Chapter 3451

"How is it possible? How can you still move freely?" The woman looked at Philip in disbelief.

She had used this method no less than dozens of times and had never missed.

Why did she fail now?

She had stolen a lot of good stuff with this method and escaped unscathed every time. That was why she could wear branded clothes as a thief.

They were easy pickings!

"Nothing is impossible. Your mistake was bumping into me. And now I'm curious. Why did you take this token?" Philip asked, puzzled.

He had many good things on him, so why did this woman take this token given by Sophie?

Was there anything special about it?

The woman looked at Philip and said coldly,

At this time, the little white cat looked at Philip curiously before it jumped from his shoulder to his hand.

It looked at the wound and shook its head, and a puzzled look crossed its eyes. It stuck out its tongue and tentatively licked the wound. In the next second, its eyes lit up as if it had eaten something delicious. It started to frantically lick Philip's palm.

Philip looked down at the strange touch and was confused by the little white cat's action.

What was that little thing doing, eating poison?

"What the heck? Don't poison yourself to death!" Philip exclaimed and tried to push the cat aside, but he was stunned the next second.

He found that his wound had healed and the poison had disappeared completely as if nothing had ever happened before.

"Did the little thing do this?" Philip looked at the little white cat that was still unsatisfied and felt doubtful.

"Who dares to kill my grandson? They'll pay for this!" The old man said coldly, and a murderous aura made everyone around him breathless.

"Send someone to keep an eye on the major ports and find the murderer. Find the two useless men too and feed them to the dogs!" The old man said angrily, and a group of people left the manor.

Philip had no idea about this. He was still chatting with Dion and Laurie leisurely.

Dion was not interested in Philip but rather in Philip's little white cat, and Philip had a flash of inspiration.

"Why don't I appoint you as a poop-shoveling officer and you can help me raise this cat?" Philip spoke, and Dion was taken aback when she heard that.

"What post is a poop-shoveling officer?"

As Dion had never set foot in the mundane world since she was a child, she was not familiar with modern popular terminology.

She asked Laurie beside her, but she had no idea as well.

"I'm curious to know who you are. Why did you follow me as soon as I got off the ship? If you want me to go with you, shouldn't you announce yourself first?" Philip asked lightly, and his calm demeanor startled them.

"Kid, you should know the answer. You killed the young master of our family. Of course, we'll keep an eye on you. As for who we are, you'll know after you come with us. Don't worry, we won't kill you!" The leader said, and a slender whip with sharp barbs appeared in his hand.

If he hit someone, he could definitely tear off a piece of flesh from the other party.

“Okay then, I’ll go with you,” Philip replied indifferently.

He was quickly surrounded and led in one direction. He got into a car that finally stopped after a long time.

Philip got out of the car and looked around. It was a modern manor with a stone signboard at the door with the words ‘The Finn family’. It was very grand but nothing more than that.

‘The Finn family... Is the person I killed a member of the Firm family? Well, I’ve never heard of them.’ Philip mumbled and followed those people inside.

He came to the main hall where an old man was drinking tea.

At this time, the clothes on his arms had long been burned to ashes.

“Another shirt is ruined. You have to pay for this!” Philip looked at his clothes and muttered ruefully.

Philip disappeared with the Caelum Sword in hand and reappeared behind the woman who kicked him in the next second, his sword dripping with blood.

The woman looked at her chest in disbelief. Blood was gushing from a wound the size of a palm, but she could do nothing about it.

A few seconds later, she fell to the ground, lifeless.

“Elder Sister!” At this time, the other woman rushed out of the hall. Seeing the woman who fell on the ground, she exclaimed and threw two short sticks at Philip.

Philip swung Caelum Sword around to cut the two short sticks, which exploded and engulfed Philip in flames.

“I’ll beat you to death today to avenge my grandson!”

As the old man said that, green rays of light burst out from his eyes, and bursts of lightning flowed on the long stick in his hand.

In a flash, the old man appeared in front of Philip.

Seeing this, Philip struck out without reservation as the old man swung his stick at Philip.

In an instant, a dazzling light burst into the sky above the manor. A few seconds later, the light dissipated. Philip and the old man took a few steps back, both looking a little disheveled.

Philip was still okay, but his clothes were unsightly after the fight, and the old man was bleeding from all his orifices, looking a little pathetic.

“How is it possible? Who are you? Why do you have such strong star-level talent?” The old man looked at Philip in shock.

The head of the Finn family was killed, and not even a corpse remained, so who would want to mess with Philip now?

If they stopped Philip now, they would not be messing with him but seeking death!

However, Philip was unaware that after he left, the woman holding her sister’s body looked at his departing back and the murderous intent in her eyes increased instead of diminished.

“I’ll definitely kill you and avenge my sister!” The woman mumbled under her breath and left with her sister’s body in her arms.

As for where she went, no one knew.

Meanwhile, Philip returned to the hotel. Laurie and Dion were practicing, so Philip did not disturb them. He returned to the room and found that the female thief was writing something.

He approached her and could not help his mouth from twitching after taking a look. This thief was actually writing a diary, full of thoughts on how to kill him. The entries were very detailed with many methods and backup plans.

“This person is a genius...” Philip could not help praising before ignoring her.

While talking and joking, the group of four arrived at a restaurant with many people inside, seemingly very lively.

Philip sat in a remote corner and ordered some food. After all, they were not here to enjoy but for the Heroes Conference, so no one minded. Moreover, he was here for another reason, which was to investigate the situation.

People from different walks of life mingled in the restaurant, so maybe he could get some information.

“Isn’t the food you ordered a bit too simple? It’s all vegetables. Do you think we’re rabbits?” Dion asked in a huff, and Philip was speechless.

“Uh, if you’re a rabbit, am I a wolf? You should watch your words around a wolf,” Philip teased.

Laurie could not help laughing when she heard that, and Dion pouted.

“You, a wolf? You look more like a creep,” Dion said angrily as she petted the cat.

Laurie and the others were waiting for Philip to settle the bill before leaving.

Unexpectedly, several strangers walked over, and one of them stared at them with a creepy expression on his face.

It immediately made the three women a little disgusted, but they did not say anything because they did not know what these people were doing.

“Hey pretty lady, I saw you just now and think we can be good friends. How about it?” The young man looked at Laurie and said with a smile, trying his best to look like a wolf in sheep’s clothing.

Laurie frowned seeing the other party’s manner.

“Sorry, we don’t know each other, and I’m not interested in getting to know you,” Laurie said lightly.

The young man’s face changed when he heard the words. Laurie had obviously insulted him.

“Why don’t we get to know each other first? You have nothing to do anyway,” the young man said with a forced smile, and there was a hint of chill in his words.

Laurie’s strength was really impressive.

She was able to take on the young man and his followers, and her skills were more than adept, which showed that she was not using her full strength at all!

‘I underestimated this woman. She’s so powerful, and I never realized it before. What a shame!’ Philip muttered and continued watching the show while snacking.

Someone soon appeared beside Philip, twisted his ear, and cursed aloud.

“Are you a man? How can you watch my sister fight alone? What if she gets hurt?”

“But this matter has nothing to do with me!” Philip shrugged as if he knew nothing about this.

Dion gritted her teeth in anger, wishing she could eat Philip alive.

Everything was fine if she did not know about it before, but seeing Philip’s expression now, she was absolutely sure that this matter must have something to do with Philip!
