

The Alpha's Plus Size Urban Human Mate

Chapter 131

The battle continues:

“OMG this zombie bh is talking too much. Did she talk this much last time yall was fighting her?” Lynn asked, as she pointed her gun behind her without even looking and shot another crossbreed animal that tried to sneak up behind her. We jumped and looked behind us to see the ugly a*s animal drop to the ground. We narrowed our eyes at her “Show off.” We both said, she shrugged cockily. The zombie bh sneered at Lynn, remembering the two times Lynn pulled her blade on her. “I’m gonna kill you first you, you’re real cocky with those guns and that wolf.” The zombie bh said, starting to circle around us as her partner and other animals and warriors surrounded us. Our wolves went back-to-back so no one could sneak us from behind. Lynn has always said, no matter what, never expose your back away from the circle we formed. “Oh, these guns?” she said as she shot four of the animals circling us before she put them back in the holster. Then she unsnapped her harness and hopped off her wolf. He growled in protest but stayed in the formation we made.

“bh what the hell are you doing? If you don’t pull your guns back out, get back on your wolf and kill this bitch.” Mina said, glancing at Lynn. “Remember the mission we’re supposed to rescue her, not kill her. Now that doesn’t mean I can’t beat her motha fg a*s first. We owe this zombie bh for what she did to Shawna.” Lynn said, getting into her fighting stance. “Lynn, I don’t give a fk about any of that st. Shadow can kiss my a*s. I was never going to follow that stupid a*s plan from the damn start.” I said, looking back like she was confused that they weren’t on the same page. “Baby you do know I can hear you.” Makahi said through the com. “I kinda forgot, but I feel like you should have known better then to think we would ever try and save this bh, nobody was ever doing that.” I responded shrugging. “God damn it Ji’lahni don’t kill her disable and transport. That’s an order!” Makahi said, and all the girls laughed. Did he just say that’s an order? Sir, this situation is too serious for you to be joking on these damn coms. Talking about an order.” I said, shaking my head.

“Cuz he must have thought he was at a drive-thru. Sir, we are not taking orders at this time. We have an infestation problem.” Mina said, as she fired on a guard who must have thought his head was bullet proof because he charged at Mina, thinking she was distracted. “See, now I had to kill you because that was just stupid.” Mina said, as the man dropped to the ground. “Hey, cuz since when did we get ok with killing folks.” I asked, as the man drop to the ground, and I felt no regret at all . “Since they helped that other bh takes our babies and now, they are holding us up from getting to them and I’m sick of this st. People have been trying us lately, like because we’re humans, we can’t defend ourselves or we don’t have the guts to take them the fk out, st we all bleed red, green, blue, oh and purple.” She said, pointing at the many animals dead on the ground. Yea, like we said, this was some fk st happening out here.

Lateri's POV:

"It's too fg many fg animals out here. We need to split up. You go find your mates and the pups and I'll clear a path and hold them off." Mylan said as she threw her cane, which turned into a blade as she jumped and, flipped into the air throwing blades, throwing stars so quick that all you saw was bodies dropping to the ground with blades and stars sticking out their heads and necks. When she came down, she was right next to her cane that she plucked out of a warrior's eye. Sapphire howled as she ripped the head off another creature, before bounding down the path the dragon had lit on fire earlier. I could barely feel the mates' bond because Toni's wolf was being suppressed. I suddenly saw the stones up ahead. I couldn't see my mate. But I could see that bh Urrale dragging a woman that looked strangely like Fiona, but what caught my eye was what Fiona had in her hands.

My heart soared at the sight of my grandbabies. I let out an earth-shattering howl that momentarily stopped the fighting. Urrale looked in my direction and I could see the hatred and anger she had towards me. She immediately let Fiona go and charged at me. I could see Fiona trying to run away from the fighting. It looked like she was trying to come our way. "Son, Fiona has the pups. She is running around towards the girls, but they were fighting Shaïd and her warriors. I think she is trying to get the girls to us. Let the girls know so they will be expecting them. Urrale is hiding my way. I haven't found your father yet, but I'm going to murder this fg witch. Once and for all." I said via mind link. "Mom just find dad and get the hell out of there. You don't know how powerful she is in this realm." My son said, pleadingly. My son also didn't know what I was capable of, especially when I'm pissed.

