Philip grinned. "Do you think 50 million dollars is a lot? Anne is still in a coma. If she doesn't wake up, I think there's no need for you to live in this world either."

Homer laughed in exasperation. He had never seen such an arrogant young man. The price of 50 million dollars was already their limit but the other party did not appreciate it at all.

She was just a nanny, right?

Since she could not wake up anymore, why not let everything end here?

Thinking of this, Homer could not help but sneer. "Very well, since you refuse to accept, we can't do anything either. You won't get a single cent of this 50 million dollars. Do you still want to deal with us? Fine, let's see your methods. I refuse to believe that you can make my Dunley family of Flower City go bankrupt!"

The corners of Philip's mouth curved up, revealing a cruel sneer. He said, "In that case, you shall wait and see."

Hearing this, Milo's face darkened. Although he was sullen, he still said with a smile, "What did you say? Are you looking down on me?"

Milo was almost dying of laughter. This arrogant guy actually dared to say something like this. He did not take him seriously at all!

This was Flower City of Charbury!

If one were to mention who had the greatest power in Flower City, it was undoubtedly the Dunley family!

The brothers Homer and Milo Dunley!

Although Homer was ranked fourth in the branch Dunley family while Milo was the seventh, and several of the brothers were scattered in other areas of Charbury so they hardly contacted each other, the seven brothers of this branch Dunley family would definitely gather together to fight against a common enemy as long as Milo made the call!

“Philip, I advise you not to think too highly of yourself. This is Flower City of Charbury, my territory! Since you’ve stepped into this hotel today, it means that if we don’t reach a settlement, you won’t be able to walk out of here!”

The branch Dunley family only moved here later, and to a large extent, they had not gained respect from the locals in Flower City. Later, due to the high status of the main Dunley family in Charbury, other regions were in awe of the talents in the Dunley family. If ranked by seniority and origin, it was still far from enough for the branch Dunley family to dominate Flower City.

This formed a situation where all the forces held each other in check. In fact, the six underground lords of Flower City did not accept the Dunley family at all. However, they were so apprehensive of the prestige and strength of the main Dunley family in Charbury that they were still respectful of Milo.

At this moment, Jowin entered the private room. A bunch of his underlings followed closely. They each had a crew cut and tattoos, which made them look extraordinarily domineering.

Their appearance made Milo sullen.

“Master Jowin, what brings you here?”

Although Milo inwardly refused to yield to Jowin, he still smiled and asked when he saw him. His attitude was neither respectful nor fearful.

Jowin chuckled and said, “Milo, I’m not joking with you. With me around today, don’t even think of laying a finger on Young Master Clarke.”

Jowin made it very clear, and the scowl on the Dunley brothers’ faces worsened.

Jowin Benson was determined to go against them!

“Master Jowin, this is Flower City of Charbury. Are you sure you don’t want to consider the status of the Dunley family before making a decision?” Milo’s face was cold, and his voice sounded like it came from the depths of an ice cave. It made people involuntarily shiver upon hearing it.

Yes, this was Flower City, Charbury. Here, the Dunley family owned the sky and the land.

By doing this, Jowin would offend the Dunley family!

Jowin followed him. Before he left, he turned and said to Milo, “Milo, I have to give you a piece of advice. Don’t think of fighting against Young Master Clarke. You’ll die without a burial place.”

Looking at the backs of Jowin and Philip as they left, the brothers, Milo and Homer, exchanged glances with fierce cold intent flickering in their eyes.

Suddenly, Milo spoke, “This guy has some tricks up his sleeve.”

Homer nodded.

Philip’s attack was like a sudden storm that sent punch after punch. Last night should have been a test while this morning was the killing move. Just now, he threw a few more punches and caught the two brothers off guard.

This kid was too villainous. In just one day, he had taken down more than 20 enterprises in Flower City and bought over four out of the six underground lords.

The relationship between Milo and Fred was relatively close, so without any pretense, Milo said, "My fourth brother's company is being targeted by a kid named Philip Clarke from Uppercreek. He seems to have the backing of Victor Bell from Uppercreek as well as the new richest man in the Penhart region."

"Victor Bell? I've heard of him, but so what? It's just Uppercreek. I'm not afraid of him!"

Fred immediately exclaimed, "It's the new richest man in Penhart who's a bit difficult to deal with but don't worry, Flower City is our territory. Even the richest man in the country has to abide by our rules if he comes to Flower City. That kid's name is Philip Clarke, right? Okay, I'll ask my men to meet him right away. We'll find him and kill him."

Milo smiled and said, "Fat Dragon, I have to remind you that he has Jowin Benson with him."

Jowin smiled and said, "Young Master Clarke, you've misunderstood. It's not that we can't deal with him but it's not worth it. If he dares to come here, I'll be the first to deal with him."

Philip did not say anything. With his hands behind his back, he narrowed his eyes as if he was thinking about something. He said, "My time is limited. I want the Dunley family to disappear from Flower City by today. You guys can clean up the rest of the mess. Without Homer Dunley and Milo Dunley as your rivals, it should be easier for you to manage Flower City in the future."

Jowin smiled. Philip was right.

Without Milo and Homer, they would be more at ease. Several of them looked at each other. One of them stood out and asked, "Young Master Clarke, what do you have in mind?"

Inside the room was a group of fully armed bodyguards in black suits!

These bodyguards stared indifferently at the people standing at the door with long daggers in their hands. At this time, the guy in the lead looked at the weapons in the other party's hands and compared them to the long daggers in their hands before panicking!

This... How the hell could they make a capture like this?!

There was simply a world of difference in equipment!

Were they supposed to fight against cannons with kitchen knives?

Now, all the guys standing at the door felt their legs shaking and no one dared to rush in.

However, the guys who were in the second group were unaware of the situation inside the room. All of them raised the long daggers in their hands and shouted enthusiastically as they rushed in to grab credit!

Thus, the situation was a bit funny.

The first group of people at the door were forcibly pushed in by the second group behind them.

The man in the lead darted his eyes around and shook his head desperately while saying, "No, Mister, you've misunderstood. We just got the wrong person. It's a misunderstanding. I hope you can be generous and let us go."

Philip sneered and said, "Still acting tough?"

After that, he motioned to the bodyguards and said, "Loosen them up a little until they're willing to talk."

"Yes!"

A few bodyguards responded before squeezing their fists and dragging the gangsters up from the floor. They gave them a violent beating on the spot!

Instantly, their miserable screams echoed in the room. The rest of the guys kneeling on the floor trembled. They did not dare to look at the scene.
