Chapter 741: Fish Scale Race

These system announcements greatly startled Zhao Fu; he had never thought that such a thing would happen. When Zhao Fu heard the system announcement about the Race Invasion, he knew that this was not a small matter and that it could affect the entire human world.

Who would have thought that nothing would come from the most dangerous world, the Dark Demon world? Instead, the invasion came from the least dangerous world, the Water Race world in the south.

Zhao Fu did not know what the situation was like, and it was quite a surprise that the Water Race would take the initiative to invade. If they really were invading, things would be incredibly serious, and the entire human world would be in danger.

Zhao Fu understood how serious this matter was, and it was most likely that the entire world had received this information. Zhao Fu immediately got up, used the Trans-Boundary Teleportation Channel, and went to the Southern Continent.

The Southern Continent was mostly the territory of Africa. This was Akhenaten's territory, and Zhao Fu wondered what it was like there – had the Fish Scale race already started their invasion? Zhao Fu started to feel quite nervous and quickly flew towards the Southern Continent's boundary.

The other Legatees also looked quite anxious and hurried over.

When Zhao Fu arrived, the scene before him made him feel quite shocked. Normally, at the Heaven Domain Boundary, there was a foggy barrier making it difficult to see anything.

However, things were different now – there was a big rip that was millions of kilometers wide, and there was another world on the other side.

That world had a blue sky, white clouds, and a boundless ocean. The sound of the waves could be heard from this side, and the sound was so loud that it was almost deafening.

Akhenaten and some others were already there, and they stood by the side as they looked over in shock.

Following this, the rest of the Legatees arrived and also felt quite shocked when looking at this grand scene.

“What’s going on?” Tina Pendragon came to Zhao Fu and Akhenaten’s side and looked at them as she asked.

Zhao Fu shook his head, indicating that he did not know.

Akhenaten said with a serious expression, “I don’t know what’s happening; I only heard a large explosion and hurried over here to see this!”

Geoffrey looked over and said, “Luckily we don’t see the Fish Scale race yet. This means that they didn’t do this to invade. When I heard the system announcement, I felt quite worried that the Fish Scale race would suddenly invade with millions of soldiers!”

Hearing this, everyone else nodded. They had also been thinking the same thing. When they heard the system announcements, that had been their first thought too.

They had all imagined countless Fish Scale people preparing to rush into the human world and commit a massacre. Since everything had happened so suddenly, the Southern Continent definitely would not be able to defend against an invasion, and it would be turned into hell.

Now, it seemed that this was not the case; this had most likely been caused by an accident, and it was possible that the Fish Scale race did not know what was happening either.

However, because of this, both worlds had been sent into an Invasion Stage. Even though neither side had done anything yet, that would not necessarily be the case in the future.

At that moment, a few figures appeared on the surface of the ocean in the Fish Scale world. They had humanoid bodies, but their bodies had small fish scales, and they also had gills next to their ears. From how they looked, they were most likely amphibious.

Immediately, Zhao Fu and the others' expressions became serious. If they could walk on land, they would be able to invade. They did not feel safe anymore, and sensing the powerful auras that the other side gave off, they deduced they were most likely the other world's Legatees.

Zhao Fu now felt that they had been careless, assuming that the Water Race was not dangerous. However, this was a big mistake, as no race in the Heaven Awaken World should be underestimated.

“What should we do?” Akhenaten asked. The Southern Continent was his territory, and now that such a thing had happened, he was the one who was the most worried. If anything happened, the first one to suffer would be him.

Tina Pendragon said in a grave tone, “Of course we should gather the big factions in the southern side and start constructing a defensive wall as a precaution. We should also start making preparations for a large battle; after all, this is a battle between worlds, and if the Southern Continent is not prepared, it could fall.”

Akhenaten nodded and said, “I understand; I'll have some people take care of this soon. What about all of you? Will you be able to help?”

The Legatees all came from the various Continents, which were separated by a vast ocean. Each of them had to cross countless regions to arrive here, which was quite difficult, so it would be incredibly hard to move entire armies.

That was what Akhenaten was most worried about right now. If the Southern Continent did not receive any support, they would have to face this invasion by themselves. This put immense pressure on him, and if they could not fight back, it was possible that they would all die.

Tian Pendragon thought before saying, “When the time comes, I will support as much as I can!”

Geoffrey also said, “I will also do my best to support you to defend against the invasion. After all, this concerns all of humanity, and we need to be united.”

However, apart from these two people, no one else said anything for a while. Si Ji and Oleg had other considerations, while Masanori Hano was one of the weakest Legatees as she had received her City quite late. Her faction was weaker than the others' factions and could not provide much support.

Babilon was also quite weak, and even though he had a Clan Armament, he did not have a Legacy or a City. It had always just been him, so he couldn't send any soldiers to help.

Masanori Hano and Babilon thought for a while before saying that they were willing to help as much as possible, and after this, everyone else also agreed to support him.

Following this, everyone looked over to Zhao Fu, who had not spoken this entire time, feeling somewhat nervous. If Great Qin, the strongest faction in the world, did not support them, they would not feel very confident.

Zhao Fu could tell what they were thinking and lightly laughed as he said, "How could I not help for something like this? Also, it's best to let everyone in the world know about this; we alone will not be able to make a great difference!"

Hearing this, everyone let out sighs of relief and smiled.

Following this, Zhao Fu said, "However, we can't always just passively defend; we can also take the initiative to attack. There are lots of rewards for invading, and there is an ocean of Fate available. If we can increase the human world's Fate, this will benefit the entire human world!"

While this was going on, the Fish Scale world's side was also discussing what to do.

An ugly-looking big man said, "We should invade them first – I'm sure there will be great gains. Those humans haven't even prepared yet, and if we attack their world first, it will be of great benefit to the Fish Scale world!"

Chapter 742: War Between Worlds

"They haven't prepared yet but neither have we. Who knew such a thing would suddenly happen? How can we attack without having made preparations? If we just recklessly charge in, we'll definitely be defeated. Not only will we suffer countless injuries and casualties, but we'll also become laughing stocks," an intelligent-looking fat man said in response.

An alluring woman then said, "I feel we should go back and notify the various factions and Dynasties and have them prepare. Also, I think it would be best to lure the humans over. After all, the water is our domain.

"They can't breathe underwater, and they will become weakened in water. However, we can fight on both land and water, and we will have a very big advantage if we're in the water.

"Moreover, they will most likely come by boat, so we can hide in the water. They'll be in the open when that time comes, but we'll be hidden, so it will be incredibly easy to ambush them!"

Everyone was quite pleased with this plan and smiled. A cold-looking elder maliciously looked over at Zhao Fu and the others and said, "What should we do now? Should we just leave? What should we do with the human Legatees?"

"They're probably thinking the same things we are and will most likely spread the news first. After all, this is a war between worlds, so they probably won't do too much either. We should leave now and make preparations to slaughter the humans," a middle-aged man said as he coldly laughed.

The Fish Scale race Legatees looked at each other and grinned before turning into rays of light and diving into the ocean and disappearing.

Zhao Fu noticed the ill-intent from the other side, and he coldly harrumphed. He turned into a black ray of light and flew away first.

After chatting a bit more, the other Legatees also left.

After everyone left, a simple-looking little boy got out of the water with two streams of snot flowing out of his nostrils. Looking at the scene before him and then looking at the rainbow-colored shard in his hand, he felt that he had made some trouble.

The little boy also seemed to be from the Fish Scale race, but what was different was that he had a golden-colored dragon's tail.

The little boy wiped his nose and sucked the snot back in. Then, he put the rainbow-colored shard in his pocket. He felt that he couldn't stay here, as he was afraid of the adults scolding him, so he dove into the water and ran away.

