

The First Heir 93

Chapter 93

Philip did not say anything. Instead, he laughed in resignation as he turned around to leave.

Martha was still muttering to herself. "What a sight for sore eyes."

Henry's brows furrowed. Was this Mr. Clarke's mother-in-law?

She was so spirited and rude.

Mr. Clarke was really unlucky to have such a mother-in-law.

"Wait!"

Henry called out to Philip and stood in front of him.

He was not happy with the way this mother-in-law was acting. Thus, he wanted to do something for Mr. Clarke.

"Who is this?" Henry's tone was cold as he spoke to Juan.

Juan immediately responded in a complimentary manner, "Professor Turner, this is..."

Before the introductions could be finished, Martha began scolding unreasonably, "Who are you, you old grouch! What, do you want to speak up for that wimp?"

Old grouch?

Everyone present was dumbfounded!

that Henry had been scolded in such a manner

angry that all his blood rushed toward his

the same way. They stared coldly, itching to rip off shocked. He tugged viciously on Martha's arm.

Philip can't be any better off! Look at you, you're already so old yet still dressed so flamboyantly! What, are you trying the kind who would not hold back when scolding someone.

fierce just now. Why don't you dare to say anything now? Did I blow your cover? Shameless old thing! Bah!" Martha tucked her arms into her chest arrogantly as

was as poisonous as a fishwife shouting abuse

her eyes, there was nothing

entire group

that he

and on the

you know who that is?" Juan had become anxious. He pulled Martha to the side as he

I don't care who he is. I don't know him." Martha waved doctor and a legend within the country's medical community! He's had practically

offended this person, they would have to

"Huh?"

what Juan said, she was so frightened that is so powerful?" Martha threw a frightened gaze at Henry who was standing nearby with a stony gaze on his

the tycoons in Orienta, and the higher-ups

nearly fainted from

in the presence of someone so powerful, Martha did not even dare to breathe loudly. She