

The First Heir 771

Chapter 771

Fabio and the others did check the place carefully just now and confirmed that there was no one in the research room.

However, the figure that suddenly appeared was puzzling.

It turned out that when Fabio and the others were carefully inspecting the various rooms in the research lab, the figure came in quietly through the door and jumped up into the air like a gecko, spreading his limbs and firmly attaching to the ceiling. No one noticed him there at all!

After Fabio and others left, they returned to the duty room to rest.

Naturally, it was unlikely for them to check the place again, and there were also people in the monitoring room. If anything happened in the research room, it would show up on the monitors, so they were relatively at ease.

However, in the monitoring room at this moment, the people staring at the screens did not realize that the monitors had been tampered with. What they were seeing was just a static screen!

Therefore, whatever happened in the research room, the monitors could not capture it!

The figure that suddenly appeared in the research room did not make any sounds after landing and quietly fumbled and approached the main laboratory.

The person's footsteps were light and made no sound at all!

After several days of investigation, he confirmed that all the experimental data in the research center were stored in this laboratory in the main computer in this room!

Moreover, he had been stationed here the entire day and could confirm that the computer had not been moved!

Fire Serpent immediately expressed his intention to negotiate.

"You're already standing at death's door and still dare to negotiate terms with me?"

Philip went up and kicked Fire Serpent on his head!

After this kick, Fire Serpent felt a buzzing in his head as countless little gold stars were flashing in front of him.

The opponent was too brutal. There was no hesitation at all!

Fire Serpent's eyes went dark as he fell to the ground while holding his head. His strength seemed to be drained completely.

He could not figure it out at all. With just one kick, he was incapacitated with no strength to resist at all!

Was he still human?

After all, he was the top killer in the organization, but he could not even handle one strike from the opponent!

Philip saw that he was lying on the ground and could not recover, so he could not be bothered with him anymore. Instead, he walked to one side and switched on the laboratory lights!

In an instant, the entire laboratory was brightly lit!

Wynn's heart was shaken when she received the text message.

Hannah Clarke!

Was that the woman who gave her the necklace the other day?

Come to think of it, when Philip heard the name that day, he got quite agitated.

This woman's last name was Clarke too. Did she have any special relationship with Philip?

Wynn looked at the content of the text message, thought for a long time, and replied, 'Who are you? How are you related to Philip?'

Ding-dong.

A reply came in. 'If you want to find out, come to the café.'

Should she go?

Wynn fell into deep thought. If she went, it signified her distrust of Philip.

If she did not go, she would let herself down.

After all, Philip was getting more and more unpredictable.

"Follow you?"

Fire Serpent was still in a daze. He did not expect the other party to make such a request.

At this moment, he started to be in a dilemma.

After all, he was already affiliated with Stinger. If he agreed to Philip's request, it meant betraying Stinger!

It was possible that he would be hunted down due to the betrayal!

No one understood the strict discipline of Stinger better than Fire Serpent. If he agreed to Philip's request, then he would be on Stinger's wanted list. Things would not be so simple by then.

Thinking of the big boss of Stinger, Fire Serpent could not help shivering.

Betraying Stinger was a thought that had never crossed Fire Serpent's mind. However, the reality of it now was giving him dramatic choices.

If he did not agree to Philip, he would die immediately!

If he did, he was likely to face Stinger's pursuit!

He was puzzled. Philip did not seem to be a member of any organizations, so why would he take him under his wing?

Philip looked at Fire Serpent and said, "It's actually not that complicated. Follow me and you'll survive. If you don't, then you'll die now. Make your choice."

"Hello, are you Hannah Clarke?"

Wynn stood up and asked doubtfully as she shook hands with the other person.

The woman smiled brightly, shook her head, and said, "I'm her friend. Something urgent came up and she was unable to make it. This is something she told me to give you."

While speaking, the woman took out a USB flash drive from her bag and handed it to Wynn. Then, she leaned over slightly and said, "She said that everything you want to know is in there. You may decide if you want to look at it."

With that said, the woman smiled slightly and turned to leave.

Wynn was stunned. She held the flash drive in her hand and was speechless for a while.

She had to make the decision?

Just when she was still in a daze, a sudden shout brought her back to her senses.

"Wynn, what are you doing here?"

At this moment, Philip trotted over anxiously. He glanced around but saw no one else.

Had they met already?

Maybe they had not.

However, Philip abruptly sneered, "Third Uncle, don't think highly of yourself. Your whole family is now staying in my villa. If you don't wish to continue staying here, you're most welcome to leave anytime."