The news quickly spread throughout the two worlds, and almost everyone knew about this. Everyone in the Fish Scale world prepared to massacre the humans. The environment they lived in was extremely cruel, and aquatic beasts ran rampant. They understood the principle of the strong devouring the weak, so they all supported massacring the humans.

However, because humans all lived vastly different lives, their attitudes were all different. Some people supported going to war while others rejected it.

“The other world hasn’t attacked us, so why should we attack them? Invading is a shameless act, and we’ll be scorned by later generations. I won’t go, but I’ll support the building of a defensive wall. I’m against all violence!”

“Why can’t we resolve things peacefully? Why do we always have to resort to war? Do you know what the consequences of war are? You murderers, don’t you know how to act like decent people? I won’t join you!”

“That’s right! I’m also in support of peace. It’s best to be careful with things like this. I think we should send some people over to talk with them and reduce any unnecessary misunderstandings. I trust that the other side is kind and won’t want to fight either.”

“I know this was definitely proposed by Great Qin’s Legatee. Do you really want to support someone as cruel and evil as Great Qin’s Legatee? Everyone please wake up and oppose all fighting. I also support building a defensive wall, but we should never invade another world.”

“You barbarians, it’s already the twenty-first century, and yet you still don’t understand things like human rights, justice, and morals. You’re all tyrants! You say they’re dangerous, but where’s your proof? At the very least, they haven’t attacked us yet!”

The human world was split into two main factions. Those who were not willing to fight rebuked those who were willing to fight, and the media on the side of ‘righteousness’ also blasted them through the news.

Those who were willing to fight started to gather at the boundary of the Southern Continent. They knew how important this war would be. If they did not respond appropriately, it would be too late to do anything when the human world was invaded.

Most of the factions started to research teleportation channels to get there. The Southern Continent factions supported them with money and resources, and the tension became greater and greater as time passed.

Zhao Fu returned to Great Qin and summoned his Generals to discuss the matter. Facing the threat of the Fish Scale people, everyone present was incredibly serious. They could not dare to be careless, as this would affect the entire human world. As humans, they did not want the human side to lose this war.

After a three hour long discussion, Great Qin started to transfer all sorts of resources and prepared for a large battle. Everything else was paused temporarily.

Following this, Zhao Fu came to the Chaotic World Stone Stele. Before, nothing had caught Zhao Fu's eyes. However, they had now entered an Invasion Stage that could affect the survival or demise of an entire race. The rewards would definitely be quite good.

By now, Great Qin's Chaotic World Stone Stele had reached Level 8, which was far higher than ordinary Dynasties. There would definitely be some decent items at this level.

After hearing the rewards had been updated, Zhao Fu felt quite hopeful. After looking through the Chaotic World Stone Stele, he was not left disappointed.

Zhao Fu saw a few things that made him feel quite excited this time. Before, it was impossible to obtain such things.

The first thing that caught Zhao Fu's eye was a City Upgrade Stone; the second was a Dragon-Slaying Ballistae blueprint; and the third was a Ten Thousand Blood God Stone that could be used on the Corpse Soul Blood Lake, allowing it to create 100 Corpse Soul Guards and five Corpse Soul Commanders.

Moreover, there were also Cities of various levels being offered. There were even Great Cities and Capital Cities apart from the usual Towns and Cities.

This gave Zhao Fu some hope because Capital Cities were usually incredibly expensive. If he could exchange for a Capital City, then Great Qin would take a big step in the direction of the restoration of its empire. If he could exchange for three Capital Cities and level up the Great Qin City to Level 6, he could immediately establish a Kingdom.

This made Zhao Fu feel incredibly excited. Seeing so many things he was interested in, Zhao Fu felt quite eager to participate in this war. After the war was over, Great Qin would not be too far away from establishing a Kingdom.

After making preparations, they would be able to set out at any time. Zhao Fu felt at peace seeing this but did not have the army set out immediately. Instead, he went to the Southern Continent by himself.

Chapter 743: Water Pearl

The reason Zhao Fu came alone was to obtain detailed intelligence about the Fish Scale people. He did not want to send his army out without knowing anything. If he sent his army out and there were billions of Fish Scale people invading, then Zhao Fu's soldiers would most likely be wiped out.

He could not afford to be careless at all in a war between worlds. Zhao Fu did not want to play around with his soldiers' lives, and there was still a majority of people who had not arrived yet. Gathering information would take some time.

However, some people from the Southern Continent had already arrived and were constructing a defensive wall. The wall was mostly made from massive trees with rocks and stuck together using mud. The wall was simple, but construction was fast.

Zhao Fu turned into a ray of light and flew into the Fish Scale world. After looking at the boundless ocean, Zhao Fu unleashed his Emperor's Domain and dove into the water.

Zhao Fu felt that it would be quite easy to attack the Fish Scale people as they lived in the water and did not have many defenses. If they constructed defensive walls, it would be quite easy to swim past them.

Zhao Fu soon discovered a village near a coral reef. Zhao Fu found that the Fish Scale people all built their villages against something to use as a barrier. Some used coral reefs, and others used underwater cliffs.

If they used natural barriers, they would not have to construct defensive walls, and it would actually be quite difficult to attack. After all, they could hide in the coral reefs to both defend and attack.

The Fish Scale people would not be so easy to deal with, and it seemed that attacking would not be as convenient. First, humans could not breathe underwater and could only do some basic diving. They would not be able to fight underwater at all unless they could find some way to breathe underwater.

After looking around, Zhao Fu did not find any signs of an army. It seemed that the Fish Scale people were still preparing for the large battle.

Zhao Fu did not discover much in the end, and he returned to the human world. Time gradually passed, and more and more people gathered. There were about 100 million people gathered by now.

There were also indigenous residents apart from players. Zhao Fu wanted to rope in system main city City Lords as well, but none of them wanted to participate. They believed that they would not have to act at all with the players defending.

Zhao Fu could not say or do much, so he returned to Great Qin and ordered people to start manufacturing Water Pearls.

Water Pearls were precious tools that allowed one to breathe underwater, and they cost ten silver coins each. After news of the impending war with the Fish Scale people spread, the price of Water Pearls quickly rose. They were now worth 15 silver coins, and Zhao Fu did not want to have to buy a large number of them, so he bought a blueprint and had Bai Shan and his people manufacture some themselves.

They also needed a large number of ships apart from Water Pearls. Even though they would be able to breathe underwater, they still needed a place where they could stand, regroup and rest.

These were their preparations for attacking; they had already finished preparations for defending, so there was not too much to worry about.

Half a month later, they had fully prepared everything for both attacking and defending.

There were now 300 million people gathered at the boundary of the Southern Continent, and the defensive wall had been completed. It was 12 meters tall and six meters wide, and it stretched as far as the eye could see. It was quite shocking to be able to construct such a massive wall in such a short period of time.

Most of the people gathered were from the Southern Continent, and various leaders had come. There was an alliance among thousands of factions. Akhenaten was well-known and trusted here, so everyone gathered under his command while Zhao Fu was seen of more as an outsider.

Not just Zhao Fu, but the other Legatees were treated with less respect than Akhenaten. Apart from the reason that they were outsiders, it was also because they did not bring many people.

Tina Pendragon brought 100,000 people, Si Ji brought 80,000 people, Geoffrey brought 90,000 people, Masanori Hano brought 70,000 people, and Zhao Fu brought 120,000 people.

It was not that they did not want to send more people, but crossing over to the Southern Continent was no simple task. Zhao Fu's 120,000 soldiers had been sent over by the Trans-Boundary Teleportation Channel after a long period of continuous teleportations, but it did not seem like much compared to 300 million people.

As such, all of the other Legatees were scorned by the Southern Continent's factions.

Zhao Fu did not care too much about this as he did not want to invest too much until he had seen the Fish Scale people's strength. This was just scoping out their power for now.

After such a long time, the human world was fully prepared. But, there did not seem to be any reaction from the Fish Scale people.

