Chapter 44 A Message

The release of Taming Her posters won the audience's support. No one expected Rylee Hart to act or be the female lead but with the photo shoot, many of her fans and non-fans swore to watch the movie.

Lillee was so infuriated. She can't watch that bitch continue to succeed while she fails.

Even though she had paid out the 500 million, the truth is it caused a backlash from the Norton and Williams company investors because the money had been taken out of the company's pocket.

Besides, bringing out such an amount has also left such a strain on her pocket because Lillee isn't the type to save, and she doesn't work that much.

"Manager Frankie," Lillee called demurely, deciding that it was time to start working and overshadow Tinsley.

"I see that you won your court case. Oh, sorry you paid that sum. Congratulations to you." Manager Frankie said in a calm tone, but it infuriated Lillee because Manager Frankie was mocking her.

Lillee brushed off Manager Frankie's mockery and instead said decisively, "Manager Frankie, I would like to resume working."

"It's not a 6-month holiday this time?" Manager Frankie retorted, which made Lillee clench her fist in anger.

"Manager Frankie, are you purposely going against me?" She retorted in an angry tone.

"Spitting out the truth." Manager Frankie replied with a nonchalance which made her expression change.

"I'll send the list to you. You can choose the one you're interested in." Manager Frankie said and cut off the call.

Lillee harrumphed after the call was cut off, but she knew that Manager Frankie would definitely send good ones, so she stopped worrying.

"I want you to do something," Lillee said immediately after the person on the other side picked up the call.

No one knows where the news came from, but it's currently charting on social media.

'Despite all the top actresses that came for an interview, Miss Rylee Hart was the one picked. Hmm. I smelled something fishy there; money and connection work.' A person commented.

'What if Actress Lillee was actually chosen but dumped for Miss Hart? Ah. Isn't that Actress Lillee the poor one?'

'How can you start spouting shit because of a random post? I know that White Tigress and the J empire would stand with honesty.'

'Listen to your shit? J Empire and White Tigress will definitely go along with money. I wonder how much the Hart family paid to get their daughter in the movie.'

All the good commenters were soon buried by the ones who believe that Miss Rylee Hart used her connection to win the role. Soon a major protest began online.

Boycott Taming Her! Boycott White Tigress! Boycott J Empire.

'I at first believed that White Tigress would make a good choice, but it turns out that she'd instead follow the rich ones. I'm definitely not watching that trash movie.'

Tinsley paced the room as she scrolled through her social media. Many people had left their bad comments under her posts, and it reminded her of seven years ago.

Tinsley didn't mind that the people were currently bashing her. All she cared about was Taming Her. She had used her honesty to deal with Taming Her, so she won't allow any shit.

Tinsley already understood that someone employed keyboard warriors in order to bash her but why? Who is behind it?

She swore that if it was Lillee, she'd make sure to make her pay woefully.

"I asked my men to check it out, and it was Lillee's handiwork." Rory's voice says behind her which made her shocked at first because she never expected Rory to check it out, but she already understood that Rory will always do her best for her.

Tinsley clenched her fist in anger upon hearing that it was Lillee's handiwork, but she sighed in order to calm down.

"Since she wanted it that way, I'll be showing it to her." Considering that she had told Jarek not to involve himself in her and Lillee's beef, she knew he wouldn't do anything, so Tinsley was relieved.

Tinsley sat down and smirked, "Well, her keyboard warriors will be helpful for us." She declared and placed her phone beside her.

"How?" Rory frowned. "Don't take a nasty bet, ok? Please." Rory muttered in a worried voice that made Tinsley laugh.

"Don't worry, it's not." Tinsley comforted, which made Rory sigh in relief.

"Let her keep spreading the news for a few days until we are trending on every social media," Tinsley explained because she knew Lillee would want to fan the flame hotter.

"But that would incur more losses on your sides," Rory muttered after a few minutes of silence.

"No, it won't." Tinsley clarified and Rory looked at her for more clarification. "When everything is at its hottest, we'll be releasing Lillee and Rylee's audition tape. Let's see who'll cry then." Tinsley said and it made Rory gasp in disbelief.

She hurriedly stood up from where she was sitting and clung to Tinsley's arms, "But isn't that against the rule?" Rory questioned.

"No. Even if it's, who broke the rules first?" Tinsley smirked cruelly which made Rory excited.

"Let's make that bitch cry, girl." Rory high-fives Tinsley excitedly.

Jarek scrolled through his phone with a displeased frown on his face.

Even when he had shared half of the money Lillee paid to Tinsley, Tinsley had only replied with thanks.

Not at all bothering about inviting him out to thank him or calling him to thank him.

Even now when things are going bad, Tinsley didn't know to call him for help, which further infuriated him.

Jarek was about to type something when he saw her message pop in.

'Don't do anything! I have it settled.'

Jarek's face turned colder, and he gritted his teeth in anger. "Good one, White Tigress!"
