Chapter 246: A Little Like You

Bang!

The thick bookcase smashed back onto the ground, and the pile of books was nearly destroyed.

The noise was frightening.

Su Cha rubbed her sore shoulders and looked at the boy Le Anqi was carrying. "Is he okay?"

The surrounding children had been crying from the start until now. When they saw the little boy being rescued, they surrounded him and looked at their little friend with teary eyes.

Le Anqi was at a loss as she carried the child. After Su Cha asked her, Le Anqi shook her head hurriedly. "I... I don't know."

Only then did she react. She looked at the bookcase on the ground and then at Su Cha.

She felt that something was amiss.

Su Cha did not have much of a reaction. She quickly regained her composure. "Take her to the hospital for a checkup."

No matter what, the little boy had fainted.

"Child, child..."

Dai Xiaofu finally appeared. Her face was pale, and she was followed by a crying female university student.

There were also a few young men who looked flustered.

However, they were stunned when they saw the scene in the classroom.

Su Cha shook her head. "It's fine, the child has been rescued."

Dai Xiaofu was stunned.

The female university student stammered, "How could you have..."

How?

Her eyes almost popped out.

She had just attempted to lift it with Le Anqi and her arm was nearly broken. The bookcase had not moved a single inch. How was it that she only just went out to call for help and the child was already rescued?

The children who were panicking earlier started to cry again. All of them went to stand beside Dai Xiaofu and started crying.

Although she could not speak clearly, she could clearly express her thoughts.

One by one, they pointed at Su Cha and told Dai Xiaofu that it was this big sister who lifted the bookcase up.

Dai Xiaofu looked at the heavy bookcase on the ground and then at Su Cha, who had a calm expression.

She fell silent.

The child was sent to the hospital. Dai Xiaofu notified the parents to follow him to the hospital and to wait for her. This was a serious matter. Logically, such a heavy bookcase should not have suddenly collapsed.

Dai Xiaofu did not explain anything. After that, she asked Su Cha and Le Anqi to go back first. She told Su Cha to wait for her notification if she would continue to attend class tomorrow.

On the way home, Le Anqi expressed her shock. “Su Cha, when did you become so strong?”

She looked at the weak Su Cha and could not believe that the world was so magical.

In the end, the bookcase had been lifted up by a few well-built men who were around 1.8 meters tall. The men’s faces turned red, which proved how heavy the bookcase was.

However, Su Cha had held it up alone...

Le Anqi recalled how Su Cha used to beat people up in the past and how strong she was now. She felt that Su Cha was too magical.

“No, I’m just stronger than normal people,” Su Cha casually said.

Le Anqi: “...”

Should she believe that or not?

Since Su Cha refused to tell her about it, Le Anqi could not probe further. However, she thought of something strange. “By the way, did you notice the little boy we saved today?”

Su Cha shook her head and looked at her. “His face was always facing you, I didn’t see it clearly.”

Le Anqi frowned and hesitated. “I don’t know if I’m thinking too much, but I think that little boy looks like you...”

Chapter 247: Injured

Su Cha stopped in her tracks.

“Like me?”

“Yes!” Le Anqi nodded. “But it might be a coincidence. I just feel that he looked like you. Now that I think about it, I don’t think so anymore...”

Su Cha could not help but laugh. “Then what were you just saying? There are many people who look alike in this world. After all, facial features can be the same.”

Le Anqi sounded like she was joking. Su Cha did not take it to heart, but she was a little puzzled.

After returning to the Lookout Pavilion, Su Cha realized that her shoulders had turned red.

She had held on for more than a minute. With such a heavy force on her body, red marks would definitely appear.

Her skin was originally delicate, but now it was a little red.

She sighed. If Bo Muyi saw this, he would blow up again.

However, Bo Muyi called back tonight. He had an important meeting and had to come back late; he told Su Cha to rest early.

After Su Cha had dinner, she practiced her martial arts for a while before she slowly fell asleep.

After some time, Su Cha vaguely felt that Bo Muyi had returned.

She did not open her eyes but heard Bo Muyi’s series of movements.

He took a shower before lying down beside Su Cha.

He was not well-behaved when he was lying down. His thin lips rubbed against Su Cha’s cheeks and neck for a while. Probably because he was afraid of waking Su Cha up, his movements were light.

His fingers gently caressed Su Cha’s shoulder. In a moment, he felt that something was wrong.

In the darkness, the man's eyes seemed to flash with a dark light and he frowned slightly.

He touched Su Cha's shoulders and finally confirmed something. He turned on the bedside lamp.

As he did not want to interrupt Su Cha's rest, he did not turn on the bedroom lights.

As soon as the lamp was switched on, he could clearly see red marks on the girl's shoulder. It was as if something had pressed down on her, leaving a faint dent.

No wonder he felt something was wrong.

The man's eyes turned red in an instant. The girl's eyelids moved subconsciously the moment the light was switched on. Her pupils narrowed slightly as she groaned and shrank into Bo Muye's arms.

She was already awake.

"Cha Cha, how did you get injured?"