Half a month later.

They had now waited for a full month. The Fish Scale people still had not reacted at all.

This caused some people to feel quite displeased; surely they couldn't just continue to waste time like this!

Zhao Fu wanted to take the initiative to attack and see what the situation was like. However, he did not have much authority here, and he did not want to send his 120,000 soldiers. After all, with only that many soldiers, they would be wiped out if there was any danger.

Akhenaten also wanted to attack, but because everyone had been rushing to defend, at least 80% of the people had not made any preparations to attack. They did not have enough ships or items to allow them to breathe underwater. Moreover, it would be difficult to fight underwater.

As such, many people were not willing to invade because not only did they not have enough preparations, but there was also great risk involved. Even though the rewards were quite good, they did not want to risk everything.

A few days later, the crowd's dissatisfaction swelled to its peak. Some people started to say that Zhao Fu and the Legatees had made a big fuss out of nothing and that the other side had no plans of attacking the human world. It was Zhao Fu and the Legatees who were scared and paranoid, thinking everyone was out to get the humans.

As the World Protector who was the most important person in the world, Zhao Fu received the most blame.

The other Legatees were quite angry and left one after another. In the end, it was only Tina Pendragon, Geoffrey, and Zhao Fu left. Even though they were quite angry, they still remained.

Another three days passed, and some more people left while feeling quite disgruntled. As soon as this happened, many people also chose to leave. After all, they had just wasted a month here, and no one wanted to continue wasting time like this.

There were only three million people left on the defensive walls in the end. The various factions all left a small portion of their forces before returning to their own headquarters.

Seeing that only so few people remained, Zhao Fu decided to bring his soldiers back to Great Qin. He felt quite confused – why hadn't the Fish Scale people invaded? Could it be that they were waiting for the humans to invade?

However, humans had very little experience fighting underwater. They only had experience fighting on land or on ships. And, while facing the uncertainties of the opposite world, no one wanted to take the risk and attack.

Could it be that neither side was going to invade and they were going to live harmoniously? Zhao Fu thought back to the malicious intent he sensed from the other world's Legatees and felt that things would not end so simply.

Chapter 744: Ten Thousand Poison Divine Cauldron

Everyone had been filled with battle-intent when they left to defend against the Fish Scale people's invasion, but they had returned dispirited. This was a big blow to everyone's morale, and they started to doubt whether they had done the right thing. As for those who had not helped out, they started to mock the Legatees.

"Didn't you say that it was an incredibly dire emergency and that the human world might suffer a terrible disaster? You were making mountains out of molehills! Did anything happen? No! You think the other side is as selfish and greedy as all of you?"

"You were all completely wrong this time. So many people rushed over and wasted so much time and resources, and you even dragged down our image. You've lost face for all of humanity! They might even think that we're all just barbarians now!"

"That's right! I hate these idiots; some people casually said that there might be a war, and they all went running off to fight. Are they so stupid as to believe anything they hear? Luckily I was smart and didn't go. See, the reality is that the other side hasn't attacked us! Hahaha..."

"I want those who went to the boundary to apologize. This has affected our image as humans. And who knows, maybe this will actually cause a war. If they don't go to apologize and a war starts, they'll have to take responsibility."

"Actually, it's because those Legatees were too cowardly. We humans are incredibly powerful, so why would we have to fear others? We can defend against anything, but those Legatees have lost face for all of us."

Most of the people who said these things were those who lived the safest lives. They had all of their needs fulfilled, so there was nothing for them to worry about. Those who had gone to participate could not say anything in response and felt that they were in the wrong.

70% of the people had been in support of fighting before, 20% had been in support of keeping the peace, and the remaining 10% did not care.

However, now only 30% of the people supported fighting, 40% of the people wanted peace, and 30% of the people did not care anymore.

The ones who were the most active now were the ones who wanted peace. They demanded Great Qin's Legatee and the other eight Legatees go over and apologize. Since they were the Legatees of the world, they should take responsibility.

Those people believed the world belonged to everyone and that everyone had the right to live peaceful lives that should not be disrupted by anyone.

Moreover, these people believed that the world was predominantly a democratic world now, and no one could represent everything. Since these Legatees had made a mistake, they should apologize, or they would not deserve to be Legatees as they would lose face for everyone. The ones in favor of peace started to tell everyone to rise up and resist the violent Legatees.

This made the Legatees feel incredibly furious. Oleg announced that he would not care about this matter anymore while Geoffrey patiently explained the situation to everyone. Tina Pendragon did not mind these things and did not get angry, continuing to prepare for battle.

Akhenaten felt incredibly complicated inwardly and did not know how to deal with this. After such a long time, he had no idea whether the other side was going to invade or not. He did not want to make any trouble and just wanted to develop his faction steadily.

Zhao Fu was incredibly furious after hearing all of this and decided not to care about any of this anymore. Instead, he focused all of Great Qin's resources in developing weapons effective against the Fish Scale people.

At the same time, Zhao Fu started to train his soldiers in underwater fighting. He did not want them to be completely useless underwater and waste their powerful Cultivations.

Time passed just like that, and soon enough, it was nearly the New Year again. By now, it had been two or so months since the rift in the Heaven Domain Boundary had appeared.

Things gradually calmed down, and no one paid much attention to the Southern Continent anymore. Those in favor of peace did not make a ruckus anymore and turned their attention to other things. Now that two months had passed, perhaps the Fish Scale people would not attack.

Great Qin had continued to steadily develop in those two months. They had cleared out 25 regions, and Great Qin now controlled 123 regions with 21 system main cities joining Great Qin.

Natural disasters had swept through the Heaven Awaken World for about a year now, and there was now a lack of food all over the world. After all, it was difficult to grow crops amongst natural disasters.

Food crops, which had been incredibly cheap, were now becoming an overwhelmingly important resource. Conflicts between people began to rise as resources dwindled.

Even good-natured people became violent and ruthless while driven by hunger, and they started to attack other people to steal their food. The situation became even more chaotic than before.

Zhao Fu did not care about any of this as all was well within Great Qin. He continued to direct Great Qin's resources towards weapons effective against the Fish Scale people. By now, Zhao Fu had already decided that even if the Fish Scale people did not invade, he would go and attack in order to gain rewards from the Chaotic World Stone Stele.

After all, they were a different race, and Zhao Fu did not completely trust them. He had to at least fight with them a few times to see what their strength was like – even if they were not dangerous right now, that was not necessarily true for the future.

Zhao Fu treated the Fish Scale people like a group of fish, as they had similar living habits and physiologies.

As such, Zhao Fu decided to take measures against them like how people would normally deal with fish. Some people used their hands to catch fish, others used hooks, and others used harpoons.

However, none of these methods would actually work, as the Fish Scale people were not actually fish. Instead, Zhao Fu used an even more effective method that would be useful against a large number of Fish Scale people, such as using nets, poison, and naval mines.

These three methods were all quite effective in dealing with large numbers of fish, but the situation was different, so Zhao Fu had to adapt these methods.

For example, he spent money to buy a large amount of Silver grade metal and then added special materials to craft the nets. Those at or below Stage 1 would not be able to cut through them even with sharp knives. If he had Stage 1 soldiers send their Cultivation power into the nets, then even Stage 2 soldiers would not be able to escape from them.

Poison was next. This method was not commonly used because it was possible to kill everything in a lake if they poured a few bottles of poison in. That was too immoral and was generally prohibited.

Zhao Fu ordered his people to purchase a massive amount of poison from all over China's territory, and Zhao Fu finally used one of the treasures he had obtained before – the Ten Thousand Poison Divine Cauldron.

This cauldron could refine all sorts of poisons and increase their toxicity. The cauldron could also level up by refining poisons, and it was a growth type treasure.