Urrale threw some kind of electric bolt at me, and I leaped through the air, dodging it easily. I decided I wanted to get in on this as well, so I have shifted, now me and Sapphire as one. She ran at me throwing electric bolts as she screamed in anger every time I dodged them. I leaped in the air as she threw another lighting bolt which I dodged and came down and kicked her in the side of her head. She flew almost six feet away. I walked slowly over to her, and she shook her head and got up, backing away from me, and I walked toward her, with Sapphire snarling, wanting her blood. "I don't know how you are still alive, but you're too late. Men and Ton are together now. There is nothing you can do to stop me. She backed away, looking frantically around her.

She spotted Fiona who had to put the girls down because she was surrounded." She smirked and I attacked her, throwing punches and kicks as she tried to defend herself and use her magic. There is no way I will always her to use her magic on my babies. I swung and landed a blow to her jaw and kicked her in the gut and she flew across the ground groaning in pain and crawling away from me. I heard her mumble something right before I saw a blur that hit me in the chest so hard, that I flew damn near ten feet across the ground. I turned to see it was what the hell that was that hit me, and my eyes widened in shock, it was fg...vampires. "You have got to be kidding me." I said, getting up. I really hated those bloodsucking bastards.

Dradon's POV:

“Brother, you have to stop this. I don’t want to hurt you. Please stop. We can help you. I know you’re in there.” I said as my brother Lynx breathed his black fire at me as we soared through the sky. My sister had the disc that we were supposed to put on Lynx, but he was too fg fast. My sister Dyanix or Nix’s for short, was our baby sister. She wasn’t as strong as me and Lynx, but she was agile, which is why I was supposed to distract Lynx while she attached the disc to him. I could see she was hurt because when she got close to him, he must have sensed her somehow and turned and bit into her right wing. She cried out and almost landed hard on the ground before she recovered and dodged killing our own team.

“Damn it Nix watch out!” I yelled as Lynx flew out of the clouds right over Nix’s head, charging directly out blowing black fire. She barely dodged it. He flew directly into the clouds again, but this time I was on his tail. He was my older brother and taught me everything I knew since we lost our parents. I knew this was going to be hard for me and Nix to do, but I wasn’t afraid. I was determined to get my brother back. He let out an ear-piercing screech as he flew straight up into the sky where the air was thin. He knew that even as dragons, we could not stay in the sky where the air was thin for very long. “Nix, do not follow us, be ready when we see you coming back down through the clouds. I’m going to force him down.” I said to my sister. She screeched and turned back below the clouds.

“Drax, it’s time to stop fg playing with him and drag his a*s back down by his tail. You know what will happen if we grab his tail. He will kill us.” Drax said cautiously. “Yea, he can try, but hopefully, Nix can get the disc on him before he catches us.” I said to Drax, who let out a loud screech as he flapped his huge wings, coming within reach of Lynx and bit down on his tail pulling as hard as he could throwing him downwards into the air hoping he fall far enough so Nix can place the disc on him before he recovers and come to kill me.

The Alpha’s Plus Size Urban Human Mate

Chapter 132

Shadow’s POV:

“I’ll be up in a minute once I kill your family, then I will cut that pup out of your stomach and drain it while you watch, then I’ll allow my friends to drain you to death.” I heard Shaid say, there was a sick feeling that stirred in my gut. I can’t believe Scarlett would threaten my pups. That has only proven the girls right. I had asked the alpha to get me a com so I could be aware if Shawna needed my help. He agreed, only if I promised to keep my mouth shut and not let the girls know I was also listening. He made sure I wouldn’t be able to talk, because he gave me a com that you had to press in order to communicate. “Shawna gets your a*s out of there now!” Ji’lahni yelled in a panic. “bh I was gone when she spotted me. You just keep your asses alive and get the girls. I’ll be fine.” Shawna said. I breathed a sigh of relief.

“Hawk, take Shawna close to the entrance but stay high and in a spot that she can still provide back up for her family.” I mind linked Hawk. “Copy that commander,” Hawk answered. With Shawna protected, I could focus on the task at hand. Rane was feral. He wanted blood; I haven’t had this feeling since I left the pack after Scarlett died. “Oh, look, it’s the commander, the one who Shaid thinks is her mate. She said, “You will be the biggest brown dog out here. But I’m kind of disappointed because you don’t look so dangerous, you look like a little puppy. I’m what a real commander of an army looks like. It will please the master once I tell her that I had killed the alpha’s commander with my bare hands. You’re in dog form. That only means your human half is a weak human.” A large bulky man who had blood in his teeth that ran down his chin. His shirt was torn with claw marks all over his chest. He wasn’t a Shifter, but he wasn’t human.

