

The First Heir 1601

Chapter 1601

Philip looked at Bernard coldly, took the envelope from his hand, and opened it in front of him.

After just two glances, the expression on Philip's face quickly turned chilly. His eyes soon became colder than an abyss!

This... This was...

He looked up, abruptly grabbed Bernard by the collar, and shook the information in his hand while shouting coldly, "What is this? Are you using such dirty methods to frame Wynn? Don't think that I can be fooled this easily!"

Bernard sneered and said, "Do you think this is made up? What if I tell you that it's true?"

Hearing this, Philip was startled.

Bernard took the opportunity to shake off Philip's hand and adjusted his necktie. He said coldly, "Philip, the Johnston family has kept this a secret for more than 20 years. We never planned on announcing this, but if you insist on opposing us, then this secret will be spread all over Riverdale! When that happens, you can surely imagine how Wynn will end up. I hope you think about it. No hurry, we'll give you one day."

With a sinister smile, Bernard patted Philip on the shoulder.

“Oh, he’s not really a wimp. He’s just too good to Wynn and prioritizes her. We made the right move this time and struck where it hurts the most!”

Martin laughed as he spoke, his face full of triumph. “By the way, Martin, how are we going to deal with those business partners?” Bernard asked.

With two beauties in his arms, Martin said with a smile, “No rush. Let Russell Carl and Jacky Cullen handle them.”

“Russell Carl and Jacky Cullen?” Bernard was full of doubts and said, “Martin, these two are rivals yet you’re actually letting them handle this? Aren’t you looking for trouble? No way, I need to personally watch over things.”

“That’s enough. Bernard, just think about it. Since these two are rivals, it stands to reason that they won’t be able to tolerate each other and will certainly do their best to get the credit. Moreover, it’s also mutual supervision. If someone does something wrong, do you think the other person will let him off?” Martin said with a smile.

This was something he had learned from management books. Putting two rivals together would surprisingly produce twice the result with half the effort.

Bernard was momentarily stunned until he figured it out. He gave Martin a thumbs up and said, “Martin, you’re still the brilliant one.”

Looking at the information in his hand, Philip took a deep breath before he said with a smile, "Nothing, it's just a casual call."

Wynn did not think too much about it. After a few words with Philip, she hung up the phone. She turned around and returned to the living room of the suite, feeling a little restless. She could not help feeling that Philip was hiding something from her, and it was related to her.

"Sister Wynn, what are you thinking about again? Come on, I saw a bigger mall nearby. Let's go for a walk. It's so boring to stay indoors all the time," Lydia suggested expectantly.

She was someone who could not sit still. She might go crazy if she were left indoors for one day.

As for Anne Foster, she was tidying Wynn's room and said with a light laugh, "Miss Wynn, I think Lydia is right. You should walk around more and get some fresh air. It's good for you and your baby."

Wynn nodded. She was also a little antsy and said, "Okay, let's go out for a walk then."

When Lydia heard this, she immediately jumped up, put her arms around Wynn's neck, and said affectionately, "Sister Wynn, I want to buy clothes for the baby, okay?"

Who dares to mention the Lovelace family in this country? If you tell Wynn about her origin now, isn't it the same as announcing to the world that she's the surviving child of the traitorous Lovelace family? What is Wynn going to do then? How is she going to live like

Wynn, Anne, and Lydia arrived at the largest shopping mall nearby.

Lydia appeared to be very energetic. She went to all the baby specialty stores and bought a lot. She seemed to be enjoying this shopping spree.

Wynn teased, "Lydia, those who don't know might think it's you who's having a baby."

Lydia turned her head, stomped her foot, and said, "Sister Wynn, you only know how to laugh at me."

Wynn laughed while holding her waist. The two walked into a spice store.

Chapter 1605

The young man named Shane Lovelace grinned and said, "Of course, I plan to bring my cousin back to the Lovelace family. The surviving bloodline of the Lovelace family must go home and acknowledge our heritage."

When Shane said this, his eyes flashed with ferocious coldness. Coupled with the smile on the corner of his mouth, he seemed very scheming.