Zhao Fu brought over barrels of poison that could kill hundreds of people with a single drop and had them all poured into the Ten Thousand Poison Divine Cauldron. The result was a few drops of poison.

Even though it was just a few drops, those drops possessed shocking toxicity. Zhao Fu did not dare to test them out, but he knew that their effects would be terrifying.

Chapter 745: Human Nukes

Finally, there were naval mines. Because water was a conductor of electricity, naval mines would be more effective than on land. Before, people used to use this method to blast fish, killing many with each blast.

However, this was not commonly seen anymore, as it was quite dangerous. Moreover, this was also quite cruel, and those who did it would be called out to be immoral.

Zhao Fu did not have naval mines, but he had two human nukes, who were Binoche and Kerache. In the defensive battle, Zhao Fu had heard of their performance, launching a combined forbidden spell that had blasted out a ten-kilometer-wide crater, making it so that millions of soldiers did not dare to approach.

This time, Zhao Fu wanted to rely on them to seal that forbidden spell into an item. If they could do this, simply throwing that item would be able to unleash the forbidden spell's power, which would be incredibly effective. This would be similar to a magic scroll.

Zhao Fu decided to use high-purity energy crystals. They were 15 centimeter long crystals that were incredibly transparent and had many small edges like a diamond. The light that it refracted looked incredibly pretty.

These sorts of energy crystals could contain immense amounts of power, and only such items could contain a forbidden spell. Normal items would not be able to withstand the destructive power of the forbidden spell at all.

However, these crystals were incredibly expensive and cost 10,000 gold coins each.

Zhao Fu gave a few crystals to Binoche and Kerache. Because the forbidden spell took up a massive amount of strength and mental energy, even though Zhao Fu bought them all sorts of recovery items, they could only produce two Destruction Crystals per day.

Destruction Crystals was the name of the crystals after the forbidden spell had been put into them. They looked quite different, with one side being icy-blue and the other being fiery-red, giving off a terrifying aura of annihilation.

In a month or so, Binoche and Kerache had created 75 Destruction Crystals, which Zhao Fu would use to blast the Fish Scale people. They were incredibly powerful and could make people feel immense despair.

After making these preparations, Zhao Fu did not directly attack because it was soon the New Year. This was one of the most important festivals, and Zhao Fu wanted to let his soldiers properly relax in order to prepare them for the year of cruel battles ahead.

At the same time, Zhao Fu hoped for good luck in the coming year, and he wanted Great Qin to properly celebrate.

Compared to Great Qin's raucous and cheery scene, everywhere else was filled with misery and gloom. No one could eat until they were full, so how could they be happy? As such, they were not happy at all as they welcomed in the new year and were incredibly worried. They hoped that these natural disasters would pass soon in the new year.

Over at the Southern Continent's boundary, the 100-kilometer wide rift was still the same. The breeze from the other world continuously howled, and the sound of the waves was just as deafening.

The three million people who had kept watch here for over two months now were incredibly bored. There had been no signs of attacking from the other side, so they did not feel too worried. Inwardly, they believed that the Fish Scale people would not dare to attack the human world.

The night was quite dark, but it was even darker than normal. There were no stars out, and the moon was not out either. All light seemed to have been devoured, and the darkness of the night seemed quite scary.

The flames in the torches on the defensive wall wavered as a few soldiers held a pot of wine and sat together, complaining to each other.

One of the soldiers said groggily, "I'm bored to death here. All we do is just stand guard and keep watch. The Fish Scale people definitely won't attack, and it's been such a long time. When's the leader going to call us back? At least if the Fish Scale world invades, it wouldn't be as boring!"

The other intoxicated soldiers nodded in agreement because they also felt quite dissatisfied.

Rumble...

Suddenly, a gigantic rumbling sound could be heard as the ground started to tremble. A terrifying and suffocating aura rushed out, and the three million soldiers on the defensive wall felt their bodies freeze up as if they had dropped into freezing water, and their souls trembled.

The many soldiers hurriedly got up and looked towards the rift because that was where the aura was coming from.

Because of how dark it was, the soldiers could not clearly see what was ahead. They only saw countless pairs of eyes that were as big as two-story houses looking back at them, and the eyes gave off a blood-red light.

"Enemy attack!" an extremely frightened voice cried out, causing the dark night to seem even more horrifying.

The ground continuously trembled, and the soldiers shot out massive flares in terror. The searing white light tore through the darkness, illuminating what was ahead.

As the darkness receded, everyone became even more afraid, because they could finally see what was attacking.

There were incredibly massive aquatic beasts that gave off despairingly powerful auras. There were groups of crab-like creatures that were ten or so meters tall and crocodile-like creatures that were 100 meters long. There were also snakes that were 1,000 meters long and shark-like creatures that had two legs and could walk upright.

There were also fish that were 50 meters long with pairs of wings and octopus-like creatures that were hundreds of meters tall and had countless tentacles. Furthermore, there were sword-like fish that hovered in the air and tortoises that were as big as mountains.

There were countless aquatic beasts, and they were like a massive flood that brought with them a deafening noise as they rushed at the defensive wall.

“Run!!” None of the soldiers had the heart to resist. The aquatic creatures were not only gigantic, but their numbers were also innumerable. What’s more, there were still even more of them pouring through the rift into the human world.

The soldiers were so terrified that they could not fight at all, and they hurriedly started to run for their lives. A small minority mustered up the courage to shoot arrows, but those arrows could not break through the aquatic beasts’ defenses at all and were completely useless.

Rumble...

The countless aquatic beasts gave off frightening auras as they excitedly and madly rushed forwards. They were incredibly fast, and soon, the enormous tide of beasts smashed against the ten or so meter tall defensive wall.

After being rammed by countless aquatic beasts again and again, the tall, firm wall collapsed. There was nothing else stopping the advance of the aquatic beasts, and the grand defensive wall that was millions of kilometers long collapsed just like that without having any effect.

The soldiers were unable to escape at all, and they were either trampled to death by the massive beasts or eaten in one mouthful. Howls tore through the night, and in just a few moments, three million soldiers had perished.

“Roar!!!” A 10,000-meter long aquatic beast that looked like a flood dragon with no legs raised its head and gave off a world-shaking roar. The other aquatic beasts followed in suit and roared, the noise sounding out in the surrounding 10,000 kilometers. The invasion had officially begun.

Chapter 746: Aquatic Beasts

In the distance, ten or so people looked at the rampaging aquatic beasts and grinned. These were the aquatic beasts that rampaged in their world, and they could not be controlled. They had paid a massive price, including resources and fatalities, to lure them out, and it had taken two months to do it.

That was why they had done nothing for two months; they had been luring the aquatic beasts and investigating the human world. They had seen all of the discord among the humans themselves.

At first, they had wanted to wait for the humans to invade and use their geographical advantage to destroy them. However, it was a pity that the humans had no plans to attack, so they could only change their plans. They decided to use the power of the aquatic beasts to wipe out the human world.

With the aquatic beasts as the vanguard, they could effortlessly follow behind and pick up the spoils of war without any danger.

However, they did not dare to attack yet because even though they had lured the aquatic beasts over, they could not control them. If they got too close, they would also be attacked by the aquatic beasts, resulting in countless injuries and casualties.

This was quite a crafty plan because these aquatic beasts were scourges of the Fish Scale world. By luring them over to the human world, the Fish Scale people would be able to reduce the human world's strength and get rid of them without having to expend a single soldier.

The flood of aquatic beasts was tens of times more terrifying than an ordinary beast tide. It was like a massive bulldozer that annihilated everything in its path. Nothing was left intact, and there were deep footprints riddled all over the ground.

After breaking through the defensive wall, the terrifying beast tide moved further inland. The wild beasts sensed this first and started to madly run for their lives.

By the time the humans nearby discovered this, it was much too late. Villages and Towns in the wilderness were instantly devoured, and they were unable to retaliate at all. It was like a massive beast stepping on an ant.

