Chapter 736 If You Dare

“S-Sorry!” Those weeping kids apologized to Tim. Tim thought they were quite pitiful when he saw their faces covered in tears and snot.

“It’s all right…” he responded in a diminished voice. “I’ll hit you all if you dare say Tim is ugly again!” Jasper waved his fist to warn them.

The teachers anxiously played their roles as pacifiers. “That’s enough. They’ve already apologized. All right. Those who want to go to the restroom should hurry up. The lessons are resuming soon.”

Gavin shot another glare at those kids before leading his siblings to the restroom. “I want to go home!” “I want my mommy!”

“I want my mommy and daddy!” Jesse turned around to make faces at them. “You all are shameless for crying after bullying others!”

“That’s right. The only thing you know is to look for your daddy and mommy!”

Jesse swept her eyes across those kids disdainfully. “Let’s go pee, Tim!”

“Okay.” Tim followed his siblings and said gratefully, “Thank you all so much!”

“Why are you being so polite? We’re brothers,” Jasper said while puffing up his chest.

Tim grinned. Gavin and Zachary smiled as well after seeing Tim’s reaction. “We will let anyone who dares to bully you have a taste of their own medicine, so don’t be afraid!” Gavin reminded Tim.

“If they dare to bully you, you must retaliate so that they do not have the courage to do it again,” Zachary chimed in and even shared some of his experience with Tim.

“I got it.” Tim nodded. “Tim, don’t mind what they said earlier. They are just jealous of you. You look exactly like us, and you’re not ugly at all. Your skin will become fairer after some time,” Jasper comforted Tim.

Oliver consoled his brother as well, “Tim, you’re so much cooler with your tanned skin. I wish to be as dark as you!”

Tim was touched. “I know. Thank you all!”

“Tim, you should eat more to become fairer and chubbier. By then, they will envy you,” Jesse reassured him. Tim bobbed his head again.

“Don’t mind them. You’re not at all ugly. Just take a look at us, and you’ll know. You’ve just been exposed to too much sunlight and are slightly malnourished. You’ll be like us once Mommy feeds you sufficient nutritious food,” Zachary advised Tim.

Gavin looked at Tim worryingly. He thought those kids who commented on Tim’s appearance were despicable.

“Don’t be sad, Tim.”

Gavin patted his brother’s head. Tim nodded. “I’m fine. Don’t worry about me, you guys. We should hurry up and go pee.”

Gavin, Zachary, Oliver, Jasper, and Jesse relaxed a little when they saw that Tim had cheered up. The six of them went to the restroom.

Gavin waited for them outside. He let his siblings use the restroom first mainly because he wanted to wait for Jesse as she entered the ladies’ restroom.

Gavin only went to the restroom after Zachary and the others came out. They returned to the classroom after they were done and did not realize that the parents of those weeping kids were on their way to school at that moment.

The kids’ parents finally arrived a short while after the class resumed. They felt their children had been wronged after seeing their children’s tear-stricken faces and listening to the teachers’ explanation.

The children’s parents immediately went to the classroom to settle the score with Zachary and his siblings. “Did you all bully my precious boy because you think you have the advantage in numbers?”

“Who are their parents? Hurry up and summon their parents here. Look at how frightened my child is!”

“They behave terribly, bullying their peers at such a young age. I fear to think how they will grow up to be!”

“These children aren’t here during the previous semester. Which school did they transfer from? They have rotten personalities. These children can forget about continuing their studies here if the headmaster does not provide us with a satisfactory explanation today!”

Those parents disregarded the teachers’ persuasions and proceeded to reprimand Zachary and his siblings on the spot.

Jesse cowered beside her brothers as she was terrified by those parents' fierce demeanors. "Don't be scared, Jesse," Jasper reassured his sister, though he was slightly frightened too as he gazed at the adults fearfully.

Chapter 737 Bullied By Parents

Oliver and Tim held hands and protected their younger siblings. Gavin and Zachary, who were braver, stood in front of the rest and glared at the adults.

Zachary grew up as the eldest son under the care of Arissa. Naturally, he was more mature. On the other hand, Gavin was raised by Benjamin. The aura he was exuding resembled the young Benjamin.

Wordlessly, the boy gave the adults a cold-eyed stare. The adults got even more angry upon seeing the look in his eyes. "Just look at them! Not only did they refuse to admit their wrongdoings, but they're also glaring at us! Such uneducated kids!"

"You are the uneducated ones!" Zachary taunted and clenched his fists, scowling. "How dare you talk back! My kids are crying nonstop! Tell us what did you do to them!"

Zachary rolled his eyes. "What a bunch of useless trash! All they know is cry!"

