

The Beloved 31

Chapter 31: Qin Corporation

The date at the amusement park ended successfully. Of course, Chu Liyuan did not let Jian Dan off that night.

Jian Dan was going to the head office today. She woke up bright and early and headed out after breakfast. The head office would send a car to the various branches to pick up the employees who were going to intern at the head office.

What puzzled Jian Dan was that everyone in the car were men. Other than her, there was not a single woman.

With doubts in her heart, the car had already arrived at the head office. After getting out of the car, Jian Dan looked at the office in front of her in surprise...

Why was it... Qin Corporation?

She was really drunk. She actually did not know that Yuanyi was a subsidiary of Qin Corporation?

No wonder Chu Liyuan said what he did that day. It turned out that... she was really too slow-witted.

She took the elevator to the 23rd floor.

Ding. They arrived at the 23rd floor... Jian Dan walked to the back. When she looked up, she saw someone walking towards her.

Mei Xiaolin!

Just her luck to run into Mei Xiaolin here. She had thought that she would not have to see Mei Xiaolin again after coming to the head office. But now, it was just like the saying "a bad penny always turns up"!

Fate? Why did it have to put two people who did not like each other together?

The two of them consciously pretended not to know each other and brushed past each other.

Jian Dan and the rest of her cohort arrived at the conference room...

Everyone took their seats. The conference room was strangely quiet. No one spoke.

About 20 minutes later, a beautiful woman in a dress and exquisite makeup opened the door and walked in...

Jian Dan felt that after the woman walked in, her gaze was locked on her. There was an unfathomable smile on her face.

The woman cast a glance at Jian Dan before shifting her gaze to the others with a cold expression.

"Qin Corporation is not a school; you're not here to learn. This is a battlefield. We want warriors. Only the best warriors can stay. It's survival of the fittest. This is the rule!"

"You have to know that not everyone can join Qin Corporation."

She did not even give an introduction and just gave them a huge show of strength.

"Recently, the company is preparing for the launch and exhibition of Qin Jewelry. I will assign you what you need to do. No one will mentor you guys. Whether you can complete the work I give you or not, will depend on your own ability. If you're not up to it, you will be asked to leave."

Without further ado, she assigned everyone's work.

Wow! This was so domineering. Now, she finally understood why Yuanyi's people treated this as a hot potato.

If Chu Liyuan's subordinates were so domineering, then wasn't he even more... She suddenly recalled Mengmeng's words—"Devil of the corporate world, Grim Yama."

Was Uncle really like that?

She gave everyone a folder containing their work assignment before leaving. Before she left, she took a look at Jian Dan...

So what if she was pretty? This was Qin Corporation! She could not stay by taking shortcuts.

Jian Dan saw a hint of antagonism in her eyes. The smile on her lips was filled with disdain, making Jian Dan feel that this woman did not seem to be friendly towards her.

But, did she offend her? It was the first time they met today, and they did not even say a word to each other!

Jian Dan opened her folder. She was in charge of helping to complete the decoration of the exhibition venue and the clothes of the models.

After understanding their assignment, everyone went to do their respective jobs immediately.

Everyone's action was so fast that Jian Dan had yet to react before she realized that she was the only one left in the conference room.

That's so exaggerated! But then... who would want to be fired?

Jian Dan immediately rushed to the exhibition venue...

The venue for this exhibition was the largest banquet hall of Shangfeng Hotel under Qin Corporation. It was a full floor and could accommodate about 500 people.

The decorations were very luxurious. They were usually used for large-scale exhibitions or weddings held by rich people.

Jian Dan entered the exhibition hall. Everyone inside was very busy.

Just as Jian Dan was looking around for the person-in-charge...

"You're the newcomer, Jian Dan?"

A bespectacled man in his thirties suddenly appeared behind her.

"Yes!"

"We have to confirm all the food, drinks, and corsages before tonight."

They were really here to fight a war—they did not say anything and just gave orders to work. This was really a company that valued efficiency.

"Alright!"

This was Qin Corporation, Uncle's company. She must not screw up.

Jian Dan went to many places in the afternoon. All the food and wine were personally ordered by Jian Dan after careful curation.

However, there was some trouble with the corsages. The corsages were supposed to be made from white roses. However, Jian Dan went to several florists and was told that white roses had been very scarce recently. Something had happened to the largest white rose nursery nearby and a lot of white roses had withered. There was no way to find so many white roses now.

Jian Dan was stumped. What should she do?

Jian Dan stood in the florist and looked at the various flowers around her, wanting to find other flowers to replace the white roses. In the end, her gaze locked onto the baby's breath in the corner.

Jian Dan smiled and nodded. She had an idea...

Finally, everything was resolved. Jian Dan heaved a sigh of relief.