When the City Lord of a system main city discovered this terrifying beast tide, it was already too late to run. The enormous figures gave off auras that seemed to be able to topple mountains and rushed towards the system main city.

The City Lord immediately led his 100,000 soldiers to fight back – the soldiers drew their bows, sending their Cultivation power into them. Countless arrows shot out with immense force, but the aquatic beasts that were hit only yelped in pain and only received minor injuries. This showed that Stage 1 soldiers were unable to kill these aquatic beasts.

It would take a group of thousands of people to kill such a massive beast, and they would have to cooperate well. However, now that they had formed such a massive beast tide, if Stage 1 soldiers' attacks were ineffective, it would be useless no matter how many people they had.

Some soldiers with high accuracy were able to shoot into the aquatic beasts' eyes, allowing them to hit the aquatic beasts' brains. Only then were they able to kill some low-grade aquatic beasts, but it was quite difficult to hit their eyes. Aquatic beasts were somewhat intelligent and naturally knew what their weaknesses were.

As soon as they closed their eyes or moved, it would be quite difficult to hit their eyes. The 100,000 soldiers were only able to kill ten or so aquatic beasts, but there were millions of them. It was a completely unfair battle.

Boom!!

A gigantic explosion sounded out as the system main city's tough city walls were destroyed by the beast tide. If it had been an ordinary beast tide, the system main city would have been able to use its neutral mode to bring up its barrier. However, this beast tide was from another world, so they were unable to use the neutral mode to defend against it.

As the city walls collapsed, countless soldiers crashed down. Some were injured while others who had been prepared were able to land safely and immediately started to fight with the aquatic beasts.

However, they were quite pitiful, as they were unable to kill many of the aquatic beasts. In fact, they were not even much of an obstacle and were either stomped to death or eaten.

Only some of the soldiers were able to rush up to the aquatic beasts, but with how massive their bodies were, the soldiers were unable to deal any fatal blows. At most, they could only lightly injure them, which was quite useless.

Seeing the countless soldiers dying, the City Lord above furiously slashed out a large amount of saber light, slashing an aquatic beast that was hundreds of meters long in half. This caused blood to spurt out and rain down on the ground below.

The City Lord's actions were noticed by a few of the thousand-meter long aquatic beasts. A catfish-like aquatic beast that floated in the air flicked its tail, and its massive body slammed towards the City Lord like a mountain.

The City Lord was unable to dodge in time and could only hold out his saber in front of him, trying to block. However, he was still sent flying backward by the massive figure.

After being sent flying, the City Lord coughed up a large mouthful of blood. Another aquatic beast grasped this opportunity to bite onto the City Lord's body, and it ferociously bit down, breaking through the City Lord's barrier and biting his body in half.

The City Lord died immediately, and the lower half of his body was eaten while the upper half of his body heavily crashed onto the ground. The aquatic beast then dove down and ate the top half of the City Lord's body along with his City Lord Seal.

City Lords were like delicious snacks to the aquatic beasts, and they enjoyed eating them very much.

Seeing that its snack had been stolen, the catfish-like aquatic beast roared in anger. The other aquatic beast that had eaten the City Lord seemed to feel guilty and ran off as if expressing that it would not steal from this aquatic beast again.

Only then did the catfish-like aquatic beast stop roaring, and it turned its savage gaze to the residents who were running and screaming in fear.

Even though there were teleportation channels, only a small portion of people had escaped, and most of the people were still within the city.

Now that the City Lord and the soldiers had died, they could only desperately run. The catfish-like aquatic beast flew over and opened its mouth before inhaling. A few hundred people were sucked into its mouth, and it started to munch on them, causing the sound of bones cracking and blood spurting to sound out in its mouth.

The catfish-like aquatic beast gulped and swallowed everything in its mouth, looking quite horrifying.

The remaining people screamed as they ran away, but how could they outrun a beast tide? They were either eaten or squished into meat paste.

400,000 or so people instantly disappeared, and the system main city was stomped to the ground, turning into a deathly-silent ruin. There were broken corpses and blood everywhere.

This happened to countless system main cities, and the beast tide of millions of aquatic beasts rampaged through five or six regions at once.

Soon, the aquatic beasts had swept through 20 or so regions, causing bodies to be strewn all over the place. Very few creatures survived, as the aquatic beasts viewed all living creatures as something that they could eat.

There had been almost 100 million indigenous residents and a few million players in those 20 or so regions, and they had all died just like that. This terrifying scene shocked countless people.

Chapter 747: Disaster

The aquatic beasts were like a massive nuke that exploded in the human world. After hearing about this, countless people were incredibly horrified.

Akhenaten immediately started requesting for help because he could not face a beast tide of millions of aquatic beasts by himself. They needed at least 600 million to 700 million Stage 1 soldiers to put up a decent resistance, and even then, there would be many casualties.

Facing this massive crisis, everyone in the Southern Continent responded to Akhenaten's requests for help. Even the system main city City Lords were no exception, as they had personally gone to see the beast tide, forcing them to work together with the players.

Ordinary soldiers were essentially useless in the face of such a massive beast tide, and they could only cause some slight damage. Even Stage 1 soldiers were not very useful and could only kill the aquatic beasts by hitting their vitals. Only Stage 2 and Stage 3 soldiers could have any real impact.

However, who had that many Stage 2 and Stage 3 soldiers? After such a long time of development, a system main city had a maximum of 2,000 to 3,000 Stage 2 soldiers, which was only 20,000 to 30,000 Stage 2 soldiers for ten system main cities.

If they wanted to face the millions of aquatic beasts, they would also need millions of Stage 2 and Stage 3 soldiers. A single aquatic beast was incredibly powerful, and it would take a few Stage 2 soldiers to deal with one.

Right now, the human world was unable to put up a good resistance even though there were a few thousand City Lords who were willing to help.

However, compared to millions of aquatic beasts, a few thousand City Lords was simply not enough. Having a few thousand City Lords join them was already a miracle, but they were still unable to defend. The invasion of the aquatic beasts was a massive disaster.

Akhenaten had no choice but to continue asking the rest of the world for help.

Now that such a crisis had erupted, those who had wanted peace all fell silent, but there were still a few trolls who commented.

“See, I told you this would happen. You idiots went over with your massive army, and now they’re angrily retaliating. All of you caused this, so you better take responsibility!”

“That’s right! I also said that those Legatees should go and apologize, but they refused to apologize. Now you’re afraid when they’re attacking! Serves you right!”

“The Legatees and the World Protector don’t deserve their titles. Everything was caused by them. If they had wanted peace, how could this have happened? It would have been impossible for this to happen.”

“The people from the other world are probably kind; it’s just these ferocious aquatic beasts that are invading. You can’t judge an entire world just on some ferocious beasts – you should peacefully talk with the other side to resolve this.”

“That World Protector and Legatees are so useless. The aquatic beasts are invading, but they’re not doing anything about it. If you can’t do your job, give your position to someone else instead of just sitting there and doing jack all.”

These words almost angered the Legatees to death, and those who were about to go and help out decided not to for now. Oleg directly announced that if those people were not killed, even if the world was destroyed, he would not help. Worst came to worst, everyone would just die together.

After Oleg said those things, many people started to hunt down those trolls. Those who were worried that the world really would perish were afraid that their interests would be harmed, so they went to teach those trolls a lesson.

Some even found the trolls in the real world and beat them up, and only then did they stop. Those who were advocating for peace did not dare to say anything either.

Zhao Fu did not care about what those people were saying, and they hurried over immediately because this could affect Great Qin.

Some people said that the Southern Continent factions did not welcome him, and many people who wanted peace said that Zhao Fu should not act and should only act when times were truly desperate.