There was a trace of panic and ferocity in Bo Muye's hurried tone. His murderous aura was released almost instantly. When he saw the marks on the girl's soft skin, he felt as if someone had dug out his heart. It was so painful that he could not breathe.

"I'm fine..."

Su Cha was still sleepy. She was a little unhappy that she was woken up by the noise, but she still explained to Bo Muye properly, "A child got buried under something today. I propped my shoulder and used it to push against the pressure. It's fine. I applied some medicine and it'll be gone when I wake up."

Her voice was soft and confused. After she finished speaking, she squeezed herself into Bo Muye's arms.

Bo Mui gathered her into his arms. Even after Su Cha had explained, the malicious look in his eyes did not disappear. "But you are injured! Why do you care about others?"

Bo Mui did not have much sympathy for others. To him, Su Cha must not be hurt or he would cut the cause of it into pieces.

Even if Su Cha was hurt while saving someone.

"I'm really fine. I'm not that weak. Don't worry."

Su Cha's voice was as lazy as a kitten's. She coaxed him and rubbed against his chest. "Can you just sleep? I'm so sleepy..."

Chapter 248: If I Make You Uncomfortable, I Will Let You Stop Liking Me

No matter how angry or irritable she was...

Bo Mui could not bear to say anything to Su Cha.

He could only follow Su Cha's intentions. His heart ached as he touched her shoulders and kissed her forehead. His clear voice was very low, deep, and sexy. "Sleep, my baby."

He pulled Su Cha into his arms again to ensure that her entire body was covered by his aura before she gradually calmed down.

When she woke up in the morning, Su Cha felt that Bo Mui was already awake.

A faint voice could be heard from the study room in the bedroom. Su Cha walked over after putting on her clothes and heard the voice of Ah Chen, Bo Mui's bodyguard.

"I'm sorry, Young Master. It was my fault. I accept the punishment willingly."

Bo Mui's voice was cold and sinister. "I asked you to protect her well. You have to keep an eye on her. If this happens again, Chen, you will really disappoint me. This time around, you can go and receive your punishment."

Ah Chen said respectfully, "Yes, Young Master."

Hearing this, Su Cha walked straight in. "I was saving someone. This should be a good thing. It's just an accident, and it has nothing to do with him."

The two of them were not surprised by Su Cha's sudden appearance.

Hearing Su Cha speak up for him, Ah Chen glanced at her in surprise.

Bo Mui's expression softened when he saw Su Cha. He said softly, "Cha Cha, this was his fault. You have nothing to do with my punishing him."

Ah Chen also said slowly, "Miss Su, this was my fault. I did not properly carry out the mission that the Young Master appointed to me."

Su Cha's injury was his failure.

"I didn't say it had anything to do with me."

Su Cha walked forward, her eyes clear and calm. "Muyi, I know you sent him to protect me, but it's only right for him to stay behind in certain places. If he always stayed by my side, what would the difference be between that and spying on me? Did you forget what I told you?"

Bo Mui's eyes flashed with annoyance when he heard Su Cha's words.

How could he have forgotten?

Su Cha did not allow him to send people to monitor her.

He waved his hand and Ah Chen left.

A look of grievance flashed across the handsome face of the man who had still been imposing just now. "Sorry, Cha Cha, I was wrong this time."

“You always do this.”

Su Cha walked over and sat on Bo Mui's lap. She sighed softly and said, “Mui, I'm not a delicate little girl. It's not a big deal for me to be injured. It's still because I saved someone. You should praise me!”

Bo Mui: “...”

He made a sullen face and praised her!

Just because he could not bear to scold her.

“But you're hurt. It hurts, it hurts, it hurts.”

He grabbed Su Cha's palm and placed it on his chest. As he also listened to the beating of her heart, his perfectly sculptured face was filled with stubbornness and seriousness. “It's worse than death.”

Su Cha lowered her eyes and swept her eyelashes up and down. In the end, she did not say anything and only promised, “I promise you that I won't get hurt in the future. If you feel uncomfortable, I will feel uncomfortable too. If I feel uncomfortable, you will feel even worse. Think about it, should we continue to feel uncomfortable?”

Bo Mui: “...”

Although Su Cha's words made sense, Bo Mui felt that Su Cha was just making excuses.

He gathered Su Cha into his arms and kissed her. He announced in a domineering but sincere tone, “I won't let you suffer. I won't let you suffer in the future. If I let you suffer, I will let you...”

He furrowed his eyebrows and a thick haze flashed across his eyes. He lowered his voice and said, “Let you not like me anymore.”

If Su Cha no longer liked him, Bo Mui's life would be meaningless.

This oath was childish but serious enough. Su Cha could not help but want to laugh, but her eyes were a little sour.

Chapter 249: Only You Know. Do You Want to Remember?

Su Cha leaned her head against Bo Mui's chest and said softly, "Don't say such things. It won't happen."

Su Cha's heart ached at his words.

After all, all those things had happened before.

She would not be able to control herself and imagine how desperate Bo Mui was in her first life.

She seemed to have forgotten something. These things had something to do with Bo Mui. The old lady's words "he has only you now" meant something else.

At that time, Su Cha did not care. Now, Su Cha wanted to know what her lost memory was.

She felt that Bo Mui knew about it.