His sharp tongue and hurtful words were comparable to Benjamin's. "You brat! How dare you talk like this? Apologize to my kid right now!"

One of the parents glared angrily at the six children and took a step forward, trying to intimidate them. Gavin, on the other hand, asked Zachary to step back and calmly gave the teachers an order. "Call Mr. William over here!"

"I've already called him." The teachers immediately notified Robert as soon as they saw the parents, afraid that these parents would kick up a fuss.

"Hurry up and get the principal here! We won't leave if you don't deal with this properly!"

"Yes, get him here!" "How do you all do your job? How could you all let the six of them bully our kids?"

The teachers quickly tried appeasing the parents' agitated emotions. "Please stay calm. They're just kids! Don't scare them."

"Scare them? Our kids are scared! Can't you see that? Get their parents to come and apologize to us!"

The parents of the bullies began reprimanding the six children. "You can watch the surveillance footage and see who are the bullies!" said Gavin with a darkened face.

Then, he hurriedly sent a signal to the bodyguards, for fear that these parents would start attacking them physically. Alas, the parents did not believe their children were bullies.

"Why are they crying if they are the ones who bullied you? Don't try to shift the blame! You all must apologize!" the parents scolded Gavin while comforting their own children.

"It's your children who ridiculed me first!" Tim raised his voice, frowning.

"What did they ridicule you for?"

"They called me ugly!" replied Tim.

"Aren't you ugly?" one of the parents blurted out.

All six children glared at him in unison.

"You're the ugly one!"

Right then, the bodyguards arrived and shielded the kids. "What can we do for you?" they asked.

The parents were terrified as soon as the bodyguards gave them a ferocious glare.

Why do these kids even have bodyguards? What is their background?

All the children who were qualified to enter this school had prominent family backgrounds. They were used to being pampered at home. Thus, they had forgotten that they were not the ones who had the final say in Dellmoor.

"You heard me just now. You know what you should do!" Gavin blew his top.

One of the bodyguards stepped forward and gave the parent a slap on his face. "Apologize to him right now!"

Such ignorant parents! How dare they mock the children of Mr. Graham!

The parent who was slapped felt his ears buzzing from the impact.

The other parents at the scene were frightened. One of them, the wife of the man who was slapped, scolded in a trembling voice, "How dare you hit him?"

"That was just a light punishment for him!"

The bodyguard snorted expressionlessly. He definitely looked like he was not one to be trifled with.

When the principal arrived and saw the situation, he trembled in fear, too. "What's going on?"

Why are all six of them here? It looks like these parents are bullying them.

The principal glowered at the parents and bellowed, "Hurry up and apologize!"

"Mr. William, why do you want us to apologize? Our children didn't do anything wrong, and neither did we. Why should we apologize? How can you ignore the truth?"

"You all are bullying these kids!" said Robert with a darkened face.

He was obviously siding with Gavin and his siblings.

Then, he turned around and said to the teachers, "Explain to me what happened!"

Chapter 738 Afraid Of Causing Trouble

After the teachers explained the whole situation to Robert, his expression darkened further. He rebuked the children's parents, "The audacity of you guys to complain when your kids are in the wrong!"

The parents stubbornly refused to give in. Robert ordered someone to check the surveillance footage to find out the truth. The footage contained vivid audio, and everyone could hear the kids' voices clearly.

The bullies began crying when all Gavin did was ask them to apologize. The boy didn't do anything to further upset them. The parents' expressions changed drastically. Nevertheless, some of them still refused to admit that Gavin and the rest were not at fault.

"Our children wouldn't have cried if they didn't gang up and bully them!" "How can you blame them when your kids were the crybabies? If your kids didn't bully Tim, why would they demand your kids apologize?"

Robert blew a fuse when he saw how the parents sided with their children unreasonably. "Please leave with your children. They're expelled. Kindly leave!"

Robert knew that Benjamin would not let them off the hook easily if he found out about this. They should leave with their children as soon as possible if they didn't want trouble to befall them.

“Mr. William, you’re being too unreasonable! Is this how you deal with things? Our kids were bullied! I’m going to tell the public about your attitude if you don’t handle this well enough!”

Robert was enraged. “Feel free to do that if you’re not afraid of the consequences!”

That was all that he could tell them. After all, they were free to do whatever they wanted.

However, as long as he was around, he would not let anyone bully the six children.

With the presence of Robert and the bodyguards, Tim and the rest were no longer afraid.

They stood together and glared at those parents.

“Just you wait! We’re going to make this public! How dare you threaten us?”

“We can’t let our kids study in a school like this!”