“Rane, let me handle this.” I said, he didn’t want to, but allowed me to shift. “Do all of you talk this much during a war? You want something to brag to your master about. Then shut the fk up and bring it.” I said, as he came at me fast. Which was his first mistake. I dodged his punch, then landed a blow to his ribcage and gut before punching him in the jaw, which caused him to fall to the ground. I cracked my neck and waited for him to get up. He spit out a tooth and smiled. “Oh, I see you do have a little fight in you after all, so this will be fun after all.” The feral commander said, as he got up off the ground shaking away the dizziness. I just gave him. He charged at me again. He swung with his left at my head. I dodged, and he kicked at my gut with his right and landed. I grunted and dodged his uppercut, then dropped to my knees and punched him in the nuts so hard, even I flinched at the sound I heard. If he lived through this, which I doubt I know, one of his nuts just cracked open like an egg, judging by the blood and screaming I’ am, seeing and hearing. He was wallowing on the ground cradling his dk.

Before I could take him out of his misery, I was attacked from behind by a loin or a tiger who the fk knows. I grabbed him by the back of his head, bringing him over my head and used it like a bat, slamming it on the commander’s head repeatedly until I couldn’t tell who the animal was and who the human was. “Damn Shadow, did you have to do the man like that? You got that dude nuts bleeding and is that his eye over there on the ground?” Blaze asked as he shot two of those crossbreed animals. Hey, the first thing you learn is to protect your nuts in a fight, and the Alpha want them dead. I answered. “Yea dead not mutilated.” He said, holding his nuts, and he shot another warrior between the eyes. I shrugged, “same thing.” I said calmly as Blaze just shook his head.

“WE HAVE VAMPIRES ON THE SCENE. MY MOTHER IS FIGHTING ONE NOW! THEY MUST BE COMING IN, ON THE NORTH SIDE! SHE ALSO SPOTTED THE PUPS; EVERYONE GET YOUR ASSES OVER THERE NOW! IF YOU HAVE BEEN VACCINATED YET, THEN YOU CONTINUE TO KILL EVERYTHING THAT MOVES!” The alpha yelled through the mind link. We both looked around to see almost all our men were heading to the north. There were still enough warriors to cut down these feral animals and humans. Being vaccinated yearly to make us immune to a vamp’s poisonous bite. It was created after the first war. Even though we hadn’t been to war in years, we were still required to be vaccinated yearly. “Let’s move, we have to get to the pups between those blood-sucking bats get to them.” I said and me and Blaze started clearing a path towards the north side, not even

giving any of the animals a chance to strike first we had one goal. Get the twin alphas to safety.

Shawna's POV:

"Shawna, this is a bad fg idea. If you get hurt and the alpha or Shadow find out that I didn't stop you from doing this, they will kill me." Hawk said as he army crawled, and I crawled on my hands and knees. "Damnit Hawk, the babies are right below us that b*h Fiona is fighting off those animals; I don't know if she is trying to save them or get them to that evil witch. No one is paying us any attention. We stay low, get the babies and get the hell out." I said, trying to convince Hawk to not stop me from going to get the babies. When I spotted Fiona running in the opposite direction of the fight, I made a beeline straight to her a*s.

I stayed high close to the ground, so as to not be spotted. I know my cousins are going to beat my a*s for not listening and I'm pretty sure Shadow's version of beating my a*s will leave me not being able to sit for at least a week. But I'm still doing this. "Stop, don't move!" Hawk said, reaching out to stop me as his eyes glazed over. Letting me know he was being mind, linked. "What the hell is it now Hawk? I told you I was going with or without you." I said, trying to pry his hand off my arm. "fk! We gotta go, I have to get you to the entrance and to the doc." He said, attempting to pull me in the opposite direction of the babies. Oh, so he done lost all his mind. "Man, you better let my fg arm go. I'm not leaving my babies when they are so close." I said, yanking my arm away from him.

"We can't go down there; the alpha said his mother is fighting vampires. So, there is no way you can get to them without them knowing their hearing and sense of smell is greater than ours. They will know the moment you get down there. So, let's get you back to the entrance and to Doc." He said, letting go of my arm, thinking that because he said that I was somehow going to change my mind about getting to my babies. Some may call me stupid, but those girls are my family. I was there when Beautiful took her first breath. I would be damned if I witnessed her take her last because I was too afraid to try and save her when they were so close.