Cleo scowled and said, "Shane Lovelace, I'm warning you! Dad let us out just to get in touch with Wynn, not bring her back. Don't try to ruin his plan. Otherwise, I'll report to him right now!"

Cleo was angry. This younger brother of hers was always like this.

Shane shrugged, raised his eyebrows, and said with a smile, "I know that. We'll go along with whatever you say, okay? By the way, have you checked her information?"

Cleo nodded and said, "Yes, she was adopted by Uncle's former friend, Charles Johnston. Her husband is Philip Clarke. There's not much information about him, except that he has a notorious reputation in Riverdale. It seems that he married into the Johnston household and there's nothing noteworthy about him. She has a daughter named Mila Clarke who suffered from congenital heart disease but she's been cured. They managed to get the domestic medical expert, Professor Henry Turner, to treat her."

After two minutes of silence, Charles could not help asking, "I heard you went to the mall just now?"

Wynn nodded and responded, "Yeah, I went out for a walk. It's boring to stay inside all the time."

"Yes, it's good to go for a walk." Charles nodded and drank a cup of tea. They fell into an awkward silence again.

Wynn looked at Charles and saw that his face seemed full of thoughts. She said with a smile, "Dad, what exactly did you want to see me about? If there's anything, just say it. I'm your daughter. There's no need to hide things from me."

When Charles heard the word 'daughter', it touched him greatly.

Suddenly!

Charles shouted coldly, "Enough! What are you saying in front of our daughter? What are you trying to do?"

Charles was furious. Martha almost had a slip of her tongue and let the cat out of the bag.

She was taken aback as well. Realizing that she had almost said something she should not have, she quickly said in a huff, "I don't care. When I recover from my injury, I'll make you divorce Philip!"

Wynn was also powerless and just said, "Okay, please leave now. I want to rest."

Only then did Charles glare at Martha and push her wheelchair out.

In the other suite, Charles was furious and cursed, "Just look at you! Weren't you the one who told me not to say anything earlier? Look at what you just did? You almost let it out!" Charles was so angry that he slapped the back of his hands.

Shane smashed the front desk angrily, causing the attendants to scream in fright.

After a bout of wrecking, Shane adjusted his suit and took out the photo again. He grabbed the hair of a squatting female attendant and asked harshly, "Tell me which room she's staying in!"

The female attendant shuddered in fear and stammered, "No... I... don't know."

"Don't know? Interesting."

Shane smiled and kicked the female attendant away. Then, he picked up the golf club and walked to her one step at a time. He pointed the club at her head and said coldly, "I'm asking you again which room she's in. If you don't tell me, your pretty face will be ruined."

The female attendant was scared out of her wits. Looking at the burly guys standing behind Shane, she swallowed and said tremblingly, "Room... 1808."

When Heath heard the other party's words, he frowned and his face went grim.

Someone dared to speak to him like this! He must be tired of living!

"How dare you act so recklessly in my territory?! Men, take them down!"

Heath roared. If he did not take down this group of people, how could he face Master Bell and Young Master Clarke in the future?

However, Shane only glanced indifferently at Heath before he rushed out under the protection of his guards!

This happened in a matter of minutes. The dozens of people were unable to stop these three or four people.

Heath looked at the car that was speeding away and flew into a rage. He pointed at the group of men behind him and shouted, "Trash! All of you are rubbish! You can't even catch one guy!"

However, he was also full of worries.

These people had good skills and must have an extraordinary background.

Heath quickly went upstairs to check on Wynn's safety before calling Master Bell to inform him about this matter, asking him to make a decision.

"What? Someone broke into the hotel? A dozen of you couldn't even take three or four people down?"

The corner of Philip's eyes froze as he punched Lou in the face and kicked him in the waist. The other party flew back and crashed to the ground.

"Lou, are you alright?"

Several hooligans quickly gathered around Lou, helping him up from the ground.

It was too sudden!

Lou's two front teeth had been knocked out by that punch, his mouth and nose full of blood.

"Damn it! What are you waiting for? Kill him for me!"

Lou covered his face. It was so painful that he could not straighten his back. He had never been so humiliated before. He was beaten up while in the hands of such an ordinary young man, damn it!
