Revealing Her Identity

Chapter 28 Revealing Her Identity

"Today will be casting for my drama so I won't be the one to pick you up, Aunty Rory will, okay?" Tinsley told the triplets and they all nodded to her.

"Okay, Mom." They all replied and each placed a kiss on her cheeks.

"Bye." Tinsley waved the triplets off until their little frame disappeared. She turned to the driver and said. "J Media, please."

"Okay, ma'am." The driver said and soon Tinsley was at the J Media company.

Tinsley got down from the car while putting on her White Tigress mask.

They were a lot of actors and actresses interested in auditioning for 'Taming Her' and they all arrived before the casting would begin which stunned her slightly but Tinsley didn't show any abnormalities and she continues to work toward the J media calmly.

"Look, it's white Tigress." The crowd yelled loudly in disbelief and happiness, Tinsley smiled and began to wave at them as she walked into the room.

"She's so tall and looks young." The crowd muttered with envy.

"Her skin is so smooth and she has a perfect figure." The crowd continued to yell loudly till Tinsley entered the building.

"Oh. White Tigress." A man in his late forties came over immediately after Tinsley entered the J media casting building.

Inside the casting building was quieter compared to the outside since it hasn't been open for the auditioners.

Seeing the man, Tinsley's eyes lit up like a fan would do when she came across her favorite idol, "You must be Director Martins." Tinsley beamed happily and immediately bowed at the man respectfully which stunned the man.

Director Martin one of the best and most famous directors in the country and abroad and was known as a director whose films were always a massive hit.

Director Martin stretched his hand forward and tried to prevent Tinsley from bowing to him, "White Tigress... You don't have to..."

"No, let me do it. I'm your fan, Director Martin." Tinsley said with shining eyes that showed her sincerity.

"Can I get your autograph?" She asked and quickly brought out a book and stretched it toward him.

Director Martin laughed heartily at Tinsley's actions which made Tinsley embarrassed. He suddenly frowned.

"No." He replied curtly and it made Tinsley's smile wiped out immediately and that made Director Martin laugh again.

Director Martin collected the book from Tinsley with a chuckle, "You're an interesting person, white Tigress. I'll sign an autograph for you on one condition." He said which made her nod her head eagerly.

"I'm willing to do anything..."

"You will also sign me an autograph in return." Director Martin replied which made Tinsley stun.

"I'm your fan also and I've read all of your books which was the reason why I begged President Jarek to let me direct your drama." Director Martin explained which made Tinsley stun once again.

"Woah. You had to beg." Her lips parted in surprise as they made their way toward the casting hall.

Director Martin nodded his head, "Yes, President Jarek took it importantly. He was thinking about checking which directors could bring this movie's ability to its best. I had to beg for a long time and promised him to bring the novel alive in the best way ever before he let me in charge of this." Director Martin replied honestly. Not in any way ashamed to reveal that he, a famous director, had to beg.

Tinsley bowed in front of him and handed his book to him. "Please make Taming Her a best hit like all your previous movies. I hope I'm not greedy with my request."

"Taming Her is a bestseller and it'll surely break the box office record that I believe in." The director said and they both entered the casting building.

The other people who should be presented are also present which includes the casting director, producers, male lead for the drama, etc.

The male lead Jarek and Tinsley decided to use was one of the most popular actors who is recognized for his acting in the country and abroad. His name is Aldean.

He nodded at Tinsley in greeting and she also returned one to him.

Tinsley greeted everyone with a smile immediately she got onto her seat, she removed her mask which stunned everyone.

"White Tigress had no qualms removing her mask?" They asked and she replied with a nonchalant nod.

"Is White Tigress finally stopping being an anonymous figure?" They asked and she nodded at them.

Everyone was stunned by her young age more so she was beautiful with a face that beat top models and actress.

"Waoh. White Tigress is so young and beautiful." The people showered her praises but inwardly they all felt that she looked familiar but no one remembered her identity.

Soon it was time for the casting and J Media was opened for all the actors interested in the casting.

Tinsley looked at the seat at the far end with bewilderment. She turned to Director Martin with a bewildered look, "Is there someone we are waiting for?" She asked because everyone that should be here is present.

Director Martin nodded his head, he parted his lips, and was about to reply when the door was opened.

Tinsley was stunned when Jarek entered.

But Jarek didn't look at her side. No, he looked at her side but more of piercing Director Martin with his gaze.

Jarek had seen the two interactions when they first met through the CCTV and it made him jealous.

Feeling the burning stare of Jarek, Director Martin immediately stood up and walked to the far end of the seat, Tinsley was stunned to see Director Martin leave but before she could say anything, she saw the cold-looking Jarek walk toward her calmly.

Seeing that it was only the chair left, Tinsley didn't let out any complaint, instead, she faced the front and pretended not to notice Jarek.

Jarek immediately sat down where Director Martin was previously sitting. He arched his brows and turned to Tinsley, "We meet again." He said.

Since the both of them had danced that night, they had lost connection except for using email to talk about important things.

Tinsley scans his expression to find a clue that would reveal if he had checked her identity but upon seeing none, she snorted at him.

"President Jarek." The rest of the people in the room immediately stood up to greet Jarek but he was cold to them.

However, he turned to Tinsley with an expectant gaze which made Tinsley unable to say anything than greet him.

"It's nice to see you here, President Jarek," Tinsley muttered and quickly turned away not knowing what's nice about it.

She was trying hard to forget him and not to have a nightmare about him only to see him appear during the casting. Tinsley couldn't understand what he was doing in the casting room.

Isn't Jarek a busy figure? What is he doing here?

"You're not willing to see me?" President Jarek whispered.