"OK boys, momma is about to save your big cousins and there are some nasty vampires who are trying to hurt them, and momma has to go and save them. So, I need you boys to make sure nobody hurts your big cousin, OK? I said in my mind, hoping that they heard and understood, which I highly doubt, but what the hell could it hurt to at least try before I do something stupid but good, stupid because saving babies is never stupid. I looked and saw that Hawk was still crawling away. So, I turned around and started crawling as fast as I could towards the babies again. It wasn't long before I heard. "God damn Shawna I'm telling Shadow; you humans are hardheaded as hell." He said in frustration.

Then I heard a deafening roar that was so loud everyone paused for a second. Now I don't know what made me turn my head in the direction I did, but once I did, I looked straight into the eyes of a pissed-off Shadow, leaped in the air across a sea of animals and shifted into Rane, who was heading straight towards me. A shiver ran down my spine. "Oh, he's mad now.” Hawk crawled beside me. I looked at him and rolled my eyes. “You, a fg snitch.” I said and started crawling towards the babies again. I was determined to get as far as I could before Rane caught me. What I didn’t see was something else heading towards me from the skies.

The Alpha’s Plus Size Urban Human Mate

Chapter 133

Makahi’s POV:

When I saw my mother, she was fighting the Vampire in human form. I could tell she had some serious bite marks and deep scratches. I reached her just as the vamp drew his hand back ready to strike her for the second time, but I caught his fist in my hand and crushed it before throwing him into the tree behind him. “Mother go get the girls and get them out of here now, I got this.” I said, not even taking my eyes off the vampire, who was hissing at me cradling his hand waiting for it to heal. My mother immediately shifted to heal and headed in the direction of where she saw Fiona running with the girls. “I see you take pleasure in hitting women, but you should ask yourself if she has a son. Because that lady definitely has one, and you’ve pissed him the fk off. I said, repeating Ji’lahni’s words from earlier.

He jumped up and blurred, disappearing. I stopped and used my ears to pick up his location and swung hard just as he blurred on my right side trying to attack me. Vampires are good at using your eyes against you. They use their speed, which allows them to appear and reappear in a flash. I didn’t create the best and hardest training camp in this country and didn’t teach my warriors how to fight vampires. He was so shocked by my ability to track his blurred movements that he lost some of his cockiness. But he quickly recovered and smiled. “So, you’re the famous alpha Makahi, the father of the Omni twins, the world’s first multi-shifters who are supposed to be the most powerful of all the supernatural beings.” He said as he tried and bide his time so his hand could heal. He obviously needed to feed because vampires tend to heal a lot faster than wolves. I shrugged at his description of my pups.

“They are my pups, no matter the power they hold. No one will ever hurt them and get to live to tell the story.” I said, just as he took the opportunity to blur, and tried to appear right behind me, aiming to bite my neck. I quickly threw my head back and cracked his nose. He screamed in pain. I smiled. “Not so tough when you have to fight another man, huh blood sucker?” I asked. Just as another warrior charged at me, he punched me in the jaw. I stumbled back, and spit the blood out of my mouth. I then went on the attack. I gave him two shots to the body and one shot to the head. That headshot put him on the ground and I crushed his neck. I did not have time to waste toying with any of these animals.

Antoni’s POV:

I was getting pissed. It seemed like for every warrior we fought and killed two more would show up. "We must get the fk out of here and find my grand pups. Urrale has gone after them and if she finds them, she will be able to get my grand pups out of here, and we cannot let that happen." I said and Cannon nodded. We had been fighting these warriors for too long. What the servant said was still in the back of my head. Could it be true? Is my mate still alive? Could she have survived after all? I know she could not be killed easily. But she had been trying to shift, at the exact same time, the warrior snapped her neck. I felt the bond break. If she were out there fighting, I could not feel her through the mates' bond because Aton couldn't come forward.

I pray to the moon goddess that she allowed my mate to live. This time I will make sure that Urrale will never hurt her again, with that thought in mind. I was done with this st. I dodged a warrior's blade, caught his wrist, and broke it, then took the sword and cut his head off in one smooth motion, then threw the sword into the neck of the other warrior that was coming to attack me. I pulled the sword from his neck before he hit the ground. With the sword in hand, I smiled as I charged into the crowd of men coming to kill Cannon and disable me, but as usual, Urrale underestimated me once again. Now I'm killing everyone on sight.

