Chapter 3361

Almost at the same time, a light portal similar to the one they saw when they selected a passage back then appeared on the wall of this room. The two said goodbye to the Bamboo Swordsman and walked out through the portal.

“I should go back and look for Bamboo Shoot too!”

After saying that, the Bamboo Swordsman turned into a wisp of white smoke and floated out.

It was the same huge passage that they entered before, and countless light portals opened or closed behind them.

Philip said to Hiram, “Hiram, I’m leaving...”

“Are you in a hurry?” Hiram asked.

“Yeah, it’s better to avoid unnecessary trouble. I hope you see you again.”

As Philip gradually disappeared from his sight, Hiram murmured, ‘I forgot to exchange numbers with Carter...’

Seeing more people coming out of the portals, Hiram rushed back to camp.

Chapter 3362

The cab driver looked at Philip in surprise but did not say anything. He immediately started the hover cab and sped through the air.

Philip, who was sitting in the back row, took out his communicator and sent a message to Emily, Iris, and Leopard, telling them that he had left the territory of the ancient dragon and hoped they would meet again in the future. He had no idea if they could receive this message.

After sending this message, Philip shut down the communicator and threw it into the space ring.

Glancing at the densely packed tall metallic buildings outside the window, as well as the neon signboards that were not very bright in daylight, Philip sighed.

If this trip went well, maybe he could see them again before the next stargate opened, but if the time was insufficient, it could be regarded as the last farewell.

The cab stopped in an old town southeast of the city.

“The fare is 130 star dollars.”

The man took Philip into the elevator, pressed a few buttons, and the elevator went to the second-floor basement which was not displayed. This place was like a small processing factory.

The boss took Philip to the deepest part and said to a skinny man wearing glasses, "Make him a communicator."

The man rummaged through the drawer, found a communicator that looked fairly new, and said to Philip, "Fill in your information."

Philip stepped forward and briefly input his data without concealing too much.

After the information was entered, the man entered the information database and put Philip's information in it.

"It's done..." The man handed the communicator to Philip.

The boss did not try to keep Philip but wanted to exchange communicator numbers with Philip, which he refused.

He said, "If you need anything else in the future, you can come to me again."

Philip nodded and left.

He was only stopping by in this White Marsh territory, which he had to pass through if he wanted to go to the First Continent. A communicator would make things easier.

Chapter 3364

For some reason, whenever Philip heard of a woman who appeared suddenly, he would think of his mother.

When the man was about to continue, his wife called for his help in the kitchen.

The man smiled apologetically and said, "I'm sorry. If you really want to know about the Moon Worship Creed, you might as well go to the capital to have a look."

The man left after that.

Philip bought an electronic map in a store. The store manager said it was the most detailed map of White Marsh, but Philip did not believe him.

He opened the map and studied it. The capital of the Eighth Continent was on the way for Philip, so he could go and explore that place.

Philip learned from a billboard that a new type of hover car was being sold, so he headed there.

This car showroom was very spacious with three models parked in the huge space, a streamlined two-seater sports car, a four-seater sedan, and a spacious MPV.

Chapter 3365

The production speed of this car factory was really fast.

After waiting for about an hour, the woman knocked on the door, walked in, and told Philip that he could pick up the car.

A car that looked like a spirit beast under the moonlight floated quietly on the ground. Philip opened the door and sat in. Sure enough, he got what he paid for. This felt much more comfortable than the one from Montana Alliance before.

This car had an auto-pilot mode, so there was no need for a driver's license.

After fiddling around for a while, Philip figured out the general functions and flew away after setting the auto-pilot.

Since Carter had mentioned earlier that all good cars had artificial intelligence installed, Philip tried it out curiously.

A charming woman that looked like the boss' secretary appeared in the passenger seat.

"How may I assist you?" the projection posed seductively.

Philip shook his head and dismissed it.

No wonder Carter emphasized this function. Most people could hardly resist it, not to mention that its speaking habits and appearance could be changed at will.

