

Chapter 842

842 NEW INFORMATION

The blood relation between Serafim Abby and Elder Rose was not discussed much because they put their focus on the role of Serafim itself.

This was the reason why they didn't talk much about the fact elder Rose was the Serafim's mother. It was a secret that was not really a secret among the people in the Andelus continent, especially with the younger generation.

"Cane, don't you think there is something more?" Iris supported her body with her elbows and stared at Cane, while the alpha caressed her back.

"There is definitely something more into the story," Cane agreed.

It would be hard to believe Cane was actually having a lengthy discussion with someone, discussing about everything when the alpha used not to give an explanation when he gave an order.

Even more when no matter how hard the conversation was; the two of them seemed relaxed and talked this out as if this was only another hurdle that they needed to overcome.

Iris then rested her head against his chest and murmured. "Why do you think Abby and I look similar? The similarity is hard to ignore."

Cane knew what Iris wanted to talk about. This was their current concern too, about Iris's origin. But, it was hard to tell when there was no one to confirm about this.

Iris sighed and stretched out her hand to caress his stomach, feeling his abs against her palm and then moved down to slip her hand under his pants, which caused Cane to groan.

"Iris..." Cane hissed. He noticed Iris had been like this for the past few days. She seemed to find another way to get a pleasure.

Cane didn't find this weird, he only thought Iris wanted to explore about sex more, which he gladly complied. Before, she liked it when she was on top of him and now this. Cane didn't complain and play along with her.

However, before things could escalate, they heard a knock on the door and Ethan's voice travelled inside the room, which annoyed Iris. She lifted her head and glared at the closed door because of the interruption.

It almost looked like she was ready to berate the gamma for bothering them at late night.

Sensing her annoyance, Cane laughed and pulled her back for a hug. "There must be something important."

"I know," Iris said sullenly.

Cane then allowed Ethan to enter the room and the look that Iris gave to him telling him that he was not welcomed here, which made the gamma wanted to cry. Why the luna looked so fierce by day?

"Kellan managed to get Diadem pack, alpha Colter is with him. He will be publicly executed a week from now in Diadem pack's fortress, unless you and the representative of the Holy Kingdom meet him in person and enter Diadem on your own willingly."

In another word, Cane and the representative would come to Diadem pack without any protection and surrendered themselves to Kellan. No one could guarantee their safety if they agreed to the term.

"What?" Iris frowned. "That's suicide. You will not come, right?"

The news came just now and Ethan immediately delivered it to the alpha.

Iris then straightened her back and sat down, she looked at Ethan and Cane back and forth. "Don't you think this is bad? How dare he suggested that?" She frowned, because she could sense Cane was not surprised at all.

But, Iris was not the only person, who was confused with the lack of reaction from Cane. Ethan didn't understand why Cane was still calm, he didn't even furrow his brows.

"Not really," Cane replied. He then got off the bed and went to get something from under the bed, it was a small box. Iris recognized that box was the same box Redmond delivered to Cane.

Redmond found the box as per Cane's instruction and immediately rushed here, but then he tangled in a sudden battle. Thankfully, the box was alright.

Iris knew what was inside and immediately alerted when Cane gave the box to Ethan.

"Give this to Elder Xarex. Ask him to confirm the content and if he had more question, I will gladly answer them."

"What is this?" Ethan asked, he didn't have any idea what box was that, neither he knew the true reason why Redmond rushed here.

"Something they are looking for."

"Can you spare my poor brain and give me a straight answer?" Ethan felt like he wanted to cry. He felt excluded, especially when he saw Iris's expression and noticed she knew what was inside the box. He felt like he was a step child for being excluded.

"A map," Cane replied curtly. "And also tell Koda; 'Do it on the fourth day.'"

The news about the fallen of alpha Colter spread throughout the warriors and reached the elders. They were immediately alerted, because it meant, they had to change their plan.

The plan was that they were supposed to go to help alpha Colter and hit back the warriors from the royal family and also from the Celestial Moon pack, cornered them back to the capital city but as it turned out, Kellan had moved first and alpha Colter was no longer able to hold back the assault.

That was what people knew, but the truth was more than that.

Most of them forgot about how cunning Cane could be because of the attack with the monsters and how Decratric tried to destroy them by using all means. The past few months were very chaotic when they met a lot of hardships.

But now when the time came, Cane showcased his wicked side again.

"I don't believe it..." Ethan was talking with Aliana on the fourth day of the news about what would happen to alpha Colter spread. They were in the middle of the preparation to go to Diadem pack, the problem about the Serafim and the lycan was postponed temporarily. "How can I not notice it?"

Aliana chuckled. "You shouldn't be surprised anymore at this point."

Ethan groaned. He felt stupid.

The reason why Cane focused on rebuilding Silver River pack and took his sweet time to stay in this pack was not only because he wanted to use this pack as his base, but because he wanted to buy time.

If Cane really wanted to take his warriors to march to Silver River pack, it wouldn't take more than a month and alpha Colter would be saved by now.

The alpha actually wanted to let Kellan do the job. Cane wanted Kellan was the one, who battled alpha Colter and took him down, which left his hands clean from the crime. After all, from outside perspective, Cane was helping alpha Colter to put baby Vemion on the throne and all of them were on the same side.

It would put Cane on the bad light if he was the one, who made a move on alpha Colter, especially with the fact the people from Holy Kingdom watched his every move because the secret about the lycan was already in the open now.

However, on the fourth day when they were about to leave, Koda came with a shocking revelation.