Lynn's POV:

"God damnit Lynn, I swear if you let that zombie bh beat you, I will kick your a*s when we get home." I heard Mina say, as the zombie bh punched me in the gut. "Will you shut the fk up and let her focus. You do know if she beat Lynn's a*s, then our asses is up next? And you remember what happened that last time we fought her, right? Yea, I'm not trying to do that st again unless it's absofuckinglutely necessary." Ji'lahni said as the zombie bh punched me in the jaw. I fell back onto the girls, they caught me and wiped the blood and sweat from my face. "Damn Lynn you was winning a few minutes ago, what happened?" Mina whispered, in my ear. "st if I know, the bh looks refreshed like she got her second wind, and her wounds heals every time I hit her." I said, I'm starting to regret putting my guns and blades away. I thought to myself.

"Yea, I bet you regret putting your damn guns and blades away. You don't ever listen to me." Mina said, reading my mind. Damn it, I hate it when she reads my mind. "Shut the hell up Mina and keep those animals from attacking me from behind. I said groaning. "Lynndoria Lou Chan, What the hell are you doing?" I heard inside my head. "Grandmother!" I frowned. "Yes, it is me, granddaughter. Why are you allowing yourself to be beaten by a vampire werewolf? Haven't I not trained you your entire life?" She scolded me. "Yes grandmother." I said, finally getting up, remembering my training when I was so bruised, I could barely stand, but my grandmother always pushed me to keep on fighting. "Remember your training, learn your opponent use their attacks to your advantage use your all your senses granddaughter and end this bitch." My grandmother said angrily. "GRANDMOTHER LANGUAGE!" I said shocked.

“Hey, we’re at war. I’m allowed.” She said, laughing. I smiled and got up to face this zombie bh. I took a deep breath and focused my energy on all my senses, and they came to life like an electric bolt. I could feel my energy. I looked at the zombie bh and got into my fighting stance. She screamed and charged at me with her nails elongated, baring her fangs. She swung at my face with her claws out. Everything slowed down. I saw her claws passing my face as I leaned my head back. I grabbed that hand, twisted my body, and threw her over my head, then let her go. While in midair, I leaped, then kicked her in the gut and landed on my feet and watched as she landed on two of her crossbreed animals. She was coughing up blood and struggling to get up.

“Daaaammnnnnn Lynn what in the entire hell was that? I guess you got your second wind too,” Ji’lahni said. “bh stop worrying about that, and shoot at something? How about do that, before we have to start fighting and I can guarantee you, we can’t do any of that st Lynn is doing. So how about start killing something damnit.” Mina turned, to look at Ji’lahni as she fired shot after shot while her wolf handled the ones who got too close. Her eyes widened. “Oh st, that’s Fiona over there with the girls behind her by the tree. Is she.... protecting them?” Mina asked, still shooting her gun.

“I don’t give a fk about what she is trying to do. I’m going to get my babies. Lynn, the girls are over there. We got to go get them!” Ji’lahni yelled, pointing at where she spotted the twins. As bad as I wanted to finish this bh, I wanted to get to the girls. I started running in that direction and my wolf quickly caught up with me and I hopped onto his back as he ran and grabbed onto his fur, not bothering to snap the harness. I didn’t have to look back to know that the girls were right behind me and a whole bunch of warriors and animals were chasing us.

Urrale’s POV:

They are ruining everything. I can’t allow them to get to those babies before I release the master. I only needed their blood to ensure that the master wouldn’t kill my mate but, if I failed him, he will kill me. So, all I need to do is get to the babies and perform the spell. Their combined powers along with mine are enough to break the bonds that hold him down in the cave of darkness. His sister had bonded him down there for all eternity. He finally got his chance to arise. Because of those babies.

The moon goddess hadn’t factored in that, giving those babies that kind of power that could destroy him, but using the right witch and spell, they could help release him. All I needed to do was get to those babies. The vampires who were helping me were slowly losing the battle. “Maria, I need to get to those twins before those humans. We need to release father. If we don’t, we will all die. We have a blood oath that if we fail, we and this realm will perish. So, we cannot fail.” I said in desperation. The father is coming.

The Alpha’s Plus Size Urban Human Mate

Chapter 134

Urrale's POV continued:

"Gregor! Get your a*s out here. We need to get to those pups NOW!" I yelled, fighting off wolves. "You don't have to yell, I was just having a little snack." The pale vampire said, with a smile. He grabbed a wolf and threw it against a tree. "Fine, I'll get the little dogs." He said and blurred and reappeared right behind the tree where the babies were laying. Finally, one thing is going my way. Now all I need to do is perform the spell and release father.