However, this was a war between worlds, and Great Qin was unable to carry the world by itself. If things went out of control, it would be a disaster for everyone. Zhao Fu did not care if anyone else lived or died, but because Great Qin was something that he had to protect, Zhao Fu ignored those words.

After seeing the massive beast tide and sensing its overwhelming aura, Zhao Fu and the other Legatees felt incredibly dismayed because this did not seem like something their human world could stop.

It was not just them; Zhao Fu had no easy way to stop this either. The Earth Realm Mark could only be used when the world was about to be destroyed. Right now, they still had to rely on themselves to deal with this.

Facing such a massive beast tide, even if Zhao Fu threw down all of his Destruction Crystals, the effects would not be too great. The aquatic beasts were simply too big and had immense vitality. At most, the 75 Destruction Crystals would only be able to kill one million or so of them.

“What do you think we should do?” Akhenaten felt incredibly worried because the aquatic beasts had already swept through 50 or so regions. More than 200 million people had perished, and if this went on, the Southern Continent would be finished.

Zhao Fu said, “With so many aquatic beasts gathered together, their momentum is simply too terrifying. We need to split them up and then take them down. Otherwise, if we were to rush over and face them directly like this, even I would die!”

Hearing Zhao Fu say this, everyone could only agree to Zhao Fu’s plan and rely on him.

“How can we split up such a massive beast tide?” Tina Pendragon asked. After all, this massive beast tide could destroy everything, and it would be difficult to change the direction they were going in.

Zhao Fu already had a plan and explained it to everyone, “It’s actually quite simple – we can build V-shaped man-made mountains with the pointed sides towards the beast tide. The aquatic beasts will be split each time they come to a V, allowing us to split them up. However, this requires a lot of resources and man-power, so we’ll have to rely on the Southern Continent to do this.”

Hearing this, Akhenaten felt quite relieved, and he smiled as he said, “Don’t worry. In the face of such a monstrous beast tide, it’s not just the countless players who are worried but also the City Lords. They will all naturally help.”

The Southern Continent had 7,000 regions in total, and 3,000 of the regions had already started getting involved. Luckily, the regions were all accessible to each other, making it convenient for countless people to gather.

Even though there were many people helping out, the construction still took a lot of time. The beast tide was incredibly ferocious and had already swept through over 100 regions, and 600 million people had perished. Only a small minority had escaped, and the situation was incredibly dire.

Perhaps the aquatic beasts were full or tired, but they started to slow down. Otherwise, the human side would not have had enough time to finish the construction.

They used countless massive boulders and tree trunks to create V-shaped man-made mountains, and they then used adhesives to stick them together, resting them against mountains and peaks.

Chapter 748: Extermination Plan

The massive beast tide was continuously split up when they arrived at the V-shaped man-made mountains, forming groups of thousands or tens of thousands of aquatic beasts, and they split off in all directions. Luckily, they had 7,000 or so City Lords helping out, and they split into small groups and went to kill the aquatic beasts.

Otherwise, with the human world's current power, they would be completely ravaged by these aquatic beasts without being able to retaliate at all.

However, they still did not have enough people to face off against millions of aquatic beasts, and Akhenaten understood this. As such, he traveled around, convincing City Lords to come and take a look for themselves. If they could not defend, everyone would be doomed together.

After many of the City Lords came and saw the aquatic beasts for themselves, they could only join in.

However, they still did not have enough people. Even though the beast tide had been split up into smaller groups, it would take them at least half a year to clear out all of them with the people they had now. If they left things for that long, the damage that the beast tide would cause would be dozens of times more severe than right now.

This forced the Southern Continent factions to request for support from all over the world.

It was not quite possible for system main cities to help, as they did not care about the situation on a different continent. As such, they could only count on player factions. However, there were many player factions that were also unwilling to help, as they wanted to preserve their own forces and let the Southern Continent use their own forces. Only a small portion of people was willing to come to the Southern Continent and help.

Zhao Fu was already helping as much as he could. It was impossible for him to go around begging people to come and help the Southern Continent.

The other Legatees were already starting to hunt down the aquatic beasts, and Zhao Fu came above a group of 10,000 or so aquatic beasts.

Looking at the oddly-shaped aquatic beasts, Zhao Fu let out a sigh of relief, as the aura they gave off was not too powerful; they were just very big. If they were not only big but also had the power of a boss monster, let alone the human world, no world would be able to stop their rampage except those with high-level Kingdoms.

Zhao Fu deeply breathed in, and the Great Qin Seal within his body continuously trembled as he gathered the power of 400 or so City Lord Seals and prepared to use all of it.

Boom!!

A rainbow-colored aura flame erupted around Zhao Fu, causing his black cloak to flutter. An incredibly terrifying might descended, and the aquatic beasts that were slowly walking forwards after feasting on humans felt a sense of danger.

This was the first time they had felt this feeling in the human world, and in the distance, the other Legatees also felt quite shocked when they sensed this power.

Zhao Fu drew the Sin Dragon Sword and started massacring.

A 1,000-meter long black crescent swept through the group of aquatic beasts, causing their bodies to be ripped apart. Blood gushed out like a fountain, dyeing the ground red and causing a pungent smell to spread.

“System announcement! You have killed the Fish Scale world’s Lone Duck Beast and obtained 1,200 Invasion Points.”

“System announcement! You have killed the Fish Scale world’s Blunt Green Fish and obtained 1,000 Invasion Points.”

“System announcement! You have killed the Fish Scale world’s Palm Fish and obtained 1,100 Invasion Points.”

A single attack from Zhao Fu killed dozens of aquatic beasts, and he received a flood of system announcements. It seemed that killing these aquatic beasts gave many rewards.

After the dozens of aquatic beasts died, the other aquatic beasts became enraged and roared as they furiously rushed at Zhao Fu, wanting to kill him.

An octopus-like aquatic beast stretched out its tentacles and whipped them at Zhao Fu, causing the air to explode.

A shark-like aquatic beast opened its mouth as it bit towards Zhao Fu.

There was also a swordfish-like aquatic beast that was as fast as lightning and created massive winds as it shot towards Zhao Fu.

Zhao Fu stood his ground, and the Sin Dragon Sword in his hand gave off a resplendent sword light as he casually slashed out. A sword arc flashed out, slashing countless tentacles, and the octopus-like aquatic beast roared in pain before stumbling backward.

The shark-like aquatic beast also reached Zhao Fu, and it bit towards him when Zhao Fu suddenly slashed back in the opposite direction. A black sword light split its body in two, and both halves fell to the ground.

The swordfish-like aquatic beast also shot over incredibly quickly, and Zhao Fu dodged to the side, causing the swordfish-like aquatic beast to shoot past Zhao Fu. Just as it was about to turn around and continue to attack, Zhao Fu stretched out his free hand and grabbed at the air, causing countless chains to shoot out and pierce through its body, killing it instantly.

Zhao Fu was not too happy after killing these three aquatic beasts, as there were many more aquatic beasts furiously heading over.

A group of 10,000 aquatic beasts charging was quite terrifying, and because of how big their bodies were, it was like an incredibly big beast tide.

Shing!

Zhao Fu sent a massive amount of power into the Sin Dragon Sword, preparing to unleash all of the strength it contained. He then raised it high and slashed downwards, causing three gigantic water dragons, which gave off ferocious auras, to shoot towards the group of aquatic beasts.

Bang! Bang! Bang!

Muffled explosions sounded out as many aquatic beasts were sent flying. As the three water dragons dove into the group of aquatic beasts, hundreds of them were sent flying.

However, the remaining aquatic beasts continued to ferociously charge. Zhao Fu showed no fear, and his body seemed to turn into a ray of sword light as he darted forwards, creating a river of sword qi as he rushed into the massive group of aquatic beasts. The sword qi was incredibly sharp, and nothing could stop it as he swept through the group of aquatic beasts in an instant.

