to treat him and then Nalan Xue.

Now that he planned to let Professor Bonas treat him, it clearly wasn't suitable to have Su Fan come to the villa and treat Nalan Xue exclusively.

In fact, Su Fan could still come, but he didn't bring it up himself to avoid raising Jiang Gao's suspicions.

His influence in Yang City was currently incomparable to Jiang Gao's.

If he did something with Nalan Xue and Jiang Gao found out, the latter truly had the means to penalize him.

After Nalan Xue escorted Su Fan out of the villa, she didn't return to the hospital with him but instead said to Su Fan, "Xiao Fan, I'll come to the hospital to see you in a while."

Su Fan naturally nodded, "Okay, Snow Sister, I'll continue your follow-up treatment when you come to the hospital."

This visit to Mayor Jiang's villa had undoubtedly started with excitement and ended in disappointment.

Not only did he not engage in a deeper relationship with Mayor Jiang, but he also didn't manage to have any developments with Nalan Xue, which could be said to be a loss.

Eventually, when Jiang Gao later faced trouble, today's loss would have to be compensated by taking advantage of Nalan Xue in his home.

Thinking this, Su Fan also drove back to the hospital.

The affiliated hospital of the Medical University, after the incident with Guo Song, had once again returned to calm.

When he returned to the hospital this time, there were no emergencies nor any thorny issues.

He went straight to his office and started working on his own affairs.

His entire focus now boiled down to three words: medicine, martial arts, business.

Medicine, of course, referred to medical skills. He needed to continuously delve into medical knowledge to enhance his medical skills and eventually win at the Hua Xia Famous Doctors Conference!

Moreover, medical skills were one of his key assets for establishing himself, and he had to study them whenever he had time.

Next was martial arts, which was even more crucial for his survival. Otherwise, encounters with the Blood Wolf Gang and Wang Tongshan among others could end him.

Lastly, business provided him substantial funds to support his progress in medicine and martial arts.

Furthermore, it also enabled him to create a stable living environment for the many women around him.

Chapter 669 - 669

Medicine, martial arts, and business complemented each other for Su Fan.

After thinking it over, he took out his cell phone and dialed Chen Hanqing.

In the internet era, being able to recruit a talent like Chen Hanqing was like finding a treasure.

When his call went through, Chen Hanqing immediately answered, "Mr. Su, is there anything you need me to handle?"

Su Fan said, "Hanqing, keep an eye out for information related to all kinds of ancient Chinese medicine texts and various Chinese medicine items."

"It's best if they come from auctions, because those items and texts are generally authentic."

"Also look into which collectors have these items, as I may want to purchase from them later."

In this world, there are certain special items that are treasures worth a fortune.

Due to limitations in manufacturing techniques or materials, many apparatus related to ancient Chinese medicine are unique.

Su Fan was buying these items not for collection but to study medicine and to treat and save people.

After hearing Su Fan out, Chen naturally nodded, "Okay, Mr. Su, I will get on it now."

He was very satisfied with his life now.

His parents had moved from the urban village into an apartment.

Furthermore, the company had hired a caregiver to look after his elderly parents.

He was doing what he was good at in Su Fan's company, a job he had dreamt of in the past.

After finishing the call with Chen Hanqing, Su Fan simply took out his laptop, connected Guo Song's USB drive, and started to study Guo Song's methods of pile training and hard qigong.

His Tai Chi was undoubtedly very impressive, but Tai Chi did not emphasize pile training and hard qigong.

With Guo Song's secret manuals, he felt he had covered these weaknesses.

Su Fan had a strong talent for learning in both medicine and martial arts.

Now, after starting to examine the manuals on his laptop, he quickly picked up some techniques.

He was so engrossed in his reading that when Bai Man came into his office, he didn't even notice.

As he was intently studying the manuals, Bai Man approached him and curiously looked on.

However, Bai Man clearly couldn't comprehend these materials.

Thus, she could only speak up, "What is this?"

Upon hearing her, Su Fan was slightly startled and then responded, "This is a form of pile training."

As he spoke, he also realized that his vigilance was not enough while in the hospital.

Although the reason he hadn't detected Bai Man approaching was that she posed no threat to him, had Bai Man been a martial artist, or even an expert in cultivating qi, he would have noticed her much sooner.

Nevertheless, he needed to increase his vigilance.

Bai Man was, of course, all the more baffled by the so-called pile training.

So, she quickly changed the subject, "Didn't you go to treat Mayor Jiang today? How come you're back so early?"