Shawna's POV:

"No, no, no, no, we can't let him take the girls. We have to do something." I said, looking around for anyone who could help get the girls. "Shawna, stay back, do not move. He's a vampire and his bites are poisonous and it will kill you." Hawk whispered from behind me. He approached the vampire from behind but that was useless. The vampire turned around as soon as Hawk was close enough. He swung at Hawk, but Hawk ducked, swung, and punched the vamp in the gut. The vamp barely grunted at the impact. I decided while they were occupied, I would get the twins. I decided to go around the long way. I went pass by several trees before I started to make my way back to the twins. I looked out back at Hawk and the vamp who was still fighting.

I looked out at the war going on and saw my cousins trying to make their way to the girls, but I was closer, and they were still fighting off warriors and animals. Shadow was battling several vampires who were slowing him down from getting to me. But as he snapped the neck of a vampire he had by the neck, he looked up at me and I could have sworn I heard him in my head promising to punish me. But oh well, some things are worth getting punished for. I looked back at the girls and my heart skipped a beat. They were crying in fear but otherwise looked OK. "Well, isn't this a coincidence? I thought I would have killed your family by now. But I guess I can cut that mutt out of you and let you watch while I drink him slowly, while I watch you bleed out. It will be like watching a movie while having a drink." I heard the voice of the one motha fucka I didn't want to see or deal with right now, especially with my belly bigger than the last time I had to fight her. But I will be damn if she gonna think I'm scared of her a*s. I turned around, no longer trying to be invisible because that st didn't work.

"I would like to know why you're so obsessed with me? You be thinking about me entirely too much to say I could care less about you." I said, trying to buy some time so somebody can come and help me with this bh. I had my guns at my side. But she will see if I go for them. "You f*d my mate and now you're carrying his pup and you think I would let you get away with touching what is mine." She hissed at me. "Wait, what? bh you were dead for years. That lifetime warranty was voided when you died bh. Shadow wasn't yours, but you can have him. I don't plan on standing in your way. So, you can go on about your business and live happily ever after." I said, as my emotions tried to take over at the mention of them being together. I touched my belly where our boys grew. "You have no idea about our kind if you think Shadow would be completely happy with me as long as you and that pup exist. So, you must die in order for Shadow to be happy with me.

We could have other children.” She said and my eyes widened, she wanted to kill me just so Shadow wouldn’t have me or the boys to put before her.

“Oh, I get it you’re an insecure zombie bh who is afraid that Shadow may actually love me and won’t choose you.” I said, laughing, which probably wasn’t a good idea, judging by how homegirl started breathing hard and screamed in anger. Before I could blink, the bh was in front of me and backhanded the st outta me. The only not so f*d up thing about this was, that I was close to a tree so I fell back into the tree instead of the ground, but that st still hurt. I grunted and slid down the tree. Shaid grabbed me by my neck and lifted me in the air. I don’t know who needs to know this, but being a big girl getting held up in the air by your throat hurts like a bh because of gravity and that’s all I’m gonna say about that because, bh I’m being choked out by a zombie bh and I need to focus on not dying. While trying to remove her hands from my throat

I reached down and touched a blade on my belt which I hoped was the dragon one, but at this point I didn’t care, because my a*s was on the verge of passing out. I grabbed the blade and cut her fg wrist that was wrapped around my throat. It wasn’t a dragon’s blade, but it was a blade that was silver and dipped in our blood, so I’m good except for the fact that I was falling to the ground, because none of yall was like bh you do remember she had your a*s in the air. Yea, I hit the ground hard as fk. A sharp pain went from my back to the bottom of my stomach, and I cried out as the pain was sharp. I touched between my legs to check to see if my water broke or if there was any blood. I breathed a sigh of release because there was nothing but some angry boys stirring around in my stomach. I could hear someone yelling my name, but the pain was far greater and more important than someone calling my name.

Shaid was still screaming, holding her wrist. So, I needed to get away from this looney tune bh. I got onto my knees slowly because of the pain and tried to get to the twins. I fought my pain and got my a*s moving. Being in pain means nothing if the only other option is death. “Get your a*s up Shawna, and get to the girls and get your a*s outta this shithole.” I said, giving myself a peptalk. And just like every fg plan, nothing can go right. Tell me why this bh grabbed my braids and pulled me up on my knees trying to drag me. Now, let me tell yall something. There are two things that you don’t do to a black woman. Number one, you don’t put your hands in her pots or her food while she’s cooking; number two, you do not EVER touch a black woman’s hair. See now along with pain, fear and now anger, has joined the party of emotions my pregnant hormonal a*s. I still had the blade in my hand as she dragged me away from the girls.