She grabbed Bo Mui's sleeve and said softly, "Mui, did you know me before? Did I forget something?"

Actually, she could not blame herself for not having any memories in her first life. Before she could notice anything, something had already happened.

After so many years of having hazy memories, Su Cha had accepted that she was just an ordinary girl from the Su family. How could she have thought that her identity would be problematic?

There was a time period wherein the person's environment would affect that person. Her memories were just of an ordinary life. How could she have imagined that she had a lost memory?

Most people's lives were ordinary. There were no big accidents. Su Cha had always thought that she was one of them.

Bo Mui was silent.

He rested his chin on Su Cha's head and patted her shoulder. After a while, he said, "Yes."

Su Cha was shocked.

She tightened her grip on Bo Mui. "What is it?"

"I don't want to tell you."

Unexpectedly, Bo Mui rejected her directly.

His reason was simple. "That's not a good memory for you. You can choose to never remember it, even if it has me in it. Cha Cha, if you want to know, remember it yourself. Only you can know whether you are willing to remember that past or not."

Bo Mui had thought about whether Su Cha would be willing to accept him again, but now, she no longer needed him.

Su Cha was already with him. That memory was not a good memory for her. Otherwise, she would not have forgotten that memory.

On one hand, he did not want Su Cha to think about it now. On the other hand, he was wondering if that was fair for that person.

Perhaps he also hoped that Su Cha would not remember it. It was already very good for her to be like this.

After listening to Bo Mui's words, Su Cha vaguely understood something.

She really knew Bo Mui in the past. It might not have been love at first sight, but Bo Mui might have liked her at that time.

All her memories started with the Su family. In other words, those other memories were from before.

She pursed her lips and asked, "Is it related to my parents?"

Well...

The man's deep voice came out from his throat, his fingertips touching the corner of Su Cha's eyes. "Cha Cha, let's just let nature take its course."

She nodded obediently and closed her eyes. She hugged Bo Mui's neck and lay quietly in his arms for a while.

Until she received a message from Dai Xiaofu, saying that she was fine and that she could attend today's classes as usual.

Bo Mui set off for the company and sent Su Cha to Dai Xiaofu.

Chapter 250: Nothing Can Happen to Him

"I don't understand why such a thing would happen in your class with so many children around!"

Dai Xiaofu was a little stunned. The tall girl in front of her exuded an elegant aura. Even though she spoke aggressively, it was hard to dislike her.

She had bright eyes and smooth skin.

She was definitely not an ordinary girl.

She had been spoiled since she was young.

She didn't seem to be old, but she spoke in an aged manner. She was probably afraid that she would not be able to control the situation.

"He is my younger brother. If anything happened to him, this matter will not be over."

The girl with cherry red lips had said these words with slight annoyance. Then she glanced at Dai Xiaofu. "Do you understand? As a teacher?!"

Dai Xiaofu came back to her senses and said with a guilty expression, "I'm really sorry, Miss Zuo. This was an oversight of our class. If anything were to happen, our class will take full responsibility, including the follow-up examination fees, medical fees, and compensation..."

"Do you think I need your money?"

The arrogant girl had a domineering aura, but she seemed to be taking it for granted. "I only want my younger brother to be fine! My parents are still overseas and they'd arrive only in the afternoon. Teacher, you better think about how to explain it to them."

After saying this, she turned around and left.

Even her back view was full of absolute elegance.

"As a teacher..."

Another teacher in the class was stunned. "It's obvious that Miss Zuo has a powerful background. Our class..."

Their classes were well-known in the Imperial Capital. With their fame, many children from wealthy families would be sent here to study. However, one could not guarantee that there would not be anyone who was more wealthy than they were.

To be able to take root in the Imperial Capital, she must have a powerful background.

Therefore, the teachers would always take care of the children in the class, afraid that something would happen.

This incident was the biggest surprise within the class.

“Zuo Nanfan is fine. He has woken up. The doctor said that he was fine. He fainted from shock.”

Dai Xiaofu patted the teacher’s shoulder. “Don’t worry, it’s nothing.”

The teacher was worried.

This class was opened on behalf of Dai Xiaofu and another partner. Although they were well-known in the business, they were afraid that they would fail if something happened.

Just then, a girl walked out of the elevator.

Her temperament was outstanding, and her face was exquisite and beautiful. Even if she was wearing ordinary clothes, it was hard to ignore her.

As soon as she appeared, people could not help but look at her.

Dai Xiaofu was stunned.

The teacher next to her paused. “Hey, why... Ah, I saw wrongly.”

Dai Xiaofu’s eyelids twitched when she heard her words.

The teacher’s expression suddenly became suspicious. “Teacher Dai, this seems to be the student who’s been coming to your class these last two days, right? Sigh, why does she...”

Dai Xiaofu stopped her with a smile. “Teacher Wu, there are other parents now. You should go and take a look.”

“Oh.”

Teacher Wu nodded and suppressed the doubts in his heart. He turned around and walked away.

Su Cha walked over and Dai Xiaofu smiled gently at her. “You’re here?”

Su Cha nodded. “Can we continue the class today? Is that child from yesterday alright?”
