

The First Heir 95

Chapter 95

Right at the moment she said it, Martha already had a hundred plans to seek revenge on Philip.

However, just as Juan was about to ask about the matter of visiting a doctor, Henry left.

Juan immediately panicked and rushed to catch up.

There was only Martha and Philip left in the rest area. The former was staring at Philip fiercely, her eyes filled with a flame of anger.

“Mom, you didn’t...”

Slap!

Before Philip could finish speaking, Martha had slapped him across the cheek and cursed, “How about it? Does it feel good to have me apologize to you?”

‘I would not be a Yates if I didn’t beat you up!’

Philip was speechless. His cheek was aching with burning pain, and his fists were pinched tightly in his trousers.

“Oh, are you unhappy about it? Come hit this old lady if you can. Come on, hit me.” Martha immediately pushed Philip with a challenging look.

More people had come to look.

she left, she glared at Philip fiercely. She scolded, “Useless! Die early and quickly reincarnate! Bring your bastard child along Bastard child?

called Mila

and blood of in the past, Philip would just endure it. Today, it was obvious that

I’m warning you, you can curse me, but do not glared at Martha with his eyes red as he not expect Philip, who had always been wimpy, to actually throw thinking of

he yell at her!

mother-in-law! Well, well, well... In this family, there can only be either was extremely mad, and she immediately cursed like

Philip said, "Mom, that house was not bought by you alone. You have no right to drive us away. Also, piece of trash like you out? The thing I regret most now is letting Martha's continuous scoldings, Philip had turned do you think you're going? We haven't made clear the out the porridge he made. He wanted to feed it to Wynn at first, but she declined long later, Juan came in and said, "Wynn, I'm really sorry. Something went wrong on Professor Turner's side, so I am heading over now. Don't worry, I will left had happened, she knew that it was definitely something urgent. She said a few words like asking