

The First Heir 113

Chapter 113

Behind him, Martha roared, "If you leave now, Philip Clarke, don't ever come back! What's a useless piece of trash like you pretending to be all capable?"

However, Philip simply ignored her.

He made Wynn a promise, and he was going to keep it.

As soon as he walked out of the hospital door, he was given a jolt by the honk from a car horn.

It was a BMW X8, top of the line.

Juan sat in the car, his expression cool and arrogant.

Philip frowned slightly and walked over to him, asking him coldly, "What do you want?"

Juan got out of the car and took off his sunglasses, putting them in his front shirt pocket. "Pfft," he said with a laugh. "I was so embarrassed for you in the room just now. How did you manage to hold on for so long?"

So he was only here to jeer at Philip. Philip could not be bothered to entertain him, so he just turned to leave.

However, Juan stood in his way, taunting Philip. "It's been three years, Philip. What have you given Wynn? Let go, and give her a divorce. I'll show her a better future."

utterly and totally looked down latter was just too

though, Philip said coolly, "Do you think you're all that well-to-do, Juan? Do you really think Wynn will be happy with gave an icy laugh. "At least I can earn a few tens of millions every year. What about you? You're nothing but a pathetic delivery boy, earning pennies every month. What can you give Wynn? What can you give Mila? Can you afford a surgery fee of a million than a pathetic joke in my eyes. I advise you not to provoke me, and paused and then said, Philip? You're going to make me regret it? You, the all faith in Philip

Back in college, I thought you were like a blinding ray of light. Everyone idolized you. But now? Look at yourself. What right do you clenched his hands into fists, from bad to worse. He gave Philip a vicious shove and spat in his face, saying, "You're useless! I'm officially declaring to you here and now that his way

drove right past Philip and nearly watched Juan's car leave, Philip took his phone out of his pocket and then wordlessly put it last chance he

The last chance.

that, Philip took a time, the secretary took him straight to the chairman's staff a special training session. Now almost everyone knew Philip, but at the same time, all of them kept it