I twisted my body and stabbed that bh in the thigh. She immediately let go of my hair and I quickly started crawling again. The pain in my back is getting worse now, tears were falling, but I didn’t care I had to get away from that zombie bh and make it to the girls. I didn’t even have time to see if Hawk and the vampire were still fighting. “Shawna, you have to get out of here, we’ll get the girls. You can’t let that zombie bh catch you. We can’t lose you, please just go.” Ji’lahni said in the com that was surprisingly still in my ear. “Oh, shut up, I’m fine I got this. What yall could do is hurry the hell up, so yall can help a bh out.” I said, not even checking to see where the zombie bh was. I had one goal and that was getting to my babies. “God damn Shawna you’re so fg hard headed.” I swear I’m going to kick your a*s when our boys drop. I promise you that.” Lynn yelled through the com. “Oh my god! hey my babies your tee tee got you.” I said when I finally made it to the girls.

I ugly cried when I saw their little faces. I couldn’t believe how much it hurt us all not having them around and not knowing if they were hurt or worse. They stopped crying when they heard my voice, and turned to look up at me. Their scared cries turned into happy smiling cries as they reached for me and I hurriedly picked them up. They tried to immediately eat my face. “No you can’t eat tee tee’s face because it’s dirty. But I can definitely give you some kisses, but after we get the hell out of here. I said, tying a knot in their blanket and threw it over my head so I could carry them and have my hands free if I needed to grab my weapon. “Well, this is just perfect. I get the little pups and a light snack.” I heard from behind me.

I turned to see the vampire that Hawk was fighting standing right behind me. I started backing up, looking around him to see Hawk trying to get up and get to me, but he was pretty banged up. I looked over and I saw Shaïd also getting up. Apparently, all it takes is a quick drink for her to heal, by the looks of one of her own men laying on the ground with a chunk missing from his neck and her mouth has blood draining from it. “Uh, now would be the perfect time for somebody to do some superhero type shit.” I said backing away from both the vampire who looked hungry and the zombie bh who looked angry. Yea, this some bullshit right here. “Ok, boys this would be the perfect time for yall do some dragon-type st I mean stuff, no bad words.” I thought to myself.

The Alpha’s Plus Size Urban Human Mate

Chapter 135

Mylan’s POV:

There are just too many of them. The women were surrounded by more than twenty warriors and animals. The girls are still too far away. Shawna is pregnant and fighting Shaïd. Shawna is the only one close enough to reach the girls right now and she is fighting Shaïd. I’m injured, but vampires won’t kill me, but that doesn’t mean they don’t hurt like a bh. The alpha, Montego, and Blaze are surrounded by a horde of vampires. Looking out over the war in front of me is heartbreaking. The werewolves are outnumbered, but they fight with the strength and courage of a thousand warriors. The witch that started this mess is slowly making her way to the girls. If she succeeds in raising the dark one, we are all going to perish. Which is why I have made my way into the castle in search of where the dark one is being held.

Once I find it, I tend to reinforce the spell used to trap him, so no matter if the witch does the spell to release him, the witch will not be able to release him. That is what my focus has always been. The Dragon god told me that the only way to stop this from happening is to make sure the dark one doesn’t rise. But I couldn’t tell Lateri what I had planned. We were both battle warriors, but I was a demigod, my father was the Dragon god and my mother was a human woman. I am powerful, but I don't have the full powers of my father. Which is why he left me to be raised by my mother as a human. It was my mother, who taught me everything I needed to know. She helped me learn to use and control my powers and how to fight.

One day, my father showed up after I turned twenty-five. My mother had died still in love with him, and he didn't have the balls to show up for her even after death. So, when he came to me, I tried to kill him. My anger almost consumed me. It wasn't until my mother came to me in a dream and told me that I needed to forgive him and not allow my anger to consume me, She told me not to let his actions make me an evil person, and that it wasn't just his decision to leave me to be raised by her. She wanted me to have a normal, happy life and that if anyone knew I existed, that I would have been hunted. After that night, I forgave him, but I told him I would never forget what he did. He nodded in understanding.

Years later, he offered me the chance to become the guardian of the Golden dragon shifters. I accepted and that's how it all began for my family. Now all shifters were in danger, the twins were the key to the survival of all shifters, so it's important that they survived. If I can ensure that the dark one doesn't rise now, then they will have a chance to grow up and come into their full powers to protect all shifters when the dark one finally does arise. There is no way around it. He will be set free because the Gods can't control destiny. The moon goddess thought she had time, but somehow the dark one had gotten his claws into a broken witch, promising her the life she had dreamed of, and that was all it took for the dark one to move, the omni-twin's destiny forward to now instead of decades from now. Now, what I am doing could very well kill me, I have made my peace with it.

