

Chapter 259: TURMOIL IN THE CAPITAL CITY

TURMOIL IN THE CAPITAL CITY

Haco, the sorcerer that had put the cursed soul inside Cane, was currently staring blankly at the distance. He had been throwing tantrum, demanding Clad and Leros let Cane knew he wanted to see him, but after his attempt failed, he sat down on the floor, shutting down from his surroundings, while mumbling and shaking his head in disbelief with his current situation.

"I am doomed. I am doomed. I cursed a princess. I will be beheaded... they are going to kill me. I am dead now."

Haco didn't have any idea whose hair that Cane had sent to him belonged to, in the letter, it only mentioned, he wanted the person to suffer, for them to beg for death, while they were alive.

Thus, with one earth stone, the strongest black magic he could perform was that curse.