Chapter 7: J Empire

Chapter 7 J Empire

At the top floor of J Empire, one of the top and best companies in Ryle, Jarek sat in an expensive advanced chair that was set to be released two years from now.

Jarek had a cold expression, but a faint swirl of emotion played in his eyes as he read the novel in his hand.

A knock on the door made him take his glance away from the novel. "Come in," Jarek said and in a few seconds, Assistant Jacob entered the office with a document in his hand.

"President, according to our source. White Tigress is in Ryle Country." Assistant Jacob said immediately he entered. He dropped the documents on the table neatly.

"She came into the country with the White Tigress identity, which was the reason why it was yet to be broadcast." Assistant Jacob said and swept a glance at the book in Jarek's hand, and he discovered that it was White Tigress's new book 'Taming her,' Jarek wasn't a lover of fiction but all White Tigress books had been read by him which had pushed him to do so. Assistant Jacob would also consider himself a fan now.

"Schedule a meeting with White Tigress," Jarek muttered, his concentration back on the book.

"Okay, boss." Assistant Jacob said, but he had a hesitating look on his face.

Noticing that Assistant Jacob was yet to leave, Jarek finally took his glance away from the novel. "What do you want to say?" He asked in a cold tone.

"That… It's almost time for the meeting. And Doctor Ryan said he sent a message to you about treatment."

Ever since the incident seven years ago, Doctor Ryan kept asking him to receive testicular treatment. Jarek had at first held the hope that he would be able to treat him since having a beautiful family was always in his mind but after years of no improvement, he accepted his fate, and so he stopped receiving treatment.

"How many times do I need to tell him that I'm not interested in his treatment? Tell him if he wants GLOBE to go extinct within one minute he should send another message." Jarek concluded in a dark voice which sent chills down Assistant Jacob's spine. "When is the meeting?" Jarek asked.

"Twenty minutes from now, president." Assistant Jacob replied respectfully which made Jarek nod.

"I'll be there in a while," Jarek replied and immediately returned to the novel he was reading.

———

"You let me in! Or else I'll call my brother to fire you." A girl in her twenties struggled with the secretary in J Empire who stood her ground not to let her in unless she had proof.

"I'm sorry, miss, but you have no appointment with him. I can't let you into the president's office like that." The secretary replied with feigned respect.

The girl raised her chin slightly and proudly. "So? What's an appointment? I'm President Jarek's sister. Why would I need an appointment to go to my brother's office." The girl said in an arrogant voice.

The secretary sighed and rubbed her forehead. Why is this Hart princess such a brat? Doesn't she know the meaning of get lost? Despite all that was running through the secretary's mind, she ahowt up a smile, "Miss. We…"

The figure that came out of the elevator immediately caught the girl's attention. "Hey, assistant Jacob." The girl hurriedly ran toward Assistant Jacob, who had just walked out of the elevator.

"Is my brother busy?" The girl asked in a sweet, cute voice unlike what she was using with the secretary a few minutes ago.

"Naturally." Assistant Jacob replied in a cold voice, but his expression was warm as he made his way to the secretary.

"I want to meet with my brother." The girl continued, which made Assistant Jacob stop in his tracks.

"Young Miss Rylee, President Jarek has a meeting coming up in the next 10 minutes." He warned, and the girl sighed.

"Alright. I can stay. I will wait. I won't mess up the office. I just want to see my brother, okay?" The girl asked in a tiny cute voice which made Assistant Jacob nod but not before giving some warning to the secretary. He had seen her actions.

"Alright, let's go." Assistant Jacob replied and picked up some documents from the secretary's table.

The girl glared at the secretary smugly. After all, that secretary thought she was lying. This is Rylee's first time in her brother's company, and she wouldn't have come here if not for an important matter, so except for Assistant Jacob, others know her as the Hart Family Princess.

Assistant Jacob took Rylee to the guest office where Jarek used to receive important visitors because Rylee was most times clumsy and inquisitive, he was afraid that she'd end up messing up the whole office before Jarek finished his meeting.

"Assistant Jacob, brother will be back soon, right?" The girl asked anxiously, which made Assistant Jacob frown slightly.

"Young mistress, you promised to wait." Assistant Jacob replied, which made the girl shut her lips.

"Right?" Then she laughed. "Yes, I did."

Assistant Jacob began to walk out of the office but not before saying. "Someone will deliver your favorite refreshments."

"You're the best." Rylee gave a thumbs up, but a few seconds after Assistant Jacob walked out of the office, Rylee began to get impatient.

She sneaked toward the door and was about to open it when her eyes met with Assistant Jacob. "In other thoughts, I decided to deliver this. Young mistress, don't break your promise." He threw a warning which made her nod her head furiously. He had just seen her actions, and he knew if he wasn't there, she'd certainly leave the office.