The metal box kept "Oh, you grew taller."

Chapter 3366

Philip suddenly stepped forward and approached the girl. He pointed to the logo on her chest and asked solemnly, "What's that?" Seeing Philip's rude gesture, the young man wanted to pull him away, but Philip did not budge, still looking at Brianna seriously. The girl raised her head with determination and said to Philip, "I'm a holy maiden of the Moon Worship Creed..." Philip could not accept it for a while. The Moon Worship Creed was notorious as an evil cult, but he just helped a holy maiden of the Moon Worship Creed to get rid of her enemies. Seeing the change on Philip's face, Roscoe quickly explained, "Brianna is a good kid..." "She and her younger brother only had each other to depend on. She was forced to take part in the kill, and she did her best to survive. What's wrong with that?" the man said in agitation. and said to the girl, "Tell me about dragged him aside and said coldly, "I want to before she spoke reluctantly, "I was selected, and they trained me. Roscoe looked at Philip in surprise, astounded that he did not know such common knowledge.

He said, "Energy stone, of course. Generally, most cars will have an energy stone inlay on the console."

Philip had no energy stones yet. He planned to go to the city and find out with the two children what exactly this Moon Worship Creed was about.

"Keep up with me."

With that said, Philip charged ahead.

The boy and the girl looked at each other and barely kept up with Philip's speed.

Suddenly, several giant spiders blocked their path. The spiders must have been attracted by the silk thread they stepped on.

Seeing the hairy spider legs as thick as a small tree and their round bellies, Philip said in disgust, "How disgusting!"

He raised his hand to form a wall of fire and burned the spiders into ashes.

As they were about to move on, a few fire-loving lizards climbed out of the nearby tree.

The man pushed his glasses, and rays of light exploded from his body. His strength was the middle stage of eight stars, and that aura made Roscoe breathless.

"She doesn't have that authority here."

After saying that, the man pulled Brianna, who kept her head lowered, and was about to enter the elevator.

Roscoe barely recovered and shouted at the girl, "Brianna, come back if you don't like this place!"

The girl turned her head and smiled at Roscoe. The elevator doors closed quickly, but the two saw the tears in Brianna's eyes.

The guards stepped forward and said to the two sternly, "You can leave now!"

Roscoe lowered his head without a word, but he did not want to leave.

Philip was about to take Roscoe to find a place to sleep when he was hit on the back of the head with a wine bottle. Although the hit was not forceful, Philip was caught off guard.

The aftereffect of the alcohol was quite strong that it rendered Philip's reaction a little slow. He turned around and stared at the bald man behind him holding a broken bottle.

Before Philip could speak, the bald man asked, "Did you touch my wife's ass just now?"

A seductive woman pretending to be pitiful stood behind the bald man with a bunch of vicious-looking people.

Some regular customers recognized these people. They would blackmail and threaten anyone whom they thought was rich. Relying on their numbers, they made a lot of money through this method.

Since this matter had nothing to do with them, none of the regular customers stepped forward to help for fear of getting involved.

Philip guessed what they were up to and thought they were probably attracted by the car he parked at the door.

Chapter 3370

The senior officials of the ancient dragon royal family received news that Philip had fled back to the White Marsh royal family and made a stern diplomatic statement, raising strong objections against sending spies to the other party.

However, after the White Marsh royal family received this allegation, they were at a loss. Only members of the royal family could inherit the mark of the White Marsh, so where did this Philip Clarke come from?

After checking the photos, the White Marsh royal family confirmed that this person was not one of theirs, and because Philip could utilize the White Marsh mark, they decided to arrest him.

"Gentlemen, we should be going..." The woman in the White Marsh royal family outfit got up and said.

"What a hassle..." The bearded man reluctantly finished his drink and said.

The woman called up the nearby surveillance through her tablet, and the screen showed Philip going into a high-end hotel.

"Is he really that cocky? How interesting," the bearded man said.

"It seems that he doesn't know he's a wanted man now," the guy with glasses adjusted his glasses and said.