Bringing this up made Su Fan somewhat frustrated.

Immediately, he got up to close the door of his office.

Seeing this, Bai Man immediately said, "Don't mess around today, I still have work later!"

Su Fan, of course, paid no attention, closed the office door, and directly picked up Bai Man.

Bai Man was wearing a white lab coat and skirt, with a pair of ultra-thin flesh-colored stockings and a pair of shiny white high heels.

After picking up Bai Man, Su Fan then answered Bai Man's earlier question, "Sister Man, Mayor Jiang lacked trust in me, and didn't let me continue treating him."

"Ah?" Bai Man was puzzled, then immediately asked, "Why?"

Su Fan's medical skills were well-known throughout Yang City.

A single miraculous revival could be coincidental, but consistently demonstrating such skill shows mastery in medicine.

Chapter 670 - 670

Su Fan, of course, did not exaggerate, and quickly recounted everything about Jiang Gao to Bai Man.

Upon hearing how Jiang Gao was so picky even with medical treatments, Bai Man was utterly speechless.

But given Jiang Gao's status, she obviously couldn't say much.

At this moment, Su Fan said, "Sister Man, let's not talk about Mayor Jiang anymore. Come help me practice my stance work."

Bai Man was astonished, "How can I help you?"

Su Fan did not answer but instead used actions to show Bai Man.

Bai Man quickly felt a coolness below.

Immediately after, a sharp spear penetrated her in an instant.

Though Su Fan operated with gentleness,

he couldn't help that his assets were just too impressive, thoroughly filling Bai Man and stretching her quite severely.

At this moment, she felt as though she was about to be torn apart completely.

Su Fan's voice followed, "Sister Man, help me practice my stance work like this."

As he spoke, Su Fan began to perform his stances, specifically the Iron Horse Twelve Stances.

The Iron Horse Twelve Stances are known for their efficacy in strengthening kidneys and bones.

After Su Fan took a few steps, his kidneys felt like two little burning stoves.

That made things difficult for Bai Man, as Su Fan was already incredibly intense.

As Su Fan's strength continued to increase, not only did his assets become even more formidable and terrifying, but he also grew more vigorous.

Now as Su Fan started practicing the Iron Horse Twelve Stances, began to fortify his lower body, waist, and dual kidneys, naturally, it was tough on Bai Man.

After all, the Iron Horse Twelve Stances encompass the iron horse, the copper waist, and the steel kidneys principle.

If Su Fan didn't hold back, he could definitely render Bai Man unconscious with ease.

Su Fan continued his stance work while delivering a continuous output to Bai Man.

Only after beginning to practice this stance work did he realize its power, no wonder he had struggled so much against Guo Song that day.

This stance work was truly formidable.

With each step, he experienced a sensation of taking root, and his kidneys burned like furnaces.

His already robust and powerful dragon vein, of course, became even more fierce in the process.

Bai Man felt as though her very core was about to be entirely pierced through.

At that moment, all she hoped for was that Su Fan would stop, "Xiao Fan, stop for a bit, let your older cousin rest."

Overwhelmed by Su Fan's fierce thrusts, Bai Man's head began to spin.

Her form of address for Su Fan reverted from sister or Sister Man to older cousin.

This special familial role undoubtedly ignited an even more raging flame within Su Fan.

Bai Man, already enduring a ferocious attack, was now subjected to an even wilder battering.

It was as if she wanted to tear through the passage, to brilliantly burst her very core, as if her whole being was about to lose half its life.

Bai Man could only plead with Su Fan, "Xiao Fan, your older cousin can't take anymore, slow down, let me catch my breath."

As she spoke, she anxiously slapped Su Fan's shoulders.

She had truly reached her limit, causing a much more copious flow of clear liquid than ever before, continuously surging against Su Fan.

As if to overwhelm the golden mountain, she seemed intent on soaking Su Fan to the skin.

But Su Fan did not cease his stance work. His fierce progression with Bai Man even accelerated.

Bai Man, already at her limit, let out a scream and finally fainted from extreme pleasure.

However, Su Fan did not let go of Bai Man but instead carried her to the couch and sat down with her.

Although Bai Man had started to rest, her body certainly could not.

Bai Man, originally seated on Su Fan's lap, quickly lay down on the couch.

Her twin peaks, under Su Fan's relentless efforts, seemed to be growing larger.

This time, Su Fan, with one in each hand, began to knead them wildly, as if intending to utterly soften them.