My granddaughter will inherit my powers and become the next battle warrior. My only regret is that I didn't tell my granddaughter everything she is destined for. She will have decisions to make that won't be easy. None of this has ever been easy. But I have faith that she can handle it. The castle was eerily quiet. I tapped my cane against the floor, and it created a fire that lit up the room. The room was obviously some sort of living room, but it looked like it hadn't been used in decades. "I smell a demigod. What brings you to my home? Did one of those filthy gods send you to try and stop me? If so, I should feel insulted that they sent a weak demigod thinking that you could stop what's coming." I heard in my head.

His voice made my skin crawl. "I don't plan to stop what's coming, but I tend to stop it from happening before it is supposed." I said calmly, you can't show fear, because he feeds off it. I could tell by the way he laughed that he didn't think I had a chance. "You can't stop me; I can already feel the binds weakening. I have already put on a brand-new suit for the occasion." He said proudly. "Why don't you tell me where you are so I can see this new suit. You don't want your first outing to be a disaster because you didn't wear the right suit now, would you?" I asked, hoping he would tell me where he was. I knew it wasn't going to work but it was worth a try, right? "Nice try. Although it won't matter because you're already too late." He said, just as I heard an ear-piercing scream. Oh my god no. That can't be true.

Shadow POV:

I couldn't believe what was happening. Shaid had somehow found Shawna. I watched the entire scene play-out. Shaid had Shawna by the throat in the air. My mind quickly took me back to the day Scarlett died. The wolf had her up in the air by the throat before he put his hand in her stomach, killing her or at least what I thought had killed her. I can't let this happen a second time. I was trying to get to Shawna, but I was being attacked from all sides.

"Alpha! I need to get to Shawna. She's in trouble." I mind linked the alpha. Rane was Feral now that he knew what he had to do. We tried to save Shaid, but she was gone. I can't let her kill Shawna or my boys. I wouldn't survive, I loved her. I love Shawna. I can't live without her. I know that now.

I was so confused about Scarlett being alive and everything she must have suffered at the hands of the witch and alpha Zane. I just wanted to give her a fresh start. I know now that it was never meant to be with me. The feelings I had for her were the other-half mate's bond. But with Shawna it was natural. The love was pure. "Shadow, we will make a path. You get Shawna, my pups, and get them the hell out here." The alpha mind linked. I saw the girls up head. They were surrounded by warriors and animals. I nodded as the alpha, and Blaze came my way, they started running in defense, tackling and killing warriors and animals, freeing me up to run and make a bee line towards the girls.

When I was near them, I pulled out a blade and used my momentum and started killing warriors and animals before they could even sense me behind them. By the time I passed by them, I had taken out half the men and animals who surrounded them. Now they were able to get the upper hand. Now I was ready to get to Shawna, but what I saw had my heart stopping in my chest. Shawna had somehow made it to the babies. I saw Hawk get thrown into a tree and wasn't getting up. The vampire spotted Shawna at the same time Shaid dropped the body she was feeding on. I knew she had somehow been turned against her will. Knowing that didn't change, the fact that I still wanted to help free her. But now she's threatening the life of my woman and my pups, and I can't let that happen. So I ran with one singular thought. Shaid will die today.

Shawna's POV:

"Nice vampee, vampee, I'm telling you, you don't want to drink my blood. Haven't you heard dark meat is bad for you? We cause high blood pressure and high cholesterol." I said, backing away from the vampire as he walked towards me. The babies were crying now, I guess sensing my fear. That's when I remembered the witches gave everyone potions that would unblock anyone who's magic had been suppressed by the witch. I didn't really believe it would work but it was worth a shot. I took the small vial out without taking my eye off the vampire and let the potion spill on my fingers and I just rubbed it into the girls' mouths hoping that would be enough. I wasn't going to give them more than that.

“Please work please, please work. I’m not trying to die today.” I whispered to myself. “That’s funny that you came into a war with supernatural beings not expecting to die. That was foolish of you because you are definitely going to die.” He said as he ran at me with his claws out. We both frowned at the fact that he was going extremely slow. I jumped in excitement. “God damnit you girls did it. You just saved your tee, tee again. Now let’s get the hell out of here.” I said just before I felt a blow to the head.