

The First Heir 167

Chapter 167

When he heard Wynn's voice, Philip's face fell. He stared at Chloe intensely.

Chloe looked at Philip with a fake smile and said, "Hello, Wynn. I'm Chloe."

There was silence on the other end of the phone.

"How can I help you?" Wynn was a woman with a temper. It was obvious that she was mad from her cold tone.

Chloe did not answer immediately. She looked at Philip and said softly, "If Wynn knows who you are, how will she react? Have you ever thought about it?"

Philip clenched his fists, his eyes heated. His low voice sounded like the growl of a beast. He said, "Chloe Sommerset, you're playing with fire."

Philip was nervous, but at the same time, he was furious.

He did not like to be threatened!

"Philip, do you not understand me? The more exciting a game is, the more I'll like it." Chloe placed her hand under her chin and looked at him provocatively.

Then, she said into the phone, "Wynn, what kind of man do you think Philip is?"

What kind of man Philip was?

Wynn was taken aback. She answered without even thinking, "Miss Sommerset, I don't even know you. If you're here because of my husband, then we can talk face to face. I'll try my best to fulfill whatever conditions you want. However, I must warn you not to break Philip and me apart."

This was a warning from Wynn. Of course, Chloe did not expect her to answer like this.

Her expression froze as she knitted her beautiful eyebrows together. She looked arrogant and icy.

Chloe said coldly, "Wynn, I don't think you know your husband that well. Have you ever looked into his past? Do you know about his family background?"

"What do you mean?" Wynn was puzzled. She did not understand what Chloe was talking about.

Chloe did not know what Philip was like before university. She had only heard what his family was like and what he was like away from home. Her voice became less and more direct. "Philip's past, come to Northern Sky Western Restaurant," Chloe said calmly. Her eyes glazed. There was silence on the other end of the phone. Then, up, Chloe stood proudly in front of Philip. She looked pleased as she had managed to get away with her cunning plans. She said, "You don't frowned and asked, "What are you trying to

just

she exposed him through the phone, then he would not hesitate to take action face. Her eyes were filled with love and admiration. She said, "It's simple. Have dinner

Have dinner with her?

Philip was enraged.

"Impossible! You're extorting me!"

smiled and said, "It's up to you. Plus, it's just dinner. Why are you so nervous? Why? Are you scared that your wife not continue talking. She but I must warn you. If you expose anything about me to Wynn, I'll and left angrily after he said alone. She watched as Philip left. Her heart started

'Why?

you only

can't even compare to ran into Wynn in front of the hospital

glanced at Philip coldly and the latter only smiled at each other but did not about the phone call. She wanted to in silence and started giving each other the