"I'm not lazy. I want to make love to you one last time before getting up!" Sean reasoned. In the end, they made love again before heading off to the shower.

hand crawling down her thighs.

Over two months had passed since Reese and Sean were officially together. Things couldn't get any better. Reese was more confident about their relationship, claiming to be the rightful partner for Sean. On the other hand, Sean had never been happier. He had a beautiful girlfriend who loved him earnestly and had a daughter with her too. He was only missing the wedding ring and the official I DOs. Now and then, Sean would stay with them in the condo, but there were also nights when Reese would stay at the Ross' mansion with Sean. That day, they were rushing to attend Milan's, and Wendell's gender reveal party. It was a celebration organized by Evan and Shantelle, a payback for all the times

Wendell and Milan took care of the twins. After finding Shauna in the living room, all dressed up. They took the lift down Diamond Hotel One-Carat conference room, where the event was held. "There you are, guys!" Shantelle called them over to their table. Lucas was there, and his siblings were in a stroller, settled at another table with Miguel and the caregivers. Baby Kamila was also present with her nanny. Shauna readily joined Lucas for a chat. Reese sat next to Shantelle, while Sean joined the boys up front. Turning to Shantelle, Reese asked, "So they don't have any idea?" Shantelle smiled brightly and replied, "No. They don't. The OB doctor is my friend, and she kept it from them from the last ultrasound, telling them about our organized party." Beside Shantelle, Karise asked, "But you know?" "No. I don't either." Shantelle pointed to the other table where the OB doctor waved at her. She replied, "Only Doctor Tan knows. She bought the powder cannon." Evan, Sean, Kieth, and Wendell chatted at the front with Milan. In their circle, Wendell said, "I'm stoked! I have a feeling I'm going to have a girl." "Really? I think I am having a boy!' Milan expressed.

"Your tummy is huge for one baby, though," Keith commented. "I know, right," Milan answered. She chuckled and suggested, "during our first checkup, the doctor said she thinks it's only one baby, although, in the second and third ultrasound, the doctor kept it from us." Milan squinted at Evan, saying, "Thanks to Shanty and Evan." Evan only laughed. He suggested, "Shanty's idea. I'm going to be surprised myself."

The party started with their lunch meals and a few games, but eventually, the time came for when the baby's gender would be revealed. Milan and Wendell walked up the stage, both carrying a powder cannon. Their OB doctor suggested, "Your baby's gender will be revealed through the cannon! I'm excited for you!"

"Okay, any guesses?" Milan asked the crowd. It was only a small group composed of friends and family. They all roared their guesses! "Girl!" Shantelle screamed. "Boy!" Lucas said. "Girl, like me!" Shauna said. Next to Reese, Sean screamed, "Girl!"

"Oh, come on. More boys club!" Evan objected while putting an arm around his wife. "Boy!" Wendell's family also screamed their wishes, but they mostly wanted boys. Milan's family, however, had a mix of both. Mister Gray said, "I wish it were both!" Laughter filled the air before Wendell and Milan returned their attention to their powder cannon. They counted together, "Four, three, two, one -" The powder cannon erupted. Wendell's side of the powder was pink, while Milan's side was blue. Everyone's mouth fell on the floor, their eyes rounding. From the side, the OB doctor