While scolding and cursing, the parents left with their kids in tow.

Robert was furious beyond words. These idiots chose to shoot themselves in their feet when this could’ve ended much better.

He turned around and looked at the six children. “Are you all okay?”

The kids and nodded gratefully at Robert.

“Mr. William, we’re fine!” Gavin said to Robert.

Tim said softly, “Mr. William, thank you for your help just now.”

“You’re welcome. I’m glad that you all are fine!” Robert stroked the kids’ heads and was relieved after ensuring that they were okay.

He then turned to look at the teachers. “Have any of you informed Ms. York or Mr. Graham?”

“No. We only informed you.”

“Okay. Take good care of the kids,” Robert urged.

He then checked on the six children again before leaving.

“You guys may leave now. We’re fine!” Gavin instructed the bodyguards.

The bodyguards acknowledged the order and left the classroom. However, they remained within the compound in case of any emergency.

They stood guard outside the classroom to avoid disrupting the class.

“It’s a good thing they didn’t tell Mommy. Otherwise, Mommy will be so worried!” Jasper glanced at his elder brothers. He was frightened just now.

“Yeah.” Zachary nodded and patted Jesse’s head lovingly. “Those parents were too unreasonable!”

“I’m sure those kids learned how to talk nonsense from their parents.”

Oliver, who was still upset, snorted. “They even had the audacity to sue the school and the principal!”

“It’s okay. If they really do that, we’ll make them apologize to us publicly!” Gavin furrowed his brows fearlessly.

He then turned to look at Tim and Jesse. “Were you two scared just now?”

“Those people were so scary!” said Jesse pitifully.

“Don’t be afraid.” Gavin caressed Jesse’s head before looking at Tim with concern. “Are you okay?”

Tim nodded his head to show that he was fine. He was just afraid the incident would cause Arissa and Benjamin trouble.

“If they sue the school, will the school go after Ms. York and Mr. Graham?”

Gavin and the rest stilled for a bit before Gavin consoled him with a smile, “Don’t worry. Daddy and Mommy will be the ones going after them instead.”

“Huh?” Tim was puzzled.

The More the Merrier Chapter 739

Chapter 739 Arissa Is Worried About The Children

Zachary patted his brother’s head with a mysterious look in his eyes. “That’s because you have been bullied in school!” Tim was pleased to hear that.

“Don’t worry, Tim. Daddy is a director in the school. The school won’t dare to give him any problems. Once Daddy and Mommy find out about this, Mr. William will be the one in trouble instead!” Gavin explained to Tim. Tim felt very guilty because he thought he had caused others around him lots of trouble.

“I’m sorry.” “You don’t have to apologize. This has nothing to do with you,” Zachary consoled him.

“That’s right, Tim. Don’t blame yourself. This has nothing to do with you at all,” Oliver chimed in. “If you punish yourself because of other people’s mistakes, Mommy will be worried about you.”

With that, Jasper patted his head. “Tim, don’t worry about it. We won’t let Mommy know.”

Jesse glanced at Tim and continued, “In the past, we used to cause troubles in school too. Mommy will punish us. But, this time around, we aren’t at fault. They are the ones causing trouble. If Mommy finds out, she will be very upset that you have been bullied by others.”

The children were all trying to console Tim.

In the meantime, Arissa was completely immersed in her work when she suddenly thought of the children.

She wondered how they were getting on in school.

After checking the time and realizing that school was still ongoing, she suppressed the urge of giving the children a call. Instead, she carried on working.

When noon arrived and there was still no sign of Benjamin, she stopped working and rushed to the school.

It was Tim’s first day at school. Thus, Arissa was worried that he might not be used to it.

The six children were thrilled to see her.

“Mommy!”

“Mommy!”

“Ms. York!”

All six children greeted her and threw themselves into her arms.

She was glad and relieved to see all of them. After bending down to give them a hug, she spoke in a sweet and soft tone. "My sweethearts, did you miss me?"

"Yes!" the children shouted.

With a smile, Arissa hugged and kissed them. "I missed all of you too!"

She was satisfied and contented when she caught a whiff of their milky scents.

"Mommy, what are you doing here?" asked Zachary as he grinned at her.

"I missed all of you and was quite worried that you might not be used to school life. So, I came over to check on you."

Arissa caressed their hair and prepared to take them out for a nice meal.

"Mommy, we have already eaten at eleven o'clock."

Jesse was delighted and would not mind going out to have something to eat.

"Then, keep me accompanied while I eat."

She looked at her children, and all of them nodded in agreement.

Jasper chuckled and said, "It has been an hour since we last ate. We are hungry again."