Countless aquatic beasts' bodies were reduced to pieces, causing blood to spurt everywhere. Over 1,000 aquatic beasts had died in an instant, causing the other aquatic beasts to feel terrified.

Bang!

Suddenly, a dark figure flashed by, and Zhao Fu's body was sent flying, crashing against a few aquatic beasts and knocking them to the ground from this impact.

Zhao Fu immediately unleashed his Emperor's Domain. Even though he had been hit, he was not injured, but he became more serious. In front of him, there was a 10,000 meter long, three-headed python.

The appearance of this python made the other aquatic beasts feel afraid, and they did not dare to get close. This showed just how powerful this aquatic beast was.

Bang! Bang! Bang!

The three-headed python spat out three rays of black light, which contained immense destructive power. Zhao Fu quickly dodged to the side, and as the black rays of light fell to the ground, they blasted open three massive craters that were 100 meters wide and ten or so meters deep.

Those that were 10,000 meters long were considered to be super aquatic beasts in the Fish Scale world, and they could be called aquatic beast kings. They were incredibly powerful and took 100 City Lords from the Fish Scale world to kill one. Even then, they still suffered disastrous losses, so they had decided to lure them into the human world.

Seeing that Zhao Fu had dodged, the three-headed python's eyes gave off immense killing intent. Its body blurred as it bit towards Zhao Fu.

The three-headed python was incredibly powerful and very fast. It opened its bloody mouth, and Zhao Fu could only once again dodge to the side. The other aquatic beasts had long since left, not daring to interfere in this terrifying battle.

While the humans and aquatic beasts fought, the Fish Scale people felt that the time was right and started their true invasion, and they set into motion their true extermination plan.

Chapter 749: Three Soul Great Snake

As Zhao Fu dodged the three-headed python's attack, he slashed out a sword light that smashed into the python. This strike, which would have been able to slice a normal aquatic beast in half, only left a shallow wound on its body.

The three-headed python was furious and loudly hissed before shooting out a black ray of light. This ray of light was like a laser that tore apart the ground as it approached Zhao Fu, leaving behind a deep groove in the ground.

The ground was instantly destroyed, and the ground around the groove started to crack and collapse as well.

Zhao Fu threw himself to the side, narrowly avoiding this ray of light, and seeing that the three-headed python had finally stopped attacking, he sent all of his power into the next strike. A 1,000-meter long sword light, bringing with it an intense sword, slashed out towards the three-headed python.

Boom!!

The massive power from the sword light sent the gigantic python flying back ten or so meters before crashing to the ground, sending a lot of dust into the air.

“Ssss!” the three-headed python went berserk, and there was now a one-meter-deep wound on its belly, causing blood to continuously flow out. Even though it was a small injury, it had never been injured like this before.

Within the dust, the three-headed python reared its heads and opened its mouth, shooting out three rays of black light.

These rays of black light flashed through the air and instantly reached Zhao Fu. Zhao Fu was unable to dodge in time and could only slash out with his sword, the sharp sword light splitting apart the three rays of black light, dispersing them into countless motes of light.

Bang!!

Suddenly, a black figure smashed into Zhao Fu's body; it was a snake head that was as big as a small mountain. In just an instant, the three-headed python had reached Zhao Fu's side and attacked.

The enormous snake head sent Zhao Fu flying, and he crashed heavily against a mountain. A trace of blood flowed out from his lips – this time, he had not been able to release the Emperor’s Domain in time and had received a minor injury.

Swish! Swish! Swish!

The three-headed python once again shot out three rays of black light towards Zhao Fu before charging towards him as well, and Zhao Fu could only duck to the side. As the three rays of light hit the mountain, they blasted three wide tunnels into it.

“Hah!!” Zhao Fu felt a bit furious and raised the Sin Dragon Sword with both hands, sending all of his power into it. The Sin Dragon Sword gave off a brilliant sword light, and the sound of a dragon’s roar could be heard as three water dragons rushed towards the three-headed python with immense force.

The three-headed python’s massive body was unable to dodge at all, and after being hit by the three water dragons, it was blasted back hundreds of meters and even caused a peak to collapse.

The gigantic noise caused the spectating aquatic beasts around to feel incredibly terrified.

“Ssss!” The three-headed python was truly enraged. Even though it did not seem very injured on the outside, it had suffered internal injuries, and blood leaked out of its mouth. It raised its heads and gave off a piercing hiss.

Orbs of black light continuously shot out of the three-headed pythons mouths, raining down toward Zhao Fu like bullets from a machine gun.

Bang! Bang! Bang...

The orbs of black light continuously shot out, and Zhao Fu unleashed his Emperor’s Domain while continuously dodging about. These orbs of black light were incredibly powerful, and each of them blasted open a crater that was ten or so meters wide on the ground.

In just a short while, the ground was covered with over 10,000 of these craters, creating an extremely horrific scene.

Suddenly, a stream of demonic qi rushed into the sky, and the sun seemed to be dyed black. There was no sunlight or heat anymore, and instead, the sky only gave off boundless demonic intent, and an extremely terrifying sword aura swept about like a wild wind.

Zhao Fu's body was currently shrouded with demonic qi, and he raised the Sky Demon Sword, which he now had equipped, preparing to cast its most powerful skill, Demon Sun.

The three-headed python sensed how dangerous this attack was, and it opened its mouth, spewing forth large amounts of black light that gathered in front of its head into a massive ball.

The black ball continuously absorbed the black light, becoming larger and larger. Soon, it was 100 meters wide and had arcs of lightning around it. It also gave off an aura of complete annihilation and could strike fear into anyone's heart.

Boom!!

Zhao Fu slashed out, and a gigantic black sword light that seemed to split the heavens and the earth rushed out. The space it passed through seemed to be crushed, and it hurtled towards the three-headed python.

"Sssss!!" the 3-headed python gave a massive hiss before releasing the black ball. The massive ball gave off an aura of extermination as it flew towards Zhao Fu.

Boom!!!

A shocking explosion rang out, causing the ground to continuously tremble. Even the Legatees who were ten or so regions away could hear this explosion and feel the tremors, and they felt extremely surprised. It was likely that something big was happening where Great Qin's Legatee was.

Back at Zhao Fu's battlefield, there was a 10,000-meter wide crater between where he and the three-headed python were, and everything was deathly silent.

Within a pile of boulders, Zhao Fu coughed up a mouthful of blood and climbed out. The three-headed python was also on the ground with countless wounds on its body. Blood continuously streamed out, and it seemed to be heavily wounded.

A determined look appeared on Zhao Fu's face as he tapped off the ground, his body shooting forwards like an arrow towards the three-headed python.

On the ground, the three-headed python sensed Zhao Fu's approach and lifted its heads, sending three rays of black light towards Zhao Fu.

Zhao Fu swung his sword, and an arc of sword light destroyed the incoming rays of black light. Zhao Fu came before the three-headed python and once again equipped the Sin Dragon Sword, gathering countless traces of water vapor and forming a 1,000-meter long water sword.

Boom!!

Zhao Fu hacked down with all of his strength, and the terrifying water sword descended accompanied by gusts of wild wind. In response, the three-headed python's body shined with black light, preparing to defend.

However, it was still sent flying hundreds of meters by Zhao Fu's attack. It crashed heavily onto the ground, destroying countless trees and rocks, and gave a massive hiss in pain.

The three-headed python was nearly dead, and Zhao Fu once again rushed up, preparing to finish it off.

Bang!!

Suddenly, a massive pillar of water rushed towards Zhao Fu, making him feel quite shocked. He hurriedly dodged to the side, but another pillar of water slammed towards him. He was unable to avoid it and was sent flying.

The ground continuously shook as a mountain-sized figure appeared. It was a gigantic tortoise that was 10,000 meters wide, and it had a dark green shell on its back. It had a dragon's head and four powerful claws, and it gave off an aura that was as heavy as a mountain.

