

The First Heir 2131

Chapter 2131

Master Willow was not an ordinary person but a disciple of the first zone behind the Nonagon. However, he was eliminated not long after. Despite that, as someone who had entered the door, his strength was still prominent. With some marketing, he had become a so-called master.

Ron and Hood walked slowly into the ring and stood on either side of Philip.

“You’re the first person with the guts to challenge us. In a moment, you’ll taste the power of our combined attack technique, so you can die in peace after that” Ron, who had a fair face, said coldly.

Facing an opponent like Philip, Ron and Hood dared not take him lightly. After all, Philip had already shown his strength just now.

“Stop dallying like a woman and hurry up with your attacks.” Philip urged impatiently.

He naturally saw the difference in these two but they did not seem to transcend the secular world. As a Dragon Warrior, Philip still had the confidence to deal with them.

“Go to hell!”

Hood roared, leaned forward, and charged at Philip. He stretched his arms out and swept at Philip’s waist.

"The fight is over and it's time to end it. Do you have others coming?" Philip asked with a smile.

Master Fay and Master Tanner felt a chill in their hearts. After witnessing the deaths of Ron and Hood, they had no more ideas in their minds, at least not now.

Willis opened and closed his mouth, wanting to say some threatening words. However, he just could not. At this moment, Willis felt a little intimidated. Willis was well aware of Ron and Hood's prowess.

Philip was able to single-handedly kill two people, which made Willis extremely apprehensive of Philip. However, Willis soon slapped the sofa furiously. He was very dissatisfied with the result in front of him.

"Don't be arrogant here. I've made note of all the grudges today. When I return, your entire family will be dead!"

Hearing that, Philip frowned. He got out of the ring and rubbed his wrists as he walked over to Willis.

Willis' hair immediately stood on end with shock. "You! What do you think you're doing? I'm warning you not to come over or I won't let you off!"

Master Fay and Master Tanner shrank back without even the courage to open their mouths.

In a high-end luxury relaxation club. In the most prestigious private room of the entire club, a sturdy middle-aged man in his 30s or 40s was sitting on a leather sofa. He was embracing several hot, sexy, and fashionable models in his arms.

These women were dressed so skimpily that men's knees would go weak at the sight of them.

The middle-aged man was laughing and fooling around with the women, eating the grapes fed to him and drinking the wine that rolled down from their bodies.

The scene was intoxicating.

At this moment, the private room door was pushed open from the outside.

Willis' face was full of anger as he walked in with flushed cheeks. He went straight to the sofa, picked up a wine glass, and gulped big mouthfuls.

Troy looked at the fallen brothers in front of him, all of them who had died tragically. He swallowed hard, and his hands shook uncontrollably.

This Master Willow in front of him was really not an ordinary person. Such strength and means were definitely not something he could compete with.

However, Troy would never betray Philip!

“Haha, even if you step on my dead body, I won’t tell you the whereabouts of Young Master Clarke!”

Troy’s heart was cold as he made a decision.

Master Willow’s eyes darkened as he looked at Troy with a subtle smile. He said, “Troy, you’re a true man, indeed. But you only have one life. Have you thought over it carefully?”

Troy bit the bullet and said tersely, “Hmph, just do as you please!”

Troy’s eyes flickered as he spat the blood in his mouth on Willis’ flashy gray plaid suit. Then, he laughed and said, “I’ve never betrayed my friends. You should dream on if you think you’ll get me to betray Young Master Clarke!”

Hearing that, Willis' eyes darkened. He got up and said to the two men behind him, "Bury him."

Following that, the two men walked over, took out black pistols from their waists, and aimed at Troy.

Bang, bang!

Gunshots!

However, unexpectedly, Troy did not fall into a pool of blood. On the contrary, those two subordinates fell with a hint of red between their brows.

Willis was so scared that he froze in place while the guards at his side surrounded him. Willis was stunned as he looked at the two men who fell in a pool of blood. Then, he looked at the two bullet holes on the huge French windows and frowned.

Hearing the mention of this, Master Willow's eyes tensed as shock exploded in him.

The young man in front of him actually knew about the five pavilions. Unbelievable!

To Master Willow, the five pavilions were like heaven.

“Who the hell are you?” Master Willow’s eyes darkened, and they were filled with surprise. He stared at Philip closely and said, “Are you also from behind the door? If so, I think we can sit down and talk. After all, we come from the same place. Perhaps we can even cooperate in the future.”

Master Willow gave up the idea of forcing Philip.

Since the other party knew about the five pavilions, it meant he was not an ordinary person.

Moreover, Master Willow could not tell how skilled Philip was. That was because he did not feel that special kind of energy field from Philip.

“Haha! Very well! I’ve never seen such an arrogant fellow like you in all my years of traveling the world! You’ve just come into contact with the lectures of the first zone and you dare to challenge me? Simply preposterous!”

Master Willow frowned, his face full of anger. He said, “Okay! I’ll show you how big the gap between the two of us is!”

After saying that, Master Willow took a step forward. The muscles on his body suddenly exploded and blood vessels surfaced all over like tree roots.

He also became incomparably violent in an instant. Even his figure became twice as big!

Rip!

Master Willow's undershirt was torn apart by his burgeoning body. He looked just like Hulk in Avengers!

On the side, Willis Hale got a fright from the sudden change in Master Willow. This was the first time he saw Master Willow revealing his means as a disciple.

To a normal person, this behavior was simply courting death.

However... Their fists collided!

The expected scene of Philip being blown to smithereens with a single punch did not happen.

On the contrary, Philip's seemingly weak punch directly blocked Master Willow's huge fist. A dull muffled sound was heard between the fists. Like a thunderclap, everyone in the living room was startled.

Master Willow was shocked. He did not expect that the punch he had thrown with all his might to be blocked by a kid who had not even entered the door.

Just when he was gearing up for another punch, a shocking scene happened.

Philip's fist was quickly engulfed in flames. Those flames were extremely fiery and domineering. From a ball of fire, it rapidly grew and turned into a fiery chimera.

Immediately after, the fire chimera from Philip's fist emitted a burst of power. With a roar, it rushed toward Master Willow.

Master Willow staggered sideways.

His huge body seemed ready to fall, but Master Willow's mouth tensed and his body exploded with a surging force as he quickly righted his body. At the same time, his fist seemed to form a stone-like outer shell as he punched out at Philip.

Philip was not a disciple and lacked experience in fighting another disciple. He did not dodge this punch. He just blocked with his arms in front of him. A layer of flame armor automatically solidified on his arms.
