879 THE FORCE FOR IRIS www.NovelWorld.com

"Cane, I can't understand you." Redmond narrowed his eyes. "You don't think to send her to a battle, right? Just because she holds power now, you are thinking of her to lead those warriors to the battlefield. Holding power and leading a bunch of rough warriors is not the same thing."

"No." Cane sipped his alcohol and listened to the crowd of this tavern. There were so many merchants here. Because the Black Market had been destroyed, the harbor of the Chrystal Moon pack had been very lively because they were trading here.

More so, many merchants were seeking for revenge for their fellow merchant in the Black Market and ready to join Cane.

"They are there to ensure her safety and you will be with her to make sure that happened." Cane shifted his attention back to Redmond, who seemed unable to find the right word to respond to that. www.NovelWorld.com

"Did you realize it? You have been entrusting me with so many critical things. If I betrayed you, you will be doomed, Cane." Redmond had not been entrusted with this huge responsibility before.

"You didn't betray me in the matter with lady Cyan, why would you now?" Cane leaned his back against the backrest of his chair. "You have pledged your loyalty to Iris after all. Do as you think is right to keep her safe."

"Even though I went against your word?"

"Your loyalty is on her. You only followed my order because you thought I can keep her safe."

Redmond didn't have a word to say.

Yes, he served alpha Gerald and did everything he was told him, but not even once that alpha showed this level of trust in him. He treated him as something disposable, as if it had been written on the stone that Redmond would do as he wished, which was true.

But, Cane trusted him like a warrior. Someone that he could rely upon. This was two different things completely and he felt something shifted in his heart. This unfamiliar and strange feeling made him restless.

Redmond used to dislike Cane and he wanted to keep feeling that way.

"Prepare a small ceremony for that, I will bring Iris in three days." Cane stood up when he saw Lou was about to enter the tavern. "Inform Ethan too and keep it private."

After giving his order, Cane went to approach Lou, who already had a bag full of Golden Seed fruit.

"This is so expensive, you need to pay me." Lou glanced at Redmond, but he paid no mind toward that warrior. He had spent enough time with him and Ethan to give him a headache for a lifetime, thus it was not necessary to acknowledge his presence. www.NovelWorld.com

"Pay me too for the one that lycan bought before."

Cane said nothing, he took the Golden Seed fruit and handed him a pouch of gold and five earth magic stones, yet still the merchant was not happy.

It was already late at night, but this harbor was still very crowded, as if these merchants had never slept.

"Young man!" a woman called for Cane, she was a stall lady, who sold vegetables. Shifters didn't really eat that, since they preferred meat. "I see you are carrying Golden Seed fruit, is that for your pregnant woman?"

The alpha still had his hoodie over his head, thus no one could see his face and recognize him.

"Pregnant woman, my ass, she is only sick," Lou grumbled crudely. He wanted to leave now they had what Iris wanted.

However, the stall lady ignored him and kept talking to Cane. "Try this bracken, this is good for the baby! You will have healthy baby if the mother ate this regularly."

"Let's go, I am tired and I want to sleep."

However, to Lou surprised, Cane actually stopped and bought the whole bracken, which was enough to fill a big bag.

"Carry this." Cane gave the bag for Lou to carry. "Let's go back."

Not only Lou, who was shocked, but the stall lady too, she blinked her eyes in disbelief because she was selling well tonight.

"Wait, what?! What is this?!" Lou caught up with Cane. "Don't tell me... don't tell me... she is... she is pregnant? Again?" Lou stammered.

Cane glanced at him, they had reached the quiet spot, where Lou could create the portal and took them back to the campsite.

"We will not go anywhere until you tell me!" Lou threatened him childishly.

"Yes." Cane finally opened his mouth, but then he added more. "With twins."

The bag full of bracken slipped from Lou's grip, as he stared at Cane with jaw dropped. "How did you impregnate her at this time like this?! Are you still lacking problems so you are looking for new problems again?!"

It was still fresh in his mind how was Iris when she lost her babies. He was not around her much, because he couldn't stand the look of emptiness in her eyes.

"She was the one, who initiated it."

"No, Iris is not that bold!"

Cane raised his brows, a devilish smile curled on the corner of his lips. "I guess, it's only me, who can see that side of her."

Lou scrunched his nose in disgust. "You are so full of manipulation!"

And the next day, Iris was served with the bracken for her breakfast. This was the first time she ate something like this.

"What is this?" Iris asked, she lifted the soggy vegetable with her fork.

"The stall lady said it's good for pregnant woman, so the baby will be healthy." Cane put down a bowl of Golden Seed fruit that he had cut into small pieces. "Try it."

Iris ate the bracken and from the look on her expression, she was not a fan of it.

Later one, since Cane had bought so many of the bracken and Iris didn't like it, all of the warriors and knights were served with that for their meal. www.NovelWorld.com

"Is Alpha trying to kill us?" Zale complained.