The three-headed snake was called the Three Soul Great Snake and was one of the Fish Scale world's aquatic beast kings. This tortoise was also one of the aquatic beast kings and was called the Earthwater Dragon Tortoise.

This Earthwater Dragon Tortoise was even more difficult to deal with than the Three Soul Great Snake, as it had an incredibly firm shell. With its defense, barely anyone would be able to damage it. The Fish Scale people had paid a massive price to bring it to the human world.

The Earthwater Dragon Tortoise had been attracted over by the massive explosion, and when it saw powerful human, it had chosen to attack first.

Chapter 750: Earthwater Dragon Tortoise

Zhao Fu crashed to the ground, his face ashen. He had never thought that another aquatic beast king would appear. He had not even taken care of the Three Soul Great Snake, and now, an Earthwater Dragon Tortoise had appeared, placing many times more pressure on him.

The Earthwater Dragon Tortoise coldly looked at Zhao Fu, and in the next moment, water pillars that were three meters wide suddenly rushed up from the ground, smashing towards Zhao Fu.

Zhao Fu quickly dodged, but the water pillars did not stop flying at him. The water pillars were incredibly powerful, and he would not just be lightly injured if he was hit. If a 30-meter long aquatic beast was hit by a water pillar, it would be smashed to death.

Only after Zhao Fu flew into the sky again was he able to avoid the continuous assault.

The Earthwater Dragon Tortoise continued to coldly stare at Zhao Fu and did not move as countless traces of water vapor gathered, forming dozens of gigantic water balls.

Whoosh! Whoosh! Whoosh...

The water balls shot towards Zhao Fu with immense force, leaving faint air waves behind them.

Zhao Fu was forced to use his Emperor's Domain while dodging and continuously slashing out with his sword, destroying the incoming water balls.

Right after dealing with that wave of attacks, in the next second, the Earthwater Dragon Tortoise once again condensed massive water balls and sent them shooting towards Zhao Fu. Right now, let alone attack, Zhao Fu could not even get close, making him feel quite frustrated.

The Earthwater Dragon Tortoise was most likely a water-type since it had incredibly powerful control over water. As Zhao Fu dodged its attacks, he considered how to deal with it.

Suddenly, a black blur rushed towards him. The Three Soul Great Snake had regained some of its strength, and it opened its mouth and bit towards him.

Zhao Fu was quite startled and hurriedly threw himself to the side, narrowly avoiding this attack. The Earthwater Dragon Tortoise grasped this opportunity to shoot out a powerful water ball, blasting Zhao Fu flying. Zhao Fu's Emperor's Domain was now covered with cracks.

After steadying himself in mid-air, Zhao Fu decided that he had to at least attack the Earthwater Dragon Tortoise; he could not just continue passively defending like this.

Zhao Fu turned into a ray of light and rushed at the Earthwater Dragon Tortoise. Seeing Zhao Fu approach, the Earthwater Dragon Tortoise once again gathered countless water balls and shot them toward Zhao Fu with immense force.

Zhao Fu continuously dodged as he charged forward, and if he couldn't avoid them, he would slash out sword lights to destroy the water balls.

As the distance between them shrank, a trace of panic appeared in the Earthwater Dragon Tortoise's eyes, and it continued to gather water vapor.

"Roarr!" the Earthwater Dragon Tortoise condensed a gigantic water dragon that gave an ear-splitting roar, bringing with it a powerful aura as it rushed towards Zhao Fu.

Zhao Fu coldly harrumphed and sent his power into the Sin Dragon Sword and slashed out. A water dragon of his own appeared, slamming towards the Earthwater Dragon Tortoise with immense force.

Bang!!

The two water dragons collided, giving off a gigantic explosion, and a massive amount of water splashed everywhere.

By now, Zhao Fu had already reached the Earthwater Dragon Tortoise, and his sword gave off a terrifying sword light as he slashed at it.

The Earthwater Dragon Tortoise immediately pulled its head into its shell, and as the sword light hit the shell, it only left a faint mark and was unable to harm the Earthwater Dragon Tortoise at all.

This made Zhao Fu feel quite furious. Just as he was about to continue attacking it, countless pillars of water rushed up from the ground, forcing him back.

Bang!!

A black orb of light sent Zhao Fu flying – the Three Soul Great Snake had grasped this opportunity to once again attack. It was determined to repay the pain it had suffered ten times back.

After crashing to the ground, Zhao Fu once again coughed up a mouthful of blood.

Bang! Bang! Bang...

The Earthwater Dragon Tortoise stretched out its head again and continued to condense water balls and send them flying towards Zhao Fu.

Zhao Fu could only continuously dodge, feeling extremely frustrated at being suppressed like this. Suddenly, Zhao Fu had an idea, and his mind quickly worked out a plan.

“Ssss!” the Three Soul Great Snake gave a loud hiss and opened its bloody mouth, biting towards Zhao Fu.

Zhao Fu coldly harrumphed, and his sword brought with it an immense sword wind, once again slashing at the Three Soul Great Snake and sending it flying. After its gigantic body crashed to the ground, the ground continuously trembled, and leaves fell off trees like rain.

Whoosh! Whoosh! Whoosh...

The Earthwater Dragon Tortoise continued to condense countless water balls and sent them flying towards Zhao Fu, while Zhao Fu could only dodge to the side.

He took out the Sky Demon Sword and raised his free hand, casting Hell's Doors.

“Roar!!!” Countless demons flew out of the black hole, flying towards the Earthwater Dragon Tortoise. However, the Earthwater Dragon Tortoise showed no fear, condensing over 10,000 water balls in an instant and sending them flying towards the demons.

Bang! Bang! Bang...

As the water balls hit the demons, the massive power they contained immediately annihilated the demons. The seemingly-terrifying demon horde was instantly crushed by the water balls.

Suddenly, a ray of light shot towards the Earthwater Dragon Tortoise incredibly quickly, giving it a big fright. It immediately pulled its head and legs into its shell.

Zhao Fu had thrown out the Sin Dragon Sword in front of the Earthwater Dragon Tortoise, and it was firmly planted in the ground in front of it. After a while, seeing that nothing had happened, the Earthwater Dragon Tortoise cautiously stretched out its head and legs again.

Zhao Fu coldly laughed, and his Emperor's Seal, upgraded from the King's Seal, appeared on the palm of his hand. An immense wave of power flowed out from his palm, entering the Sin Dragon Sword, which gave off a resplendent sword light.

The ground started to shake, and the Earthwater Dragon Tortoise sensed something and was greatly startled. It immediately tried to move away, but it was already too late.

Boom!!

A 10,000-meter wide pillar of water suddenly rushed out from the ground and blasted the Earthwater Dragon Tortoise thousands of meters up into the air. As it crashed back down to the ground, the impact caused the surrounding mountains to shake.

The Earthwater Dragon Tortoise created a crater that was more than 10,000 meters wide, and it was as if a meteor had collided with the world. All the trees and rocks nearby were completely obliterated.

The Earthwater Dragon Tortoise looked incredibly wretched – blood continuously flowed out of its mouth, and it looked heavily injured.

Zhao Fu wiped away the blood at his own lips. The skill he had just used, King's Profoundness, had used up too much of his power, making him feel quite weak.

Before, Zhao Fu had always used the Sky Demon Sword to cast King's Profoundness, but this time, he had used the Sin Dragon Sword.

Moreover, the method he had used was the method that eagles used to eat tortoises. Tortoises had incredibly solid shells, so eagles would pick them up and smash them down. The heavier they were, the bigger the impact would be, so in just this one strike, the Earthwater Dragon Tortoise had been heavily injured.

Zhao Fu did not hesitate to rush towards the Earthwater Dragon Tortoise. If he could kill it, he would be able to kill the Three Soul Great Snake easily.