At this point, Martha could not just sit back and watch. She got up and yelled, "Okay, Philip, you really think you're in charge now? Are you not treating the Johnston family as humans anymore?"

Martha was furious. What did Philip mean by that?

Was he in charge now?

"Martha Yates, what exactly are you trying to say?"

Philip's face was very grim. With a pair of cold eyes, he stared at Martha as he asked.

With Charles, Amelia, and Bernard backing her up, Martha was not afraid at all.

With a sullen face and furrowed brows, she took out an agreement from the drawer. She slammed it on the table and said, "Nothing much. Just sign this agreement and it's done."

An agreement?

Philip glanced around. Apart from Charles who was shaking his head helplessly, the other three had triumphant expressions on their faces.

It seemed that the objective of their drama boiled down to this agreement.

Philip finished signing it in less than three seconds.

Martha picked up the agreement and looked at it for a long time. She could hardly contain her smile as she said, "Excellent, this villa belongs to me now. Tomorrow, you'll go through the transfer procedure with me."

After that, Martha gave Philip a fierce glare.

That wastrel dared to fight with her!

She would get rid of him!

Philip's expression was grim. He did not even spare a glance to the triumphant trio who had gathered around to see the agreement and walked directly to the second floor.

It was just a villa. He did not care for it. What he cared about was Wynn's opinion of him.

On the second floor back in the master bedroom, Philip looked at Wynn who was lying on the bed and tiptoed over.

Wynn was not asleep. When Philip got on the bed, she turned sideways, hugged Philip, and asked, "Phil, are you hiding something from me?"

Philip hugged Wynn, took a deep breath, then smiled before saying, "Of course not. Go to sleep."

It was a sleepless night.

Early the next morning, Martha gathered Amelia and Bernard and waited downstairs.

Wynn had already gone to the company early in the morning.

Philip instructed Anne to take Mila out before going downstairs.

For instance, the tea set he took down from upstairs was previously given to him by Anna Carter. He had completely forgotten about it and just left it at home.

How much was it?

It was a handcrafted clay tea set worth 800,000.

It could be considered an expensive gift.

Seeing Philip returning with a gift box, Martha held back and said nothing.

Amelia's family was also there and they had only brought simple gifts with them. Those gifts were actually swiped from the villa and were things that Philip bought for Wynn, such as honey and royal jelly.

She was really thick-skinned as she kept a few boxes for herself too.

Once Wynn returned, the entire family headed toward the granduncle's house.

It was a small villa of more than 300 square meters that cost ten million.

As soon as they entered the living room, they found that almost everyone was there.

The second uncle's family had already arrived, and some relatives were talking in full swing while complimenting each other.

However, when Philip walked in, everyone shut their mouths and looked at them with complicated expressions.

Wynn looked at Philip aggrievedly, took his hand, and said, “Phil, I don’t want you to be treated unfairly.

“It’s fine, silly. Let’s go over there. They’re waiting to talk to this successful entrepreneur.”

Philip bopped Wynn on her nose and chuckled.

Wynn rolled her eyes at him coyly. “What entrepreneur? I’m just your wife. Besides, if not for you, I’d still be an ordinary employee.”

Philip did not say anything. He continued making tea and brought it into the living room.

Coincidentally, he overheard the relatives discussing Beacon.

“Wynn, I heard that your company received an investment from Milanelson Angel Investment Group?”
Bradford’s son, Kirk Green, asked with a smile while drinking tea.

Before Wynn said anything, Martha interrupted excitedly, “But of course. Milanelson Angel Investment Group took a fancy to Wynn’s company and invested billions just like that. The company will soon enter the global 500! At that time, Wynn will become a billionaire!”

“Yeah, I heard about it quite some time ago. Martha, what’s the background of this investment company? They’re so generous. Have they taken a fancy to Wynn?”

Martha's wishful thinking was very meticulous. She would not force it if Wynn really did not like him, but the more investments the better.

She refused to believe that someone would invest in Beacon for no good reason.

The other party had to be up to something.

It just so happened that Jacey returned at this time. She just came back from the company. Recently, the company's business had declined and they were short of funds, so she was very busy.

As soon as she entered the door, Jacey made a face, obviously unhappy. She threw her handbag on the sofa.

Everyone could tell that Jacey was in a bad mood.

At this time, Seth approached with a cheeky smile and said, "What's the matter, Jacey? Are you still worried about the company?"

As he said that, he served Jacey the tea that was prepared by Philip.

It was very well-played.