Arissa smiled dotingly at them. In the end, she took them to a nearby café.

She ordered a lot of food for the children and a huge bowl of pasta as well.

When the pasta arrived, Arissa gave each one of them a portion.

"Mommy, I don't want the pasta. I'll have some soup instead."

Gavin's diet resembled that of Benjamin.

"Then, shall I get you some oatmeal porridge?" asked Arissa.

Gavin shook his head. "Mommy, I'm not hungry. We had the breakfast that you prepared for us this morning and also the food in school. We aren't hungry. You should eat instead!"

"Well then, help yourselves to whatever you like."

Arissa attended to the children before helping herself to the pasta.

Zachary, Tim and the rest of them all ate a little.

Once in a while, they would put some food on Arissa's plate. The lovely atmosphere at their table attracted quite a bit of attention.

"Sweethearts, did anything happen in school today?" she asked with concern.

The children paused for a moment before answering in unison, "Nothing!"

Arissa smiled and asked Tim, "Sweetheart, how was your first day at school? Are you getting used to it?"

"Yes!"

Tim did not dare to speak much, for fear he would say something he shouldn't.

"Did anyone bully you?" asked Arissa anxiously.

The More the Merrier Chapter 740

Chapter 740 Give It Back To Them

Tim shook his head and denied, "No." Arissa stared at the boy and saw him looking down to avoid her gaze. That was when it occurred to her. Something must be wrong.

She looked at the rest of her children in a serious manner. "Did somebody bully Tim?" Tim was taken aback. How did Mommy know?

Gavin and the others glanced at Arissa before exchanging glances. Mommy is too intelligent. The children continued to eat their pasta. Arissa narrowed her eyes when she realized that none of the children was going to tell her anything.

"Tell me exactly what has happened!" Zachary and Gavin looked at one another.

In the end, the oldest child, Gavin decided to be honest with Arissa. He felt guilty for not taking good care of Tim. "Mommy, it's my fault. I didn't take good care of Tim. Someone scolded him!"

Arissa's heart sank. So, I'm right. Someone did bully Tim. "Who scolded Tim? What did they say?" she questioned with a frown.

Gavin stole a glance at his mother before saying apologetically, "After talking to you on the phone, we went to the restroom. Some of the other children teased Tim about his dark complexion and said he isn't our biological brother. They even said Tim is ugly!"

Arissa eyed Tim with a heartbroken look. She pulled him to her and let him sit on her lap. "Tim, ignore what those children say about you. You're very handsome," she consoled him, stroking his head and embracing him.

"I know. I'm not upset," said Tim heartwarmingly. Arissa was frowning so hard that Tim touched her forehead to smooth out the creases on it. She looked at the boy and kissed his forehead.

"You're really, really good-looking. Look at Gavin, Zachary, Oliver, and Jasper. All of them look like you. It's just that you are tanned, that's all. After some time, you will turn fair and look like them again. Don't you think they are good-looking?"

Tim looked at his brothers and nodded. "Yes, they are!"

"Tim, you look like us too!" exclaimed Zachary. He then took a photo using his phone and showed Tim. "You're only a little darker. We have the same eyes, noses, and mouths."

Arissa caressed Tim's head and said, "It doesn't matter if your skin is darker as long as you are healthy. When children get more sunlight, they grow faster."

She kissed her son's cheek and added, "You, Gavin, and the rest are all my children. Nothing will ever change that fact. All of you look like your daddy. If anyone laughs at you in the future, just show them the photo. Tell them how powerful your daddy is and let them be envious of you!"

The rest of the children smiled and said, "Mommy's right. Let them be envious of you!"

"The six of you are sextuplets. The other children don't have as many siblings as you do. Furthermore, all of you are particularly good-looking. There's no need to care about what they say. We must be confident in ourselves. Only when we become strong can we stop others from saying anything about us. Just give it back to anyone who laughs at you. Don't be afraid. The more scared you are, the more they will like to bully you!"

Arissa gently delivered the message to her son so that he could stand on his own feet.

"Ms. York, I understand now. I won't let them bully me ever again!"

Tim memorized what they said and was very touched. "Today, Gavin, Zachary, Oliver, Jasper, and Jesse did protect me. They even scolded those children."

Arissa smiled in relief. "All of you are siblings. You must stand together as one. Hit back at whoever dares to bully you. I will back all of you up!"

"Mommy's the best!" yelled Jasper.

Arissa then looked at the rest of the children and asked, "Other than this incident, did anything else happen?"

Since Arissa had already found out about Tim's bullying, Gavin felt that he had to share with her the incident of those other parents.

Arissa frowned after listening. She doubted that those parents would let the matter rest.
